Berlin Reds Rattle Rockets, Kidnap 3

But Mikoyan Makes No War Threats

Offers Guarantee for Free City of West Berlin

BERLIN (UPI)—Five Communist police kidnaped three West Berliners at gunpoint Saturday and took them into the East sector for questioning before returning them to West Berlin.

The incident occurred amid the rocket-rattling of the East German Communist leaders on the 12th anniversary of their regime. Although the East German statements were warlike, Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan said in a speech the Russians do not want war. He called for a peace treaty but set no deadline and made no threats.

THE THREE West Berliners, who were not identified, were kidnaped while the East Germans were holding their anniversary celebrations a few blocks distant.

They were taken to a local police headquarters, then to East Berlin central police headquarters. The Communists then freed them and put them aboard the only elevated train still connecting the East and West sectors. Eight refugees took advantage of the anniversary celebrations to slip across the border. Two of them were Communist policemen.

* * * *

POLICE said the escapees swam, used a small boat and cut through the barbed wire to reach West Berlin. One 51-year-old man was fired on by two Red policemen as he scrambled through the barbed wire, but he was not hit by their machine pistol bullets.

The Western police said three West Berliners wandered too near to the barbed wire barricades dividing the city and that five peoples' police (Vopos) leveled guns at them and forced them to enter East Berlin territory.

Western police said Communist police shot an apparently drunk East Berlin man of about 55 who staggered too close to the East-West border. They said he was dragged away by the Communists, blood streaming from his arm.

* * * *

MIKOYAN'S speech contrasted sharply with those by the East Germans. He offered "all effective guarantees" to respect the rights of a free city in West Berlin and scarcely referred to the possibility of war.

Mikoyan's was the first official Russian statement since President Kennedy's Wash-

JFK Briefs Brandt on Crisis Talk

NEWPORT, R. I. (UPI)—President Kennedy held a telephone talk with Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin Saturday and then joined his family here for a restful weekend.

Before leaving the White House lawn by helicopter, Kennedy conferred for nearly an hour with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara. This was the President's third major defense conference within a week.

The Chief Executive made a 52-minute jet flight from Washington to Quonset Point Naval Air Station Saturday morning and immediately set out on a family cruise aboard the White House yacht Honey Fitz.

* * * *

EARLY Saturday, Kennedy put in a long-distance call to Brandt, who was attending a Freedom Assembly meeting in New York.

(Brandt in New York said Kennedy briefed him on his Berlin crisis talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. Brandt said he was convinced "the fate of his Communist-encircled city was in good hands." Later, the mayor ended his 48-hour U.S. visit and flew back to Germany.)

LANDING at Quonset Point across Narragansett Bay from Newport, the President was welcomed by his frisky blonde daughter, Caroline, nearly 4.

The President was being greeted by an admiral when Caroline broke through a line of officers and threw her arms around his knees, shouting, "Hi, Daddy."

Kern County Fire Threatens Town

KERNVILLE (UPI)—A fire fanned by winds up to 30 miles an hour swept through tinder dry brush, scrub and some timber Saturday posing a possible threat to the lakeside community of Warford Heights.

The U.S. Forest Service estimated the fire—some five miles southwest of here and 45 miles northeast of Bakersfield—burned well over 1,000 acres in rough terrain at the 6,200-foot level. There was no immediate hope for control.

* * * *

KERN COUNTY fire units were dispatched and rescue units were standing by in Warford Heights, on the northwest side of Lake Isabella, should the town be endangered. There was hope the fire would not reach the community of about 100. It was about four miles from Warford Heights early Saturday night.

High winds made it impossible to use borate bombers in fighting the fire—cause of which was not determined.

Firemen also were hampered by lack of water for fighting the flames that forced closing of the new road between Kernville and Greenhorn.

The fire burned some timber on the southeast slope below the summit of Greenhorn Mountain, according to one report.

"We can't say the cabins and Wofford Heights are out of danger," said one Forest Service spokesman, "until we know what the wind will do tomorrow."

Two Killed, 9 Hurt in L.B. Crash

Two teenagers were killed and nine other persons were seriously injured Saturday night in a head-on collision of two automobiles on 223rd Street west of Santa Fe Avenue.

* * * *

THE HOSPITAL identified the dead as Manuel Tapia Jr. 18, of 10431 E. Compton Blvd., Bellflower, and Diana Gutierrez, of 7925 Croesus St., Los Angeles, stepbrother and sister of professional boxer Art Aragon.

Booked on felony drunk driving and manslaughter charges was Frank Gutierrez, 24, husband of the dead woman. He and Rosalee Perez, 20, of 14313 Cairn St., Compton, were seriously injured. All four were in the car registered to Aragon.

Police said the Gutierrez car apparently swung into the path of a sedan driven by Joe Paul Bermudez, 26, of 9231 Canford St., Pico Rivera, containing seven occupants.

Soviets Fire Big Rocket Into Pacific

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union Saturday fired a multi-stage rocket more than 7,440 miles into the Central Pacific and claimed an "extremely high degree of accuracy," the Tass news agency reported.

Tass said a new guidance system was responsible for the accuracy of the shot, the fourth in the current Soviet series. But it did not disclose details of the system.

The agency described the missile as "a multi-stage carrier rocket of a new type."

* * * *

TASS SAID special ships "equipped with various measuring instruments" carried out "all the measurements provided for by the program."

"In order to collect further experimental data, the launchings of powerful new carrier rockets into the area announced earlier will be continued," it added.

Moscow radio said the last two stages of the rocket hit the water "in the immediate vicinity" of the target area.

It said the rocket traveled more than 7,440 miles.

Russ, Bulgarians Recognize Syria

MOSCOW (AP) — Official recognition of Syria's new revolutionary regime by the Communist bloc began Saturday with an announcement by the Soviet Union that it is establishing diplomatic relations with Damascus. Bulgaria quickly followed suit.

The Soviet news agency Tass said ambassadors would be exchanged between the two capitals in response to a request for recognition by the new Syrian premier, Mamoun Kuzbari. He gained power last month in a military coup that split Syria from Egypt and President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

None of the Western powers has recognized the Kuzbari government as yet.

The Bulgarians have played a major role in Communist aid to Syria with the construction of two large dams.

* * * *

THE NEW Syrian government is anti-Communist. Kuzbari, soon after accepting the post of premier, said his government would continue a ban on the Communist party.

But the Communists—threateningly strong in Syria before being forced underground in 1958 by Nasser's rule—have openly expressed hopes of returning.

The Syrian Communist party announced in the Beirut Communist organ On Nida, on Wednesday that the revolution was a "historical victory." It demanded the formation of a national front including all parties.

In the elections promised within four months' time by Kuzbari, no parties will participate as such.

Nasser in Cairo declined comment on the Soviet bloc move.

Nike-Zeus Explodes in Takeoff

POINT MUGU (AP)—A Nike Zeus antimissile missile, the United States' most advanced weapon against nuclear missile attack, blew itself up Saturday in the second failure within a month.

The missile's second stage exploded seconds after launch from its seaside launching cell, showering burning metal from the sky. The solid-fuel weapon is only 48 feet long but packs more thrust than an ICBM twice as big. In combat it would use three stages.

Nike Zeus is geared to destroy itself if there is any appreciable change in its speed or direction. There was no official explanation after the failure, but Army spokesmen had said beforehand destruction within the first minute would indicate the missile was off course or moving too slowly.

* * * *

THE TEST took on added significance with speculation that Russia has tested antimissile warheads in her current series of nuclear blasts at high altitudes.

The missile-killer shot upward at 11:03 a.m. In five to seven seconds, when it was more than two miles high, it exploded in a fiery display reminiscent of fireworks.

Its takeoff speed, 10 times that of a liquid-fuel Atlas missile, makes self-destruction in event of trouble mandatory in the first 16 seconds, because a human could not react quickly enough. The weapon launches at up to 2,600 m.p.h.

France Ends A-Tests in Atmosphere

PARIS (UPI) — France announced Saturday it was suspending its tests of nuclear bombs in the atmosphere.

The announcement came as Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, in a letter Saturday to a ban-the-bomb group in Tokyo, said Russia had resumed testing because France, a member of NATO, was conducting nuclear tests.

An announcement by the French Atomic Energy Commission said France had completed its program of above-ground nuclear tests but did not say when they would be resumed.

Probe Crash Fatal to 2 From L.B. Area

Sheriff's officers at Jean, Nev., Saturday night continued their investigation of a grinding head-on collision which killed two Long Beach area persons.

Dead are Charles E. Loftin, 31, of 637 E. First St., Santa Ana, and Beaula M. Mellon, 29, of 12103 Jersey Ave., Norwalk.

Fifteen other persons have lost their lives along the same stretch of highway — known as the "Death Row" area of U. S. 41 south of Las Vegas —in the last three months.

Movies Win Out

EDENBRIDGE, England (UPI) — Twenty schoolchildren petitioned Saturday to have the town's only movie theater reopened because they said they were "bored to tears with television."

Fallout in L.A. Drops Slightly

LOS ANGELES (CNS) — The level of radioactive fallout in Los Angeles dropped slightly Saturday.

City Health Department radiological officer Jack C. Rogers said a level of 18.6 micro-microcuries was recorded at Civic Center, compared with Friday's reading of 19.

Rogers, who emphasized both readings were well within limits considered safe, said fluctuations in the radioactivity levels will be noted as long as the Russians continue their current series of atomic tests in the atmosphere.

Doctor Arrested in Poison Plot

PORT ORCHARD, Wash. (AP) — A prominent physician was arrested Saturday and accused of trying to poison his wife.

Dr. Robert Boehme, 41, was charged with first degree assault with intent to kill. A complaint filed by Prosecutor Gordon Walgren accused Boehme of injecting a lethal toxic into the arm of his wife, Dorothy, 34, Sept. 20 with a blood-sampling syringe.

EVERYBODY'S WELCOME

Builds Shelter for 100

BOONTON, N.J. (AP)—A man who makes parts for missiles has built a fallout shelter which could house and feed 100 persons for a month.

"A lot of people around here thought I was crazy, but I feel a lot less crazy now that it's ready," said Patrick T. Marotta, owner of the Marotta Valve Corp., who has spent $50,000 to build and equip his 66-by-23-foot shelter under his house a few miles from this Morris County town.

The 54-year-old manufacturer, whose factory turns out valves for missiles, submarines and aircraft, has installed in his shelter 92 bunks, two toilets, running water and $3,000 worth of canned and boxed foods.

In addition, the shelter has a power plant for heat and light and a 2,000-gallon water tank supplied by a well.

The shelter is completely underground and is covered by two feet of reinforced concrete and six inches of earth. It has walls of 12-inch reinforced concrete and its concrete and steel framed door weighs three tons.

Except for his own family and his employes and their families, Marotta said he has no special list of guests he would invite to his shelter.

Everyone who can squeeze in will be welcome, he said.

L.A.C. Says:

How You Doing?

A large portion of our working population seems to have little concern over the danger of inflation. They have been receiving pay raises and new fringe benefits almost annually. They are prosperous and like what has been going on. But those who were working 15 years ago realize how much less their dollar will buy than it did then. All but a few of them have received enough more dollars to make up for the loss from inflation—but many have not—and what about the next 15 years?

We were reminded of these changes when we saw a chart in the Tax Foundation bulletin. It shows how many dollars you need today to have as much buying power as a family had in 1946. As examples, a family of four in different income brackets has faced the following:

If your 1946 income was	In 1961 you must have	Just to be even you need increase of
$ 2,000	$ 3,140	57%
3,000	4,750	59%
5,000	7,844	57%
7,500	11,659	56%
10,000	15,461	55%
20,000	30,104	51%
50,000	73,482	47%
100,000	145,285	45%

It would appear that the high-income group has not been hurt as much as the lower-income group. This is because the income tax on high incomes is about the same—50 per cent to 91 per cent tax as it was in 1946. But the increased cost of consumer products has hit the lower-income groups as the inflationary spiral gained momentum.

If the above figures also included the year of 1939 it would show it takes more than twice as much income today to have the same living standards as were prevalent 23 years ago. The BLS cost of living index is considerably more than twice as high as it was in 1939. But it also shows that wages of workers have increased faster than the cost of living increase—so many people say, what of it.

Those older people who retired on fixed incomes from bonds, pensions, annuities or cash in the bank can tell you how terrible it is to find dollars worth only half what they used to be. Older people soon to retire are wondering what security they actually have from what now seems to be an adequate retirement income.

The father who took out an insurance policy to pay the cost of his son's education may find it will now pay only half the cost. This is because inflation has raised the cost of all factors concerning college life. It is true many of our increased costs are costs of high living rather than the high cost of living. But the cold facts are the cost of the same standard of living is 50 per cent more today than it was 15 years ago and 100 per cent more than it was 23 years ago.

We have lived through this spiral with only a minority of our people suffering because they did not receive more dollars to make up for their reduced value. But we may not be so fortunate in the next 10 to 15 years. A spiraling inflation can quickly get out of hand. There is much concern over our present trends. The greatly increased spending by government is a prime factor. It is a trend that should concern everyone who has an interest in their future economic safety.—L.A.C.

Strike Idles 42 Ships

The number of ships idled in West Coast ports by the 11-day-old maritime strike reached 42 Saturday—six of them in Los Angeles Harbor.

The disputants in the strike—the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union and the Pacific Maritime Association—scheduled no new negotiations. A federally-mediated round of talks ended Friday when a three-man government team left San Francisco after the union and the PMA received the panel's contract renewal recomendations with qualifications.

Spokesmen for both sides said they would await the panel's reaction to the qualifications. Barring such action, they said, they would try and negotiate directly with one another sometime next week.

The union meanwhile set up picket lines around the freighter President Taft in Los Angeles Harbor, bringing to six the number of ships tied up locally. None are in Long Beach Harbor.

Continuation of the strike could tie up 135 PMA vessels—about 15 per cent of the American merchant fleet.

Laos, Viet Nam Crises Grow; JFK in Plea to K

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy has challenged Soviet Premier Khrushchev to keep his promise to convert the precarious cease-fire in Laos into a secure peace.

Kennedy's verbal message to Khrushchev was given to Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Friday evening during their two-hour talk on the twin war threats in Germany and Southeast Asia.

Gromyko's answer was not disclosed. But U.S. officials remained pessimistic Saturday about what one called "the extremely serious situation in Laos and S. Viet Nam."

BAN HIN HEUP, Laos (UPI)—Negotiations to resolve the Laotian crisis foundered again Saturday, and the Communist-backed rebel leaders warned of renewed civil war.

The warning came in a joint communique issued by "neutralist" Prince Souvanna Phouma and his half-brother, "Red" Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao.

It followed fruitless talks by representatives of the three factions on the question of how to combine the rival elements into a coalition government.

The two princes warned that the scheduled with Prince Boun Oum, premier of the pro-Western royal government, in this tiny village today may be decisive.

They said that if the princes failed to resolve their differences today "as a result of the ill will and torpedoing by certain aggressive American circles and their puppets, they will be solely responsible for the results . . ."

TOKYO (AP)—Cambodia's neutralist Prince Sihanouk warned Saturday that sending American or SEATO troops to Laos might provoke a Korean type war in which the West would be 'surely defeated" by the Chinese Communists.

But he said in his opinion sending U.S. troops to South Viet Nam would mean 'less danger" of triggering massive Communist intervention and a major conflict in Southeast Asia.

"I think it would be possible for the U. S. to interfere militarily in South Viet Nam because North Viet Nam is interfering in South Viet Nam," the Cambodian chief of state told a news conference.

High State Department sources in Washington disclosed Friday that the United States is considering sending troops to South Viet Nam. Which is faced with increasingly dangerous operations by Communist guerrillas.

Atom Objectors' Sitdown Halted

BONN, Germany (AP) — Would-be sitdown demonstrators against nuclear testing were hauled away from the Soviet Embassy Saturday by West German police.

Between 40 and 50 members of the conscientious objectors group ignored orders to keep away from the embassy. They were released shortly afterward.

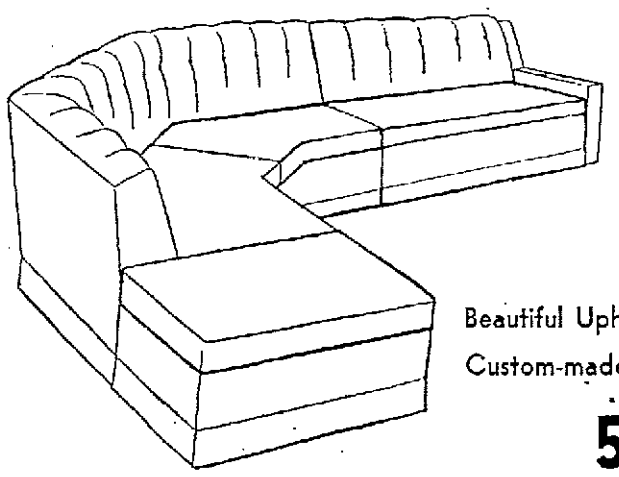

The demonstrators carried placards proclaiming "nuclear tests are death—whoever orders them are murderers."

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Soviets 'Show' Nuclear Subs

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet press published for the first time Saturday a picture of what it claimed was one of a fleet of Soviet atomic submarines. Premier Khrushchev has said in speeches that the Soviet Union has nuclear-powered underwater ships armed with missiles, but there has never been any direct mention of them in the press nor has any Westerner ever seen one.

The picture shown in the newspaper Izvestia did not give away any secrets and it could have been a picture of almost any ships. The newspaper account from its reporter, who was said to be cruising on the submarine, described it as having a snub nose like an old fashioned transport plane and "an elastic tail" like an overgrown caviar-laying sturgeon.

Rayburn Sits Up

DALLAS (AP)—House Speaker Sam Rayburn, incurably stricken with cancer, felt strong enough to sit on the side of his bed Saturday and ask for a steak lunch—which he received, along with mashed potatoes and gravy. The 79-year-old speaker seemed more alert and cheerful. Anti-cancer drugs probably will be started on Rayburn but with hope only to slow the spread of the disease, not for a cure.

91 Seized in Alhambra Riots

ALHAMBRA (UPI) — Four wild riots, which pitted 100 law officers against some 1,000 angry, jeering youths in this suburban Los Angeles community, were described by authorities Saturday as "one of the worst examples of civil disobedience in the county in 15 years." The chain-reaction rioting in the streets that lasted about two hours early Saturday was touched off by the opening of the local high school football season and the breaking up of a teen-age drinking party by officers. Ninety-one boys were seized.

34 Britons Killed in Air Crash

TOULOUSE, France (AP)—Twin-engine British airliner—a DC3—smashed into a forested Pyrenees peak in the darkness early Saturday with a party of British vacationists. Investigators said all the 34 persons aboard were killed. Bodies were scattered over an area of 100 yards at an altitude of about 6,000 feet on the northwest slope of 9,137-feet-high Mt. Canigou.

Thurber Suffers Setback

NEW YORK (UPI) — Author James Thurber suffered a slight setback Saturday in his battle for recovery from a stroke and brain surgery. Doctors are not too happy with his condition at the moment, a spokesman for the 66-year-old humorist, cartoonist and playwright said.

Junta Arrests 15 Officers

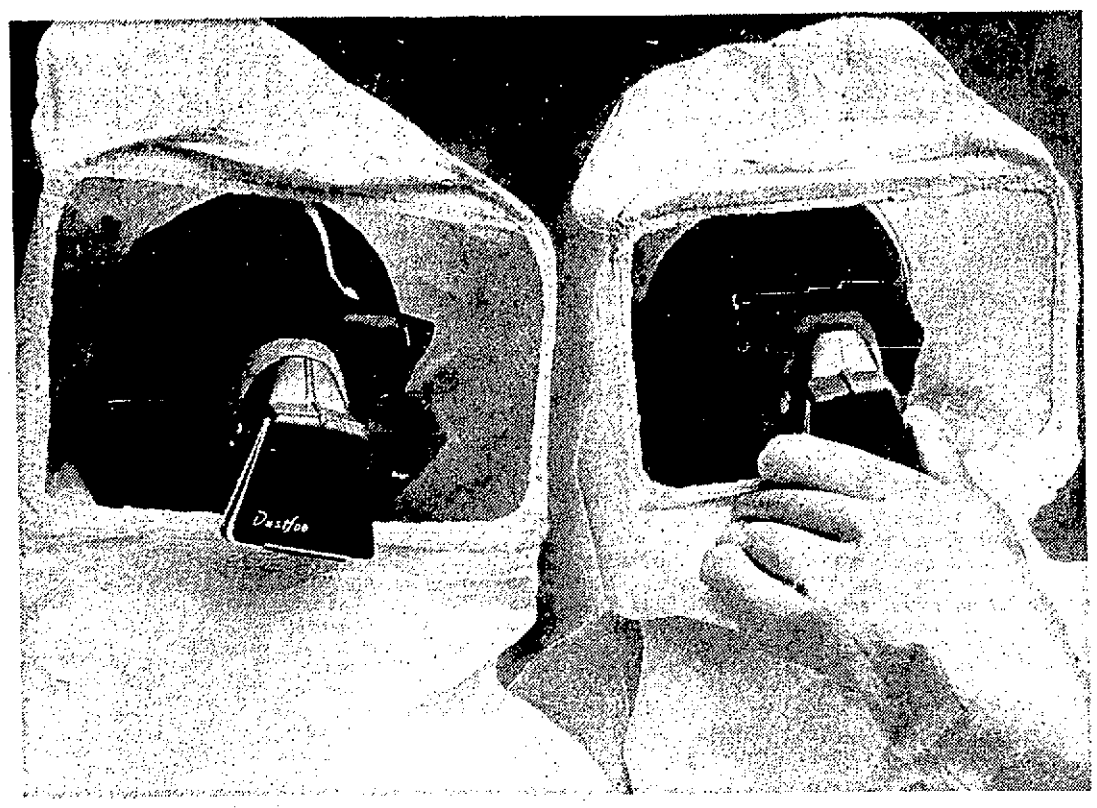

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea's ruling military junta announced Saturday night the arrest of 15 officers appointed last May to investigate illegal fortune building. None of the officers are members of the 28-man junta led by Lt. Gen. Park Chung-hee. But it was apparent that the arrests deeply embarrassed the military men who seized control of the country May 16.

Czech Diplomat Ordered Out of U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has ordered a Czechoslovakian diplomat out of the country and denied espionage charges against two American diplomats.

State Department press officer Joseph Reap said the Czech Embassy has been informed that the presence of its third secretary, Jaroslav Skacil, is no longer acceptable. He did not say what reasons were given.

At the same time, Reap said Czech spy charges against Robert W. Kent Jr. of Oakland, Calif., and Timothy J. Burke of Buffalo, N.Y., were totally without foundation. Both are second secretaries at the U.S. Embassy at Prague.

2 Students' Deaths Laid to Cyanide

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (UPI) —A coroner's jury ruled Saturday that the mystery deaths of two University of North Carolina students yetserday was caused by cyanide poisoning. The jury did not determine how the poison had been administered.

James Barham, 20, a junior from Burlington, N. C., and his roommate, William Harrison, a graduate student from Statesville, N. C., were found dead in their beds Friday. Barham had been violently ill the night before.

The case attracted attention because of a possible connection with a dental school laboratory photographer who died under similar circumstances Thursday. But Assistant Coroner, C. A. Cannady ruled the death of Robert S. Mauldin, 33, was from natural causes.

Bar Cuba Exile Regime

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State Department informed the head of the Cuban government in exile Saturday that it cannot permit the organiation to set itself up in the United States.

State Department spokesman Joseph Reap said it cannot permit the Cuban exile government to base itself in this country because such action would imperil the lives of U.S. citizens and American interests still under control of the Castro regime.

In a wire to Dr. Julio Garceran, president of the new exile government, the State Department said permission for the organization to work from the United States would amount to recognition of the exile government.

Reap said this would pull the rug out from under the Swiss government's representation of U. S. interests to the government of Fidel Castro.

"United States citizens are imprisoned in Cuba and can only be offered such protection as is available in Cuba under the Castro regime by the continued ability of a foreign government to represent United States interests," he added.

New Frontiers Demos Meet

Discussion of the forthcoming Leadership Conference on Key Legislation will be the main order of business for the New Frontiers Democratic Club Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. in the Panorama Room of the Lafayette Hotel.

Luncheon will follow the business session.

Mrs. Trudy Owens, president of the Democratic Women's Forum, and Mrs. Pauline Clark, special projects chairman for the Women's Division of the Democratic State Central Committee, will speak on the leadership conference in Los Angeles Oct. 26, New Frontiers President Louis Countryman announced.

5 Deputies Sought for U.N. Top Man

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — With Burma's U Thant virtually assured selection as acting secretary general, diplomats concentrated Saturday on ironing out other troublesome details of a small-power plan for administration of the United Nations.

A diplomat in the midst of two weeks' intensive negotiations to fill the vacancy left by the death of Dag Hammarskjold said, "There is general agreement on Mr. X"—the man to be named interim U.N. chief—"it is the rest of the plan that I am worried about."

As worked out by a committee of eight non-committed powers, the plan calls for an acting secretary general to be appointed by the General Assembly upon recommendation of the Security Council to serve until April 1963 when Hammarskjold's term would have expired.

* * * *

THE PLAN called for five assistant secretaries general, chosen on the somewhat political basis of geographic distribution, to work closely with the interim chief, but not—as Russia originally demanded—for a "troika" of three deputies with veto power over his actions.

Agreement between the United States and Russia on the top man would be required before his name was put before the Security Council.

The United States, decrying such political injection in the highest level of the United Nations, opposed this.

* * * *

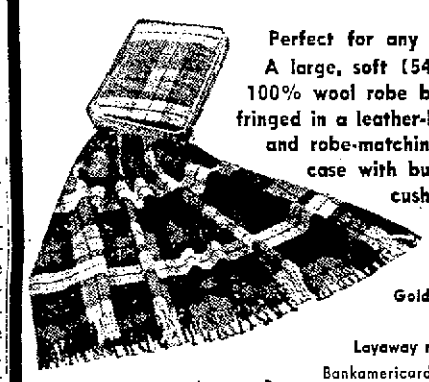

DELINEATION of the subordinate details was left until agreement between the United States and Russia on the acting secretary general appeared certain.

Leaders of the small-power group said they expected formal announcement of agreement on that early next week, and it was possible that the security council would initiate action on his appointment before the week is out.

Speculation centered on possibilities for his five assistants.

Informed sources said high consideration was being given to Dr. Ralph J. Bunche of the United States, now undersecretary for special political affairs; Georgy P. Arkadev of Russia, now undersecretary for political and Security Council affairs; T. G. Narayanan of India, now in the executive office of the secretary general; Pier Spinelli of Italy, now director of the U.N. European office in Geneva, and Raul Prebisch of Argentina, now executive secretary of the Economic Commission for Latin America.

ington talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. It was made to a crowd the Communists estimated at 250,000.

The East Germans said rockets and nuclear weapons stand ready in case the West tries to block conclusion of a peace treaty with "war provocations" and said Western provocations against East Germany would mean the start of World War III.

* * * *

MIKOYAN said: "We are ready to give all effective guarantees according to international law" and that the guarantees would cover the right of access to the city from all directions.

"Naturally the sovereignty of the German Democratic Republic, through whose territory the routes run, will have to be respected," he said.

But Mikoyan did not repeat the previous Soviet threat that East Germany would get complete control over Western Allied air and ground traffic after a peace treaty is signed.

He said a peace treaty would legalize the German borders laid down in the Potsdam agreement and accept the existence of two German states.

"Only a madman with a suicidal drive would answer a peace treaty with military action," Mikoyan said.

* * * *

ONE of the warlike East German statements came from Interior Minister Karl Maron in an order of the day to the East German armed forces.

"The West zone rulers in opposition to the desires of peace-loving humanity are continuing their dangerous policy and have the intention of blocking conclusion of a peace treaty with war provocations," he said.

"In view of the clear superiority of the socialist world system, such attempts are doomed to failure. The most modern large rockets and nuclear weapons of monstrous destructive power stand ready in the Soviet Union to shatter any aggressor."

* * * *

ANOTHER warlike statement came from Bruno Leuschner, deputy chief of state. He warned "German militarists and revenge-seekers" that "no one must be in any doubt. Any warlike provocation against the borders of the German Democratic Republic means the unleashing of a great war."

"Whoever raises a weapon against the German peace state will be destroyed, no matter who he is," Leuschner said.

2 Torrance Stores Have Bomb Scares

Anonymous telephone warnings that bombs had been planted in two Torrance stores proved false Saturday.

Police searched a variety store and a jewelry store but found no bombs.

Officers said an eight-minute interval separated the phone calls.

U.N. IS STANDBY ARBITER

U. S. Plans Allied Talks on Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration plans to start a new round of consultations with Britain, France and West Germany next week on the next moves toward seeking a peaceful solution of the Berlin crisis.

The consultation may lead to a Western foreign ministers' conference late this month.

The Western powers are known to be divided in their approaches to a possible Berlin settlement with Russia. High-level policy talks may be needed to develop a unified position for further East-West discussions.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Saturday in the wake of talks with Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko that the Berlin crisis undoubtedly would be placed before the United Nations if it "deepens."

* * * *

JUST 24 HOURS after he and President Kennedy held a two-hour meeting with Gromyko, Rusk said the world body could play a "decisive role" in the crisis. But for the moment, he added, it was too early for such a move while the two major parties—Russia and the United States—were jointly trying to see if there could be a basis for a peaceful settlement.

He said the talks with Gromyko had been held in a "good atmosphere." But he added that they have not yet shown what the possibilities are for a get-together on terms for formal Berlin negotiations.

"The atmosphere on the whole has been constructive," he said. "But as to the outcome, we will just have to wait and see."

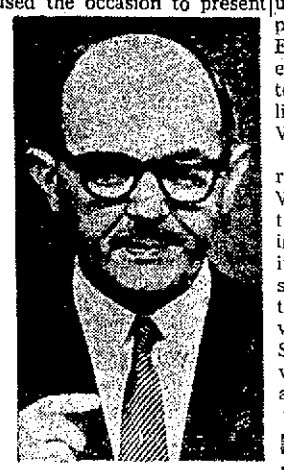

* * * *

OFFICIAL sources said meanwhile that the next move to break the deadlock appeared to be up to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. The source said that Kennedy and Rusk were awaiting reaction from Khrushchev following the round of talks with Gromyko here and in New York.

The Russian foreign minister showed no "give" in his meeting at the White House Friday evening.

But Rusk and Kennedy reportedly gained from Gromyko the impression that Premier Khrushchev prefers to continue exploratory talks in some form rather than allow the situation to move toward a military showdown.

In Friday's session, Gromyko is understood to have done most of the talking. He used the occasion to present to the President Khrushchev's argument that a peace treaty with East and West Germany is long overdue and that if the Western powers will not join in making a treaty—as they have declared they will not—then the Soviet Union will proceed with its own pact with Communist East Germany.

DEAN RUSK

* * * *

GROMYKO asserted, it is understood, that this proposed pact would give the East German regime sovereign control of its own territory including the supply lines to West Berlin from West Germany.

Gromyko reiterated Soviet readiness to "guarantee" Western access to Berlin, but this was linked to Russia's insistence that West Berlin itself must be given a new status. Under this status Western troops would either be withdrawn or be joined by Soviet troops; if they were withdrawn the Soviets would agree to some new arrangement, perhaps through the United Nations, to guarantee West Berlin status as a "free city."

Kennedy is said to have told Gromyko that in trying to get the Western powers out of West Berlin while guaranteeing the independence of the city and access to it, the Soviets were offering to trade an apple for an orchard. He made clear that the United States and its allies rejected any such bargain.

Underdog Role Puts Knight in Toughest Fight of Long Career

By United Press International

There never has been any question about the popularity of Goodwin Jess (Goodie) Knight, one of California's most colorful and eloquent political campaigners. But the big question facing the 64-year-old former governor of the Golden State today involves the toughest battle of his long career in state politics.

Can he stage a comeback by beating such a formidable foe as fellow Republican Richard Nixon for the 1962 GOP gubernatorial nomination and go on to win back his old job?

Although the gregarious, hail-fellow-well-met politico has strong support in both parties and may get many Democrats to change registration and to vote the Republican ticket for him in the forthcoming primary, most political pundits in the state doubt he can do it. Nixon is considered too strong even for such a popular political veteran as Goodie.

* * * *

UNDER California's old cross-filing system of voting, Knight would have stood a good chance of upsetting the former vice president in a close race. But now, with balloting strictly along the party line, Nixon is expected to come away with the lion's share of registered GOP voters.

Of course, true to his tradition of relishing a good political fight, Knight already has touched off a heated controversy with Nixon and vows to make a showdown battle of it "all the way." The 1962 gubernatorial race is beginning to look like a free-for-all.

* * * *

SAYS Knight:

"I've got a secret weapon in this campaign . . . the Democrats! I'm going to win the primary," the hard-hitting, confident ex-governor says, "and I think it'll be a good race.

"I've spent 25 years in state government and politics is in my blood. I still do not need the job for any financial gain, for my income at present is twice that of the governor's. I simply want to complete many tasks I was working for when I was so rudely interrupted." This draws a grin from the affable politician.

Knight, who was California's 31st governor, stepped aside under pressure in 1957 in the gubernatorial contest in favor of Sen. William F. Knowland, who was defeated by now-Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown in the subsequent election. Knight ran instead for U.S. senator against Democrat Clair Engle, but lost.

The white-haired former California chief executive has made it plain that he feels Nixon was largely responsible for his elimination from the 1958 race.

* * * *

HE TOUCHED off a political war of charges and counter charges with Nixon after both annouced their entry into the race for the Republican nomination for governor in 1962. Knight accused Nixon of threatening, in 1957, to campaign against him in every California county if he opposed Knowland. Then he later said a Nixon emissary had offered him any job in the state if he would withdraw from the forthcoming primary. Nixon called this charge "false and libelous on its face."

Nixon said: "I have never made any promises of any kind to Knight or any other individuals to keep them out of the race for governor."

The man Knight later named as the emissary, Los Angeles financier J. Howard Edgerton, admitted talking to Knight, but said in a letter to the ex-governor: "At no time . . . have I ever asked you not to run for the governorship." He denied he was Nixon's emissary.

* * * *

KNIGHT had indicated more political fireworks to come between now and the primary, saying: "I'll have more for you . . . don't worry." The ability to wage a good fight has been inbred in him by experience, profession and heritage.

He got into statewide politics in 1946, being elected lieutenant governor, a post he held for seven years. He took over as governor on Oct. 5, 1953, succeeding Earl Warren, who became chief justice of the United States, and maintained the post for six years, until 1959.

* * * *

KNIGHT has a record of tremendous popularity with the voters of both parties, and is liked by both labor and management. In the 1954 primary election for governor his pluralities set new records for volume of votes in California's gubernatorial primaries. In the 1954 general election he was elected to a full four-year term with a majority of 551,151 votes—a greater margin than that received by any other candidate for statewide office with major party opposition.

Recently Knight described his withdrawal from the 1958 gubernatorial race as "the worst personal problem" he had as governor and as "very distressing."

"There hasn't been the slightest doubt," he said, "that Mr. Nixon was pleased and delighted with the defeat of Knowland and myself."

Ford, UAW in Accord on Local Fights

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers union Saturday reached agreement on a "very important" jurisdictional rights issue which could settle more than half the still-unresolved local disputes in the strike-bound company.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther said after emerging from a bargaining session that the jurisdictional settlement "could lock up 20-odd local agreements." There are 36 Ford plants where local agreements still have not been reached.

Reuther said the agreement came on one of five national issues which led 120,000 Ford workers to go on strike last Tuesday. This issue concerns the rights of skilled and unskilled labor, setting the lines of demarcation for each type of worker.

* * * *

"YES, it was very, very important," Reuther said, "That's why we made it the first order of business."

In pressing for settlement of the jurisdictional problem, Reuther told Ford Vice President Malcolm L. Denise that lower-paid nonskilled workers were being assigned duties that should go to higher-paid skilled employes. It wasn't known how the issue was resolved since neither would go into detail on the settlement.

Reuther said the union and company recessed national negotiations—except for some subcommittee meetings—until 1 p.m. today so they could get word of the jurisdictional agreement to the locals by phone.

Secret Army 'Show' Fails in Algeria

ALGIERS (UPI) — A cold wind and rain sweeping through Algiers Saturday put the damper to a demonstration called by the outlawed extremist "secret party organization" OAS against President Charles de Gaulle.

The OAS, headed by fugitive Gen. Raoul Salan, is violently opposed to De Gaulle's plan to grant independence to Algeria. It called on "every man, woman and child" in Algiers to wear a tricolored pin or ribbin as evidence of their support in the struggle to maintain "Algerie Francaise" (French Algeria).

But the driving rains and cold kept most Europeans indoors. Among those that did venture out, only a handful sported the French national colors.

Germans Fight Red Spy Ring

BONN, GERMANY (AP) — West Germany is fighting off the most massive Communist espionage attack ever lanched against a single country.

Interior Minister Gerhard Schroeder said recently that an estimated 16,000 agents work for East bloc intelligence services in West Germany.

Despite many obstacles, Bonn Government agents manage to uncover about 200 agents a month. Still, for every lost spy the communists seem to have another ready to take his place.

High-ranking officials of Red intelligence services, who defected to the West, have reported that about 18,500 persons are full-time employes of Soviet, East German, Polish, Czechoslovakian, Hungarian and Bulgarian spy organizations in East Germany, mostly stationed in or around East Berlin. It is the base of operations against West Germany.

* * * *

THE EAST German communists alone spend $125 million a year on espionage and subversive operations against West Germany, Schroeder said.

To combat this operation, the Bonn Government employs just over 3,000 counter intelligence agents and office personnel. They operate on an annual budget of $17.5 million.

Officials are reluctant to release precise annual statistics, but in the last eight years courts convicted more than 2,000 persons on espionage charges and more than 19,000 admitted receiving assignments which were not carried out.

* * * *

THIS IS A staggering figure compared to the 17 spy convictions in the United States during the last 11 years. But at least four of the Americans — the Rosenberg couple, Harry Gold and David Greenglass—may have been more dangerous than all of the Red agents in Germany put together. They betrayed atom bomb secrets.

West Germany does not have American nuclear secrets, but there have been a few agents who have done considerable damage.

According to security officials the most dangerous was Alfred Frenzel, 61, Socialist member of the Defense Committee of The Bundestag (parliament) from 1953 until his arrest last fall.

* * * *

FRENZEL, sentenced to 15 years at hard labor earlier this year, supplied the Czechoslovakian intelligence service with West Germany's defense plans for 1961 and betrayed the outlines on the Atlantic Alliance's defense requirements until 1963. The latter information included projected troop strength, equipment, ammunition and fuel requirements for the 15 NATO countries.

Another dangerous traitor—and most embarrassing to the government — was Otto John, head of the government's counter intelligence service.

After four years as top counter spy, during which he once dined cozily with Director Allen Dulles of the U.S. Central Inteligence Agency, John defected to East Germany in 1954. He gave the communists important West German and Allied counter intelligence secrets, including names of agents operating behind the Iron Curtain.

* * * *

JOHN REMAINED in East Germany for 17 months and then redefected to the West. After a long trial, during which he claimed he was drugged, kidnapped and held against his will in East Germany, John was sentenced to four years at hard labor. He served barely half of his sentence.

There were perhaps another half dozen serious cases but the overwhelming majority of agents are "little operators."

Red spy recruiters have a relatively easy job finding prospects in this divided nation. One-fifth of West Germany's population are expellees and refugees from German-speaking areas now dominated by communism. Perhaps every third West German has relatives in communist East Germany.

* * * *

THE GERMAN agent spying on his own country needs no elaborate disguise and before the communists closed the border around Berlin a great many agents slipped in with the refugee stream.

Western security chiefs say about 80 per cent of the 16,000 agents operating in West Germany are working for the East German Ministry for State Security (MFS) and the East German army's military intelligence branch. The other 20 per cent work directly for the Soviet Union and the other Red countries.

Directing and supervising the East German apparatus are two Soviet agencies — the Committee for State Security (KGB formerly MVD) and the defense ministry's Military Intelligence Branch (GRU).

* * * *

THE KGB in East Germany, with headquarters in a former hospital at the maximum security compound in the East Berlin suburb of Karlshorst, has a staff of about 900.

The GRU headquarters is located at the Germany headquarters of the Soviet Army in Wuensdorf near Berlin. About 150 GRU officers are reportedly attached to the KGB headquarters as liaison personnel.

The East German Ministry for State Security is headed by Lt. Gen. Erich Mielke, and old-time German communist for whom West Berlin police still have an arrest warrant for murder dating back to 1931. Mielke himself has repeatedly boasted of killing two Berlin policemen at that time.

* * * *

SECURITY OFFICIALS assert that only 1 out of 1,000 agents is spying for the communist for idealistic reasons. The greatest number are "in the business" for material gain or adventure.

But only a few agents make more than $100 a month.

Blackmail is an effective and widely used recruiting method. Officials cite the case of the pretty wife of a Bonn Defense Ministry official who was visiting her mother in East Germany. During a family celebration, attended by several officers from the East German security ministry, the woman drank a bit too much and was photographed in an "embarrassing situation" with one of the Red agents.

A few days later, an MFS officer told the woman she would have to spy for the Reds or the photographs would be sent to her husband. Even worse, the woman found out that the "family celebration" was arranged with the cooperation of her family to coerce her into becoming a spy. This experience was so nerve-shattering the woman attempted suicide three times after she returned to the West.

* * * *

THE TASK OF tracking down spies falls on two separate agencies of the Bonn government — The Bundesverfassungsschutz or BFV for short (Federal Office for the Protection of the Constitution) and the Sicherungsgruppe or SG (Security Group) of the Federal Criminal Police Agency. Both are branches of the Federal Interior Ministry.

In the basement rooms of the security group headquarters in Bad Godesberg near Bonn is a fascinating collection of communist espionage equipment.

One large shelf is packed with radio and coding equipment, the center of attraction being a small, almost new American-made radio set used in West Germany by a Soviet agent.

"The United States sent about 10,000 of these sets to Russia during World War II for use by the guerrillas," an official explained. "Only the guerrillas never used them and now they are turning up over here."

* * * *

THE MOST complicated spy tools shown were photographic gadgets, including the so-called microdot process.

To use this process, the agent must make his own special film and "camera" which actualy is only a wooden board with a light bulb, a magnifying glass and a tiny special lens. With this equipment the agent can reduce a large piece of paper filled with information to a tiny dot which is then glued beneath the flap of an envelope or other hiding place.

Counter intelligence officials said their biggest obstacle is the courts, which they believe tend to be too lenient with spies.

Interior Minister Schroeder said German courts should follow the examples of their U.S. and British counterparts, which hand out sentences more than twice as long as German courts.

"The communist intelligence organizations can recruit a person and say: don't worry if you get caught . . . you'll only go to jail for a couple of years and when you're free we will take good care of you," one Allied intelligence official commented.

SPY'S TOOLS

An American-made radio set used by a Soviet spy in West Germany is examined by AP Reporter John O. Koehler at the West German security group headquarters in West Berlin. Security agents said the United States sent about 10,000 of these sets to Russia during World War II for use by the partisans. Above the radio display are samples of codes used by Red spies.—(AP)

Indian Bureau Aide Appointed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Appointment of E. Reeseman Fryer of Chantilly, Va. as assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Indian Affairs was announced Saturday. A native of Mesa, Ariz., he will supervise the bureau's realty, land operations, forestry and roads programs.

World's Highest Earth Fill Dam Finished; Start Higher One

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California celebrates this week the completion of the world's highest earth-filled dam, and breaks ground for a much higher one.

Trinity Dam, 537 feet high, will be dedicated Saturday by Secretary of Interior Udall.

On Thursday, Gov. Brown will break ground for Oroville Dam. By 1968 it will rise to 735 feet—highest dam of any kind in the United States.

AS TALL as a 50-story building, Oroville will be eight feet higher than Hoover Dam, which is concrete. There are higher concrete dams in the Alps and in India.

Dams are cause for celebration in California, which has suffered drought for three straight years.

Things would be much worse except for more than 900 dams, large and small, already built. The state has plans for 260 more dams, which experts say will enable 40 million people to live in California by the year 2000.

* * * *

WITH A present population of 16½ million, growing by half a million a year, water is the most urgent political and economic issue.

The problem is that most of the state's rivers originate in the northern mountains, torrents in winter and trickles in summer.

The biggest and fastest growing icties are on the arid South Coast, and the richest farmlands are in valleys where it doesn't rain for five months a year.

The state, already working on one branch aqueduct, hopes to get the main canals and pumping stations under way by 1963, delivering water to the southern San Joaquin Valley by 1965 and to Los Angeles by 1972.

Utah Decrees Fine or School for Young Smokers

By GERALD B. TRAPP

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—Anyone under 21 caught smoking in this city gets a ticket from the police and must pay a fine or attend a 2½-hour school that features two color movies and a lecture on "The Evils of Tobacco."

Strict enforcement of this 1907 law began several months ago. It's debatable whether enforcement has produced less smoke, but it's provoked more fire among the citizenry—pro and con—than any police action in years.

Juvenile Judge Regnal Garff Jr. started the intensified enforcement program of the state statute that prohibits smoking or possesion of tobacco by anyone under 21 year of ago. There also is a companion statute making it illegal to give, sell or provide tobacco to anyone under 21.

The judge's announcement created a furor of comment in a city where smoking is forbidden in most public places, a law that is violated about as often as the ban against teen smoking.

There is strong support for the law in Mormon doctrine.

"The word of wisdom," the code of conduct of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, as defined by its founder, Joseph Smith, says: "Tobacco is not for the body and is not good for man."

Mormons make up 63 per cent of the state's 890,627 persons and 56 per cent of Salt Lake County's 383,035 residents.

But Judge Garff, a Mormon, contends the drive on smoking "is no moral or religious issue. It is just a matter of education. We want them (the juveniles) to stop flaunting the law."

Only 150 tickets for smoking were issued in all of 1960, most of them mere formalities to hold youths for questioning about something else. With enforcement, there were 130 smoking tickets last July alone. The police issued 39 in August, but referred many more to the smoking school.

A City Court appearance is necessary for violators 18, 19 and 20. But they too can attend the smoking school in lieu of a first offense $10 fine.

Youths under 18 report to Juvenile Court, and are given a choice of attending the class or appearing before an official. All have picked the class.

Salt Lake City police were guinea pigs for the first smoking class. The immediate result: 25 of the department's 240 policeman stopped smoking.

The next immediate result was a dearth of smokers at the usual teen hangouts.

The school includes two films and a lecture.

The first film—"Time Pulls the Trigger"—shows a doctor dripping a drop of nicotine down the throat of a mouse. The audience watched closely as the mouse wiggled and squirmed to its quick death—a matter of seconds.

The second film—produced by the American Temperance Union—is called "One in 20,000." Its highlight is a lung cancer operation successful; its star, staunch tobacco foe Dr. Alton Oschner of New Orleans.

NOT FOR TEENS

Store owner Orson Rowley points to sign to show 16-year-old William Brumbaugh that teen-agers are forbidden by state law from buying cigarettes in Utah. The posed scene is typical of many that occur in the Salt Lake City area.—(AP photo.)

Colleges Apply for U.S. Housing Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has reported that 70 per cent of the country's eligible colleges and universities have applied for college housing loans.

The report said loans totaling more than $1.4 billion have been made during the past 10 years with another $248 million reserved for pending projects. Under the extension of the program approved by Congress this year an additional $300 million will be available during each of the next four years.

Plan Pioneer Immunity Study

By BEN ZINSER AND GEORGE X. TRIMBLE, M.D.

The National Institutes of Health plan a pioneer study of how and why an individual develops some diseases but is immune to others.

The study will be the first of its kind to deal strictly with a new science: propetology. The term is from the Greek word "propet" — meaning "leaning toward."

Propetology, therefore, is the study of the tendency to lean toward certain diseases.

NIH scientists will observe 500 young persons for several years, testing them periodically and paying special attention to the illnesses that commonly afflict them.

The study is disclosed in the American Journal of Medicine by two chemists—Drs. Roger J. Williams and Frank L. Siegel of the University of Texas.

MEDICAL AUTHORITIES now frown on two traditional exercises used for conditioning in football practice and other sports: the deep-knee bend and the duck waddle.

Either can result in serious injury to the internal and supporting structures of the knee joint, according to the American Medical Association's Committee on the Medical Aspects of Sports.

THERE'S A NEW phobia—nucleomitophobia, or fear of the atom. It's a product of the nuclear age, says Dr. Milton A. Dushkin, medical director of the North Shore Hospital in Winnetka, Ill.

Dr. Dushkin, reporting in a publication of the American Medical Association, says public officials are receiving calls for help from frantic persons who believe they are radioactive.

He explains: "When a person feels overwhelmed by feelings of insecurity and frustrations beyond his control, he must find a scapegoat. Nowadays it's fashionable for the emotionally ill to blame their confused state on radioactivity in their environment."

PATIENTS WHO undergo anal or rectal surgery will experience less pain afterward if they practice special exercises in the first few days after surgery.

The finding is that of proctologists at Loma Linda University School of Medicine.

The doctors taught the exercises to 50 patients at White Memorial Hospital and Clinic. Then they compared their recovery with that of 50 patients not told about the exercises.

The exercises, repeated three to four times a day for 20 minutes, are those in which the anorectal muscles are alternately contracted and relaxed.

In the exercising group, swelling either was less or subsided sooner than in the non-exercising patients. Pain was far less. In fact, administration of sedative drugs was 50 per cent less in the exercising group.

The doctors, reporting in the journal Diseases of the Colon and Rectum, say that the exercises stimulate circulation and improve muscle tone.

Patients in the exercising group returned to work sooner than did the patients in the non-exercising group.

PORTRAIT OF THE average medical school graduate, result of a survey reported in the Journal of Medical Education:

He hails from a small urban family.

His parents are above average intellectually.

He fared well academically in high school. As an undergraduate he preferred courses in biological and physical sciences and the humanities but showed little interest in the social sciences or languages.

He's probably married. If so, there's a 50-50 chance he has one or more children.

He may be in debt (50-50 chance). If so, his indebtedness probably ranges between $1,000 and $3,000.

Youth Clubs Seek Community Projects

Worthwhile community service projects are being sought by high school youth clubs sponsored by the Los Altos YMCA. Public suggestions are invited.

Suggestions may be forwarded to the Los Altos branch, 1720 Bellflower Blvd., according to Pat Vest, branch secretary.

The Los Altos YMCA presently has 19 clubs, each with membership of 25 high school boys and girls. All clubs are eager to make a community contribution in the form of service work, Vest said.

In other Los Altos YMCA activities, Dr. Thomas Clarke will preside today at the first annual "Layman's Retreat" at the YMCA mountain retreat, Camp Oakes.

Board and committee members will discuss pans for the proposed Los Altos YMCA building, Dr. Clarke said.

Employment Over Year Rises in L.B.-L.A. Area

Employment in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area increased 1.7 per cent in August over August, 1960, according to the research department of Security First National Bank.

The bank called the upward trend "continuous, but moderate." The improvement was attributed to normal seasonal increases in certain non-manufacturing fields such as trade and construction.

Employment in the area reached successive record levels of 2.76 million in July and 2.78 million in August, the bank said.

But unemployment figures presented a less optimistic picture. While employment has increased, the population has increased at a faster rate, showing the difference in the unemployment figures, the bank's report said.

The level of unemployment in August for the Long Beach-Los Angeles area fell below 200,000 for the first time this year, but the reduction was in line with seasonal expectations.

FBI Exchange Club Topic

The "Federal Bureau of Investigation" will be discussed by Charles W. Peasinger Jr., assistant special agent in charge of the area office, at the luncheon meeting of the Long Beach Exchange Club Wednesday in the Lafayette Hotel.

ARDENT COMMUNISM FIGHTER

Pastor Resembles Khrushchev but There Likeness Ceases

Jackie Burris, 55, looks enough like Premier Khrushchev to have been taken for him in Moscow where he addressed students at the university in 1959.

The likeness stops at looks.

The Rev. Mr. Burris is the new pastor of the First Baptist Church of Los Alamitos, Green Street and Bloomfield Avenue.

The Cathedral of Tomorrow, Akron, Ohio, where he was pastor before coming to Los Alamitos, sent him to Moscow where he was invited to address students — but not on religion.

* * * *

HE DISCUSSED his travels, Berlin, Israel, the five months he spent as a prisoner of the Chinese in Red China — and when the question-and-answer period arrived he found his questioners wanted answers to questions on religion. He turned to the man in charge, who nodded and the Rev. Mr. Burris was on a topic that is his life's work.

"I love the Russian people dearly," he said. "In the 72 countries I have visited in my four trips around the world I have never met a more gracious people. But I consider communism to be the great enemy of God, of church, of man. I cannot, as a minister, express too strong a warning against even flirting with communism. I hope every trace of communism can be eliminated from our lives." He plans to continue his talks on Russia at his evening service tonight.

REV. JACKIE BURRIS
Widely Traveled

The Rev. Mr. Burris is a missionary, an airplane pilot, photographer and lecturer who has preached (mostly through interpreters) to audiences in 72 of the countries he visited.

* * * *

IN AKRON he conducted a television program he estimates was seen by 2½ million viewers. He intends to develop another television program in this area.

"Surveys show 78 per cent of the people in America do not attend any church. Southern California is a greater mission field than the East. I hope the TV program will have greater appeal than anything I have done to date."

He said: "I want to try to get to men to return to God. The church is the best means for their doing so. I hope to do this by visitation and with enjoyable programs. A Christian's life doesn't have to be dull. The Gospel sermon should be the most interesting thing in the world."

TELLS OF DRIVE
Mrs. Herbert Landwehr, left, Red Cross recruitment chairman, hopes new volunteer will fill uniform as she explains the plans for the Red Cross Volunteer Recruitment Drive to Mrs. Leo Rogers, local chairman of volunteers for the Long Beach Chapter.

Red Cross Issues Special Three Day Call for Volunteer Helpers

Help wanted . . . for a rush trip to the hospital with desperately needed blood, or helping the Mother of a serviceman who has just died, or running errands for patients in hospitals, or writing a letter for a bed-ridden patient. These are a few of the many activities of the Long Beach Red Cross Volunteer.

The local chapter of the Red Cross has issued a plea for volunteers to aid in these and many more activities in the Long Beach area. A special "call for volunteers" is set for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Volunteers are needed immediately in such services as canteen, motor service, social welfare aides, Gray Ladies, and hostesses. These positions require an average of six hours per week of service.

* * * *

EXPLAINING the role of the Red Cross Volunteer, Mrs. Herbert Landwehr, Recruitment chairman said, "The most rewarding service a person can offer is a helping hand to his fellow man. Your part as a Red Cross Volunteer is very important in these times of preparedness as your service not only aids others but better prepares you for emergencies with your home and family."

"If you can type, drive an automobile, cook, sew, or just like people there is a place for you as a Red Cross volunteer worker. You can pick your hours and the type of service in which you wish to participate. Give the Red Cross volunteer office a call (HEmlock 7-2921) this week and join with your friends and neighbors to serve the community as a Red Cross worker," said Mrs. Landwehr.

Krishna Menon 'Satisfactory' in Brain Surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon was reported resting comfortably in Montefiore Hospital Saturday after undergoing surgery for removal of a blood clot on the brain.

Dr. Leon Davidoff said the one-hour operation was successful and "a small collection of blood was found and removed from the brain."

A hospital spokesman described the Indian statesman's condition as "satisfactory" and said Menon would probably be permitted to get on his feet today.

FBI Arrests 19 in Loan Fraud

NEW YORK (UPI) — The FBI Saturday arrested 19 persons, including two former bank officials, in connection with a $5 million fraud involving the misuse of government-insured home improvement loans.

The FBI said the scheme involved making fraudulent applications for home improvement loans which, when received, were used by the homeowners for other purposes, with "kickbacks" to the construction firms.

When improvements were made, the contractors usually used inferior materials, the FBI said.

STARTS NEXT SUNDAY

Series to Tell How You Can Earn More

Can you get better pay?

In most cases, says Meredith Wiley, prominent Southern California management and personnel consultant, the answer is yes.

Over the past 20 years Wiley has interviewed and traced the progress of thousands of job-seekers. He has recruited scores of top-flight men for some of industry's best-paying jobs. His inescapable conclusions from these experiences:

1. Success is rarely a matter of luck.
2. Success follows a pattern.

And the pattern can be learned!

WILEY NOW SHARES his expert knowledge with Independent, Press-Telegram readers in a 14-part series, "You CAN Get Better Pay," starting next Sunday.

He tells, for example, how to ask for a pay hike, how to get discovered by the boss, how to find and how to quit a job, and how to work into one of those $25,000 to $150,000 jobs which go begging for the right men.

The articles, based on a booklet by the same title, are written with Harry Karns of the I, P-T editorial staff, and released by the Associated Press.

Don't miss what can be the most important series of articles in your life.

DR. RAY D. OWEN
Biologist to Speak

Science Series Set at LBCC

Dr. Ray D. Owen, acting chairman of the Biology Division of the California Institute of Technology, will be the first speaker in a new "Frontiers of Science" series opening at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Long Beach City College auditorium. The public is invited to attend.

A specialist in genetics and immunology, Dr. Owen will present an illustrated lecture on recent discoveries in molecular biology. He has been on the Caltech staff since 1946 and is widely known among fellow scientists for his work on inherited blood groups and tissue transplants.

Other lecturers in the science series, sponsored by the City College General Adult Division, will cover current developments in high-energy physics, computer mathematics and radio and stellar astronomy.

* * * *

ANNE PHILLIPS, member of the American Institute of Decorators' national board of governors, will open a series of four lectures on interior decoration at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Hill Junior High School auditorium, 1100 Iroquois Ave. First topic is "Space — Making the Most of It."

Other admission-free programs this week:

MONDAY

Psychology—Dr. Arthur L. Bietz, "Factors That Go into a Happy Marriage," 7:30 p.m., Jordan High School auditorium.

WEDNESDAY

Health for Senior Citizens—Dr. George W. Ainlay, "Disorders of the Intestinal Tract," 2 p.m., Dewey High School auditorium.

Investments—Jess Grundy, "How to Pick an Industry," 7:30 p.m., Hill Junior High School auditorium.

THURSDAY

Exploring Colorful California—Herbert Williams, "The Mission Coast" (illustrated), 7:30 p.m., Jordan High School choral room.

Library Has Four Free Loan Films

Four new films, which have been deposited on long term loan to be circulated without charge, are now available through the Public Library Film Service, according to Miss Nina Boyle, film librarian.

"Rival World" and "Fossil Story," sponsored by the Shell Oil Company, are outstanding science films in color with appeal for adult and youth groups alike. They combine scientific objectivity with great visual impact.

For a very different type of program, Miss Boyle recommends "Moscow Concert," which is on loan to the local library through December only. Filmed at the Tchaikovsky Conservatory, this film features Dimitri Shostakovich's Seventh Symphony and Aaron Copland's "Billy the Kid" ballet suite. As an intermission feature, the late Jospeh N. Welch comments on the responsibilities implicit in citizenship.

Tax Reforms in Latin Nations Meet Goal

By ARNALDO OTERO

WASHINGTON (UPI) — High American officials voiced confidence Saturday that the Oct. 11-19 tax administrators' conference in Buenos Aires will be a major step toward tax reforms in Latin America.

The conference is the first phase of the joint Latin American taxation program sponsored by the United Nations Economic Commission for Latin America (ECLA) and the Organization of American States (OAS).

It also is the first hemispheric meeting on tax administration, considered one of the cornerstones of new efforts for economic developments in the region.

* * * *

PARTICIPATING will be about 60 tax experts and high government officials from most of the Latin American countries and the United States. Cuba, Haiti and the Dominican Republic are not expected to attend.

Representing the United States will be Stanley S. Surrey, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and one of the key tax reformers in this country.

Also participating will be representatives from the Inter-American Development Bank and the Harvard University School of Law.

* * * *

"IT IS SIGNIFICANT that the conference takes place in Argentina, which is making effective strides in reforming its tax system," one U.S. official said. He added that the conference "will provide a forum for experts from the various countries . . . to exchange ideas and experiences in the field of tax administration."

The talks have official approval of the Inter-American Economic and Social Council which recommended at the Punta Del Este Conference that the member governments cooperate in preparing the agenda.

Although the experts will participate in a personal capacity, rather than as representatives of their countries, they will take initial steps toward a broad tax reform plan.

* * * *

THE AGENDA is based on eight topics on which papers have been prepared by outstanding authorities in various fields of tax administration.

Included are subjects ranking from the processing of tax data to the administration of the various taxes.

One official said Argentina and several other large countries such as Venezuela might be ready to start using the automatic data-processing technique which is still being improved in the United States.

VANCE PACKARD
Speaks Friday

Author to Speak Here

Author Vance Packard, who made household words of "hidden persuaders" and "status seekers," speaks at Long Beach State College Friday at 8 p.m. in the Little Theater.

He will discuss the overcommercialim of American society, an ailment he terms "consumerism."

Packard's appearance is part of LBSC's Evenings-on-Campus series. There is no admission charge for the program.

Packard pioneered in alerting the American public to techniques employed for "persuasion in depth" advertising, and came into prominence in 1957 when his book "the Hidden Persuaders" quickly climbed to the No. 1 spot on the nation's best seller lists.

Today he continues his social critic's role in the recently published "The Waste Makers" in which he berates our philosophy of "planned obsolescence."

Pine at Broadway, Phone HE 6-9841

A GROUP of laborers beside a road, stripped to the waist in the hot sun, fascinated a 5-year-old Long Beacher, JoAnn Simington.

Turning to her mother, Anne, she exclaimed: "Look at those men wearing half of their birthday suits!"

WHEN the Republicans get through fighting each other, and one of their men gets down to the serious business of beating Pat Brown, they'll find the Demo governor backed by at least one big, solid group—the people who love Pat because he appointed them to jobs.

I've never seen any comparison with other states, but surely the governor of California must be right at the top in the number of appointments he's permitted to make in the course of a term in office.

Bro. Brown's staff is nice enough to send to this desk a daily release of news items —speeches, announcements, etc. And in virtually every batch, there are several notifications of appointments to jobs big and little over the state. They range from major, good-paying positions to spots on various boards, some of them local or district, with per diem expenses or no pay at all.

In the course of a term, this runs into hundreds, and this of course, has real political significance. In some cases, I suppose, there are disappointed candidates who are sore at the governor, but over all, it's a big advantage for the incumbent.

Republicans enjoyed this advantage for a long time. The Demos overcame it, at least in 1958, and certainly the number of appointive jobs hasn't shrunk any since the Democrats took over.

ON THE subject of press releases, the county fair people sent us one the other day reporting that Mrs. Laura Gibbons of Long Beach had won a first prize in the fancy work division.

We ran it, and that left Mrs. Gibbons slightly embarrassed. It seems that she won not only one, but four firsts, a couple of seconds and a third. Before our story came out, she had reported her triumph to her friends. Failure of the press to tell the whole story aroused some suspicion that maybe she had over-rated her case. This note is to confirm her report—she did right well, and is a truthful woman.

THE name chosen by the Council for the auditorium annex, Long Beach Arena, disappointed some people, who felt it was lacking in imagination. It wasn't my favorite. But it did conform to a principle that City Atty. Gerald Desmond has been plugging for a long time. It emphasized the Long Beach identification.

Desmond contends that every public building hereabouts should bear the name of the city in one way or another, especially in the signs seen by the public. He noted that many motorists in this area do not know in what city they are traveling, and do not know that notable public facilities they see belong to Long Beach, unless there's sign identification.

So Jerry, for one, likes the name. In fact, he probably had a lot to do with its choice. He's got influence.

OLDER people of the community, as you may know, meet once a week in Lincoln Park for an old-fashioned sing. They make the welkin ring with time-honored numbers like "Good Old Summertime."

Half a block away there's a string of bars on Ocean Blvd., and about the time the Lincoln Park singing gets going, warbling begins also in the bars. Friend of mine has visited both the bars and the park on such occasions, and reports it's quite a study in vocal contrasts. Not often, he says, do they sing the same selections.

DOWN TO BUSINESS AT NURSERY-SCHOOL LEVEL

Buckley Schools' Teaching Starts Early

By GEORGE ERES

Twenty-seven years ago, Mrs. Isabelle Buckley's son came home from first grade with all A's on his report card.

"But, I found he couldn't read," said Mrs. Buckley.

In years since, Mrs. Buckley has become founder-director of the Buckley schools—four in the Los Angeles area, one in Oxford, Mich.

The schools, nursery through high school, operate on a 10-month plan, plus a 6-week summer program.

The schools put a premium on character-building, discipline "with emphasis on respect and order, application and follow-through," and get down to the business of teaching, starting at the nursery-school level.

* * * *

MRS. BUCKLEY, who began her schools in 1933, does not want to be considered a critic of public education but pointed out what she believes to be three drawbacks in the public school program:

"1. Too much play in the kindergarten.

"2. Too many electives.

"3. Too many pupils per teacher."

In the 27 years since Mrs. Buckley decided to establish her own schools, the public education system has changed, she noted.

* * * *

"THERE IS NOT the emphasis on progressive education — permissiveness —that there was then, but there remains a subtle indoctrination that holds over from the period."

"The parent who weighs the pros and cons of progressive education honestly and objectively can see the logic of combining the saner attributes of both traditional and progressive forms of education," she writes in her book, "Guide to a Child's World." "Sound reasoning dictates the abandonment of extreme authoritarianism on the one hand and impractical theory on the other. Somewhere between these two poles lies the approach to common-sense education."

Buckley nursery school pupils are told "college starts at 2" and get right down to art, dancing, music, French, story time, free play and games in the 2-to-4-year period. Kindergarten, 4 to 5 years, has the same program. Reading readiness for 5- to 6-year-old pupils follows the kindergarten route with special classes in phonics added.

* * * *

THE FOREIGN language taught in the preschools is not from textbooks, of course. It is taught through pictures and conversation.

In the primary grades, 1 through 3, the curriculum is made up of phonics, reading, writing, arithmetic, spelling, history, geography, French, art, dancing, music dramatics, Bible study (the school is nonsectarian) and sports.

Fourth through sixth grades—arithmetic, English (grammar and language arts) including diagramming of sentences, spelling, music, penmanship, comparative religion, reading, science history, geography, French, art, physical education and swimming.

* * * *

THE HIGH SCHOOL curriculum:

Seventh grade — English, arithmetic, history, geography, French, science, Latin, drama, ethics, art, physical education.

Eighth grade — English, mathematics (plus elementary algebra), history, geography, French, Latin, science, drama, ethics, civics, art, physical education.

Ninth grade—English, algebra, French or Spanish, Latin, modern world history, science, drama, ethics, English review, physical education.

Tenth grade — English, geometry, French or Spanish, Latin or European history, chemistry or biology, physical education.

Eleventh grade—English, algebra or geometry, French, Russian, Latin or Spanish, German, physics or history (modern world or U.S.), physical education.

Twelfth grade — English, Latin or Spanish, French, Russian, physics or history, trigonometry or revisional mathematics and physical education.

THE SCHOOL day starts with a handshake and greeting from the schools' principals and a prayer (nondenominational).

"I daresay there are those who consider even this fundamental emphasis on good manners artificial," stated Mrs. Buckley. "Yet teaching children the mechanics of getting along honestly seems to me a very important part of their education."

The full results of her system remain to be measured. The high school program has not been in existence the three years required for it to get accreditation.

MANY OF THE students go to Whittier college, some to SC and UCLA.

Most famous of these is 12-year-old Lance Kerr who entered UCLA this semester. Actually, young Kerr got his basic education in another school, said Mrs. Buckley. "He started here in the 11th grade and did not have a strong liberal arts program background.

"He came to me after start of the term and wanted to drop Latin. I wouldn't let him. I told him he started it and would have to see it through. He did."

INTERPRETS FOR JFK-K

L.B. Woman Hears From Ex-Hitchhiker

By VERA WILLIAMS

In theory, at least, Bernice Tay, 4610 Virginia Ave., is against picking up hitchhikers.

But she is glad she picked up a hitchhiking student one hot afternoon in the summer of 1955 because now she knows a Kennedy - Khrushchev-Schaerf interpreter!

Let Mrs. Tay tell it:

"I was driving the freeway from Santa Rosa to San Francisco when I saw this young man, 'Northwestern University' on his sweater, carrying a placard 'Foreign Student.'

"There was an island and I turned around and came back. He introduced himself as Dietrich Bukowski of Austria, a Fulbright student who had just received his master's degree in international law at Northwestern and was hitchhiking across the country.

* * * *

"HE HAD READ Steinbeck's 'Grapes of Wrath' and had wanted to see the San Joaquin Valley, he said.

"I took him to San Francisco so he also could see the city and the bridges."

After that Bukowski circled the globe in a combination of hiking, hitchhiking and working on cargo vessels. In June 1960 he received his doctor's degree in international law from Vienna University; since February he has been an attache in the Austrian embassy in Vienna.

* * * *

A RECENT letter describes his experiences at the Vienna summit meeting: "I interpreted for President Kennedy, first English to German between him and our President Adolf Schaerf, and then in Russian to Khrushchev.

"This was at the reception our president gave at Schoenbrunn palace, the former summer residence of the Hapsburg emperors. I first was assigned to President Kennedy's mother. I guessed who she was when she began talking about the President of the United States as 'Jack.'

"When my colleague assigned to Kennedy realized he would have to interpret the toasts before the world press, TV and radio, he bashfully admitted his English was not perfect. Owing partly to my time in your country, I volunteered.

"English to German did not give me any trouble, but English to Russian was tough, and even more so Russian to English!

"It was thrilling to have the Soviet prime minister 'hang on my lips' as we say in Austria, to find out what the U. S. President told him."

L. B. Fire Prevention Week Set

Long Beach area residents —along with people throughout the United States—will observe annual "Fire Prevention Week" this week.

The Long Beach Fire Department, Long Beach Insurance Association and Long Beach Chapter of the National Safety Council are cooperating in sponsoring the week under chairmanship of H. W. Walgren.

The Fire Department is putting strong emphasis on its Dwelling Safety Check which will continue throughout the month.

As in the past three years, firemen will call on homeowners throughout the city to help with fire-prevention problems through a fire safety check.

Through use of the Fire Department's Dwelling Safety Check, danger of fires could be cut in half, according to Fire Chief Leonard V. Foster. "It's a simple matter of permitting your fire department to help you spot fire hazards."

The week's program will include fire drills and safety instruction in all schools, messages flashed on screen in movie theaters, distribution of posters and educational pamphlets and fire prevention talks at service clubs, said Walgren.

Anniversary to Be Feted

Fridjof Nansen Lodge No. 9, Sons of Norway, will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the birth of its namesake at 8 p.m. Tuesday. The lodge is located at 681 Redondo Ave.

Henry T. Gunderson, 6th District president, will pay tribute to Nansen's work as an explorer, scientist, author, statesman and humanitarian, according to Einar E. Fekjar, lodge president.

Dad Warner, 88, Still On The Job for Armed Services

Lee (Dad) Warner, 88, of 840 St. Louis, put in 23 years in the U. S. Navy, had the distinction of shaving Admiral Dewey, participated in the Battle of Manila Bay — and never saw a shot fired.

After all that action, how come he never saw a shot fired?

Dad Warner grinned slyly.

"I was down in the hold every time there was a battle. They kept the hatches tied down during battles."

Nevertheless, he managed to win five medals for service to his country.

* * * *

ONE OF THOSE medals is the Dewey Medal, another the Manila Bay Medal.

He was hailed as one of the heroes of the Battle of Manila Bay.

"We were at Hong Kong when we got orders to sail for Manila. I cut the cable between Hong Kong and Manila, so the Spanish couldn't get word that we were coming.

"I've still got the hacksaw I used."

* * * *

WHILE SERVING under Dewey Warner was trimming a couple of officers' hair.

"We didn't have a barber aboard and I had scissors and razor," said Warner, whose rating was chief electrician. "Having the tools made me the barber.

"Admiral Dewey saw me and said he wished he could get a shave. I told him I'd shave him if he'd risk it. The Admiral was a brave man."

ADMIRAL DEWEY was also indebted to Warner for easing another of his burdens. Out of pipe tobacco sometime later in Memphis in a Dewey Victory Parade, the admiral asked Warner for a pipeful.

"I gave him some of my Havana leaf."

"That the kind the Admiral smoked?"

"He did when he could get it from me."

The Admiral was not the forgetting type. For favors rendered, he sent Warner a case of beer.

* * * *

WARNER sailed around the world in Teddy Roosevelt's Great White Fleet. He recalls putting into San Francisco and Long Beach.

About those wood ships in the Navy that Warner knew so well.

How did they compare with the steel ships?

"Well they were coal burners you know. They were damned dirty."

He left the Navy in 1918 after serving in World War I, and came to Long Beach where he has been ever since. He raised three sons and two daughters—all Navy people.

"My sons served in the Navy; my daughters married Navy men."

* * * *

IN 1945 HE enlisted in the Armed Services again — this time as a volunteer worker. They called him a "runner." He takes names of recruits to the Police Department daily for a routine police check.

He shows up every morning at 7:45 a.m. and stays till quitting time at 4 p.m.

"Never misses a day," said Sgts. Don Reeves and Howard Scholes of the Army Recruiting Service office in the Post Office Bldg.

* * * *

WARNER tried unsuccessfully to recall what he got his other three medals for.

"I guess one damned thing or another. Tell you the truth I never wanted no medals. I never even took them out of the boxes. They're somewhere in the bottom of a trunk at home."

Command to Change at Reserve Facility

Capt. Anthony D. Christopher has arrived from New York to succeed Commander Anthony A. Mazur as commanding officer of the Long Beach Naval Reserve Training Center. The change of command will take place Wednesday at the Naval Reserve Training Center at Los Alamitos at 7:30 p.m.

The ceremony will bring to a close a brilliant 30-year career in the Navy by Cmdr. Mazur and will mark another important milestone in the professional life of Capt. Christopher.

Cmdr. Mazur has had distinguished service in both wartime and peacetime since he began his life in the Navy 30 years ago as an apprentice seaman at Philadelphia, Penn.

Prior to World War II, he served in the Atlantic, Pacific and Asiatic Fleets in cruisers and destroyers. The outbreak of World War II found him serving on the U.S.S. Vestal that was moored alongside the battleship, U.S.S. Arizona, when attacked by the Japanese on Dec. 7, 1941. He served heroically in the Palaus, Leyte and Lingayen operations.

* * * *

AMONG HIS duties after World War II were commanding officer of the weather patrol ship PCE893, supply ship Grainger, destroyer escort G. A. Johnson and the Naval Reserve Training Centers at San Jose and Long Beach.

Cmdr. Mazur will retire on Nov. 1, 1961, and will make his home with his wife in Downey.

Capt. Christopher was designated a naval aviator on Dec. 8, 1941 and commissioned an ensign on Jan. 2, 1942. He was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal, Naval Unit Citation, and 10 other service and campaign medals and ribbons for service in World War II and Korea. He was with the 3rd and 5th Fleets as a fighter pilot and participated in the Battle of Leyte Gulf and in operations in the Okinawa, Formosa, Philippines and South China Sea areas. His most recent assignment was at the Naval Air Station, New York.

The Long Beach Naval Reserve Training Center serves the harbor area. Several thousand young men have been started on officer and petty officer careers at the local center. Many of the officers and men who manned the two destroyer escorts that were added this week to the fleet at Terminal Island ceremonies had their basic training at the Long Beach center.

Port Offers Good Case for Building Huge New Pier J

ONE OF Long Beach Harbor's biggest expansion projects is to be evaluated this week at City Hall, where the question is whether the Harbor Reserve Fund should be released as the main source of financing.

City Council members share in the responsibility of determining whether the proposed construction of the 311-acre Pier J is sound, for the $13,575,000 in the reserve fund can be unlocked only if they consent. Quite properly, they are going to insist on answers to questions directed at port officials who are supporting the project.

As the case has been presented thus far by harbor spokesmen, it looks like a multi-purpose improvement that will pay for itself in direct money returns, with extra benefits on the side.

THE IMMEDIATE reason for the pier, from a port operating standpoint, is what harbor spokesmen call the growth curve—the demand for more berths as historic increases in population and cargo-handling continue. The curve indicates a need for two new berths every year during the next 15 years.

Shipping specialists list as secondary purposes the accommodation of light industry, recreation, fisheries and oil development.

But from a municipal and community standpoint, the oil development is more than secondary. The pier is so designed as to provide drill sites for Parcels K and L, southeast of the developed offshore field. Estimated yield from these pools is double the $19.5 to $21 million cost of the project.

SINCE THE STATE is entitled to half the proceeds from the tideland oil, indefinite delay in a development program would be hazardous to the city. It could give certain state legislators the excuse they have been seeking to declare Long Beach an improvident trustee. An act of the Legislature could clear the way for state exploitation, in which the city would have no share.

Further, the expected completion date of the pier coincides approximately with the expiration of Long Beach Oil Development Company's contracts for production from the portions of the offshore field already developed. LBOD may or may not get the new contract, which must be let after competitive bidding. But regardless of the successful bidder, the enlargement of the contract to cover the added parcels appears to be a profitable arrangement for the city.

Engineers also note that the big pier could serve as a drill site for production still farther to the east, once the city completes its plans for moving in that direction.

AN ADDED inducement is the proposed use of the pier as a unique location for the 1966 World's Fair.

City Hall officials will of course want to analyze the port's financial projections showing that the reserve fund can be replenished within a comparatively few years by earnings from the parcels already producing oil, regardless of the K and L additions. They will want assurance that a working margin of oil income will remain on hand to meet any emergency that may reasonably be expected. And it would be surprising if they neglected to demand ironclad subsidence safeguards.

We hope a close examination of the proposal will lead to mutual agreement and an early start on bringing in materials for the pier—30 million cubic yards of hydraulic fill and 3 million tons of rock.

WALTER LIPPMANN

Soviets Maneuver to Cut U. N. Power

IN THE DISPUTE about choosing a successor to Dag Hammarskjold, the true purpose of the Soviet Government is to see to it that he has no genuine successor. Under Hammarskjold the United Nations evolved beyond what he described as "a conference machinery" into a rudimentary, tentative, provisional experiment in international government.

LIPPMANN

It is against this development that the Soviet Union is striking, using variations on the troika principle as the instrument. Essentially, what the Soviet government intends to do is to force the abolition of the Secretary General's office as it developed under Hammarskjold, leaving the U. N. again no more than a conference machinery.

IN LAOS, in Palestine, and then in the Congo, he transformed the U.N. from a debating forum into an international power which legislated and executed policy. In Laos probably, in the Congo certainly, Hammarskjold's action interfered and frustrated Communist expansion, and this is the reason why the Soviet Government is determined to abolish the kind of Secretary General that Hammarskjold was.

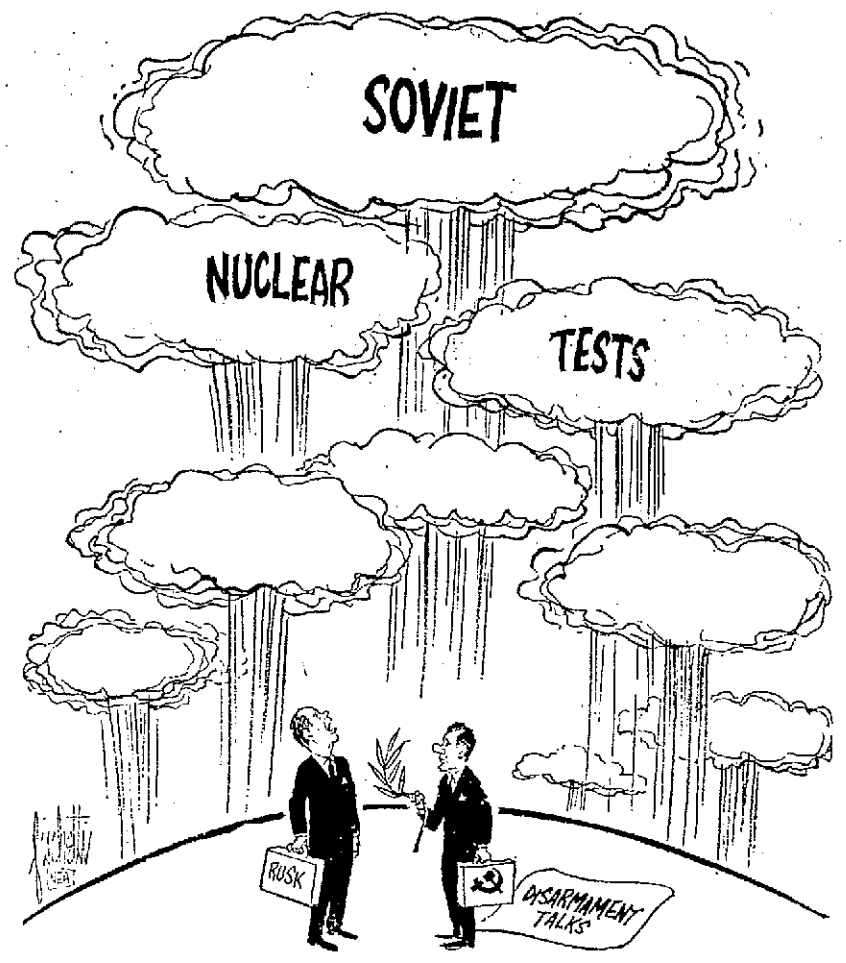

In this policy of diminishing the U.N. as a power in the world, it must be said that Mr. Khrushchev finds much support, never avowed but nonetheless real, in the West. He finds it particularly in France. Gen. de Gaulle has not taken off his shoe to demonstrate against the U.N., but he has done much to weaken it by a policy of studied insult. This is a tragedy for the Western society as well as for the United Nations. For it means that France is absent from the work of trying to establish order in the world.

IT IS hard not to ask oneself whether Hammarskjold's essay into international action was premature. In the last analysis the U.N. exists and can grow only with the concurrence of all the Great Powers. They will not concur on amendments to the Charter adopting Mr. Khrushchev's troika. But he is not likely to concur in the selection of another strong Secretary General.

The prospect is that out of the dispute will come a weak Secretary General. He will not be neutral in the Hammarskjold style of being an international civil servant.

I'm Waiting, Mr. Gromyko

Congress Bails Out Banks for Bad Loans to Railroad

WASHINGTON—It takes a long time for the public to catch up with the conglomeration of legislation shoved out by Congress during its closing days.

PEARSON

In the hectic heat and turmoil of the last few hours, all sorts of strange deals are put across that the public knows little about, wakes up to learn about later.

One interesting act of the recent Congress was its last-minute approval of $14.7 million to reimburse New York banks for their bad loans to the New Haven Railroad. This took the form of a $14.7 million bail-out in the supplemental appropriations bill for some of the same bankers who oppose aid for the aged and federal aid to education. The loans, incidentally, included $600,000 in salary and pension rights for George Alpert, president of the New Haven.

* * * *

THE MONEY was voted only after a protest by Rep. Albert Thomas of Houston, Tex., who cross-examined Interstate Commerce Commissioners as to why the ICC guaranteed two loans totaling $14.7 million when the ICC knew the railroad was on the rocks financially.

ICC Commissioner Kenneth H. Tuggle answered Thomas's question.

"I used to be president of a bank," he explained. "I have made some loans I should not have made. Nobody ever loaned much money and got it all back. All banks charge off loans."

"But," prodded Thomas, "the statute says there must be probability of repayment. The statute lays down a yardstick and the final test is repayment. You are spending the public's money for rendering a public service."

"We are not required by the act to follow banking standards," Chairman Everett Hutchinson alibied. "If they could have got the loan from a bank they would not have come to us."

"Probability of repayment—that's what the statute says," Thomas persisted, reading the statute.

Bankruptcy, incidentally, soon followed.

* * * *

THE LOANS were guaranteed under the authority of a law promoted by Sen. Smathers, Florida Democrat, one-time golfing partner of President Kennedy, whose law firm is attorney for the Seaboard Railroad. Seaboard paid the firm $34,290 in 1959 and $62,810 in 1960. It was in 1958 that Smathers sponsored the law giving the ICC unprecedented power to grant government guarantees to private banks for loans to railroads and to suspend passenger traffic without hearings.

Rep. Thomas turned to the appointment of George Alpert as New Haven president succeeding Pat McGinnis, who had secured control by various interesting stock deals.

"From 1954 to 1956, Mr. McGinnis was president and director of the company," Thomas stated.

"That is true," said Hutchinson.

"During that period he sold stock of the railroad to a New York bank at far above its current market value—is that a true statement?"

ICC finance director Vernon V. Baker was evasive in his answer.

"Let us not get into the squabbles," reprimanded Thomas. "Just answer the question."

"He did arrange it," Baker conceded.

"He promised the railroad would buy it back at more than the bank had paid for it — is that correct?" demanded Thomas.

"That is correct," Baker replied.

* * * *

REFERRING to George Alpert, Thomas continued: "He was a Boston lawyer without previous experience in operating a railroad and secured from the directors a contract to pay him $60,000 a year for five years and thereafter on his retirement $25,000 a year for the next 12 years."

Thomas—"Is that a true statement?"

Hutchinson—"That is substantially correct."

Thomas read from a memo: "The ICC knew about that contract before it guaranteed the New Haven Railroad loan from several New York banks."

"Did you know about that contract?" he asked.

"Yes," answered Hutchinson.

Thomas — "The president of the line drawing $60,000 from a broke line, and not knowing anything about railroads, is pretty risky business."

Note 1—The banks which underwrote the government-guaranteed $14.7 million loans were Chase Manhattan, Bankers Trust Co., First National City Bank of New York, Morgan Guarantee Trust Co., Irving Trust Co., Manufacturers Trust Co., First National Bank of Boston, the Bank of New York, Industrial National Bank of Providence, Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co., Second National Bank of New Haven, Fairfield County Trust Co., Second National Bank of New Haven.

Note 2—About 4 a.m. in the closing hours of Congress, the same Congressman Thomas inserted the "junk free mailing privilege" for Congressmen amendment into the supplemental appropriations bill, thereby permitting Congressmen to mail to any boxholder in their districts, free, without even an address. After inserting this mailing privilege in the bill the House adjourned, making it impossible for the Senate to kill the bill. Apparently Rep. Thomas figured that if the New York banks and the New Haven Railroad were entitled to a $14.7 million bonanza, Congressmen were entitled to a modest bonanza too.

'University' Boosers Enemies of Freedom

EDITOR:

The rule at the University by the Sea once was that any speaker talked for 15 minutes straight. The concocted rule now is that a speaker talks only five minutes, then the audience votes. "Yes" means the speaker continues, "No" means he leave the platform.

The atheistic-freedom (?) group votes "No" — thus many religious and Republican speakers are booed, insulted and forced off, so their freedom of speech is destroyed.

People in any audience who are against religion and Republicans can walk out, for the door is always open. Any people who destroy the rights granted others have no concept of real freedom.

We should have been prepared for Soviet nuclear testing. The moment they started, we should have moved some of our devices as close geographically to Russia as possible.

That would have given them something to think about. At least, they would know we had our pants pulled up for once.

Less U. S. Aid Seen as Proper Sacrifice

EDITOR:

In a letter to President Kennedy regarding his proposal to the steel industry, I have stated that the result of his theory would be the gradual collapse of all private enterprise.

Mr. Kennedy said all of us should sacrifice. We are certain that everyone would sacrifice, and that the ready sacrifice would be less government aid. Government control, except in emergencies, will produce the inevitable tragedy of the nation losing freedom and prosperity.

Fogies Join the Club: They Also Have Policy Disputes

BY DEFINITION, by declaration of principle, Goldwater conservatives believe that there are only a few of us left in America who ever really got the idea of what this country was, is and aspires to be.

Thus homogenized, you might think that a meeting to organize a Long Beach chapter of Californians for Goldwater would haul true. But such a meeting Thursday night developed a preposterous troika of left, right and middle of the road Goldwater conservatives.

HOUSER

Remember the youth for Goldwater group back at the GOP national convention in July 1960? They were dubbed the "Young Fogies." Here Thursday we had an assortment. In the 23 present were probably five who could be called youths, five fogies in age as well as political disposition and 13 young adults.

Traffic went (in my opinion to their democratic credit) about as follows:

Champagne blonde and beautiful, organizer-type fogie: We conservatives for "the White Knight of the Far Right" are accused of being our own destruction because we don't organize or educate to sell our point of view . . . of bringing the country back to Constitutional government before it's too late. We want to elect conservative candidates at all levels of government. This will not be a Republican organization; there are as many good Jeffersonian Democrats as Republicans in this group.

YOUTH: Who do we support for Governor in 1962?

Chair: Joe Shell seems to be the most conservative. We'll go to the next best if he doesn't win the primary.

Question: Our program?

Chair: First we'll study what the Constitution stands for as presented in Goldwater's "Conscience of a Conservative." Then we'll learn from speakers, for example, somebody from the American Medical Assn. to tell us what's wrong with socialized medicine. Then general electioneering techniques. Then talks by the candidates.

Man: We could tape-record sessions of Dr. Peter Odegard's TV Continental Classroom and show, point by point, how he's insinuating the idea of one-world government and is tending toward the left.

Man: My sister took one of his courses. I wouldn't say she was brainwashed but she became difficult to talk to.

Woman: A great deal of news media and education is saturated with left-wingism which we must eradicate or try to eradicate.

Man: Let's first educate ourselves and then spread the word.

WOMAN: We're not a witch-hunting group; we're not trying to condemn or to point fingers at organizations or people as slightly leftists, but rather we're trying to educate. We're not necessarily a flag-waving group.

Beautiful Fogie: "Oh, I am!"

Man: "I don't believe in publicly condemning Odegard, but we need to present people with both sides.

Vitriol Fogie: Is this group for debating or action?

Answer: Definitely action. But only after educating ourselves toward what action to take.

Vitriol: We'd better act quickly or there'll be nothing to act on. Like mental health—a little Hitler deal.

Woman: Or urban renewal. I can phone some people and we can be prepared to present our side at City Council.

BEAUTIFUL: When the Council says, "Let's see what we can get the federal government to do for us today, we'll say, "Let's not. Let's see what we can do for ourselves."

Man: Don't forget United States Day and flying our flags.

Man: How about United Nations Day. (Laughing) Should we fly our flags upside down?

Woman: Selling calendars can be our main money raiser. I haven't seen the calendar yet but the cover will be of a very conservative nature, maybe with a fife and drum and a flag . . . a nice, clean-cut cover.

Youth: Where do we get outside references?

Woman: The library system is flooded with liberal material but very few good documents. I'll compile a list.

LIBERALS who doubt the pulling power and rampancy of conservatism today might well take a look at last week's special election to fill the vacancy left by the recent death of State Sen. James J. McBride (D-Ventura).

Robert J. Lagomarsino, mayor of Ojai, was elected over two Democrats. The election reversed a trend of six Democratic victories in special elections singe 1951, cut the Senate Democratic majority to 29-11, and established Lagomarsino as the youngest of the state's 40 senators.

Defense Chief Clamps Lid on Inter-Service Feuding

By WALTER T. RIDDER and WILLIAM W. BROOM

WASHINGTON — The joint chiefs of staff, whose inter-service squabbles have made headlines for years, have turned over a new leaf and are now getting along. Most observers credit Defense Secretary Robert McNamara with indirectly bringing this about. He's tough, and the chiefs try to reach unanimous agreement on their recommendations to prevent McNamara from allowing a civilian assistant to umpire the fracas.

ROBERT McNAMARA

Rather than allow a civilian this power, the chiefs are working harmoniously among themselves. Major credit is also due Adm. George Anderson, the new chief of naval operations. Anderson is a smooth talker and master salesman, and he turned his talents on Air Force chief Gen. Curtis LeMay. As a result, the Navy and the Air Force, source of the big disagreements in the past (remember the aircraft carrier versus B-36 bomber row?) have buried the hatchet, and all is serene.

* * * *

IF RICHARD NIXON passes his first test in the California gubernatorial primary with ex-Gov. Goodie Knight, he can expect some formidable help from President Eisenhower in the fall campaign.

Republican sources report the former President expects the Kennedy administration will send out its big guns to help Gov. Pat Brown in the important race, and Ike is willing and itching to help counteract them with a few speeches in California.

In doing so, Ike would be fulfilling a moral obligation to Nixon. Eisenhower's was one of the first and most insistent voices calling on Nixon to make the race.

* * * *

THE CONGRESSIONAL Record's computers have finally stopped clacking and come up with the information that the Senate spent 1,005 hours legislating during the recent session, while the House spent only 569 hours and 43 minutes. That makes the average length of a Senate day about 7 hours, while the House was putting in only 4 hours.

Of more interest, however, was the fact that the Senate held 207 yea-and-nay votes, while the House had but 116 roll calls. Among those complaining that the Senate lost status as the world's greatest deliberative body was Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy (D-Minn.), who found his colleagues not very deliberate.

McCarthy complained to Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield that the frequent roll calls were putting that house in the same class as professional basketball, whose teams hardly ever score less than 100 points in a game.

THE NEW FRONTIER'S foreign policy makers are becoming increasingly cool toward the neutral countries because the latter seem more neutral toward the Soviet Union than toward us. But they are absolutely frigid toward Khrishna Menon of India.

The State Department blames the Indian for stalling a U.S.-sponsored campaign to name an acting secretary general to replace the late Dag Hammarskjold. He's been telling Afro-Asian bloc members, who hold the balance of power at the U.N., that the existing secretarial can carry on without a leader. U.S. delegates disagree.

LANGUAGES in the NEWS

By Charles F. Berlitz and Robert Strumpen-Darrie

THERE IS a new joke in Berlin, based on the recent Jack Paar controversy. One Berliner is supposed to say to another: "What was the trouble at the Friedrichstrasse?—Was war los bei der Friedrichstrasse? The answer is:—"Nothing much. There were only a few soldiers there,"—which in German is translated by: —Nicht viel. Es waren nur paar Soldaten dort. The point of the jest is, that when it is said as written above in German, it means just that, but if the "p" of "paar" were capitalized (and it sounds the same), it would mean: "There were only Paar's soldiers there."

(Does some word in the language puzzle you? Put your question to "Languages in the News" in care of this newspaper.)

Prepare For panel Discussion Of Survey-Population Study

Federation to Report on Population Survey

A preview report of a survey and population study sponsored by the Jewish Community Federation will be given at the federation's 14th annual meeting at the Jewish Community Center Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The survey is being conducted by Dr. Frederick Massarik, director of research of Los Angeles Jewish Federation-Council and an associate professor at UCLA.

Following the report there will be a panel discussion by Charles Litwin, president of the Jewish Family Service and chairman of the study-sponsoring social planning committee; Dr. Elbert Kronick, president of the Jewish Community Center, and Eugene Lentzner, chairman of the federation allocation committee, with Emanuel Gyler, chairman of the program committee, as moderator.

At the meeting first steps will be taken to put into operation new by-laws recently adopted by the federation.

The meeting will also include annual reports by Irving Kern, federation president and Morton J. Gaba, executive director.

The federation comprises the Jewish communities of Long Beach, Lakewood and Rossmoor.

Cadillac

The word for it is..."Masterful!"

"Superb" . . . "luxurious" . . . "beautiful" . . . "brilliant"—there are many words that might be used to describe the new 1962 Cadillac car.

But if we were to select from the Cadillac vocabulary the one word that most completely captures the essence of this latest "car of cars"—we would choose "masterful".

For here is a motor car that has already established its mastery in everything that makes an automobile good and fine and desirable.

In appearance, it is clearly a Cadillac masterpiece—graceful, clean-lined and elegant.

In performance, it is a revelation. Its power plant is a reservoir of silken power—and the car rides and handles with an instinctive ease and sureness.

In safety, it is in a class of its own—with a host of exclusive features, including remarkable new side cornering lights.

In craftsmanship, it is simply without rival. Every 1962 Cadillac will undergo more than 1400 inspections to assure its quality and goodness.

On and on the list could go. But however lengthy, that list could never replace the experience of inspecting the car and driving it.

Your dealer will happily let you do both.

Once you have, you'll understand why the word has gone out so quickly that this is the finest motor car ever to bear the Cadillac name.

Translate Better, Says Vicki

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Singer-actress Vicki Benet, a Paris-born doll, believes much world tension could be relieved if translators were a little more accurate and more peaceful.

Vicki speaks Italian, German, French, Russian and English, the last three like a native. Her knowledge of Russian has been used by Radio Free Europe for broadcasts behind the Iron Curtain.

"I have listened to most of Khrushchev's tirades," she says. "I don't think his speeches should—or can be—translated on the spot. He speaks a peasant Russian while most of his translators use an aristocratic form of the language.

* * * *

"SOMETIMES his translators soften what he says, other times they give an entirely different meaning to his words—sometimes this is good, mostly it is bad."

Vicki, daughter of a Russian opera singer, argues that world tension is such that teams of scholars should work on translations of major policy statements, from both the White House and the Kremlin.

"I have read Tass texts in Russian of President Kennedy's statements," she says. "Hasty translations have given his remarks an entirely different interpretation than the English version. I hate to see a nuclear war erupt over semantics."

* * * *

VICKI DOESN'T pose as an expert on world affairs.

"I speak only as a statisic—one of millions—if someone pushes the button in anger."

As a singer, she has traveled the world.

LANGUAGE EXPERT

Vicki Benet is a curvy (36-23-35) Paris-born singer and actress who speaks five languages, including Russian. She thinks there'd be less tension in the world if the translators were more accurate and peaceful.—(SP photo.)

Stock Ticker on Set --It's in the Contract

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Miss Myrna Fahey believes she's the only TV actress whose contract provides that she shall have a stock ticker on the set.

"That sounds like a phony story," this reporter said recently to Myrna, the 21-year-old Elizabeth Taylor look-alike from Southwest Harbor, Me., who plays Leon Ames' daughter in the new CBS series, "Father of the Bride."

"Yes, it does," nodded Myrna, sitting with me in the King Cole Room at the St. Regis.

"But it's in my contract, and though I don't actually have it yet, I'm going to have it within two weeks."

* * * *

IT MAY BE a clue to the kind of actresses that are around today.

"I never dreamed I'd become interested in finance," Myrna said, "I did take an investment course in the U.C.L.A. extension summer school but that wasn't what did it.

"I bought some industrial stock," she explained.

MYRNA

(A man in the next booth was observed to be listening to our conversation. It's well known that pretty girls get very good stock tips.)

"I bought it at 60 and it went to 145," Myrna said. "It split for the second time."

"Well!" I said. "Did you get the tip on it from a man?"

"Yes," she admitted.

* * * *

I WAS ABOUT to say "Ah HA!" when Myrna said:

"My brother. He's with that company. He's in what they call 'inertial guidance.' It sounds like some kind of psychiatry but it has to do with guided missiles."

Myrna then went on babbling about growth stocks and added, "I dabble lot in new issues . . ."

* * * *

THIS IS MYRNA'S second crack at fame. Five years ago, just after she'd graduated from high school in Maine and gone to Hollywood, she entered the Miss Rheingold contest and became one of the six finalists.

Still, she'd lost, so she studied acting, got into the movie, "The Story on Page One," and then co-starred with Vincent Price in "House of Usher."

"Somebody happened to see me on 'Sunset Strip' and asked for me for the series. I was skiing in Aspen, Colo., at the time.

* * * *

"MY AGENT phoned me there and I said, 'We just got 10 inches of snow and I can't leave now.' They said 'Do you want it or not?' So when I came in to talk to them about the pilot I still wasn't sure.

"They said they had to do the pilot next day and they would give me 5 minutes to make up my mind."

She made it up in 3 minutes—

Stand-in for Cooper Says He's Making His Last Film

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The late Gary Cooper's stand-in and pal is back in pictures for the first time since that longtime movie favorite died.

Tall, angular and bearing a slight resemblance to "Coop", Jay (Slim) Talbot is working as a cowboy in "Who Shot Liberty Valance," directed by John Ford and co-starring James Stewart, John Wayne and Vera Miles.

"I'm not going to work any more," said Talbot. "When Cooper folded up, I'd had it. I'm only doing this picture because Mr. Ford has been very nice to me."

* * * *

TALBOT and his wife live on a ranch about 55 miles from Hollywood. He's been an outdoorsman all his life and came to Hollywood in 1923 as a rodeo rider and stunt man.

Sitting at lunch in the Paramount Studio commissary, Talbot recalled the day years ago when he first met Cooper.

"I came down here in 1923 when I was working in rodeos," he said. "In those days all the rodeo guys came down here in the winter to keep from starving. We'd work with Tom Mix, Buck Jones and those guys.

Senior Citizens' Gains Hailed

A battery of California Democratic Party wheels Saturday hailed social welfare accomplishments of the 1961 State Legislative session at a rally of the California Institute of Social Welfare here.

Approximately 1000 oldsters in Morgan Hall — some traveling here from San Diego—heard Lt. Gov. Glenn Anderson, Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk; State Senator Richard Richards, Assemblyman Joseph Kennick and pension advocate George McLain tell accomplishments and plans for the future.

Anderson called the new social welfare program a "declaration of emancipation for California's 250,000 old age pensioners."

Atty. Gen. Mosk, noting that the Democratic party and administration in California strongly backed the Kennedy program for health care for the aged under social security, urged support for the measure stating: "The life you may extend may be your own."

The meeting's announced intent was to celebrate legislation passed and to "kick off a new drive by organized senior citizens to make voting power of the elderly a potent influence in the 1962 elections."

On the national scene, the Social Security hospitalization and health care bill (H.R. 4222) by Rep. Cecil King (D-Calif.), will be pushed. Now in the House Ways and Means Committee, the elderly citizens group will start a letter-writing and personal visit program to congressmen to get a discharge petition action. This action would bring the bill out of committee onto the floor of the House.

All the speakers had words of praise for McLain, chairman of the institute.

Two of the scheduled speakers did not appear: U.S. Sen. Russell Long (D-La.) and County Supervisor Burton Chace.

Nigerians Rap U.S. Segregation

LAGON, Nigeria (UPI)—The opposition party action group called on the government Saturday to make a strong protest to the United States over the refusal of a Maryland restaurant to serve a Nigerian diplomat.

Newspapers here were also critical of the rebuff which occurred last Wednesday when Aliyu Y. Bida, education attache in the Nigerian Consulate at New York, was asked to leave the restaurant.

Contract NROTC Term Increased

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Navy announced that college students who enroll in the Contract Naval Reserve Officer Training Corp will be required henceforth to obligate themselves for three instead of two years of active duty. Contract students take naval science courses and receive approximately $27 a month.

$5,000 Recovered in Pile of Trash

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Raymond Martin, 41, dug through 10,000 pounds of trash and came up with $5,000.

Martin, a hardware store owner, sifted through the pile at an incinerator to recover his store receipts.

He took the money home in a paper bag to wait for the bank to open. His wife placed it on top of a trash basket for a moment. The maid scooped up the basket—and the bag—and handed it to the trash collector.

49ers Grab 17-15 Win

By AL LARSON

SAN DIEGO — Pistol Pete Yoder's passing arm and Tom Turrill's golden toe enabled Long Beach State College to launch its CCAA title bid on a successful note as the 49ers nipped San Diego State, 17-15, before 8,015 onlookers here Saturday night.

Yoder's 12-yard touchdown pass to Bob Heberer with three minutes remaining in the third period stretched the 49ers lead to 17-8.

But it was Turrill's 20-yard field goal with the second half eight minutes old that provided the difference as Long Beach locked up its second straight win of the year.

* * * *

THE 49ERS opened the scoring in the first period when Dallas Moon squirted seven yards and Turrill booted his sixth perfect conversion of the season without a miss.

The drive was launched when Moon picked off his fourth interception in four games. Steve Hartman, who spearheaded the 57 - yard march covering nine plays, burst 20 yards to the 11 to set up Moon's payoff scamper.

After the 49er fullback gained three to the eight and Hank Edney picked up one, Moon went in for the score.

The Aztecs came to life early in the third period when reserve quarterback Wayne Sevier whipped his charges 52 yards following the second-half kickoff.

Sevier spurted the final 12 yards on a keeper for the first of his two touchdowns. He passed to Mario Mendez for the two-point conversion which put the Aztecs ahead 8-7.

The 49ers came right back, marching 53 yards before sputtering on the Aztec 12. On fourth down, Turrill dropped back and booted his all - important three - pointer from the 20. Long Beach now led 10-7.

Following the ensuing kickoff, Sevier committed the first of his crucial fumbles and Long Beach capitalized on both. Hartman fell on the first on San Diego's 41 and eight plays later Yoder found Heberer on the goal line. Turrill added the PAT to make it 17-8.

* * * *

LONG BEACH'S onsides-kick backfired and San Diego took over on its own 44. Eight plays later Sevier powered into the end zone from the three and Vic Starks' conversion narrowed the gap to its final count.

A final Aztec drive with two minutes left was choked off when Sevier fumbled on Long Beach's 19. Curtis Bennett pounced on the ball to cave in the Aztecs' last-ditch hope. The 49ers ran out the clock with the aid of a roughing-the-kicker violation.

The victory marked Long Beach's third straight in four meetings with San Diego.

Beautiful Fake . . . And a Beautiful Touchdown

Iowa Fights Off USC Bid in 35-34 Win

By JEROME HALL

'Twas a far, far better thing they did than they had ever done before, so you will pardon the USC football team for being satisfied with defeat following a 35-34 setback Saturday at the trembling hands of the national leaders from Iowa.

Unranked and berated USC met the Iowa Hawkeyes at their own game of power tactics and did everything but chop the corn kings into bite size as a national television audience watched tense drama in the Coliseum.

USC had the Coliseum audience of 30,263 standing at the finish as it drove for a touchdown in the final seconds. Then, with the ball game riding on the outcome of their two-point conversion try, they missed with a pass attempt and no one in sight seemed to mind too much that down the chute went the collegiate upset of the year.

* * * *

IOWA CAME to town as the nation's No. 1-ranked team to face a rag-tag bunch of floppy-eared USC kids weakened by injuries and battered by critics.

The team which Trojan coach John McKay has insisted is a good one but which sputtered through its first two contests, started Saturday with Iowa running up a 21-0 lead.

Then, as if humiliated in front of all those people peering into television sets across the country, the Trojans found the missing chord. They became a genuine football team.

They rared back from the 21-0 deficit with a pair of touchdowns within five minutes at the close of the first half, smothered the Hawkeyes at the outset of the second half and closed to 20-21.

BUT A FATAL lapse in pass defense which gave the Iowans three TDs and was directly responsible for the

MARIS' HOMER GIVES YANKS EDGE

Ford Faces O'Toole Today

By GEORGE LEDERER
I. P-T Staff Writer

CINCINNATI—"If I get the one hit that counts, I don't care if I get any other."

Roger Maris said it after he got the hit that counted for the Yankees Saturday, but he said it in monotones unlike a World Series hero.

The newly crowned Sultan of Swat sat subdued and sullen in front of his locker and it was not modesty that held back his reaction to a ninth - inning, game - winning home run. To Maris, the crippling blow to Bob Purkey and the Cincinnati Reds was no bigger or better than any of the 61 he hit during the season, even if this one did mean a 3-2 Yankee victory in the pivotal third game.

* * * *

THIS WAS, in fact, Maris' first hit of the Series in 11 tries and what did he have to be happy about?

Photographers pleaded with Maris to smile. "You want me to smile? For what?"

Reporters asked if this might mean the end of his slump, if perhaps he was doing something different at the plate. "I don't know what I'm doing, to be truthful," he snapped. "I made three outs the first three times up and I did it seven other times in the first two games.

"If I ever start hitting, you'll know about it."

This was Roger Maris, the home run king whose crown has created such mental pressure that only the end of the Series might relieve it.

* * * *

THE REST of the Yankee clubhouse found reason to be professionally cheerful about a 2-1 edge in the Series with Whitey Ford, the first game winner, scheduled to face Jim O'Toole in a rematch this afternoon.

The Yankees were made 4-1 favorites to win the Series and the oddsmakers also picked them at 7½-5 to win today.

Smiles were in evidence particularly around the dressing cubicles of winning pitcher Luis Arroyo, starter Bill Stafford, home run pinch-hitter John Blanchard and manager Ralph Houk.

Even surprise starter Mickey Mantle, his hip still painful, found reason to be happy, although he struck out twice and was hitless in four trips.

"I felt much better than I thought I would," he said. "I hope I can try again tomorrow."

Houk was pleased with Mantle's performance "even if he didn't connect. He took a lot of good swings and

LBCC TURNS BACK EAST L.A., 22-16

By BOB SHIBLEY

Long Beach City College overcame a rash of fumbles and interceptions Saturday night to defeat East Los Angeles, 22-16, in the Metropolitan Conference opener at Veterans Stadium.

A solid three-touchdown favorite at game time, the Vikings held a 22-0 advantage with 14:59 left in the second quarter but saw every offensive thrust thereafter thwarted by sloppy play.

When Lonzo Irvin scored two touchdowns and Dee Andrews one, all within a six minute period, it appeared that the Vikings were off on one of their customary routs.

* * * *

LBCC coach Jim Stangeland began substituting freely at this point and even the reserves held their own against the Huskies as the Viking adjourned at halftime with this 22-point bulge.

The third quarter, however, was a different story.

East Los Angeles took the kickoff and marched 67 yards in five plays. John Jones' three-yard run and conversion scamper capped the march.

Jones also scored the second Huskie TD as he caught a 23-yard aerial from Mike Uruhuru with 30 seconds left in the third period. This score was made possible when an Ed Reddick fumble was recovered by East L. A. on it.

Long Beach took the ensuing kickoff and marched to the E.L.A. 14 before Mike Langie picked off a Reddick pass. Such was the story of the game for the Vikings: fumbles and interceptions.

The first score of the game came with 5:37 left in the initial period as Irvin bulldozed four yards up the middle. Andrews rans the PAT.

When Dick Wurth made the first of his two interceptions two plays later, the Vikings were on their way to another score. This time it was Andrews, who scampered 23 yards around right end. Dee also scored the PAT on a pass from Reddick.

One second into the second period, the Vikings closed out their scoring, this one also set up by a Wurth interception. After a double reverse, with Willie Martin running, carried to the E.L.A. three, Irvin again went up the middle. This time a Reddick to Andrews pass failed for the conversion.

When not losing the ball via fumbles and interceptions —which happened six times in all—the Vikings did manage to block well enough for Andrews to set an all-time school rushing record.

Dazzling Dee gained 122 yards on 16 tries to run his two-year (13 game) total to 1,418, two yards better than the previous best set in the 1950-51 seasons by George Van Zant.

Bucks Shake Bruins, 13-3

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Ohio State finally shook its sophomore halfbacks loose Saturday for fourth-period touchdowns in a come-from-behind 13-3 victory over UCLA in the first meeting between the sectional powers.

The Buckeyes, with their vaunted power attack stymied, mixed junior Bill Mrukowski's passing with Paul Warfield's fancy running for an eight-play 65-yard drive, including 20 yards gained on penalties, for their first touchdown.

Ohio, aroused once it had scored, held UCLA in check after the ensuing kickoff and although hurt by a 15-yard penalty, sent halfback Matthew Snell through a big hole at right tackle untouched on a 33-yard touchdown run.

Both teams puttered around in a punting duel until late in the first half when UCLA's workhorse halfback Bobby Smith kicked a 32-yard field goal from a wide angle to give his team a 3-0 lead that stood until early in the fourth period.

The victory was the first for Ohio State, tied 7-7 by Texas Christian last Saturday. The defeat was the second in three intersectional games for UCLA this season. It opened the season with a 19-6 win over the Air Force Academy.

The crowd of 82,992 began to applaud as coach Woody Hayes put some variety into the traditional powerhouse attack.

Mrukowski completed 10 of 11 passes for 86 yards, one a key play in the first touchdown drive. Halfbacks Warfield and Snell carried the ball 26 times for 133 yards, more than UCLA's net yards rushing, and two touchdowns.

Smith, in addition to his field goal, stood out on both offense and defense. He carried the ball on 22 of the 39 Bruins' rushing plays for 82 yards and completed one of two passes for 8. He also cut off a possible third Ohio touchdown with a smashing tackle on the one-yard-line of UCLA late in the game.

USC, Iowa Had Fans Chirping

College football received a much-needed hypo Saturday when the USC Trojans sneered at Iowa's No. 1 national ranking and almost pulled off the colossal upset of the season.

A glance at the 35-34 final score would leave the casual observer to believe two pro teams had just performed. I should say two pro teams of five years ago, because the Trojans and the Hawkeyes put more action into their four quarters than the Rams and their opponents have done in many moons.

A lot of bad football was viewed by the national TV audience—Iowa constantly was plagued with offsides and backfield-in-motion penalties, while USC's play-calling continued to perplex even the most ardent beany-wearer—but the affair was interesting. And, really, what else counts when you're plunking down $3.90 to watch?

Maybe the most perplexed man in the Coliseum was Iowa's young coach, Jerry Burns, who admitted the Trojans fooled him.

"This big fullback, Wilson (Ben) is as good as any Big 10 fullback we might see all year," moaned Burns. "But he ran as the tight halfback in the other Trojan games and he caught us off guard. I'm just glad he didn't carry the ball more often."

Ben, plucked from Houston, Texas, by USC's national scouting corps, hauled the freight only eight times, but for almost an eight-yard average. Conversely, Troy's run-happy quarterback, Bill Nelsen carried an astounding 20 times for a somewhat less brilliant 1.9 yard average!

You know Burns was happy Nelsen was running, instead of the big boomer from Texas.

"The USC defense really surprised me,' sighed Burns. "The line was good and tough, especially Buncom (Frank). We'd expected him to be a tackle only, but when they pawned him off at end, he really hurt us. He stopped our running game cold.

"We found some leaks in the Trojan deep defense,—thank heavens—and three or four of our touchdowns came in the air. We pride ourselves on our running game, but we didn't run very well today."

BURNS FELT THE LOSS of All-American halfback Larry Ferguson hurt the Hawkeyes more than the Iowa advance man led us journalists to believe.

"We wouldn't have been socked with those crucial-backs-in-motion penalties if we had Ferguson," insisted Burns. "We were using two fullbacks (Joe Williams and Bill Perkins) in our No. 1 backfield and one or the other was a step in motion at the wrong times. With Ferguson gone, our timing suffered horribly."

Did Iowa let down after getting in front 21-0?

"We sure did," admitted Burns. "I always get worried when my team jumps out in front too fast. These 20-year-old kids can't stand success. On the other hand, 21 points should be enough to handle most college teams, so give USC tremendous credit for killing us in that last half."

JOHN McKAY almost tore the head off an interrogator who wondered why the Trojans settle for a one-point conversion and a tie.

"We wanted the win," roared the USC coach, "not a tie. Anyway, my kids would have gone for the two points, no matter what I had ordered."

McKay explained why the Trojans went for one-point (and missed) when behind 21-20 in the third quarter:

"I was thinking of a field goal later on, so one or two points didn't matter at that point. I knew we'd score again because I'm convinced we'll move the ball on any team in the country."

Why did the Trojans pass on their last-second two-point attempt, instead of run, with people like Wilson and Willie Brown available?

"Our last touchdown was scored on the same pass play we used for the conversion attempt," explained McKay. "We thought they'd be expecting a run, too. I didn't want to use Brown because the poor kid was too damn tired."

IN SUMMARY, the Trojans exhibited a fine line defense—Buncom, Ben Rosin, Frank Bundra and Britt Williams were as good Saturday as you'll ever see in college ranks—and a nifty running attack with Brown and Wilson.

Like the Rams, however, they won't jell into an outstanding squad until they teach their defensive backs to ward off passes, instead of picking their teeth as they've done in three games.

Likewise, the running T-quarterback (unless he's an Arnett or Willie Brown scooter) is as obsolete as a Wendell Wilkie button. When Nelsen swings out on an option play, there's no option—he just runs (for 1.95 yards-per-20-tries).

Even with the ref halting the game for TV commercials and with a Trojan kickoff man missing the ball entirely, the Iowa-USC contest was a thriller which had fans chirping like magpies. It was like old times and, everyone hopes, a forerunner of things to come!

Husky 'Secret Weapon' Clips Pitt

Third-String Soph Bullseyes Two TDs

SEATTLE (AP) — Washington loosed a secret weapon named Pete Ohler on unsuspecting Pittsburgh Saturday, and the rookie quarterback's sharp passing took the Huskies to a 22-17 intersectional football victory.

The cool young Canadian, who had not played even one down for Washington this year, whipped a 42-yard pass to end Lee Bernhardi for the deciding touchdown in the closing minutes.

The game was not quite a quarter old when Ohler, listed as a third stringer, made his first appearance. He drove the Huskies 71 yards in six plays, tossing a 22-yard pass to Nat Whitmeyer for the touchdown and then hitting Whitmeyer with a conversion toss to put Washington in front 8-0.

Less than four minutes later, he climaxed a 68-yard Husky attack by sending Whitmeyer over from the one for touchdown No. 2. He missed the conversion pass, however, and this looked like a fatal error when the Panthers rallied to tie the score before the half ended.

The late-starting Panthers finally got their attack moving in the final four minutes of the half. Richard Leeson touched it off with a 42-yard canter. With Leeson carrying the ball on nearly every play, Pittsburgh went 80 yards in nine plays, quarterback Paul Martha negotiating the final five yards. The conversion kick was blocked, but Pitt was right back when a bit of Washington strategy misfired.

* * * *

WITH ONLY a minute left, Washington kicked on third down, and the poorly punted ball went out of bounds on the Husky 36. Pitt quarterback Sam Colella pitched two first-down passes and then sent Leeson two yards for a touchdown. Martha passed to John Yaccino for the conversion to tie the score.

After a scoreless third period, Pittsburgh apparently wrapped up the decision when Fred Cox booted a 21-yard field goal. But then Ohler came off the Washington bench to connect with his payoff pass to Bernhardi.

Gold's Bears Tie Missouri

COLUMBIA (UPI) — Quarterback Randy Gold passed and ran the sophomoric California Bears to a 14-14 tie with the heavily-favored Missouri Tigers Saturday in an intersectional football game played before 42,000 fans.

Gold, who was sidelined for California's first two games this season, guided the Bears to a second-quarter touchdown with halfback Jerry Scattini carrying the ball across from one yard out. Gold ran 13 yards for the second California score early in the third quarter, the touchdown being set up on a 77-yard gallop by Alan Nelson.

* * * *

MISSOURI, last year's Orange Bowl champions and the sixth-ranked team in this week's United Press International poll, rallied its forces for a fourth quarter touchdown and two-point conversion to stave off defeat.

Quarterback Ron Taylor ran one yard for Missouri's touchdown in the first period and then scurried across from four yards out for the fourth quarter score.

Trailing 14-12, Missouri went for the two-point conversion and sophomore halfback Daryl Krugman whipped around right end to tie it up.

Missouri, victorious in its first two games, moved the ball well on the ground in the first half and marched 89 yards for its first touchdown. The Tigers passed only once in the drive, with Taylor throwing to end Larry Nichols for 17 yards and a first down on the California three. Three plays later, Taylor plunged across.

California safety man Larry Balliette contributed to the upset by intercepting three Missouri passes. A fourth Balliette interception was nullified by a penalty.

Gold accounted for all of California's passing yardage, completing 7 of 13.

Taylor completed the same number for Missouri, picking up 94 yards.

Mudersbach Breaks National Drag Record

Lefty Mudersbach of Pico Rivera won the Western Drag Strip Championship Saturday night before 8,419 spectators at Lions Drag Strip. Mudersbach defeated Santa Ana's Lane Shubert in new national record time of 8.54 seconds. The old mark of 8.62 seconds was held by Tom McEwen of Long Beach.

Bob Muravez took top speed honors, setting a new strip record of 181.08 mph.

Longhorns Wallop Wash. State, 41-8

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Tailback James Saxton led the fifth-ranked Texas Longhorns to a runaway 41-8 victory Saturday night over Washington State's Cougars with two touchdowns, one of them a brilliant 56-yard run.

Saxton's break-away run and a 58-yard pass from sophomore quarterback Duke Carlisle to wingback Bobby Nunis were the only maneuvers to bring the crowd of 40,000 to its feet as the Longhorns played mostly uninspired ball while registering their third consecutive victory.

The second half was only a minute old when Saxton angled off right guard and broke for the sidelines on his 56-yard scramper. He crossed the goal line 10 yards in front of the nearest defender. The skinny, 160-pounder made the game's first touchdown early in the first period on a 10-yard sprint around right end.

TEXAS' sophomores mauled the Cougars in the final period, scoring twice.

Texas gained 371 yards on the ground and picked up 175 more passing.

SPARTAN YEARLINGS RUN WILD

First Loss for Stanford, 31-3

EAST LANSING, Mich., (UPI) — Michigan State's speedy sophomore backs, led by Dewey Lincoln and Sherman Lewis, romped over Stanford's previously unbeaten Indians Saturday, 31-3.

With the yearlings carrying the load, the Spartans rolled for 24 points in the second half after sloppy play in the first half held the score to 7-0.

Lewis, a 5 ft. 8 in., 154-pound, speedster, slipped around left end for six yards for the first MSU score early in the second period. Lincoln scampered 20 yards around end for a touchdown in the final period.

Stanford's only scoring came on a 40-yard field goal by Stan Lindskog in the third period.

MSU sophomore halfbacks Ron Rubick and Herman Johnson and quarterback Dick Proebstle also ripped off big gains as the Indians faded against the MSU depth in the second half.

Lincoln got 93 yards in 10 carries and Lewis 72 yards in 13.

Proebstle sneaked over from one in the final period and fullback George Saimes ran three yards for MSU's other touchdown. End Art Brandstatter kicked three extra points and took a shovel pass from quarterback Pete Smith for another two points. MSU also got a safety in the final period when Ed Lochamer tackled Stanford's Chuck Butler in the end zone.

Smith's father, Archie, 47, died of a heart attack in the stands while watching his son direct much of the Spartan attack. Smith was told of his father's death when the game ended.

Stephens' 2nd Half Heroics Overcome Webfoots, 14-7

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Quarterback Sandy Stephens sped over for two touchdowns in the second half Saturday to give Minnesota its first 1961 victory, a 14-7 comeback effort over Oregon.

The smaller but quicker Oregon squad played inspired football the first half, stopping the defending national champions four times inside the Oregon 30-yard line and finally scoring a touchdown with only 30 seconds left in the half.

Minnesota got rolling in the third period, with Stephens, halfback Bill Munsey and fullback Judge Dickson grinding out 80 yards in 14 plays. Stephens went over from the 8-yard line for the score and pitched out to halfback Jim Cairns for a two-point conversion end an 8-7 lead.

Early in the fourth period Minnesota end John Campbell pounced on a fumble by Oregon halfback Dennis Jackson on the Ducks' 18. Five plays later Stephens swept three yards to score. The kick for extra point was blocked.

Oregon quarterback Doug Post got hot in the second period, hitting three passes only to have the drive stall when a pass on a fake field goal missed the mark.

After Stephens netted only six yards on a punt into the wind, Post hit another long pass and then fired a strike to halfback Mike Gaechter in the end zone, six yards away.

That score stood up, largely through defensive efforts of guard Micky Ording and tackle Steve Barnett, until the Gophers caught fire after intermission.

BAKER'S PASSING, POISE PUNISH IDAHO

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI) — The powerful running of sophomore fullback Bruce Williams gave Oregon State a needed punch and quarterback Terry Baker provided the passes and poise Saturday as the Beavers routed outmanned Idaho, 44-6.

Baker, having his best day of the year, threw two touchdown passes and scored once himself.

But it was Williams, a 199-pounder starting for the first time, who got the Beaver attack rolling. He packed the ball 10 times in Oregon State's 88-yard touchdown drive. It was climaxed by Baker's eight-yard scoring pass to end Roger Johnson.

In all, Williams carried the ball 21 times for 117 yards before he was taken out in the third period. He gained 83 yards in the first half.

other two, was the Trojan downfall.

IF, IF, IF. . .

That's the only way you can recount the final offensive play of the game for USC, which was a try for two points on the conversion after Troy had matched the giants from the Midwest touchdown for touchdown. If QB Bill Nelsen had thrown the conversion pass to end Hal Bedsole a split-second sooner, in the words of the intended receiver, "We would have had it all."

And if Nelsen had looked out into the corner of the end zone to see Willie Brown standing unguarded, waiting, it would have been 36-35.

And it is quite likely power-packed fill-in fullback Ben Wilson could have bulldozed his way through the weary defense.

But the PAT play went this way:

Nelsen flipped a little pass across the middle toward Bedsole on what was the same play that had accounted for the TD seconds before. Iowa halfback Sammy Harris got a hand in front of it and deflected it upward.

As it fell, only a step away from Bedsole, he was leaning the wrong way. It fell. Thud. Plunk. Ugh.

While the Iowa dressing quarters looked like a losers', McKay held forth in USC's amid major clamor and commented, "Iowa is not a typical Big Ten team—it's much better."

* * * *

USC'S DEFENSES were geared to stop Hawkeye QB Wilburn Hollis and Iowa's were pointed toward halting Willie Brown's wide runs. SC was successful, holding Hollis to 63 yards net, including one 50-yard run.

Though Brown, the Long Beach prep sensation of recent seasons, was held touchdown-less, he gained 99 yards —more than any other man on the field.

Troy's concentration on halting the Iowa running opened up the deep secondary, however, and they got stung. Ouch!

Statistics told the same story as the final score. Iowa held a seven-yard advantage in total offense. The Hawkeyes held a 229 to 220 advantage rushing and USC had a 156 to 154 edge through the air.

In truth, USC had many chances to win the game and when the team begins drills Monday for next week's encounter at South Bend with Notre Dame, McKay will go through a long list of flubs.

* * * *

BUT THE SHEER drama of the final minutes will erase all the mistakes, in the minds of the alumni.

Troy began the frantic finish when, behind 35-20, it struck for a 71-yard touchdown on a Nelsen-Bedsole pass—a play of beauty. Nelsen passed to Bedsole for the double PAT.

Now down only seven points, USC smothered the conservative Iowa running game and end-tackle Frank Buncom, a giant all day, recovered Hollis' fumble on the Iowa 28.

Wilson plowed for eight yards and Nelsen got a first down on the 16. Wilson went to the 10.

With one minute left and USC running out of times out to stop the clock, Nelsen fumbled back to the 15. But he fell on it. And with gigantic luck, Iowa was penalized to the five for being offside.

* * * *

AFTER AN incomplete pass to Brown in the end zone, Nelsen hit 6-foot-5 Bedsole one step inside the end zone and even the usually-staid press box went into tumult.

Iowa scored first on a fake field goal after USC had staged a goal line stand on the six that pushed the Hawkeyes back to the 20. From field goal formation Hollis threw a screen pass to Williams who zig-zagged through defensive backfield.

The second TD came after Iowa recovered a Willie Brown fumble at the Trojan 44. On first down Hollis flipped a scoring pass to fullback Joe Williams who was alone on the 10, far behind defender Nelsen. It was a fine play by Hollis, a product of the original Boys Town, who was facing the opposite sideline and twisted around with his throwing motion. The Trojan defensive backfield had rotated to cover Hollis' fake.

TD No. 3 made it take on the complexion of a rout. Defensive standout Jim Maples, on his first play of offense, fumbled the kickoff after the second touchdown and Iowa took over on the Troy 23. In five plays they had the score, Williams circling end on another of his twisting runs.

* * * *

THAT'S THE point where any football team could be excused for folding its blankets and heading for a steam bath, but that's the point where USC became a full-fledged team.

Maples got the first Troy TD drive rolling with a 30-yard kickoff return to the USC 44. Third-string fullback Rich McMahon, the Wilmington boy elevated to a starting assignment in the new series of injuries, ripped off 28 yards up the middle. McMahon, who also is out with injuries now, added two more and Brown gained 17 on two carries. Nelsen ran two keepers to the one yard line and hucked the final yard by leaping over the middle.

* * * *

WILSON provided the momentum for the second touchdown within the next five minutes. After Troy swarmed all over the Iowans and forced a punt, they went on the prowl from the Hawkeyes 43. Wilson gained 19 and 3 yards, Brown went up the middle for 16 and with a first down Nelsen ran three consecutive QB keepers that got to the 3.

McKay rushed second-string QB Pete Beathard into the game and he worked the keeper for a score with 35 seconds left in the half.

Utes Nip Ariz. State With Last-Ditch TD

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Utah scored on a 38-yard pass in the final four minutes of play Saturday night to defeat an underdog Arizona State University team, 28-26.

ASU had taken the lead only two minutes before and appeared on the way to an upset victory.

But the Utes swept 82 yards on just four plays for the touchdown. Halfback Dennis Zito ignited the rally with a 42-yard run.

Yanks 4-1 Series Favorites

looked exceptionally good, considering how long he's been out. Whether he plays tomorrow will depend entirely upon his reaction."

Little Luis, unwanted by the Reds two years ago, worked the last two innings in relief of Stafford and Bud Daley and held the Reds to one hit. It was not quite that simple, however.

The one hit was a ninth-inning pinch double by Chico Cardenas after Arroyo had struck out Gene Freese to start the inning. Cardenas rattled the scoreboard in left-center and the assembled 32,589 Red rooters were hoping that Arroyo also might be rattled.

* * * *

ARROYO admitted that he had "butterflies, you might say" when he made a wild throw and allowed two runs in the eighth inning of the second game. "Today, I felt better, much better, and I hope to feel that way the rest of the Series."

Arroyo himself stopped pinch-hitter Gus Bell's drive to the mound and threw him out for the final out after shortstop Tony Kubek had made a fine play to retire pinch-hitter Dick Gernert while keeping Cardenas at second.

Stafford, while unable to match Purkey in the first seven innings, "pitched a helluva game" in the words of his manager "and deserves a lot of credit."

"I can't give him enough credit," said Houk. "Here's a 23-year-old kid starting his first World Series game and in a strange park, at that. He did a great job."

Stafford allowed seven of the Reds' eight hits and both runs before Daley came in to retire Vada Pinson for the final out with two Reds aboard in the seventh inning.

* * * *

A THROWING error by Stafford helped the Reds to their first run in the third inning, although it was earned. Elio Chacon, after fouling a pitch over the left field wall, surprised the Yankees and bunted.

Stafford turned a 15-foot single into a 180-foot error by throwing the ball into the right field bullpen. Chacon scored easily from second on Frank Robinson's first Series hit, a double off the center field wall.

With Purkey pitching magnificently, Chacon's run stood for six innings. Until Kubek led off the seventh with a single to center, Purkey had allowed only two Yankees to reach base: Yogi Berra on a walk in the second and Elston Howard on a double in the fifth.

* * * *

CHACON, who dashed home with the Reds' lead run on a passed ball in the second game, was to figure in the Yankees' tying run, also accomplished with the help of a passed ball.

Kubek took second as a Purkey knuckler ticked catcher John Edwards' mitt and scored when Berra blooped a single off Chacon's glove in front of the charging Robinson in right field.

It was a tough play for either Chacon or Robinson and Reds manager Fred Hutchinson could find fault with neither.

Purkey's lead was restored in the home half of the inning as Edwards doubled, pinch-hitter Jerry Lynch drew an intentional walk and Eddie Kasko singled to make it 2-1.

Then came the Yankees' famous five o'clock lightning, slightly ahead of schedule perhaps because Cincinnati is on Eastern standard time. Home runs, producers of all but one of the Yankees' seven runs in the Series to date, shattered Purkey's magic in two pitches and turned his six-hitter into bitter defeat.

* * * *

BLANCHARD, batting for Daley, drove Purkey's first pitch into the right field bleachers with two out in the eighth and Maris added the clincher into the same sector to start the ninth.

"I had no intentions of hitting it out of the park," said Blanchard. "But I did make up my mind to swing at the first pitch if it was near the plate. He generally doesn't start you with a knuckler and I was right. It was a slider."

Purkey, explaining that "I'm only human and not a machine," admitted that he made a mistake on Blanchard. "The pitch missed by a couple of inches. What can you do? It's a game of inches.

"Give the Yankee scouts some credit. They must have known something about me the way they were swinging at first pitches."

San Jose St. Grinds Out 14-0 Victory

SAN JOSE (AP)—San Jose State end Oscar Donahue blocked a punt in the final minute of the first half Saturday night, starting the Spartans to a 14-0 victory over Colorado State.

He smashed through and knocked down Roy Schubert's attempted kick at the Coloradans' 21 with 51 seconds to go before intermission. Three plays later quarterback Chon Gallegos hit Donahue with a touchdown pass from the same 21-yard stripe.

The Spartans scored their second touchdown on a 16-yard left end sweep by halfback Phil Clifton. Clifton also passed for the two-point conversion. Gallegos hit Chuck Elder on a 43-yard pass play for the big gainer that put the Spartans in position for Clifton's run.

SCALPERS BUSY, BUT SO ARE CINCY POLICE

CINCINNATI (AP)—While the Cincinnati Reds and the New York Yankees battled it out, the law also had plenty to do with the World Series Saturday.

Judge Clarence Denning in police court fined a 68-year-old parking meter salesman $54 for trying to peddle World Series tickets at a markup of $42.80 each.

Remarked Judge Denning sympathetically:

"If I had tickets and someone offered me $50 for them I think I would be tempted to sell them."

Lewis Glenn Wilkin was arrested after he tried to sell twelve $7.20 tickets to a detective for $600. Judge Denning ordered police to return the tickets to their owner.

Fifty-two detectives were assigned Saturday to scout bars, streets, hotels and buses for law violators, while almost 100 uniformed police kept an eye on things around Crosley Field.

Noren Agrees With Reds--Yanks Lucky

By IRV NOREN

(Former New York Yankee outfielder Irv Noren is giving Independent, Press-Telegram readers his views on each World Series game).

CINCINNATI—The Cincinnati Reds are a long way from dead. They know—and the entire baseball world knows—that the New York Yanks are very fortunate to be leading the World Series, 2-1.

I went into the Reds' dressing room after Saturday's comeback 3-2 Yankee victory to see for myself if Fred Hutchinson's battlers had their chins down.

There was no black crepe hanging over the lockers, nobody was crying over spilt milk. The Reds' attitude was this: "We've played the Yanks even all the way; we've stayed with them every inning; our pitching is great; we've got the fire and the spirit; the Yanks are lucky to be ahead."

* * * *

I THINK this interpretation is just about the true state of affairs. That tremendous threat of a home run through so many spots in the Yankee lineup is the difference so far.

Johnny Blanchard's homer which tied the game in the eighth inning and Roger Maris' home run in the ninth which won are examples of this lone Yankee advantage. The Yanks have scored only one run on anything but a homer.

True, most of us picked the Yanks to win the series mainly because of this home run strength, but when one sits through three straight demonstrations of this feverish Red battling and steady pitching, there has to be realization that New York is fortunate to be in command.

The Reds have been forcing the issue in every game. They run the bases with more daring, have made more scoring chances, and have fought their hearts out on defense.

* * * *

THIS HUSTLE actually produced one of the bad breaks the Reds suffered Saturday when Elio Chacon and Frank Robinson collided on Yogi Berra's looper which scored the first Yankee run. Costly as that was, you can't criticize hustle.

There was another example of the Yanks' good fortune in the ninth when Leo Cardenas hit a ball that was headed for Pittsburgh except that the 50-foot scoreboard got in its way to prevent the score from being tied.

The Reds even feel that Whitey Ford, who was so masterful in beating them in the opener, was a bit lucky. The ball Vada Pinson hit to center off him in New York would be a homer here and the Reds intend to go at Ford today with confidence.

Don't be surprised if Mickey Mantle has to take a rest again today. He is suffering plenty.

* * * *

I THINK it is quite a compliment to Jim O'Toole, opening day Reds' loser, that Hutchinson is sticking with him to oppose Ford today. There are some who think it would be smart to switch to Joey Jay who did so well in winning the second game.

Hutchinson is showing his balance by sticking with his series rotation. He is letting O'Toole know he pitched a fine game in his opener. Hutchinson's way of maintaining spirit and confidence is very commendable.

The Yanks came out of the 3-2 victory respecting Bob Purkey. They were under instructions to go for Purkey's first pitch, but instead they took his first offering time and again.

In-Field and Out

Purkey Wanted 3 Runs, Lost With 2

By GEORGE LEDERER
I.P-T Staff Writer

CINCINNATI—Bob Purkey even in defeat is one pitcher who is not allergic to bandbox ball parks.

"Give me three runs," says the Reds' knuckleball artist," and I'll take my chances on topping the Yankees or any other team in this park. We should score plenty of runs here. That's why I prefer to pitch here."

"I wouldn't even mind pitching at Wrigley Field in L.A. I'll take those runs any time."

The 32-year-old Purkey is as confident as any pitcher could dream to be. Because he has faith in his ability, he controls the game, but by the same token can leave himself open to criticism.

"The catcher calls the pitches, but I control the game," says Purkey. "I decline whether or not I want to throw a particular pitch like the knuckleball."

Purkey decided to throw a knuckleball to Mickey Mantle in the seventh inning Saturday with one out and Tony Kubek on first base. It failed to break, eluded catcher John Edwards and allowed Kubek to move to into scoring position for the tying run. Purkey was not reluctant to throw the knuckler in a jam.

"I can't worry about the ball getting by the catcher, I tell myself. I say that it's my job to throw it and it's the catcher's job to get it."

Purkey says he has been "known as knuckleball pitcher for three years, but I've been one for only seven games. Until recently, my slider has been my best pitch. A few weeks ago, I threw 87 knucklers out of 110 pitches against Pittsburgh, but that was only because I found myself in a rut. Nothing else worked.

"In the next game, my other stuff was good and I threw only 40 knucklers. In the last game of the season, I pitched six innings and used only six knuckleballs, all strikes.

"The trouble with throwing a knuckler is in making it break. If it doesn't break, it's worse than a hanging curve ball. Fortunately, it came to me pretty quick. I can control about 28 out of 30, but I was wild with it today."

* * * *

Series notes, quotes and anecdotes:

Yogi Berra inspected the steep terrace leading to the leftfield wall, shook his head and said, "It reminds me of the hill where I used to live in St. Louis." The sloping outfield, unique in the major leagues, has been the scene of some comical situations.

Gene Freese, now the Reds' third baseman, was reminded of his first encounter with the terrace as a Pittsburgh outfielder. "I chased a ball across the terrace, toward the scoreboard in left-center. There's a door leading to the scoreboard and I didn't notice that the attendant had left it open.

"Well, I had to keep my eye on the ball, which was drifting toward center and I just kept running. Suddenly, there was darkness all around me. I had run inside the scoreboard."

Crosley Field was dressed in a new white coat of paint. . . . If was so new that the arms railings and the benches in the visiting clubhouse were sticky. . . . Some of the Yankees took home a permanent souvenir from Friday's workout on the seats of their pants.

Sign greeting arrivals at the Cincinnati airport: "L. A. seats more, but Cincy beats more."

Yankee manager Ralph Houk said it wasn't a case of Mickey Mantle asking to play Saturday. "I asked him, 'Do you think you can play?'"

Bobby Bragan, who'll return to the coaching lines at Houston next season, is willing to bet that more players will be drafted from the Dodgers and Phillies than from any other expansion list.

Once Over Lightly

Baseball Taking Care of Its Own

Now that baseball's pension plan is on solid footing and with more and more money rolling in all the time, steps are being taken to expand benefits for players who reach the major leagues and stay longer than just for a cup of coffee.

Right now, the pension plan is designed mainly for the players who remain in the majors over a long period of time—from 10 to 20 years.

But as one baseball man points out, "the plan should be designed to help the five-year man more than the 20-year athlete. The 20-year man has already piled up plenty of money in salaries . . . and if he's at all smart, in business through added business opportunities.

DAVE LEWIS

"The five-year man is the one who really needs the pension plan. He's usually the borderline case who never makes much out of the game, but nevertheless has made an important contribution to baseball."

Retention of the second All-Star game, which the players are urging, although the owners are not keen about it, will be a step toward making it possible in the future.

The added revenue from two All-Star games has so solidified the pension fund that the players recently were able to vote themselves big pension increases.

For instance, at age 50, 10-year men will now be able to collect $250 a month instead of $175, while 20-year men will receive $452 a month instead of $275.

IT WON'T STOP THERE. Many new ideas are being formulated to take care of the ballplayer in his later years.

It has long been said that baseball takes care of its own. This is generally true. A man who has good for baseball during his playing days usually finds some place in the game later—if he needs it.

But usually those cases involve players whose name affords publicity value.

It's not so with the fringe ballplayer . . . the fellow who most often needs the help.

The practice by which baseball will take care of its own will become an eventuality under a plan outlined by Judge Robert Cannon, legal advisor to the Baseball Players' Assn.

While pensions take care of players when they reach 50, the period between retirement from the playing field and the pension age will be encompassed in the new plan.

JUDGE CANNON RECENTLY POINTED out that "we are going to set up an employment service in the office of Frank Scott, director of the Players' Assn.

"Here we shall have a file of jobs which former players may fill. We shall build up this file through our many connections. The kind of people who might register with us are unlimited.

"Most club owners are wealthy with interests in many other businesses which employ thousands of men. Then there are many former ballplayers who have been successful in a variety of businesses and they, too, employ thousands. And many good fans who are important in business or industry would avail themselves of our plan, too.

"Actually," Judge Cannon points out, "there will never be a great many totally unemployed former major league players. Many of them stay in the game in some capacity, many others have started their own businesses and others have no trouble finding jobs with their connections.

"But if anyone who has been good for baseball needs work and is willing to work, we'll find it for him once this service is established . . . which will be very soon."

THIS UNEMPLOYMENT SERVICE is just one new innovation which the players hope to incorporate into their association to assure their own of never having to worry about the future.

Ultimately, with the pension fund as the basis, the players' association will cover in some manner every man who ever reaches the major leagues . . . whether he stays for a week or 20 years.

And there is talk of even expanding the pension fund to include players in the higher minor leagues who never quite make it to the big-time, but who spend many years in the game.

Baseball still offers the brightest future for young athletes. The playing career is longer than in other pro sports, the average pay and fringe benefits greater, and now the years after they hang 'em up are offering more security.

IT LOOKS LIKE A SHOTGUN AMBUSH

Rams, 49-Oers Tangle in TV Tilt

By JERRY WYNN

SAN FRANCISCO — Open that golden gate, friends. This looks like an ambush.

The Rams play the San Francisco 49ers at Kezar Stadium today with the odds against them as high as a drunk at the Top of the Mark. The game will be televised over Channel 2 at 1:30 p.m.

It would be bad enough to contemplate the record of the Rams against the 49ers in the two years ex-Ram Red Hickey has held the S.F. reins . . . no wins in four league games, no touchdowns in two games at Kezar. But to compound matters, the 49ers had to go out and beat the Lions, 49-0, at Detroit last week.

Now professional football men are conservative. They know from experience just how tough is the game. They know the defenses have caught up with the offenses. They know that there was no way possible for the 49ers to beat the Lions, 49-0.

Asked if he was shocked by that score, Ram coach Bob Waterfield replied: "I was flabbergasted when it was only 21-0."

The recipe for the amazing 49er victory that still has all San Francisco in ecstacy (you'd never know there was a World Serics in progress) was a Shotgun with three loaded barrels. Hickey called every play by shuttling in quarterbacks John Brodie, Bill Kilmer and Bobby Waters.

Commented stunned Detroit linebacker Wayne Walker after the game: "Judas K. Priest. It was like the Drake Relays."

Thus the sentiment on Geary Street is one of supreme confidence. "If we can beat a good team like the Lions, 49-0," said one cable car driver, "we should take the Rams 88-0."

The odds really favor San Francisco by only eight points, and the 49ers really aren't as devastating as that Detroit score would indicate. However, they do appear good enough to beat the Rams today just as they did (32-20) in their pre-season encounter at the Coliseum.

The Rams have been blasted by the Shotgun in two previous battles. The best offense they've shown in the last two games was the sideline attack on John Henry Johnson last week.

Irish Collect on Field Goal

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI)—Notre Dame's gridiron gamblers, behind by one point when their pass for a two-point conversion failed, defeated Purdue Saturday, 22-20, on Joe Perkowski's 28-yard field goal with 12 minutes to play.

It was tremendous offensive struggle for 60 minutes, and Purdue at one point in the first half held a 10-point margin. But Notre Dame came back to trail by seven points at the half and in the third period moved to within one point.

Then Daryl LaMonica, the Irish quarterback, gambled for a win. Instead of a place kick, he tried a pass for two points, and when his receivers were swarmed under, Notre Dame was behind 20-19.

But the Irish, growing stronger as the game went on, began their comeback drive from their own 42. Sophomore Don Costa gained 36 yards in three tries to lead Notre Dame to the Boilermaker 12.

The march bogged down, but Perkowski, who had failed on one placekick conversion attempt and one field goal try from the 15, booted successfully from the 28 for the clincher.

Alert Wolverines Crush Army, 38-8

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Michigan's Wolverines seized on three Army miscues and turned on a devastating ground attack Saturday to crush the previously unbeaten Cadets 38-8 and roll to their second straight triumph before 65,012 fans at Michigan Stadium.

The Wolverines, ranked eighth in the nation, capitalized on two Army fumbles to score a touchdown and a field goal in the opening period. They added four more touchdowns, one of them set up by an intercepted Army pass, to complete the rout.

The powerhouse Michigan ground attack was led by halfback Dave Raimey who went 12 yards for one touchdown, Bennie McRae who dashed 47 yards for another, Bill Tunnicliff who scored on a three-yard plunge and Bruce McLenna who ran seven yards for another score.

The final Michigan touchdown came late in the final period on a 36-yard pass from reserve quarterback Bob Chandler to end Bob Brown. Doug Bickle contributed a field goal and five extra points to the Wolverine scoring.

Army, which was able to gain only 15 yards rushing all afternoon, managed its only touchdown in the third period when quarterback Pete Eckert took to the air and completed eight-yard aerial to halfback Dick Peterson.

Field Goal Wins for Badgers

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI)—Jim Bakken, a reserve quarterback whose specialty is kicking, booted two field goals for a modern Big Ten record Saturday to give Wisconsin a 6-3 victory over hapless Indiana before 23,270 fans.

Bakken, a 5-11 senior from Madison, Wis., missed a half dozen field goal attempts against Utah and Michigan State this season but he was dead center Saturday for the Badgers' second win against one loss and their first in two conference games.

Soph Star Sparks Wildcats

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) —Northwestern's new scoring ace, sophomore Bill Swingle, scored two touchdowns and was the spark behind two more Saturday in a 28-7 Wildcat triumph over Big Ten rival Illinois.

Swingle, a slippery, sliding runner, took a 21-yard pass for one touchdown in the second quarter and went two yards into the end zone in the fourth quarter. The key play in the final drive was a 24-yard Fred Quinn-to-Swingle pass.

Wholesale scoring is getting to be a Swingle habit.

Undefeated Chargers Blitz Patriots, 38-27

BOSTON (AP)—Quarterback Jack Kemp passed the unbeaten San Diego Chargers to a 38-27 American Football League victory over Boston Saturday night, pitching for three touchdowns including a pair within 70 seconds.

Kemp combined with end Dave Kocourek on a 75-yard aerial bomb on the first scrimmage play after the Patriots had closed the gap to 17-14 near the end of the half.

The ex-Occidental field general hit Don Norton on a spectacular 30-yard scoring pass just a minute and 10 seconds later to break the game open.

Kemp had notched only two touchdown heaves in the previous four San Diego triumphs this season.

Boston briefly threatened a comeback in the third quarter when Babe Parilli went to the Patriot's firing line in place of quarterback Butch Songin. Parilli hit on three successive pass play for 19, 9, and 17 yards, the last to halfback Jimmy Colclough for a score. Earlier, Boston fullback Billy Lott plunged one yard to cap a 17-yard, seven-play march that briefly tied the score at 7-all.

Kemp, in addition to passing for three scores, dashed around end for four yards and the other San Diego touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Once-Mighty Sooners Felled by Iowa State

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Iowa State struck for three quick touchdowns in the first quarter and held on grimly to topple fumbling Oklahoma, 21-15, Saturday.

The Cyclones took advantage of every Sooner mistake and put together scoring drives of 17, 58 and 33 yards.

Oklahoma roared back with two 80-yard marches and was headed downfield again in the last moments when another fumble killed the drive and the hopes of the once perennial Big Eight nemesis.

Iowa State's single wing ground attack was sparked by Dave Hopmann and Ozzie Clay.

SMU Tips Falcons on Shoeless Kick

DALLAS (UPI)—John Richey, a shoeless sophomore placekicker, booted a 30-yard third-quarter field goal Saturday to give Southern Methodist a 9-7 victory over the Air Force that broke a 13-game SMU string without a victory.

Richey, a 188-pound reserve fullback who kicks extra points with his shoes on uses his stocking feet on kickoffs and field goal efforts, gave a crowd of 28,000 its biggest thrill in an otherwise dull afternoon of ground assault football.

SMU had matched the Air Force's second period touchdown, but the visiting Falcons' 138-pound defensive

LSU's Vise-Like Defense Smothers Engineers, 10-0

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Louisiana State shackled Georgia Tech's roll and rumple offense with an unrelenting defensive vise Saturday night and upset the third-ranked engineers, 10-0, before 66,000 fans.

The loss was the first in three games for Georgia Tech, ranked No. 3 in this week's Associated Press poll and favored by a touchdown or more to make the Bayou Tigers their third straight victim.

An LSU line, spearheaded by all-America guard candidate Roy Winston, repeatedly rocked the swift Tech backs for big losses and the Tiger secondary kept the Engineer passing game well in check.

The Southeastern Conference victory was the second for LSU.

The LSU touchdown came midway in the second quarter after halfback Billy Williamson juggled a pass from center on a punt attempt and

Late 'Cat TD Aerial Trips Auburn, 14-12

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI)—Rangy Kentucky end Tom Hutchinson shadowed constantly by pass defenders, hauled in a six-yard scoring pass in the last four minutes Saturday to give the Wildcats a 14-12 victory over powerful Auburn.

Hutchinson, a marked man as the frequent target for quarterback Jerry Woolum's passes, set up the winning touchdown by recovering a fumble on the Auburn 21.

The Wildcats, who garnered their first win of the year, also took advantage of another Auburn bobble to set up Perky Bryant's one-yard dash for a touchdown and Clarkie Mayfield kicked two decisive extra points.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Unbeaten heavyweight Cassius Clay stopped a sluggish Alex Miteff of Argentina in 1:45 of the sixth round Saturday night to score his ninth straight victory since coming out of the amateur ranks.

The fast-moving Clay, after using Miteff for a punching bag through most of five rounds, sent him to the floor with a short but stiff right cross to the jaw in the sixth round.

Vols Erupt, Register 17-3 Win

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—A teen-aged tailback knocked cold in the second period came off the bench in the last half and carried Tennessee to a 17-3 victory over Mississippi State.

It was a rugged, ragged, injury-filled game that did not begin to make sense until 19-year-old Mallon Faircloth took personal charge of the Tennessee attack.

With the score tied 3-3 late in the third period, Faircloth rifled a 42-yard scoring pass to end Johnny Hudson and, with four minutes left in the game, sliced over from the six for the final TD.

Houston Rolls to Easy 21-0 Win Over B.C.

HOUSTON (UPI)—Houston halfback Ken Bolin raced 80 yards for a touchdown and intercepted three passes Saturday night to spark the Cougars to a 21-0 victory over Boston College.

Bolin's scoring dash came in the second quarter, shortly after Houston quarterback Don Sessions flipped a nine-yard touchdown pass to end Clem Beard.

Houston added an insurance touchdown in the fourth period when Bolin intercepted a pass from George Van Cott and returned it to the Boston College 3. Sessions plunged over and Eddie Mitchamore kicked the first of his three conversions.

Barber PGA Player of Year

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI)—The Professional Golfers Assn. Saturday announced the selection of Jerry Barber as "player of the year" for 1961.

Barber, who lives in La Canada, Calif., and represents the Wilshire Country Club of Los Angeles, received 405 votes out of a total of 1,227 cast by PGA members.

Arnold Palmer was second with 374 votes. He won the award last year.

In third place was Gary Player, the 1961 Masters Champion from South Africa, who received 140 votes.

Barber, 45, is 5-5 and weighs only 137 pounds. He did not join the PGA tour until he was 38.

Barber scored a dramatic win in the 1961 PGA championship last July by defeating Don January in an 18-hole playoff.

Reserve Back Hurls Duke to 23-3 Triumph

DURHAM, N. C. (UPI)—Third string halfback Billy Futrell caught two second-period touchdown passes Saturday to spark Duke to a 23-3 victory over Wake Forest.

A dad's day crowd of 20,000 saw the 197-pound sophomore break scoring ice for Duke with 5:15 left to play in the first half after Wake Forest had moved out in front on a 28-yard field goal by Mickey Walker.

Futrell scored the touchdown on a four-yard pass from quarterback Walt Rappold. Bill Reynolds kicked the extra point.

The Blue Devils added nine points in the final period.

Attention Nimrods: Watch Those Birds

If the hunters are able to follow a suggestion of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service this season, drakes will be falling and hens flying. The USFWS feels that there are far more male ducks than females and it wants to put the birds, which are in short supply any way, back in balance.

There's only one way to accomplish such a request: Let the birds come close enough to determine males from females. Hunters with real experience always do this, but how about the novices, who far outnumber expert nimrods? Many of those beginners fire before they can distinguish the type of bird, much less sex.

Any way, we are passing along the FWS request in the hopes that it may do some good. It's a well-known fact that drakes outnumber hens each year when birds return to Canadian nesting grounds. Hens are more vulnerable to predators and to hunters.

If you permit the ducks to come close enough, you also can determine the species. Remember, there is to be no shooting of canvasbacks or redheads. And only ONE wood duck or ONE hooded Merganser to a bag limit.

FIRST OF CALIFORNIA'S migratory waterfowl season's—the tiny Colorado River Strip—opened at noon Saturday with few shots and fewer birds. The duck population there was so small that not even natives in the Blythe-Palo Verde area paid it any heed.

The main part of the state's duck and goose season begins next Saturday. Prospects are anything but good for the Southland. Your chance of getting a full limit of ducks (five) south of the Tehachapis is just about as good as the possibility of filling a trout creel with a limit of three-pound rainbows (also five)!

Opening of the Modoc National Wildlife Refuge at Alturas next Saturday is about the best news for the waterfowlers in a decade. Along with Tule Lake-Klamath Basin and Honey Lake Refuge, Northern California now has enough facilities to attract many hunters from this area.

Modoc will follow the state's split-season dates. Hunters will have 1,400 acres plainly marked with red signs, but here will be no camping, boats or fires. Blinds must be constructed of natural vegetation and digging of pits will not be allowed. For further information, write to Manager, Modoc Wildlife Refuge, Box 1439, Alturas, Calif.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—Johnny Dieckman, world champion professional, and Jon Tarantino, best of all the amateurs, had no trouble winning their respective battles in the international casting tournament at Oslo, Norway. Dieckman, of Costa Mesa, took 13,431 out of a possible 15,000 points to win his title. Tarantino, of San Francisco, scored 12,269 points and won the Garcia trophy for the fourth consecutive time. He had already retired one Garcia trophy with three successive victories.

The Mercury 1000, first 100-horsepower outboard motor in all-black styling, is being displayed at Catalina Sporting Goods, 6500 Long Beach Blvd. . . . Norton Mfg. Co., Chicago, has placed a 22-ounce unsinkable aluminum canoe paddle on the market and claims that its weight is less than half that of a spruce paddle.

Larry Davidson, Pierpoint Landing Manager, spent most of the last week in September at Santa Monica, where he went as a delegate to the Elks' convention. And what did he do part of the time? He checked the fishing boats at Santa Monica Pier. He came back very happy about Pierpoint; he said he saw only a few small barracuda, undersize kelp bass and a halibut or two, on one of their top boats. On the same day, Long Beach boats were getting yellowtail from Santa Monica Bay . . . that's the way this fishing business goes.

"WET-FLY FISHING" is the title of a book just placed on the market by the J. B. Lippincott Company, East Washington Square, Philadelphia 5, Pa., at $2.95.

The book was compiled by the editors of Sports Illustrated, but mostly the contents concern the activities of the late James Leisenring, one of the nation's most famous anglers up to the middle of this century. It was supplied largely by Vernon S. Hidy, a close friend of Leisenring. Anthony Ravielli did the drawings and diagrams.

There have been dozens of books on fly fishing, but this tiny volume (90 pages) provides everything that the novice needs in casting, fishing and tying flies.

PERHAPS WE ARE USING the wrong kind of bait—and fishing in the wrong places.

The National Wildlife Federation reports that a 14-year-old Nebraska boy, Robert Brashears, caught two of the year's largest bass with a kingsize worm.

Robert was using a small hognose snake for bait and his fish weighed 8-2 and 6-11. Robert thought so much of the bait that he retried it from the second bass and stored it in mom's refrigerator.

Two years ago Robert captured fishing honors in his area with a catfish that weighed 17-8. The bait? Same kind!

SPILL MARS FEATURE AT HOLLYWOOD PARK

By MAC McGUIRE

Harold McGinnis' Stephan Smith came on strong in the stretch to win the 13th edition of the $6,000 Pasadena Pace Saturday at Hollywood Park, but the race was marred by a spill when the 8-5 favorite, Newport Admiral, went down at the head of the stretch.

Newport Admiral tangled and fell and was held down by driver Eddie Wheeler until help arrived to untangle him from the buggy. The horse suffered a gash in the leg.

Stephan Smith moved up from fourth place in the stretch to overhaul Hark Win for a three-quarter length victory. Vicki's Jet, who led most of the way, hung on for third.

The winner rewarded his backers with a $10.20, $5.60 and $3 payoff. Hark Win returned $4.40 and $2.80 and Vicki's Jet $2.40.

Frizette to Cicada; Queen America Wins

Compiled From Wire Services

Cicada, leading candidate for 1961 2-year-old filly honors, assumed command near the top of the stretch and won the $121,075 Frizette Stakes at Aqueduct Saturday.

Ridden by Willie Shoemaker, Cicada won by a half-length over Firm Policy. Jazz Queen was third.

Cicada ran the mile in 1:36 4/5 and paid $3.30, $2.20 and $2.10. Firm Policy returned $2.70 and $2.50 and Jazz Queen $2.80.

THE EAST

Maryland Rallies to Clip Syracuse, 22-21

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI)—Gallant and gambling Maryland upset unbeaten Syracuse, 22-21, Saturday on an electrifying 66-yard run by an unheralded sophomore halfback and a clutch conversion catch by all-America candidate Gary Collins.

The powerful Orangemen had just taken a 21-14 fourth quarter lead on Ernie Davis' touchdown when the Terrapin lightning struck with only six minutes to play.

* * * *

THIRD-STRINGER Ernie Arizzi burst through a gaping hole off tackle and raced 66 yards to the Syracuse 10. Dick Novak passed to end Dick Barlund for a first down six inches away from the goal line and Dennis Condie swept off tackle on the next play for a touchdown that put Maryland only one point behind.

The Terps, who could have been forgiven if they had gone for a tie against the favored invaders, went for broke instead with Novak passing to Collins in the end zone for the winning two points.

Collins then nailed the lid on Syracuse hopes with three straight bone-crushing tackles on the Orangemen's last offensive series.

Dartmouth Sails to 30-0 Win Over Penn

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Quarterback Bill King, described by coach Bob Blackman as the "best find we have had in several seasons," directed a smooth functioning Dartmouth team to an easy 30-0 Ivy League football victory over Penn Saturday.

From the second play of the game, when Penn fumbled on its 27 and King recovered to start Dartmouth's first scoring drive, the issue was never in doubt.

Villanova Smashes Massachusetts, 33-13

AMHERST, Mass. (AP)—Southpaw quarterback Richie Richman directed undefeated Villanova to its fourth straight victory Saturday, a 33-13 decision over the University of Massachusetts.

Richman, a 20-year-old junior set up the first two touchdowns with long passes and steered his team on long marches for the last two. Richman scored the first touchdown.

Yale Turns Back Stubborn Brown, 14-3

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Yale, led by Bill Leckonby's passing and running, opened defense of its Ivy League title by 14-3 conquest of stubborn Brown Saturday.

Leckonby, Yale's 6-1 quarterback, tossed a touchdown pass to Jud Calkins, scored one himself and added the extra point.

Liston Offered Fight

LONDON (AP)—Joe Erskine, former British heavyweight champion, has been offered $30,000 to fight Sonny Liston in Philadelphia.

Soph Leads Princeton Over Columbia, 30-20

NEW YORK (AP)—Sophomore Jim Rockenbach blasted over for two touchdowns and passed for another to lead princeton to a 30-20 victory over Columbia Saturday. Columbia was favored on the basis of its 50-0 slaughter of Brown last week.

Columbia	14	0	6	0	—20
Princeton	7	8	0	15	—30

ROCKETS TEST ANGELS AT BLAIR FIELD

Tom Sisk, who hurled three perfect innings last week, will toe the rubber when the Long Beach Rockets meet the semi-pro L.A. Angels today at 2 p.m. at Blair Field.

Manager Jack Graham has a formidable mound staff in Sisk, Bob Lee, Bob Clear, Don Rowe and Casey Cox. The Rockets won their first game of the year, 8-3, last Sunday.

The Winter League season will begin Oct. 15.

Two Aces Fired in Hesperia Pro-Am

HESPERIA—Phil Rodgers, young ex-Marine from San Diego, and Cecil Harris, an aging professional golfer from Anaheim, shot holes-in-one in the pro-amateur preliminary to the 36-hole $10,000 Hesperia Invitational Open.

Dodgers had the low individual professional score of even par-72 and collected $250. There was no special prize for the hole-in-one.

The low pro-am best ball team was a trio led by former University of Southern California ace, Al Geiberger, with a 60. He earned $200. Geiberger had an individual medal score 76.

In today's 36-hole open—played on one day—Rodgers is the apparent favorite. He was the only one of the hundred golfers who played in the pro-amateur to equal par.

The southern California golfer got his hole-in-one on the 210-yard No. 3 hole, and said "I was lucky. I hit that ball at least 80 feet to the right of the pin but the wind blew it in."

Rodgers had a three-stroke lead in the individual pro scoring over Billy Maxwell, Dallas, Tex. The 1957 Hesperia winner had an individual 75.

Jack Fleck, who won the Bakersfield Open last weekend, picked up on his individual score and his team finished well down on the list.

21 Harness Horses Perish at Saratoga

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (UPI) — Twenty-one harness horses perished at Saratoga Raceway Saturday when flames roared through one of a row of nine barns.

The loss, including horses, barn and equipment, was estimated at $150,000, a track spokesman said.

No persons were injured. Two grooms sleeping in the barn escaped.

The trapped horses could not be reached, but police arriving at the scene turned loose about 50 horses from nearby barns.

Riverside Crushed by UC Davis, 40-12

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — The University of California at Davis crahked up its powerful running machine Saturday to overwhelm its sister school, the University of California at Riverside, 40-12.

Davis amassed 229 yards rushing, while holding Riverside to a meager 42 yards on the ground. One of the windiest days of the year thwarted passing attacks of both schools.

ON OLD TORREY PINES GRADE

Alpine explores twisting grade of old 101 Highway a few miles north of La Jolla. Tricky course is scene of many sports car events in which 100-m.p.h. Sunbeam speedster has participated.

ON MT. SOLEDAD ROAD

Sunbeam begins tour of Mt. Soledad, hilly backdrop to La Jolla and Mission Bay. Many turns proved cornering ability of Alpine convertible.

AT WEEKEND RETREAT

Sunbeam Alpine, British-made motorlog car, pauses at entry to La Valencia Hotel, famed hostelry in center of La Jolla.

Sunbeam Alpine Tours La Jolla

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

Late summer fun in the La Jolla sun . . . on a sporty run down South 101.

That was our lucky lot a weekend back as we went motorlogging equator-ward along the smooth blue Pacific to picturesque La Jolla, "The Jewel," aptly named seaside resort 14 miles north of San Diego.

And our conveyance this time was truly a sporty set of wheels, a smart new Sunbeam Alpine roadster, a native of Coventry, England, and brought to these shores by Rootes Motors who also number the Hillman and Humber cars in their line. This is the car that has been making hot news in sports car circles recently and a week-end behind the wheel showed us why.

Dale Brown, Long Beach Rootes group dealer at 2440 Long Beach Blvd., put the classy little Sunbeam at our disposal. If you saw the movie, "Butterfield 8," you'll recall the sports car Elizabeth Taylor drove to a sensational death crash at the picture's end. While her's was a fiery red Alpine, our loaner was a jet black beauty and our week-end script featured fun and relaxation instead of a tragic crackup.

And Dale emphasized the fun aspects of sports car driving as he put the wife and me in the Sunbeam early Saturday morning for our short week-end cruise.

"You're going to have nothing but fun driving this car, Art," the affable dealer enthused as I started the engine of the top-down roadster. "This is the car my wife and I drove all over Europe — over 3000 miles through England, Holland, Belgium, France and other spots on the Continent.

ACCENT ON FUN

"I know Highway 101 is not quite like driving in the Swiss Alps, but after driving that torpid truck (here he glanced scornfully at the pride of Detroit I had parked on his lot) you'll see what fun driving is really like. I know."

And once on our way down the busy beach highway we could see the wisdom of Brown's words. Darting in and out of the slower moving traffic, shifting up and down through the four-speed gearbox while the exhaust changed tone to each gear, cornering the feisty Alpine around 101's many curves with almost an imperceptible move of the wrist, did add up to real driving pleasure.

Lorraine took the wheel of the Brilisher a few miles south of Laguna and agreed the sportster was a real goer. Not one to stint on speed when the highway allowed, she had us barreling along the freeway back of San Clemente at a smoothly purring 65, although our closeness to the road made it seem like 80. I thought she might complain about wind damage to her raven tresses, but with some sort of a fishnet affair to cover her locks and the Alpine's rolls-up windows shutting out most of the whistling sea air, we rolled sportingly along to our seaside haven.

Turning right off 101 at the La Jolla sign a few miles beyond Torrey Pines, we were soon in the center of town and our Saturday night stopover, the famed La Valencia Hotel, 96 miles from home.

There are many fine modern motels in the La Jolla area but our choice was this stately hotel, much older in years than its glass and stone counterparts but offering the charm and class that only a distinguished resort hotel such as the well-managed La Valencia can offer. In a few moments, luggage unloaded incidentally there was more than enough room in the Sunbeam for our large bag and hangered clothes) we were settled in a spacious suite. On La Valencia's fourth floor, the room was tastefully decorated, deeply carpeted and modern in every respect to telephone and TV. Broad-picture windows gave us a beautiful view south of Pacific Beach and San Diego. Right below us was Scripps Park and the famous Cove, famed skindivers' paradise. It was a beautiful setting for a relaxing week-end.

The Valencia boasts three fine restaurants and the Whaling Bar for light snacks. This unique room with its harpoons and ship lanterns was our choice for a tasty lunch to launch our La Jolla stay.

LOTS TO DO

And there's plenty to do here in this beautiful cliff-side town and surrounding areas. Golfers can play a different course every day of the week. Six courses are near the hotel, including the two new courses at Torrey Pines, only two miles away. Also there are the famed La Jolla Country Club, the Rancho Santa Fe course and the Mission Valley Country Club. The Mission Bay public course is a few miles south.

La Jolla is the scene of numerous national tennis tournaments and 12 excellent courts are just five blocks from La Valencia.

Deep sea fishing is available out of San Diego. Mexico, 30 miles away offers horse and dog racing, jai alai and bull fights as well as shopping for unique gifts along Tijuana's tourist-jammed streets.

There's an art center in town, the Scripps Institute of Oceanography with its aquarium exhibits is only a mile from Valencia, and there are the many interesting historical landmarks that mark the beginning of California close by.

But our Saturday afternoon didn't include any of these. We wanted a little more of the sports car feel so early afternoon found our Sunbeam exploring the twisting, turning road of Mt. Soledad. This is the highest point in the La Jolla area and gave us another taste of the two-seater's hill-eating ability as well as a terrific view of the whole San Diego area when we reached the summit.

Late afternoon found our Alpine parked at La Jolla Shores sandy beach where the huge, crashing breakers had attracted many surfers to the scene. While Lorraine lazed on the beach watching the young surfriders perform, I took a turn in the tangy Pacific but with a wary eye out for fins along the breaker line for it was right in this vicinity that a shark devoured a hapless bather two summers back.

DINNER IN SKY

Dinner at La Valencia that evening, offered a varied menu along with the superb attention and service for which the La Valencia is famed. A very tasty prime rib dinner, my choice, brought a tab of $3.85, while friend wife sampled the lobster at $3.95. Martinis and most libations go for 75c. All this was enjoyed in the hotel's unique Sky Room which, high on the roof, gave us the beautiful sight of the late-summer sun dying slowly in the red-black Pacific.

An after-dinner drink and a round of dancing at the Luau, one of La Jolla's several night spots ended our evening on a high note. Sunday morning found us on a leisurely stroll, window shopping the many smart shops in this friendly town before sliding into our Sunbeam for an unhurried drive back to our own city on the sea.

Sports car drivers, I am told, aren't too concerned with gas mileage they wring from their multi-barrel carburetors. But if you are, the perfect-performing Sunbeam chalked up a respectable 25.2 mpg on the 223-mile round trip.

And another Motorlog tour was over. It was more of a relaxing than a running-and-playing trip but the highlights were a fun-to-drive car plus a hotel of character and charm.

We might sum it up by borrowing from a well-played commercial. Just hum along. "How did they do it, what did they do? Who put real fun in sports car driving? Alpine, that's who."

GRADE CARD

Is Homework Load Too Heavy?

By HARRY KARNS
School Research Associates

A 12-year-old boy named Robert recently wrote to the California State Department of Education:

"Can't you make them cut down on all this homework?"

Dr. Helen Heffernan, chief of the Bureau of Elementary Education, observes:

"He was merely echoing the cry of thousands of children for help in resisting the pressures which are denying their rights to childhood.

"Children and parents report four or five hours of homework with an extra dose over the week-end as common practice for middle and upper grade children. Isn't it unrealistic to insist that a child work a 50 or 60 hour week while parents and other adults object to putting in more than 40 hours at a job?"

THE DEBATE over the homework load is a perennial one among educators, between child and parent in the home, and between parent and teacher.

Experiments have shown that students do better in school when they have suitable homework assignments.

But how much homework, suitable or otherwise, is too much?

When homework keeps a child from normal after-school and week-end activities, it is time for parents to show concern.

IF YOUR CHILD spends every spare minute at homework assignments and never seems to have time to play a game of ball or go to the Friday night dance, it is time to check with his teachers. They may have ganged up on him without knowing it.

Some schools require teachers to keep in touch with one another and make sure that their total homework requirements are realistic.

A SECOND ISSUE in the great homework debate concerns the extent of the parent's participation.

Some parents carefully avoid making any contribution, either because of indifference or because they feel that the child is cheating if he gets aid in any form.

Other parents take over the books and do most of the work themselves.

In either case, the child gets short-changed.

MOST EDUCATORS agree the parent's role should be confined to that of provider and guide.

Here are some guideposts:

1. Provide the child a quiet, well-lighted place to work, with adequate space for his books and supplies.
2. Don't interrupt his work for trivial things.
3. Discuss the homework and its objectives.
4. Suggest where to get information.
5. Provide reference works such as dictionaries and encyclopedias.
6. Indicate how a given lesson or specific problem should be tackled.
7. Give examples, minor items or information, and "hints."
8. Leave the actual work to him.

(Want to help your child do good work in school? Mail questions and requests to Harry Karns, Room 403, Independent, Press - Telegram. Letters cannot be answered individually, but some will be answered in the "Grade Card' column.)

Edgerton Quiet but has Many Interests

By United Press International

J. (for James) Howard Edgerton, a highly respected and widely known figure in the sometimes allied fields of politics and finance, has never sought publicity and has never had much of it.

But he has it now as the central figure in a dispute between former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and former California Gov. Goodwin J. Knight.

Knight charges that Edgerton offered him "any state job he wanted" to stay out of the gubernatorial race in 1962. Knight said Edgerton was acting as Nixon's "emissary." Both Edgerton and Nixon have denied the charges. Nixon and Knight have both announced as Republican candidates for governor.

* * * *

EDGERTON, 53, has never been elected to public office but he has been a strong figure in California politics on the financial side. He is a lawyer by profession and president of a savings and loan association with $661,000,000 in assets.

He is active in an amazing number of civic and social organizations. He seems to be a man who has few intimates, many friends and a large number of acquaintances—in an ascending scale.

Some politicians describe him as "stand-offish." Some bankers describe him as "friendly but not a pat-on-the-back type."

Edgerton acted as Knight's finance chairman when the former governor ran for the U.S. Senate—and was defeated—in 1958.

EDGERTON took some of the edge off Knight's announcement of his name as the alleged Nixon "emissary" by announcing previously that he would probably be the man named. At the same time he issued a denial of the charges briefly, and then elaborated on the denial after Knight's announcement by releasing a 1,000-word letter he wrote to the former governor.

Coincidentally — with his Republican background—Edgerton was a Lincoln's birthday baby. He was born Feb. 12, 1908, in Sulphur Springs, Ark.

* * * *

HIS FAMILY moved to Prescott, Ariz., when he was a tot and there he gave early evidence of a liking for and a talent in two fields—scholarship and outdoor living.

He learned to hunt and ride and was the center of a standing family joke — whenever his mother expected lunch guests she would send young Howard out in the morning with his gun and he would always return with a bag of doves for the table.

When Edgerton was 12 the family moved to Los Angeles and he graduated from the Harvard Military School with honors. He matriculated at the University of Southern California, received a degree from the liberal arts college in 1928 and a law degree in 1930. He was a diligent student, got high marks but did not neglect extra-curricular activities. He was a prominent member of the staff of the university newspaper, the Daily Trojan.

AT THE YOUNG age of 22, he took the California bar examination and passed. He joined a Los Angeles legal firm and married his college sweetheart, the former Catherine Colwell. They have two grown children and one grandchild.

In addition to practicing law and banking, Edgerton found time to get a commercial pilot's license. In World War II, he served as a flight instructor.

Fishing, hunting and golf are his hobbies He likes trout fishing but deep sea fishing off the California coast in the Pacific is his favorite pastime.

Expert to Describe Searles Lake Rocks

Searles Lake, a dry lake at Trona, and its minerals will be described by Mrs. Harvey Hardman, Lakewood rock student, before the Long Beach Mineral and Gem Society at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Firemen's Memorial Clubhouse, 3295 Pacific Ave. The program is open to the public.

The following weekend, members will go to Searles Lake for a rock show and rock hunting expedition.

Volunteers Aim for Chest Full of Community Aid

...good neighbor policy

When United Neighbors Community Chest campaign opens here in ten days, Long Beach will see an at-home good neighbor policy in action.

Run by and for members of the community, the Chest venture is a true 'hands across the block' program.

Its volunteer door-bell ringing members are all neighborhood women and the money they raise all goes to support 33 Chest agencies which service families and individuals here.

Mrs. Francis M. Lowry, who was appointed chairman of the drive last January, heads the community-wide campaign. Working with her are six area vice-chairmen: Mmes. George Nye Jr., Lakewood; Leon Sternberg, Westside; Julius Molina, Central; Bruce E. Mitchell, Los Altos and Northeast; John B. Merrell, North; and Harry Krusz, Eastside.

* * * *

UNDER the leadership of these chairmen, teams in each section of Long Beach, Lakewood, Signal Hill and Dominguez have been organized during the past five months to solicit 143,334 homes and 5,000 business firms in the area.

The army of volunteers is comprised of 18 area generals, 100 colonels and 600 captains with from eight to ten workers each.

"The residential division quota of $92,920 is larger than the entire campaign goal of many other drives in the community," says Mrs. Lowry. "So it is imperative that we have a much more extensive campaign."

A former president of the Catholic Welfare Bureau and a past member of the Chest board of directors, Mrs. Lowry has served as residential division chairman for the past two years.

She also is a member of the Junior League of Long Beach and a board member of the Community Welfare Council and Community Volunteer office.

* * * *

WHAT exactly does the Chest do for Long Beach?

During the past year six family welfare agencies of the chest gave counseling or financial aid to 45,631 troubled families and individuals.

More than 69,000 boys and girls were enrolled in 16 character building agencies. Health clinics treated 1,354 children while the Visiting Nurse Service made 12,061 home calls on the sick.

Volunteers recruited through the Community Volunteer Office gave approximately 100,000 hours of work to augment staff duties of both Chest and civic agencies.

Three day-nurseries cared for 416 youngsters while Children's Home Society and Pacific Lodge Boys' Home furnished services for unwanted babies and boys needing specialized boarding care.

Older citizens were not forgotten either, with more than a thousand men and women over 60 enjoying programs, classes and social events arranged for their pleasure at the Volunteers of America's Sunset Club.

* * * *

HOSPITALITY in the form of parties, concerts, plays, movies, dinners attracted more than 1,000 servicemen a day to the Armed Services YMCA and transients received assistance from such agencies as Travelers Aid and the Salvation Army.

These are only a few of the accomplishments. Concise records are kept of all money turned in to the Chest. Receipts and window stickers are furnished donors and all solicitors wear volunteer tags identifying them as registered workers for the drive.

Says Mrs. Lowry, "It's the work of the individual volunteers who want to see sufficient health, welfare, and youth services within our four communities that makes all this possible.

"They deserve a great deal of credit, not to mention courtesy and consideration," she adds. "I wish it were only possible to give each one a bouquet for the magnificent job she's doing."

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1961 SECTION W

Nightingales Will Dance

Twenty-five years of swing will be telescoped into one evening's entertainment when Nightingales hold their charity ball in Lafayette Hotel, International ballroom, Saturday.

The formal event will be attended by more than 400 guests who will gather at the hotel for cocktails at 7 p.m. Dinner will follow at 8 p.m.

Money from the ball will benefit children of Long Beach in need of hospitalization and medical treatment.

NIGHTINGALES, junior group to Children's Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, has a limited membership of 40. During the past year it gave a total of 3,368 volunteer hours to the hospital and earned $6,330 for medical care there.

Members and husbands of the group's patron committee will be special guests at the ball. They are Messrs. and Mmes. Loether J. Buck, Harrison E. Moore and Alfred D. Williams and Drs. and Mmes. Frederick G. Jensen and Montie Magree.

MRS. MOORE, president of the Children's Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, will give a cocktail party for the patrons at her home preceding the ball.

Associated committee members are Mmes. Gerald Barber, Robert Lemon, Donald Tosh, John Elder, Lamont Davis, Travis White and Norman Show.

Table arrangements for the event will consist of individual topiary trees decorated with roses of autumn hues.

NIGHTINGALES TURN stork with their latest venture—that of acquainting expectant mothers with Memorial Hospital facilities by way of monthly "Stork Club" teas. Here two members of volunteer group, Mrs. Stratton R. Easter and Mrs. Raymond B. Lake Jr. (seated), check over guest list for next tea. Money from Nightingale ball Saturday will benefit this, other hospital work by group.

A 'MODEL' WARDROBE

Travel: Make Light of It!

By MARY ELLIS
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Taffy-haired, green-eyed and terrific, Diane Olson is a model teenager. Her obvious assets: tremendous good looks and difficult-to-come-by fashion flair.

At only 17-plus, she knows (already) umpteen ways to whip together a model wardrobe—be it for job-going in Long Beach or globe-trotting in Europe.

Proof positive are the studies in black and white on this page, showing Diane's talent for getting real go-power out of travel clothes.

* * * *

Jetting away with her family (parents Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Olson and 14-year-old sister Donna), she'll tote only one suitcase.

Her one-suitcase wardrobe has been accomplished a la Olson with monochromatic planning, add-a-piece styling—and accessories, accessories, accessories.

* * * *

DIANE'S BASIC wardrobe color is black—with only one departure, a red, slim-styled walking coat.

Her clothes line-up includes two black knit dresses, a black wool dress with double-breasted shortie jacket, black petit point cocktail dress (high cut), two-piece black cotton shirtwaist, a black and white tweed travel suit and black caslmere topcoat.

Her wardrobe spicer-uppers: three colorful blouses for casual wear with an extra black skirt, a black cardigan with detachable black fox collar, white fox shrug and white satin toque for after-five, both long and short kid gloves in black and white (wardrobe musts), a black fur toque and a well-chosen array of costume jewelry (pearls and gold).

* * * *

DIANE'S seeming flair for charming her wardrobe into a this-minute or go-anywhere frame of mind is no accident.

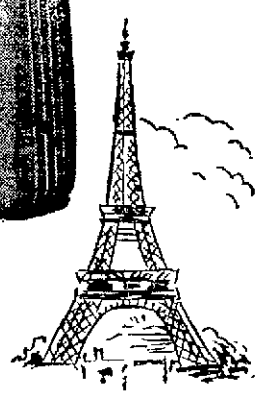

Earning a cool $10 for quickie fashion shows at the age of 15, today she's considered one of Long Beach's most sought-after models.

She's said "cheese" for Wilma Hastings agency assignments, TV commercials and innumerable news photogs when reigning as queen of everything from Olympic competitions to commercial promotions.

And certainly, Diane's Europe-going wardrobe proves she's learned her "model" well — especially when it comes to selecting high-style fashions that go a long way.

BLACK KNIT DRESS takes on travel airs when combined with red walking coat, black fur toque, meet-the-sleeves black kid gloves by professional model Diane Olson for three-week tour of Europe.

SAME BLACK KNIT goes femme fatale when dressed up with white fox shrug, pearls, white satin toque and long white gloves. For even more formal dressing, Diane will wear black petit point cocktail dress, combine it with same accessories.—(Staff photos by Joe Risinger.)

Original Fantasy Opens Play Series

"The Magic Riddle," an original fantasy produced by Santa Monica City College Family Theater will open the current Programs for Children series Saturday morning with two performances, 10 and 11:30 a.m., in Long Beach City College auditorium.

Sponsored by Junior League of Long Beach and Long Beach Children's Theatre, this one-hour piece is co-authored by Hal and Gene Owens, founders of the SMCC project. Under direction of professional faculty instructors, students handle theater management, makeup, costuming, set design, lighting, acting, dancing and sound effects.

Started with cooperative action by the college, Santa Monica P-T.A. and elementary school principals, Family Theater has won numerous educational citations, including a special award presented by the California State Department of Education.

* * * *

ONE UNIQUE feature of the Santa Monica project, this year celebrating its 10th anniversary, is the production of new plays written specifically for the college actor to perform for youngsters and their families. Aware that children are keen observers and deserve the best in theatrical fare, SMCC is attempting to cultivate future theater audiences by offering festive and absorbing live theater experiences.

Requests for season tickets, priced at $2.50 for the five-program series, may be made by contacting Mrs. Francis Fillipow, 471 Daroca Ave., or at the box office.

Laurie K. Lloyd, Ken Adler Wed

In an elegant setting of stark white with bright red accents, Laurie K. Lloyd became the bride of Kenneth R. Adler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Adler, 4237 Palo Verde Ave.

Following the ceremony, held at Lakewood Country Club, a champagne dinner was served. Music was furnished by Hal Rose and his orchestra.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie A. Lloyd, 4320 California Ave., wore an Italian original gown of lace and silk pleated organza with jeweled neckline and sweeping bell-shaped skirt.

* * * *

WEARING red silk, Sharon Adler served the bride as maid of honor. Robin Goncher was flower girl.

Bridesmaids, dressed in white peau de soie, red jeweled veils and carrying heart-shaped red bouquets, were Sandra Symonds, Suzanne Lane, Sharon Licata, Mary Kramer, Jean Farrow and Birdetta Eggert.

* * * *

MITCHELL ADLER was best man; Danny Lloyd, ringbearer. The 350 guests were seated by Ronald Jessner, Kenneth Lloyd, Allan Kroll, Lawrence Lloyd, Ronald Rosen and Robert Lane.

Following a honeymoon at Lake Tahoe, the newlyweds are residing at 5585 Dairy Ave.

Both are graduates of Poly High School. The bridegroom attended Long Beach State College, where he was affiliated with Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

Laurie L. Whiteneck Reveals January Date

Laurie Whiteneck

Laurie Lynn Whiteneck's engagement to Gordon Duncan Cummings Jr., son of Mrs. Kathryn L. Cumming, Bronxville, N. Y., has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lynn Whiteneck of 905 E. Carson St.

Friends of the parents and young couple were informed of the forthcoming wedding at a recent cocktail party at the bride-elect's home.

The wedding will take place in January.

* * * *

MISS WHITENECK was graduated from Poly High School where she was a member of Tasma, and USC where she pledged Delta Delta Delta.

Her fiance was a student at Cornell University, Ithica, N.Y., and Columbia University, N. Y. He holds a degree in electrical engineering from USC.

Sisters Will Attend UDC Convention

Mrs. O. L. Skinner and her sister, Mrs. Grover C. Ballard, will leave on a month's trip Monday which will culminate in their attendance Nov. 6-9 at the United Daughters of the Confederacy general convention in Jackson, Miss., as representatives of Gen. Joe Wheeler Chapter, Long Beach.

En route they will visit another sister, Mrs. Minnie Blackburn in Nashville, Tenn., and will attend the convention of the John B. Randolph Society of UDC at the Hermitage Hotel. Mrs. Robert Bachman, president general, will be honored guest and speaker.

* * * *

THE TRIO then will go on to Birmingham, Ala., for a visit with Mrs. Blackburn's son before attending the UDC conclave in Jackson.

Final stop before returning to Long Beach will be for a visit with a niece in Miami, Fla.

Music Club Slates Formal Opening

Mrs. Don Gilson

Mrs. Don L. Gilson will officiate as president of Woman's Music Club for the first time Wednesday when the group holds its formal opening at 1:30 p.m. in Ebell Auditorium.

An active member since 1950, Mrs. Gilson has served on the executive board, as curator of groups, recording secretary, first vice president and printing chairman.

She is a graduate of the Conservatory of Music at Erie, Pa., and took advanced vocal training from Madame Von Klenner in New York City.

* * * *

HER MUSICAL debut was made with the National Opera Club of America in New York. She appeared as leading soloist in the American operetta "Carmelita" in Erie, Pa., and later won a scholarship award at the St. Cecelia School of Music at Grand Rapids, Mich.

She is a past president of the local P-T.A. Mothersingers and of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Union City, Pa.

The afternoon program will feature Betty Olsson, concert and operatic soprano, who will be introduced by Ona Lou Hondrum.

The meeting will be opened with an inspirational reading by Mrs. I. B. House.

Voice of the Vikings

SURFING FILM SCREENS AS AMS FUND-RAISER

Liberal Arts

Strictly the "Voiceless Vikings" last week, students of the Long Beach City College liberal arts division are back in print (this week, anyhow), thanks to a couple of interim contributors.

Members of the Associated Men Students are sponsoring a fund-raising surfing movie, "Barefoot Adventure," at 8 p.m. Monday and Wednesday in the college auditorium. The production is filmed and narrated by Bruce Brown, with original sound track composed by Bud Shank. Tickets available at the door both nights.

* * * *

FIRST LBCC Theater Arts production of the season will be Thornton Wilder's "The Skin of Our Teeth," scheduled Oct. 27-28. Leading roles will be played by Virlee Stickles, Alan Ross, Marlene Silverstien, Ted Cheadle and Deanna Del Buono. Director is J. L. White.

Dr. Rodger Swearingen, associate professor of international relations at USC, addresses the Student Forum at 11 a.m. Wednesday on "Life Behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains."

Alpha Mu Gamma, foreign language honorary, has elected Jeff Valentine as fall semester president. Other officers are George Viera, Carolyn Older, Thelma Diaz and Manfred Hanneman. Alpha Gamma Sigma, scholastic honorary, is currently conducting a drive for new members among those who attained the requisite grade-point average last year.

Business, Technology

On the Pacific Coast Highway campus two relatively new musical organizations, the Evening Band and the daytime Dance Band, continue to grow under the direction of Earl Thomas and plan a number of performances this fall. Additional performers are still welcome.

First Co-Rec program of the new term will be held Saturday from 8-11:30 p.m., with sports activities and dancing co-sponsored by Theta and Electrical Industrial Regents. Earlier on Saturday, Student Council members will attend the Southern California Junior College Student Government Association conference in Pasadena.

RUSHING is still in progress for several BTD clubs. The Order of Kisab has accepted 17 new members, who now undergo a four-week pledgeship period. Sigma Delta Phi rushees will entertain Sigma members with a talent show Wednesday evening. Bruce Hatch, president of International Club, announces the group's first off-campus social gathering for this evening.

New officers of the Inter-Club Council are Dave Bleasdell (Airframe and Powerplant Club), president; Ken Curry (American Society of Tool and Manufacturing Engineers), vice president; and Vicky Kelly (Theta), secretary.

No pregame odds have been posted, but the BTD faculty has challenged the Student Council to an exhibition volleyball game at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the gymnasium.

Lunch Set by Chapter

Los Cerritos Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will open its club year with a luncheon program in the Lafayette Hotel Tuesday.

Mrs. John G. Kirk will discuss national defense and members will report summer travel experiences.

Reports also will be given on the recent Constitution Day program and Regional Conference.

The Wild Waves Say . .

By IOLA MASTERSON
I, P-T Women's Editor

IT WAS a double barreled celebration at the Long Beach Yacht Club the other night when a gang of friends gathered to honor Johnnie Miller on his birthday. You see, the women in the crowd were ushered, along with the male guests, downstairs and through a door clearly marked, "Men Only." No, Mable! The party site was the Skippers' Cove — that sanctum sanctorum of the stag luncheon and card party, a place which is, 99 per cent of the time, off-bounds to the gals.

'Johnnie-on-The-Spot'

Following cocktails, during which time Johnnie opened a veritable mountain of gifts and the crowd howled at the variety of totally disrespectful greeting cards, they meandered on back upstairs to co-existence territory for dinner.

* * * *

IF YOU had followed your ear to the source of joyous noises coming out of Orange County all week you'd have wound up on the doorstep of Flo and John Brooks. The noises have been typical of the kind made by people who learn they are grandparents for the first time. Stephen Sanford was born in Coronado Saturday, Sept. 30 to Elizabeth and Lt. John Brooks.

Now hear this, civilians, and count your blessings whatever they may be. Dad John leaves NEXT Sunday for a nine-month Navy cruise to Thailand. At the moment he probably grimly suspects his son will be in first grade before he ever sets eyes on him again.

* * * *

ON THE other hand, and still speaking of the Navy, let's give the devil his dues, by reporting the case of Eileen (Ball) and Lt. Cmdr. Nevin Rockwell. Wouldn't be surprised if Eileen has his new orders framed and on the wall, they're that pretty to her. They'll be on their way to Hawaii next month for three glorious years shore duty at Pearl Harbor. About time for some plush stuff. After all, Nevin has just returned from seven months in the Pacific and their baby daughter, Randy Anne, is six and one-half months old. So to heck with the dues to unowho.

Dues to Nevin, though. He helped win the coveted engineering Navy E for excellence from this past sea duty aboard U.S.S. Treble.

WHIZ GOLFER Ruth Miller and her partner won a first at a Riviera Country Club member-guest tournament the other day—low gross someone said, and in a case like this least is "the most." Also playing were localites Kay Elliott and Elva Lawson. Asked to comment on THEIR standing in the event they countered with "Enjoyed the play . . . lovely course . . . fine club . . . " Their remarks, freely translated: "Back to the driving range for us."

* * * *

INVETERATE card and bouquet sender Georgeine (Mrs. Harry) Christensen is currently residing in St. Mary's Hospital where she can make a first hand study of other people's methods in the flowers and greeting card sending department and at the same time recoup from surgery undergone earlier this week. Her friends now have a chance to get even with her. Check with yon sterling ether emporium before bustling over in person; not too sure of her medic's orders regarding visitors yet.

* * * *

THE PROBLEM isn't to pull a rabbit out of a hat—but a hat out of the imagination in the case of socialites preparing for the always smart Headdress Ball, sponsored by the L.B. Auxiliary to the L.A. Philharmonic, calendared for Nov. 4. Help is now on the way for those women determined to construct their own intricate "hats" for competition. Tabi Dorgan (their leader) had a coffee hour and instruction-on-construction session. Those unable to attend clamored for additional lessons from Virginia (Mrs. Earl B.) Milton, parade chairman and instructoress deluxe. Two more build-a-chapeaux coffees are set. One Monday morning at Vera (Mrs. Robert) Wallin's home and another on Oct. 16 at Isadine (Mrs. Ken) McCalls. Anyone planning to attend the ball and compete is welcome.

'The Hat Trick'

THERE'S one driver in Katherine (Mrs. Irving) Smith's golf bag that wears its hat at a jauntier angle than the others. More like a halo effect. It's the one that made a hole-in-one for her at Hacienda last week, a 155-yard clout on the third hole. Witnesses to this club and player triumph were her foursomers Pat Straten, Barbara Beasley and Nancy Swartz. The accomplishment makes Katherine feel a little less like the black sheep of her family. Her Dad, Earl Cody, has done it at Virginia and her sister, Marjory Burris, joined the hole-in-one fraternity on a course in Schnectady, N.Y. Katie isn't too sure she'll ever catch up with her sister, even so. Marge is one of New York State's champion women golf amateurs.

* * * *

STEALING THE show—and everything else handy—was Paul Parrish who astounded Rick Rackers with his sleight of hand tricks at their party at Bev and Jim McCormack's. They tell me he really was quite astounding, making everything from lighted cigarettes to bulky sweaters just disappear into thin air. Hey! Where did my typewriter go?

Wed in Chapel

In the presence of their immediate families, Patricia Furth Dinel of Long Beach became the bride of Theodore John Morse, Seattle, Wash., in an afternoon ceremony at Aloha Wedding Chapel.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Dinel, 213 La Verne Ave., and the late Arthur Dinel, wore an afternoon dress of yellow chiffon with matching accessories.

Hit 'I Do' Production Stars Pair of Localites

Big news on the matrimonial beat is the quiet Las Vegas ceremony of last Sunday which starred Peg Finley and Glenn St. George in a hit "I Do" production!

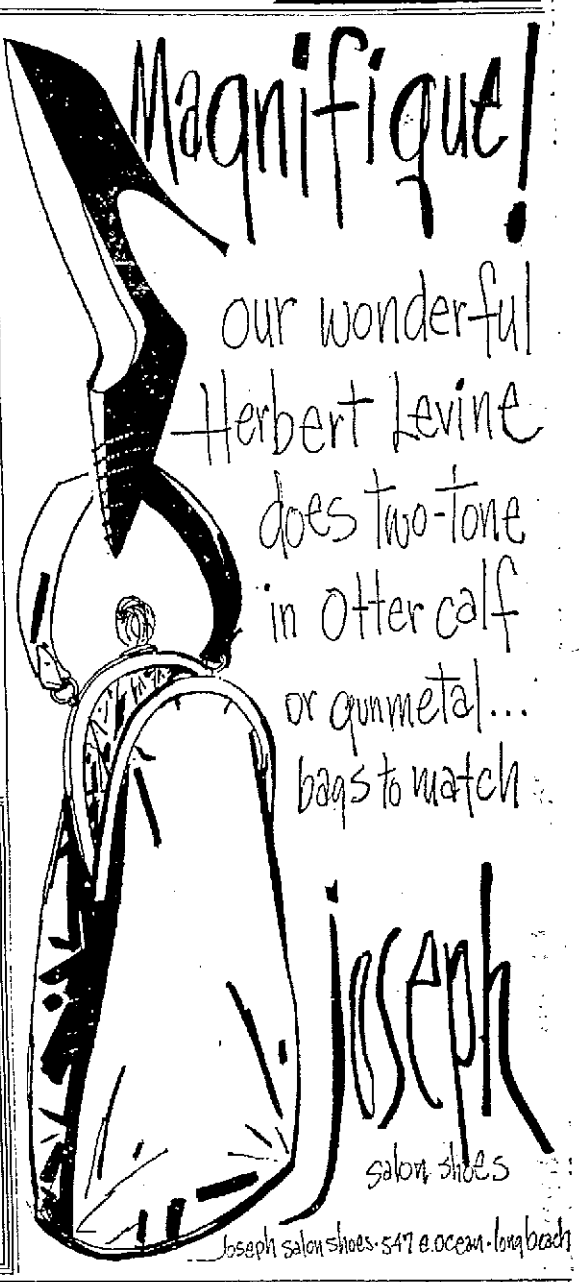

They returned to Long Beach Monday night. And guess what. Glenn learned he had to turn right around and head for Phoenix early Tuesday morning on a business trip! Don't panic. He's back again. The honeymooners are having close friends in this afternoon for cocktails and a post-nuptial celebration.

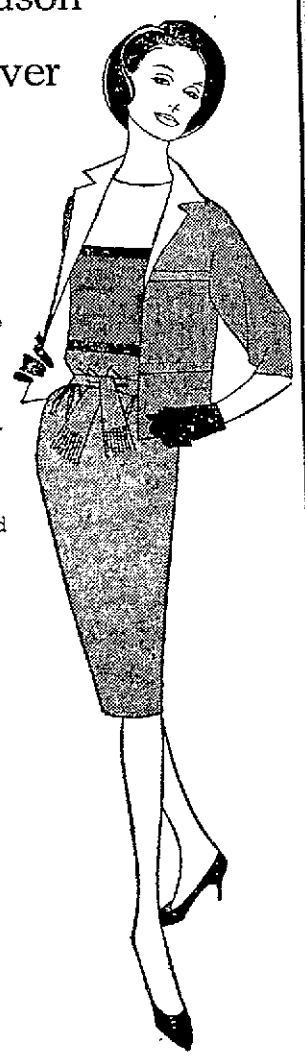

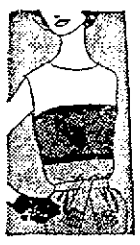

'Some Wedding Gift'

Incidentally, the first thing the bride did when she also returned to work Tuesday (she is public relations staffer for L. A. Athletic Clubs including our Pacific Coast Club) was to answer her phone in the old, familiar way: "This is Peggy Finley speaking . . ." Yeh. It was Glenn calling long distance from Arizona.

Parade of Fall Fashions

"An Autumn Afternoon of Fashion" is the theme for the annual fashion show and luncheon to be given by Long Beach Area Council of Beta Sigma Phi Saturday noon in the Grand Ballroom of Lafayette Hotel.

Proceeds will benefit the Long Beach Chapter of Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

General chairman of the event, Mrs. Nick Mosich of Delta Chi Chapter, is being assisted by Mrs. A. W. Anderson, president of the council; Mrs. Spicer Ramsay Jr., past president; and committee members from the council's 21 chapters.

* * * *

NEWEST fashions and accessories from Vinson's of Long Beach and Bixby Knolls will be shown as Beta Sigma Phi members model designs by Abe Schrader, Nat Tuman, Dorothy O'Hara and Nathan Strong.

Background music will be played by Paul Buzard's string ensemble. Attractive door prizes will be awarded and a lucky ticket holder will receive a $100 gift certificate.

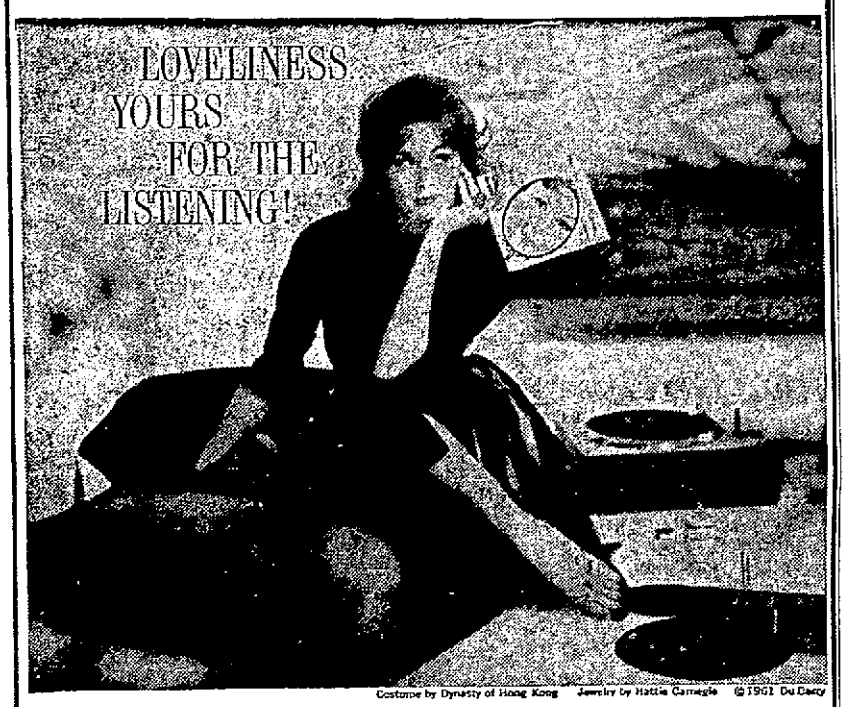

The show is open to the public. Tickets are available from any Beta Sigma Phi member, at Vinson's or at the door on the day of the show.

ZBT FILM BAGS COVETED AWARD

A chronological approach to the Long Beach State College activities scene reveals the following:

1. LBSC's Zeta Beta Tau chapter nabbed their fraternity's third most coveted prize at the recent national convention in Chicago when they brought home the public relations award. The trophy goes to the chapter or individual who has done the most to enhance the fraternity's reputation. Stu Rosen's rush film combined with ZBT's rapid growth and participation in campus affairs in its 18 months of existence were the big factors.

2. Tonight sees another program in the series cosponsored by the Long Beach Film Society and the LBSC Associated Students. The program consists of Rene Clair's "A Nous La Liberte" (Give Us Freedom) and a unique crime tale, "The Stranger Left No Card." Because of the very large turnout for the first program two weeks ago, the one-show-per-night policy has been changed to showings at 5 and 7:30 p.m., both in the Little Theater.

3. Women's Week starts tomorrow on campus with a panel discussion and forum, continues with the traditional AWS "Hi-Jinx" Wednesday evening, and winds up with the crowning of "Diamond Jim," also traditional, at the Diamond Jim Ball Saturday night.

4. Two top Evenings-on-Campus offerings are on tap Thursday and Friday. The first is a concert by famed counter-tenor Russell Oberlin and the second is a lecture by author Vance Packard of "The Hidden Persuaders" fame. Both programs are at 8 p.m. in the Little Theater.

AND TO CLOSE out our column, some information on Delta Gamma: the sorority chartered a 40-passenger bus to attend last night's football game at San Diego . . . 12 pledges bring the DG roster to more than 60 members . . . two Saturdays ago the seniors kidnaped the pledges for a 6:30 breakfast and last Monday the pledges retaliated by absconding not only with their Big Sisters but, seemingly more important, also all the forks and spoons in the Delta Gamma House,

Well, to continue—DG is represented among the song girls by Connie Sonntag and Linda Bush . . . three of the five offices in Spurs (sophomore service honorary) belong to DG's: Judy Krenwinkle, veep; Kitty McCoy, secretary; and Karen Wood, historian . . . and a little farther to the north on the USC campus is Carol Ream who not only is the National Sweetheart of Sigma Chi, but is a Delta Gamma as well.

ST. GEORGE AND THE DRAGON
Carved figure of St. George and the Dragon by Hans Bruggenann, created about 1520, is one of featured works in "Arts of Denmark" show on view at Los Angeles Municipal Art Gallery through Oct. 29. Hours are 1 to 9 p.m. Mondays through Fridays; 1 to 5 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. Examples of current work also are shown.

Viking to Modern Art in 'Denmark' Exhibit

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

"Arts of Denmark, from Viking to Modern" at Barnsdall Park is an exciting and comprehensive show, one that appeals to all, including children, as well as lovers of fine art. As lovely as any are two amber objects, a bird and a bear, elegantly carved in from 8,000 to 5,000 B.C. Flint axes, daggers, and chisels show artistry as well as efficiency.

The adornments of the Vikings, a silver and gold helmet, massive necklaces, rings, belt-buckles, etc. are beautiful by today's standards. The same could be said for the earthenware vessels and other implements of use.

* * * *

ST. GEORGE and the Dragon of 1520 is a handsome life-size sculpture in wood, beautifully summarized, with the writhing reptile in his last throes. Many other works from the medieval period are shown.

Arts and crafts of the 17th and 18th centuries are most handsome. The porcelain and silver done in that time in shapes and simplicity are more "modern" than French, English, and German works with which we are, perhaps, more familiar. Of particular beauty was a large linen hanging embroidered in red silk, and a "bishop's bowl" in blue and white faience.

Among the contemporary, we were particularly impressed with a teak double salad bowl by Modeller, a sterling water jug by Hans Hansen, and a quilt (the likes of which grandmother never made) by Ann-Mari Kornerup.

Twin Bill, New Time for Films

"Give Us Freedom" (A Nous La Liberte), Rene Clair's film satire, will be shown at 5 and 7:30 p.m. today in Long Beach State College's Little Theater as the second program in Long Beach Film Society's current series, "Perspective in World Cinema." The picture is a critique of life in our mechanized age.

Co-feature will be "The Stranger Left No Card," winner of the 1953 Cannes Film Festival.

The 5 o'clock show was requested by the "Evenings on Campus" committee of the college to accommodate new patrons and students. Subscribers may attend either showing.

Series memberships or single admissions will be available at the box office before performances.

Elman, Iturbi Booked for Concert Date

Internationally - famous musicians, violinist Mischa Elman and conductor Jose Iturbi head the list of guest artists who will appear on Orange County Philharmonic Society's five-concert series this year.

Elman and Iturbi will be featured with the 60-piece Orange County Philharmonic Orchestra March 30 in Fullerton High School Auditorium.

Other concerts, all to be played in Orange Coast College Auditorium, are:

Oct. 20, with the society's musical director, Frieda Belinfante and guest artists Virginia Majewski, violist, and Isarael Baker, violinist.

Dec. 1, the orchestra with Constantin Bakaleinikoff, guest conductor.

Jan. 13, Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, directed by Hans Schmidt-Issertadt.

April 27, Freida Belinfante will direct; guest artists will be Marquita Moll, soprano from the Metropolitan Opera, and Hernan Pelayo, South American baritone.

Tickets for the series are now being sold throughout the county, with individuals, service clubs and business firms cooperating. They also may be obtained at the Philharmonic office, 201 West Coast Highway, Newport Beach.

New Programs at Museum

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

If you've been puzzled about the whole subject of art because you're a novice, or if you're an expert and want to share your interest, a new program at Long Beach Museum of Art may be for you.

Sponsored by the American Association of University Women and open to all without charge, a series of art lectures will begin Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. at the museum. Subsequent lectures will be given each second Tuesday morning of the month through May.

The programs will be correlated with the museum's new "Master Work of the Month" series, which will show selections of art by modern or past masters.

Says Mrs. Frank A. Vorhes Jr., art chairman of AAUW, "Basically it will be the viewing of the master work and, through the lecture, understanding its relationship to the present trend in art."

First subject will be George Romney's "Emma, Lady Hamilton."

Three branch libraries have interesting exhibits through the month of October.

Metal sculpture by Robert Gronendyke is at Bret Harte Branch, 1595 W. Willow St. (His steel and brass sculptures of characters from Bret Harte's stories are a permanent feature of the library.)

Gronendyke, now a member of the art faculty of the University of Montana, has current exhibits in Los Angeles.

Dorris C. Stogner, 701 Janice Drive, has her first one-woman show at Dana Branch, 3680 Atlantic Ave. She has lived in Long Beach since she was a child and has been painting since 1955. Her first training was in the local schools; she studied later with Long Beach teachers. She is a new member of Long Beach Art Association.

Two Long Beach State College art majors have oil paintings on exhibit at Ruth Bach Branch, 4055 Bellflower Blvd. Bob Wilson is a senior, Jim Simpson a graduate student. Both are Californians in their early 20s. Wilson is primarily concerned with "things with which people surround themselves — these tell more about men and women than facial expression." To Simpson, form is incidental to color.

A ONE-MAN show of prints by Sam Michaels opens today at Gambit Gallery, 23 39th Place; hours will be 1 to 5 p.m. daily through Nov. 5. A few pieces of his sculpture also are on exhibit.

Michaels began studies in 1951 at Chouinard Art Institute, spent three years at Los Angeles County Art Institute and studied during the past year with Dick Swift at Long Beach State College. He is now teaching art in the General Adult Division of Long Beach City College.

MASTERWORK
"Emma, Lady Hamilton," by Romney, is on display at Long Beach Museum of Art as first exhibit in "Masterwork of the Month" series.

Famed Ballet to Open Nov. 20

The Leningrad Kirov Ballet, formerly the Maryinsky Ballet, will visit Southern California for 11 performances in Shrine Auditorium starting Nov. 20 under tour management of S. Hurok.

Repertoire will include three full-length ballets, "Sleeping Beauty," "Swan Lake" and "Giselle" as well as many short and exciting ballets.

Eight Win Scholarships

Scholarships have been awarded to eight music students at Long Beach State College.

Jaclyn Marquart, 618 W. 38th St., a freshman, was awarded the $100 Woman's Music Club of Long Beach scholarship. A pianist who also plays string bass, she received the Gill Award as outstanding 1961 music graduate of Poly High School.

The Kiwanis Club awarded $100 scholarships to Dennis Kelly of Anaheim and Burnette Dillon of South Gate. Kelly, a freshman, is a vocalist who has already won a number of honors including two scholarships from the Southern California Vocal Association. Dillon plays the trumpet.

'Redhead' and 'Phoenix' Next Offering at LBCC

Agnes Moorehead as "That Fabulous Redhead," will share a double bill with Christopher Fry's "A Phoenix Too Frequent" in the second Long Beach City College "Evenings at Eight" program of the year Friday night in the college auditorium.

Though no more season tickets are available, approximately 200 single-admission tickets will be sold at the box office Friday evening.

Produced by Paul Gregory, the program will feature Miss Moorehead, noted for her many stage, screen and television roles, in a one-woman virtuoso performance of readings, mimicry and theatrical reminiscenses. The readings will be from such sources as James Thurber, Marcel Proust, George Bernard Shaw and the Bible.

* * * *

STARRING in Christopher Fry's satirical one-act verse comedy will be Richard Gray, who also directs the production, and Mayo Loizeaux, supported by comedienne Louise Vincent. . . . .

Setting of "A Phoenix Too Frequent" is an Ephesian tomb. Dynameme, a beautiful young widow (Miss Loizeaux), is determined to follow her beloved husband to the after-world. She is accompanied by her earthy handmaiden Doto (Miss Vincent). Their plans are considerably implicated by the accidental entrance of a handsome and gallant Roman corporal, Tegeus (Gray).

Also in the cast are Florence Cole, Keith Houdyshell, Dan Baurac, Tony Sakowicz, and Jerome Weyland.

Maior & Minor Notes

-DOWNEY SYMPHONY IS CREDIT TO FOUNDER

By RACHEL MORTON
I. P-T Music Critic

The little town of Downey is most fortunate in having a really excellent symphony orchestra, and the success of that orchestra is directly attributable to its founder and conductor, Mario Cajati.

I had some misgivings when I was asked to review a concert by this symphony last June. But I came away excited and enthusiastic. Recently I attended their first concert of this season and was again deeply impressed.

Who was this man, Mario Cajati, and where did he come from? He kindly obliged by coming to see me and we had a most stimulating afternoon. Mario Cajati, once an assistant to Arturo Toscanini, was born in Naples, Italy, some 45 years ago. He has crowded a lot into those years. He has lived with music all of his life. His brother was a cellist, one sister a pianist, the other a harpist. So ensemble music was the daily diet! His uncle Salvatore Cajati, was professor of violin and cello at the Naples Conservatory.

SO, WHEN MARIO was 8 years old he entered his uncle's class studying violin and cello. After NINE years (please note this, "hurry up" American students!) Mario Cajati received a diploma entitling him to teach. But he wanted more study so he went to Rome and graduated from the Rome Conservatory of Music, where he studied composition, harmony and of course, the cello.

During his student days in Naples this ambitious young lad got a job in the orchestra of the San Carlo Company, its youngest member at 13 years. This early training accounts for his vast knowledge of opera.

BUT I ALWAYS wanted to be a conductor," stated Cajati, "even as a boy." The San Carlo Opera Company went to Egypt for an opera season and young Cajati went along, visiting Alexandria, Cairo and other cities. Cajati's father despaired of his young son's roving proclivities and when he was 15 he gave him an ultimatum. Either settle down, or get out. "I left home," related Cajati, "and I have earned my own living ever since."

After graduating from the Rome Conservatory he concertized successfully as cello soloist all over Italy. This reconciled his father, who finally advised him to try America. It so happened that Mario's uncle, Gaetano Merola, was the impresario of the San Francisco Opera Company, and it was to him the father entrusted the wandering son.

"But," said Cajati, "as soon as I reached New York I heard of a position for cellist on a ship for South America. In two weeks I was aboard and I visited Buenos Aires, Santiago, Montevideo and other South American cities. It was a most thrilling experience."

BACK IN NEW YORK he auditioned for the symphony orchestra which played daily at the Roxy Theatre under Erno Rappe. He was engaged in the cello section and played for two years.

A great admirer of Toscanini, he longed to play in his orchestra. Fifty cellists auditioned and two were accepted: Mario Cajati and the brother of Eugene Ormandy. The great Toscanini became his friend and counselor and Mario Cajati never conducts a concert without the baton the maestro gave him. For 20 years Cajati played with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra under Toscanini and later under Mitropolus; always watching and learning the conductor's art.

"I told my father that I would die with a stick in my hand," he declared.

(To Be Continued)

Dr. Chapman to Lecture

Dr. Norman C. Chapman, head of music at Pierce College, will discuss the "Background of Contemporary Music" at a meeting of Musical Arts Club Monday at 6:30 p.m. in the Empire Room, Wilton Hotel.

Dr. Chapman, who received his degrees from Columbia University, is a flute soloist and former member of the New York Philharmonic.

Clayton Barrie, newly-elected club president, will open the meeting. Izora Brandt, program chairman, will introduce the speaker.

'Peter and Wolf'

Actor Joseph Schildkraut will narrate the musical fable, "Peter and the Wolf" when the Meremblum Junior Symphony of California plays Prokofieff's lilting music at their silver anniversary concert in Santa Monica Civic Auditorium Nov. 5 at 8:30 p.m.

Comic With Trio

Ronnie Schell, young comic whose caustic comments on the political scene and everyday life first were heard at The Purple Onion in San Francisco, will perform with the Kingston Trio Saturday night in Municipal Auditorium.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

Ringless All Ways

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Every time the phone rings my heart jumps. My best beau and I broke up about six weeks ago.

We didn't really have a fight. He simply said he thought that going steady was silly unless we planned to be married soon. And he knew that "soon" was out for us.

I have plans for college next year, and so does he. We had agreed to wait for marriage until we both graduated. Then he decided it had to be all or nothing. So it's nothing.

His last words were, "Well, I'll give you a ring sometime." But so far he hasn't. I'm scared to leave the house for fear he'll call. —BROKEN HEARTED MEG

DEAR MEG:

It's the old, old story of "all alone, by the telephone —," isn't it?

Well, dear Meg, why don't you write a new chapter to the old story? Leave the telephone all alone, for a change. Or else keep it busy as all get out calling your friends and making dates and getting back into circulation!—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

What do you think of a fellow who sends you home from a party with another couple just because he says he's sleepy and has an exam tomorrow? That happened to me last week-end, and I'm still spitting mad. Should I ever date him again?—SPITTING MAD

DEAR MAD:

Never! And I'd let the word get around school about what happened. So maybe he won't get a date with anyone for a long time —at least until he's caught up on his sleep.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Our son is a great worry to us. He is 18 now and will undoubtedly be called up for army training soon.

He is a funny lad, though. He hates regimentation, says he can't stand the idea of barracks life, and no privacy. We keep telling him he MUST face the inevitable. He keeps trying to figure on a way out.

What do you do with a boy like this? We love him dearly, but we do think his attitude is cowardly.—MOM AND POP.

DEAR MOM AND POP:

You can't serve for him, you can't "suffer" in advance for him. If he doesn't realize that he is one among millions and must conform, then he's going to have to learn that stern lesson from his Uncle Sam.—M.M.

the sensational new cream for aging skin

For two years, scientists in Switzerland and America secretly tested a totally new kind of skin cream on hundreds of women, aged 26 to 74.

Now, the facts about this remarkable cream for aging skin can be told. Now, the cream is here!

Can a cream really make dramatic improvements in aging skin? Today, the probability exists as never before! Doctors and research scientists from four great universities tested 'Eterna 27' by Revlon.

They saw remarkable results in 6 out of 10 cases. Usually the skin with the most apparent signs of age showed the most improvement. It has no hormone activity . . . no hormone effects. 'Eterna 27' 2 oz. $8 plus tax and has a money-back guarantee. (c) 1961 Revlon, Inc.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Result Is Worth the Effort

DEAR ABBY: My life is such an unhappy mess I don't know where to begin. I am 22 years old, I am not married, engaged or going with anyone. I never have had a date or kissed anyone. Once a boy tried to kiss me and I didn't know how to respond. When I was in high school I had several boys for friends, but they never asked me out.

ABBY

All the girls I know are either married or have boy friends. If a boy shows an interest in me I become frightened and don't know how to act. My relatives call me "old maid" behind my back, and some even to my face. I am not unattractive. I am neat and clean and have a good figure and dress well. I don't go to church so don't send me to a clergyman. I can't afford the prices I've heard psychiatrists charge. I don't want to go through life alone. I'm sorry I can't sign my name. (Sign me) . . .—OLD MAID AT 22

DEAR OLD MAID: To have friends you must be a friend. For one troubled by shyness, this is not easy. But you must make an effort to give of yourself through association with people—at your office, in charity work, at church. No one goes through life wholly "alone" except by choice—his choice. Relax, dear, you have nothing to lose but your loneliness.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: When parents have passed away what happens to the gifts given to them by their children? Does any one of the children have the right to help herself to jewelry, appliances, linen, silver or anything else? I always thought the gift should go back to the person who gave it. This has caused a lot of hard feelings in our family, and I would like some opinions rather than my own as I have been called . . .—"SMALL AND GRASPING"

DEAR SMALL: The gift should be returned to the giver. The adjectives applied to you seem to fit other members of your family more appropriately.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: My mother doesn't care what she looks like when she goes anywhere. I gave her a few tips on how to fix her hair, and what to wear, but she says I am being fresh and, if I don't like the way she looks, to keep it to myself. She could be a pretty woman if she would take a little time with herself. How can I help her without getting her mad—EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: It is understandable that a mother would resent "criticism" from her 13-year-old daughter. Offer your suggestions in a more tactful way, and your mother will probably be more receptive. And perhaps even grateful.

Delegates Announced

Two representatives of Long Beach Exceptional Children's Foundation Inc. will attend the 11th annual convention of the National Association for Retarded Children in San Francisco.

Mrs. Millard Nichols, president, and Ven Fahrney of the local foundation will take part in the four-day event which will open officially Thursday morning at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel.

Registration will take place Tuesday. Others attending from Long Beach will be Mrs. Ven Fahrney, Millard Nichols and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Forrest. The Long Beach foundation is a member of the National Association.

THURSDAY afternoon new developments in research will be discussed and the first official delegate session will get under way. Regional meetings and a social hour are planned for the evening.

Following Friday morning's general business session, meetings concerning public education and rehabilitation, private and public residential centers and the U. S. Children's Bureau have been scheduled.

What's on the Menu?

The following menus will be served in Long Beach elementary schools in the week of Oct. 9-13:

MONDAY: Spaghetti with franks, buttered green beans, Mandarin pear half, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

TUESDAY: Cheese bean burger, buttered whole kernel corn, garden salad, oatmeal cookie and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Neapolitan salad, Hawaiian coleslaw, sliced peaches, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

THURSDAY: Hot meat loaf with gravy, mashed potatoes, tomato-cottage cheese salad, cinnamon yeast rolls, and milk.

FRIDAY: Tuna noodle casserole, garden peas, cantaloupe wedge, French bread and butter and milk.

The above items make up the elementary children's lunch 30c.

JUNIOR-SENIOR HIGH

MONDAY: Ham slice with creamed potatoes, coleslaw, fruit gelatin, cornbread and milk.

TUESDAY: Taco, Rio rice, buttered green beans, apple Betty, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Chopped steak on mashed potatoes, buttered peas, tomato-cottage cheese salad, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

THURSDAY: Cheese bean burger, buttered corn, strawberry sauce with topping, celery sticks and milk.

FRIDAY: Tuna a la king on cheese biscuit or tamale pie, garden salad, fruit cup royale, coconut bar, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

Today, Revlon ends the secrecy:

For two years, scientists in Switzerland and America secretly tested a totally new kind of skin cream on hundreds of women...aged 26 to 74. Their purpose was to prove or disprove whether Science had finally created the formula that could cause visible improvements in aging skin. Today, the remarkable facts, documented by doctors, can be revealed about

'ETERNA 27' by Revlon
WITH EXCLUSIVE PROGENITIN®

Can a cream really make dramatic improvements in aging skin? Is this possible? Today, the probability exists as never before. Surely no woman will deny herself the chance to find out if she can regain a look she thought had gone forever.

SCIENTISTS ARE SKEPTICS. They believe only what they can prove. Doctors and research scientists from four of the world's great universities tested 'Eterna 27' with exclusive Progenitin. Their signed documents state exactly what they saw this cream do for women.

IN 6 OUT OF EVERY 10 CASES... they saw remarkable results. Usually, the skin with the most apparent signs of age showed the most improvement. In most of the remaining cases, while the change was not so dramatic, the skin did look more youthful and definitely smoother. With such medical testimony from prominent specialists in the field of skin care, can there be doubt that here, at last, is the kind of cream that women have hoped for with every passing year? In just 40 days of use, you will see how your skin responds.

WHY 40 DAYS? Tests show that 'Eterna 27' begins to show results after 2 to 3 weeks of faithful use. But like a medicine, like a special diet . . . it takes time for the cream to do its work. In 40 days, the maximum benefits are visible. But remember that 'Eterna 27' is not plastic surgery, not a cure. It is a special cosmetic treatment against aging skin. To keep the benefits, the cream should be used nightly thereafter. For if you deprive your skin of the vital ingredients that caused the improvements . . . the benefits will disappear. Your common sense will tell you that.

NO COMPLICATED RITUAL. You simply massage 'Eterna 27' into your skin. In seconds, it disappears. With it, there's really no need to use any other night cream . . . because 'Eterna 27' acts as lubricator, moisturizer, eye and throat cream.

PATENTED FORMULA. The 'Eterna 27' formula belongs to Revlon, and Revlon alone. Its vital basic ingredient, Progenitin, is patented for use only by Revlon. It has no hormone activity . . . no hormone effects.

GUARANTEE. 'Eterna 27' can do more for you than any other cosmetic cream—whether it costs $20, $40 or $100. 'Eterna 27' is $8 plus tax. If, after faithful use, you don't agree this cream has fulfilled its promise to you, simply return the jar for a total refund. The first limited supply of 'Eterna 27' is at fine cosmetic counters now.

Your doctor is invited to see clinical photographs and documentary evidence, by appointment with the Medical Director, Revlon, Inc., 666 Fifth Avenue, New York.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Something Fishy Going On!

William Gillis

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I. P-T Food Editor

There's little doubt but that he could relate the life story of the tuna. He's actually academically and professionally aware of all the various stages of growth of that worthy fish—even to its wiggle. Today's Chef of the Week, William (Bill) Gillis, is vice president in charge of all production for the Van Camp Sea Food Co., more specifically, Chicken of the Sea.

Born in Eureka, Calif., Gillis inherited his knowledge of all things marine from his dad, one of the founders of the old White Star Cannery Co. It merged with Van Camp's Sea Food Co. in 1914. Our "chef" came to Long Beach while still at the crawling age.

* * * *

AFTER finishing school in 1933, he took off on a tuna clipper, and toured the coast of South America. His various sea jaunts would run anywhere from 60 to 120 days, depending upon the catch.

After three years at sea, he came into Van Camp's Terminal Island office, going into the purchasing department. Three years later he was sent to Astoria, Ore., as plant manager. Since then, Gillis has managed both the San Diego and Terminal Island locations. Presently he is responsible for the processing of hundreds of tons of tuna each month, being in charge of all production in Pago Pago, Manta, Equador, Puerto Rico, Samoa, Ponce and in both Freetown and Abidjan, Africa. He's as much "at home" in these various cities as he is at Terminal Island.

* * * *

A MASON, Gillis also holds memberships in the Petroleum, the Gyro and the Long Beach Yacht Clubs.

The Gillis family consists of a son who is in the Army, and two daughters, Sheryl and Patricia, 19 and 17 respectively. They share their dad's enthusiasm for swimming, water skiing and yachting.

Affable and interesting, he has a multitude of friends for whom he'll whip-up a Chicken of the Sea Tuna-Mushroom Cashew Casserole at the drop of a hook so to speak.

TUNA-MUSHROOM-CASHEW CASSEROLE
(Serves 5)

- 1 cup (½ pint) commercial sour cream
- ¼ tsp. ground oregano.
- ¼ tsp. thyme
- ¼ tsp. basil
- Salt and ground pepper
- 2 6½-oz. cans drained Chicken of the Sea Tuna
- 2 cups (cooked) elbow macaroni
- ½ cup sliced ripe olives
- ¾ cups sliced mushrooms (and juice)
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- 2 large celery stalks
- 4 green onions and tops
- ¼ cup chopped cashew nuts
- 1 cup (4 ounces) grated process-type American cheese

Combine sour cream, oregano, thyme, basil and salt and ground pepper in large bowl. Add tuna, macaroni, olives, mushrooms, green pepper, celery, onions and nuts. Mix well. Spoon into 1½-quart casserole. Sprinkle cheese on top. Bake in moderate oven (350 F) 25 to 30 minutes. Serve at once. This recipe is also very good when served as a cold salad with hard boiled eggs added.

Grand Slam Is Problem

For the last 25 or 30 years most leading bridge players in this country have either shunned four-card major suit openings entirely or only bid them when there was no other convenient bid.

Certainly the one club opening by North is a convenient bid and it was no problem for South to wind up at six hearts. Actually, there was a problem. He thought about bidding seven!

	NORTH (D) ♠AJ4 ♥AQ107 ♦96 ♣K1054
WEST ♠653 ♥4 ♦K1083 ♣QJ976		EAST ♠Q97 ♥J62 ♦J754 ♣832
	SOUTH ♠K1082 ♥K9853 ♦AQ2 ♣A

Both sides vulnerable

North	East	South	West
1♣	Pass	1♥	Pass
3♥	Pass	4 N.T.	Pass
5♥	Pass	5 N.T.	Pass
6♦	Pass	6♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♠3

West opened a spade and located the queen of spades for South. He drew trumps, discarded one of dummy's diamonds on his long spade and made all the tricks.

* * * *

THERE WAS considerable discussion at the table about whether or not the other North-South pair would reach seven hearts, but no one imagined what actually happened. At the other table North wound up playing six hearts. East opened the four of diamonds and North lost the diamond finesse right off the bat. Later on, he misguessed the spade and wound up going down.

How did North get to six hearts? He was one of those players who liked to open with a major suit whenever possible on the theory that he could play more hands that way.

He opened with one heart. South jumped to two spades and again the partnership toyed with the idea of a grand slam, but stopped at six.

New Marina Development Under Way

HOUSING FOR HUNDREDS of vacation visitors will be provided under the $7 million development now under way in Long Beach by the Marina Property Co. The big project is being developed by the Homer Toberman Enterprises, Beverly Hills, and Martin L. Burton Co., Los Angeles contracting firm. This artist's rendering, looking east, pin-points some of the project. No. 1, at the intersection of Pacific Coast Highway and Second Street, will be a de luxe lodge of 200 rooms and some shops, directly east of Buffums' Marina Store. No. 2 is the Marina. No. 3 is boat slips in the canal running from the Marina to the Bixby properties. No. 4 is the center of a de luxe trailer park with 324 sites. No. 5 is the location of a 100-unit motel with ample parking for boats and trailers. Grading for the trailer park, to be known as Belmont Shores Mobile Estates, is now being completed and work will start this week on the travel lodge site. Roy A. Sealey is the architect on the project.

CLUBHOUSE FOR TRAILER PARK

Here is the architect's rendering on one of the two big recreation buildings planned for the Belmont Shore Mobile Estates. A large clubhouse, some shops, swimming pool and other recreational facilities are included.

Marina Vista Homes Grand Opening Today

CHARM IN BIG HOME

Stone and brick are combined in this dramatic fireplace treatment at Marina Vista, new development in the Belmont Shore-Naples area of Long Beach.

Official grand opening of Marina Vista, new development of $23,400 to $26,250 one-and-two-story homes in the Belmont Shore-Naples area, starts today.

A fireplace in the master bedroom and a separate sewing room are among the unusual features of the one-and-two-story, three - and four-bedroom furnished models, which are open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily.

* * * *

NO DOWN payment for veterans, and excellent conventional financing has been arranged for Marina Vista. Features include: Oak hardwood floors, brick and stone fireplaces with gas log lighters, heavy duty aluminum sliding glass doors to patio areas, electric door chimes, king-sized wardrobes, Waste King built-in automatic dish washer, Wedgewood Holly built-in range and oven with triple rotisserie, two see-through doors, coved vinyl flooring, garbage disposal, hardwood birch cabinets, imported half-coved ceramic tile drainboards and splash, safety-glass shower doors, imported mosaic tile in all bathrooms, pullman cabinets with imported marble top and splash.

To reach Marina Vista take Pacific Coast Highway 101A south to Long Beach Traffic Circle, continue on Highway 101-A one long block past Long Beach highway sign ("See the model with the fireplace in the bedroom!") pointing to Marina Vista furnished models.

Says Realty Investment Rates High

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Chicago economist James C. Downs Jr. says real estate is one of the best investments possible—and adds:

"You hear of someone who suffered a 25 per cent loss in his investments due to a downturn of the stock market, but who knows of anyone losing 25 per cent of his investment in real estate?"

Downs, addressing 5,000 delegates to the California Real Estate Convention said home building is booming because Americans "have to build to obtain what they want and need."

Grandson Into Firm

James R. Seaton, pioneer Long Beach Realtor, announces the association of his grandson, James R. Selover, in his firm as a full partner. The firm, to be known as Seaton & Selover, Realtors, will specialize in close-in homes and income properties.

Seaton, who first came to Long Beach in 1912 and moved to his present location at 452 West 7th St. in 1923, stated that he is not retiring but is turning active management of the firm over to Selover, who joined with him as a salesman in 1954.

Seaton has long been active in local civic, church and fraternal affairs. He served two terms on the City Council from 1948 to 1954, and was instrumental in choosing the sites for the Civic Center and Navy Landing developments. He is a charter member of All States Lodge No. 593 F. & A.M. and a 50 year Mason; a member for over 30 years of the Long Beach Board of Realtors.

Selover is past president of the Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce and is a member of the Urban Renewal Advisory Committee. A native of Long Beach he is a graduate of Wilson High School, City College, and holds BA and MA Degrees from Long Beach State College.

His paternal grandfather was the late Frank M. Selover, managing editor of the Long Beach Press-Telegram.

Ford Strike Cuts Output

DETROIT (AP)—Automotive News said the strike at Ford Motor Co. curtailed the building boom in the auto industry this week and held output to an estimated 106,146 passenger cars.

Last week production totaled 122,593 and in the comparable week of 1960 it was 140,984.

General Motors returned to full production this week, boosting its output from 39,000 to 65,000 cars. But Ford, hit by a national strike Tuesday, dropped from 39,000 to 8,900.

Marjorie Lemons Buys Realty Firm

OFFERED IN SUN RAY ESTATES
This is one of the models of Sun Ray Estates in Westminster where veterans may buy without a cent down. Prices start at $19,300 and carpeting and fences are included.

Vet Needs No Cash in Sun Ray Estates

A revolutionary concept of home purchasing is making Sun Ray Estates in Westminster the "hottest tract in Southern Californria," says a spokesman.

An innovation in financing permits a veteran to buy one of these award-winning homes without one cent of investment (no down, no costs and impounds) and the purchase starting at $19,300, includes wall-to-wall carpeting, concrete block fencing, plus over 15 other features distinctive of the Providence Series as seen in the recent Los Angeles Home Show.

FHA terms are also available, requiring a minimum of investment.

* * * *

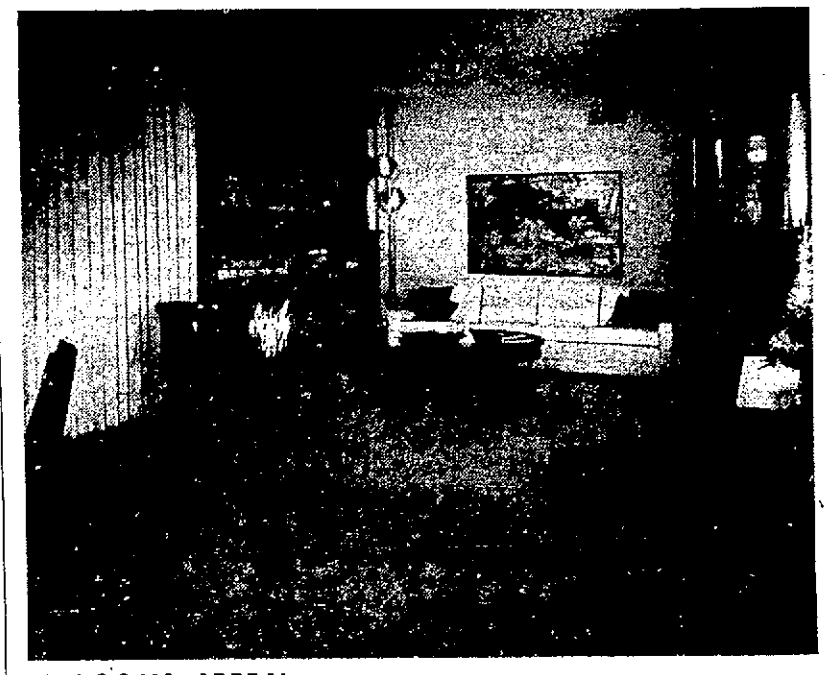

CREATING a great interest is the 64-inch decorative concrete block fence that encompasses the rear yard of all the homes in the tract, making it a truly "walled city." Not only does the inclusion of this feature eliminate a costly initial expense to the new home buyer, but it prevents what has been in the past a source of many a feud between neighbors based on "what kind of a fence to put up and who is going to pay for it."

THE HOMES are three- or four - bedroom plus family room with breakfast bar. All have forced air heat thermostatically controlled, built-in range and oven by O'Keefe and Merritt, natural pine cabinets in the kitchen, and the front yards are landscaped. Attached or detached garages are available and several elevations have fireplaces with log lighters.

The location of these homes in Westminster, sometimes referred to as "south of the smog and east of the fog," is one of the most pleasant climatically in the Southland.

The model homes are on Garden Grove Boulevard at Seneca, which is about five miles east of Seventh Street and Pacific Coast Highway in Long Beach, or about one and one-half west of Highway 39 (Beach Boulevard) if coming from the other direction.

Large Family Rooms Proving Hit at Private Road Estates

BIG ROOMS APPEAL
Choice of fireplace, exterior design, cabinet finish and other details are now available at the new Anawood "Private Road Estates" community. Priced from $21,650, the group of 35 individualized homes feature large lots, and both three and four-bedroom plans with family rooms. Models are on Euclid just north of Katella in Anaheim.

A wide variety of family rooms combined with other good design features, make the new Anawood "Private Road Estates" homes a hit with visitors at the preview showing last week, builders George M. Holstein and Sons reported.

Priced from $21,650, terms as low as $1200 down are available for the large three- and four-bedroom homes that feature extra large pool-size lots and choice location.

* * * *

THE POPULAR family rooms can be completely closed off from the formal living areas of the home or left open as the owners mood dictates, the Private Roads sales head, Jack Enders, explained.

Built in kitchens with choice of several cabinet finishes, custom hardware, and a customized selection of colors, wallpaper, paneling, floor finish, and fireplace are all part of the Private Road "personal selection" at the West Anaheim - Garden Grove area development.

* * * *

QUIET LIGHT switches, tile eating bars, large tiled baths, and a wide selection of Hawaiian, Contemporary, Provincial or Ranch exteriors meet approval with Private Road buyers, Enders declared.

From the Long Beach area to the Anawood "Private Estates" model homes, go out Seventh St. to Hwy. 39 and turn north to Katella. Stay east on Katella to Euclid and then turn left (north) to the models. The models are just north of Katella and just south of Ball Road on Euclid.

MAYOR PRESENTS AWARD

Don Herlacher (right), 2515 Zandia St., is presented a certificate naming him as Sears "Citizen of Jubilee Year" from Mayor Edwin Wade. A salesman of Sears Long Beach, Herlacher was chosen by fellow employes to compete with other western employes.—(Staff photo.)

'CITIZEN OF YEAR'

Sears Store Honors Won by Herlacher

During September, Sears, Roebuck and Co. employes, in each company unit, cast their ballots to select a candidate for the "Sears Citizen of the Jubilee Year."

"Through this contest," stated Charles H. Kellstadt, chairman of the board, "we are seeking to recognize outstanding employes for past and present service to their communities and hope to encourage future citizenship activity among all employes."

Kellstadt pointed out that Sears employes have a proud tradition and outstanding record in civic and welfare activities. "We feel it is most fitting, he said, to so recognize, during our Jubilee Year, another one of the qualities that has made Sears an important part of the American scene over the past 75 years."

Five hundred employes cast their ballots in the local Sears store announced C. W. Teed, manager, and voted Donald Herlacher as their most outstanding Sears Citizen. He has been with the local store for 20 years and has devoted many hours to such activities as Junior Chamber of Commerce, Civic League, Y.M.C.A., Boy Scouts and P-T.A.

He will compete with other winners on the West Coast for a grand prize trip to Washington.

PAYMENTS FIT MOST BUDGETS
Homes like this are offered in the new Stardust Homes Catalina Series at Huntington Beach on low monthly payments, $104 to veterans and $107 on FHA terms. Vets may move in for $99 down and non-vets for $250.

Low Payments for Big Stardust Home

The low monthly payments—$104 to veterans, $107 on FHA—are drawing crowds of home buyers to Stardust Homes in Huntington Beach, said Robert H. Grant, Orange County builder.

Stardust's monthly payments include everything—principal, interest, taxes, and insurance, Grant said. Only one loan is involved in the purchase; there are no second trust deeds.

Available are $99 total move-in costs for veterans, and $250 move-in costs for non-veterans.

* * * *

OFFERED WITH three- or four-bedrooms, family room, and two baths, the Stardust "Catalina Series" homes include hardwood floors. The homes, which are situated close to famous beaches, enjoy ocean breezes and freedom from smog.

According to Grant, the new four-bedroom models are making a special hit with large and growing families visiting the development. Included in these spacious models are "Jack and Jill" expandable bedrooms which close off by night to give children separate sleeping quarters, but join together by day for a larger play area and easier cleaning.

* * * *

QUALITY FEATURES of the homes include: Built-in range with 20-inch oven; forced-air heating; copper plumbing; vinyl linoleum in kitchen and baths; separate utility room; mahogany doors, panels and cabinets; pullmans with oval sinks and automatic hot and cold water mixer.

From Long Beach, the homes may be reached by driving east on Seventh Street, turning right on Bolsa Chica and continuing south two miles to Bolsa Ave., then left to models.

Faith Is Broken After 7 Years

SPARTA, Wis. (AP)—Thomas O'Hearn told an employe in his grocery in 1954 that he thought most people are honest. To prove it, O'Hearn put a dollar bill on the visor of his car in full sight.

The bill was stolen from O'Hearn's unlocked car, but not until it had remained there for seven years.

On the dollar, O'Hearn had written, "I believe people are honest. If you take this dollar, I won't believe that any more."

Expandable Living Room Is Featured

One of the award-winning floor plans at Golden West Estates, in Huntington Beach, includes a living room which expands to a full 36 feet when joined to the adjacent den, said George and Merlin Sant of Sant Construction Co., co-builders with McCarthy Co. The den may also be closed off and used as a fourth bedroom, they said.

Offered with three or four bedrooms, two baths, family room, and an oversized two-car garage, the Golden West homes may be purchased for as little as $17,500.

Available are exceptional new 35-year 5¼% FHA terms, now offered for the first time in Huntington Beach, said the builders. FHA down payments are from $800. Also offered are GI no-down-payment terms, and conventional terms with down payments from $695.

* * * *

ANOTHER OF Golden West's popular floor plans includes both a front entrance-way patio and a secluded side patio, both giving access to a spacious kitchen-family-living room complex. This plan also offers a "lift-up" door in the garage, giving access to the back for a boat or trailer.

From Long Beach, the homes may be reached by driving east on Seventh St. to Golden West St., then right to furnished models.

Brentwood Gardens Low Price Featured

Extra-low pricing is stressed at Brentwood Gardens to assure veterans of getting the most value for their money, said Larry Weinberg, president of Larwin Co., builder-developers.

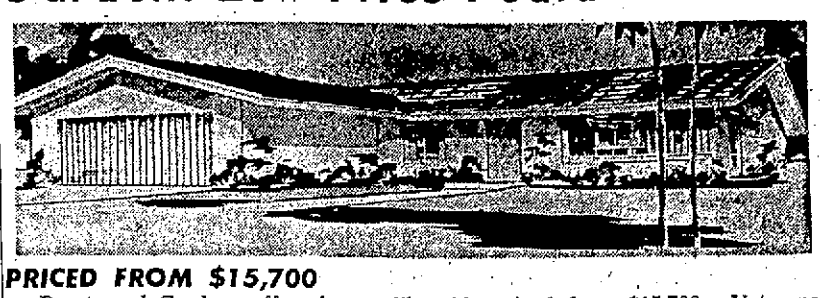

Recognized as one of Orange County's largest subdivisions, Brentwood Gardens offers pricing from $15,700, with monthly payments of just $87, including principal and interest.

Rated at 12 minutes from Long Beach and 25 minutes from Los Angeles, the Brentwood Gardens homes are offered with veterans' total move-in costs of $95. Available in the present unit only are minimal $1 veterans' total move-in costs.

ACCORDING TO Weinberg, Brentwood Gardens homes are built to include quality features impossible to duplicate at the price, including: Vinyl flooring, customized ceramic tile counter tops in kitchen, lath and plaster walls, custom cabinet hardware, Pulverator, double sink, forced-air furnace, aluminum sliding doors, 100-amp electrical service and oversized gas water heater.

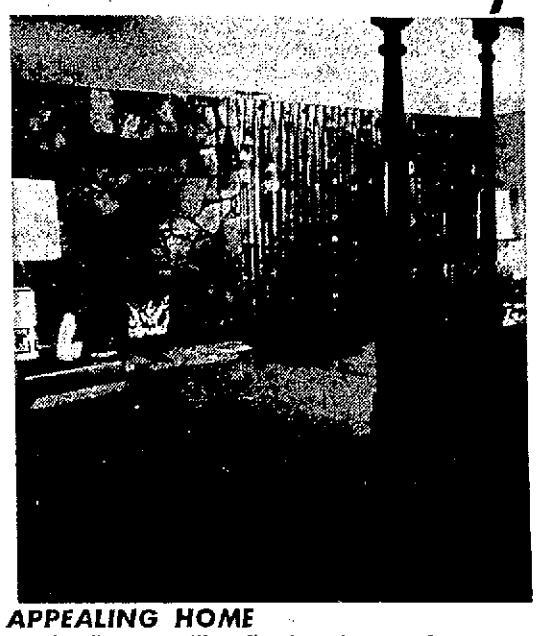

Offered with three or four bedrooms (or three bedrooms and family room) and two baths, the homes are situated close to inviting beaches, playgrounds and parks.

From Long Beach, Brentwood Gardens may be reached via Carson (which becomes Lincoln Avenue), east to Knott Avenue and the model homes.

PRICED FROM $15,700
Brentwood Gardens offers homes like this priced from $15,700. Veterans need only $95 cash to move into one of the large homes.

Bolsa Park Already Half Sold

APPEALING HOME
The floor-to-ceiling fireplace is one of many appealing features offered in Bolsa Park Homes.

Sales have soared past the half-way mark at ocean-close Bolsa Park, Huntington Beach, said builder Roger C. Werbel. Many of these sales are to buyers who have purchased before and thus gained understanding of how to choose a finer home, Werber said.

Extensive use of ceramic tile and lath and plaster walls highlight at Bolsa Park.

Offered with three or four bedrooms, two full baths, and a family-dining room, the Bolsa Park homes are situated on pool-sized lots with ample room for outdoor living. Pricing is from $19,250, with VA no-down payment terms, 35-year FHA financing with 5¼% interest, and 6% conventional financing.

Four new Bolsa Park plans feature custom entry and loggia areas. These give access to all rooms, cutting wear-and-tear on living areas to a minimum.

* * * *

QUALITY FEATURES include shake, cedar shingle, or rock roofs; floor-to-ceiling fireplaces of brick or Palos Verdes Stone, ash kitchen cabinets with raised panels; ceramic tile drain boards; O'Keefe & Merritt gas range and double-window oven with rotisserie; disposer; range hood; dishwasher; sliding glass doors; forced air heating; concrete rear terrace and copper plumbing throughout.

From Long Beach, the homes may be visited via Seventh Street east to Bolsa Chica, turning right and continuing south two miles to models.

Work Progressing on Leisure World

NEAR COMPLETION
Progress on first of three elaborate clubhouses under construction at Rossmoor Leisure World, Seal Beach, is viewed by Lewis M. Letson (left), administrator, Golden Rain Foundation, and M. E. Ward, vice president-construction. Four-story globe in background is also nearing completion.

Completion of the first of three elaborate clubhouses with banquet facilities for 600 persons and a four-story high globe which will mark the entrance to Rossmoor Leisure World, is planned for Nov. 1.

The clubhouse, with 15,600 square feet of floor space, will include a lounge, game room, club meeting room and facilities for a wide range of arts and crafts activities. Shuffleboard courts, horseshoe pits, roque courts and parking areas will be located adjacent to the clubhouse.

* * * *

THE 14-TON globe, 30 feet in diameter, will revolve in a pool of water 50 feet in diameter. Sixty flood lights submerged in the water will bathe the globe in a rainbow of continuously changing color. The unisphere's land masses representing the world's continents will be accurately scaled and mountain ranges will be sculptured in three dimensions, Ward said.

Rossmoor Leisure World, Seal Beach, which is planned for competition in two years, will comprise 6,750 one and two-bedroom co-operative apartments. It will be the first development in the nation to include medical care and drugs, short of hospitalization, as part of the monthly payments.

Upon completion, the community also will include a 12 and one-half-acre shopping center, golf course, churches for all major faiths, a county library, and a 2,500-seat amphitheater with a convertible roof.

Minimum age for eligible residents will be 52 years.

Consumers Paying Bills Better Now

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Consumers now are paying their bills at a better rate than at any time during the past year, American Collections Association Inc. reports.

The association's collectibility index which uses 1953 as the base period rose in the third quarter to 92.2 compared to a second quarter figure of 89.9.

Unemployment continues the No. 1 reason for failing to pay bills, the association said, overbuying, No. 1 until a year ago, stays in second place, and loss of former overtime pay is the third most common reason.

John W. Johnson, association executive vice president, said that "more and more credit grantors seem to be relaxing the requirements of granting credit, but paradoxically, seem to be following up earlier and more aggressively on accounts when they become past due."

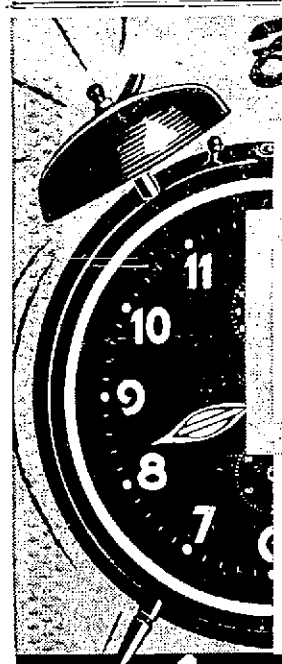

Thief Proves He Isn't Greedy

TUCSON (AP) — The victim called the thief a lot of things—but he didn't call him greedy.

Stanley B. Clevenger, Deming, N. M., Teamster Union representatitve, told Tucson police a prowler took $240 from a money roll in his pants.

IN GARDEN PARK ESTATES

Garden Park Estates Is City Within a City

With its carefully chosen local and complete community planning, Garden Park Estates on Knott Avenue at Garden Grove Freeway where grand opening is now in progress, is virtually a "city within a city," according to W. R. Effinger, sales director.

Grand opening celebration presents a wide range of exteriors and flexible, large-family plans designed by one of the Southland's top-flight architects. Homeseekers have choice of three or four bedrooms, dining areas, family rooms or dens and two attractive baths. Center hallways and inviting entry halls add to the attraction of these luxuriously appointed homes.

* * * *

FULLY PRICED from just $17,450, Effinger explained, there is popular "four-way" financing. Veterans may purchase on VA terms of nothing down, except impounds and closing costs with monthly payments from $96.60, including principal and interest and there are also Cal-Vet terms. Financing for "everyone" includes conventional loans and latest FHA terms with 35-year terms available and low down payments.

List of fine home features includes corner or traditional fireplaces, sliding walls of glass for the fun of outdoor living, baths with colored plumbing fixtures, showers with glass doors and pullman lavatories, forced-air heating and appliance-equipped kitchens.

* * * *

BEAUTIFULLY planned for visual appeal and efficiency, the kitchens are equipped with color-matched built-in wall oven and range, matching range hood with fan and light, semi-automatic dishwasher and sink-installed disposer, furniture-finish cabinets and counters topped with colorful superamic tile.

Quality construction for which S & S is noted is another major attraction, Effinger pointed out, as is the community's prime location in one of Orange County's fastest growing areas.

Just 10 minutes drive from Long Beach State College, Garden Park Estates is surrounded by fine homes. Excellent shopping centers are within minutes, the community is almost literally surrounded with schools and school sites and there are churches and many recreational facilities.

Furnished models highlight Garden Park Estates grand opening. From Long Beach, drive east on 7th St. past Long Beach State College, straight to Knott Ave. and the model homes.

Top Value Stressed

Feature for feature and dollar for dollar there is no better buy than a Lakewood East Sunshine home, according to Stan Rossi, executive sales manager for S. V. Hunsaker & Sons, builders and developers.

Priced at $16,595, with a low down payment of $195, these homes have three bedrooms, two full baths, and large two-car garage.

* * * *

AMONG THE many quality features offered in these attractive homes are wall-to-wall carpet, ultra-modern kiechen equipped with built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan, disposal, Formica counter tops, and vinyl tile. Specifications also include metal sliding windows with screens, all-copper plumbing and silent forced air heating.

Located only minutes to the prime metropolitan industrial area and within easy driving distance to all of the Southland resort and recreational spots, home buyers are invited to inspect furnished model homes daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Centralia Rd., just west of Pioneer Blvd.

Named Thrifty Drug Manager

William Hunter has been appointed Manager of the Thrifty Drug Store in the Bixby Knolls Shopping Center at San Antonio Drive and Atlantic Avenue.

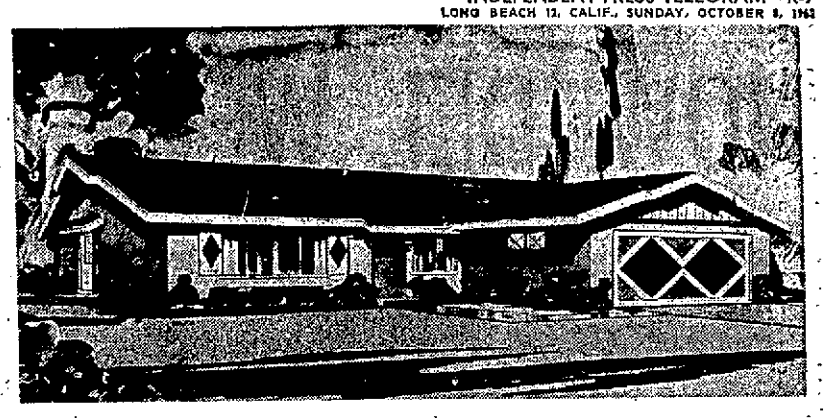

The new appointee is a veteran with the Thrifty firm, joining originally in March, 1955, as a management prospect and advancing through the ranks to his present position. He previously served with Thrifty stores in Lakewood and Bellflower, among others. He lives in Seal Beach.

Beauty School Night Classes

Authorized Marinello beauty training will be offered in evening classes.

The evening schedule is being introduced to expand the school's facilities and provide more operators according to officials of the local Marinello Beauty School.

Classes will be held two nights a week and all day Saturday. Registration is now under way at the Marinello admission offices, 4th and Pine Ave., over Sav-on Drug.

A SUNKIST PLAZA HOME
Priced from $17,450, homes like this are offered in Sunkist Plaza in Huntington Beach. A 2,200-home community is planned at the big development.

Sunkist Plaza Terms Appealing to Buyers

Sunkist Plaza homes continue to sell at a rapid pace, according to sales manager Sy Bram. "We are very gratified at the public acceptance of our new Huntington Beach project," Bram added.

Several types of terms are available. FHA 35-year loans have been added to the financing which allows veterans a no down payment and Cal-vets excellent terms.

Prices start at $17,450 with monthly payments as low as $96.28 including principal and interest.

* * * *

WHEN COMPLETED Sunkist Plaza will be a 2,200-home community. At the present time there are four floor plans and 25 elevations to choose from. Combinations of three and four bedrooms plus family rooms and two baths are available.

Shopping centers, schools, employment and recreational facilities are incorporated in the development. The Pacific Ocean is just minutes away.

The development can be reached by driving the Santa Ana Freeway to Beach Boulevard, Highway 39, turn right on Beach to Smeltzer, right on Smeltzer to models.

A Complete and Unique Community Built Upon a Proven Concept

Originated by Del Webb, the unique concept of creating a complete community exclusively for Active Retirement was first introduced to the nation with his January, 1960, opening of Sun City, Arizona, where today more than 4000 retired citizens are proving that retirement can be the happiest, the most interesting . . . the best years of your life.

Specifically Designed and Reserved for Senior Citizens

Incorporated into every part of Kern City are those things which, during the many years of pre-planning research, Del Webb found were wanted most. The endless variety of recreational facilities rivals the finest resorts. The equipment for creative pursuits of every type is the best that can be bought and complete in every way. The neighborhoods where the fairways wind all about are pre-planned to give you beautiful, quiet surroundings. And the entire community is designed to give you complete individuality, privacy and the happy satisfaction of doing what you want, when you want . . . with the kind of contemporaries who share your love of life, your memories and your interests and are free to enjoy it all with you.

LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA.....OCTOBER 8, 1961

OUR COVER

With time out for a few hoped-for rainy days, home improvement and gardening are year-around activities in Long Beach. However, two seasons take an extra accent—spring and fall—and it's fall that Staff Artist Al Cano stresses in today's Southland cover drawing. This time of year is one for gearing down from summer's rushing pace to the shorter, cooler tempo of winter days to come. While you've been playing in the patio, boating, swimming, vacationing, et al, chores around the house may have been neglected. Southland's pages today offer some helpful ideas on what to do and how to do it.

NEXT WEEK

The thrum of traffic on the new $21 million bridge being built across the Main Channel of Los Angeles Harbor will sing the curtain song in 1963 of the tired old ferryboat Islander, a familiar sight to many thousands of people. The story of the Islander's life on the channel will be told next week in Southland.

La Reina Rule

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain LAURENZO. — C. L., Long Beach.

C. L.: LAURENZO is a variation of Lorenzo or "Son of Lawrence," an ancient, celebrated Spanish surname. Lorenzo or Lawrence is from the Roman - Latin "Laurentius" meaning "Laurel-crowned one," a designation for the victor in Roman athletic contests. The Lorenzos were among the high nobility of medieval Galicia in northwest Spain. Their coat-of-arms has a silver grill or gridiron with its handle upward, on a red shield bordered with eight red half-circles. The silver grill on the shield is symbolic of the famed 3rd century Saint Lawrence (San Lorenzo in Spanish) who was martyred by being burned alive on a grill.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like genealogy on SHEEHAN. —Mrs. S. D., Long Beach.

S. D.: SHEEHAN is traced back to 11th century Ireland. This clan's old Gaelic name O'Shiegane interprets as "Sons of the little peaceful one." The clan founder was apparently an unusually calm, peaceful man among a nation of fierce, warlike clansmen who were seldom at peace with one another. Sheehan descendants lived in Cork, Limerick and Kerry.

DEAR MIS RULE: Would you publish data on MURRAY.—I.M., Paramount; E.M., Long Beach.

I.M., E.M.: MURRAY is an ancient Scotch clan name that began as Muireadac, a Gaelic baptismal word for "Seafaring warrior." Clan Murray was formed in the early 1100s. A famous Murray chief of the 1400s had 17 sons, each of whom left a long line of descendants. Lord George Murray was the head of the ill-fated Bonnie Prince Charlie's army in the Stuart attempt to regain the throne of Britain in 1745. The Murray shield has three silver spur-rowels on a silver background, accompanied by the motto "Forward and fill the fetters." Irish Murray descendants were prominent religious leaders in Cork and Westmeath. James Murray, an American ancestor, lived at Baltimore as early as 1688.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on LAMB. — Mrs. L. L., Downey; C. L., M. L., Long Beach.

L. L., C. L., M. L.: LAMB is a sign-origin surname used by progenitors from their inn-trademark picturing a white lamb. The lamb shield is blue, emblazoned with three golden lambs seated in the center. Thomas Lamb arrived at Massachusetts among the earliest settlers in 1630.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the background of WALRAVEN — Mrs. D. W., Norwalk.

D. W.: WALRAVEN, a Dutch and north German surname, is traced back over eight centuries to a warrior ancestor titled "Wal-Hrabn" meaning "forest-raven," symbolizing a wise, brave man who lived in a wooded region. The Walraven coat - of - arms granted at Amsterdam has a red wheel centered on a golden shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze ZEPEDA—R.Z., Long Beach.

R.Z.: ZEPEDA is a Spanish dialectical respelling of the surname Cepeda. This was a geographical term for "land overgrown with brush and scrub trees." Zepeda forebears were granted a beautiful coat-of-arms having a green cross composed of fleur-de-lis lilies, accompanied by three gold stars and a small shield covered with four horizontal silver and black stripes. All these emblems are engraved on a black shield.

Autumn's signs: The hammer, the saw and the spade

Fall's Zodiac Favors Fix Up and Clean Up

By Robert Wilcox

More and more families are adding recreational areas. This interesting room has just been completed at 2127 Slearnlee Avenue.

SPRING MAY turn a man's fancy to thoughts of love but come fall's brisk breezes and the voice of the hammer is heard in the Southland. Autumn's zodiac has for its signs the tools of the do-it-yourselfer.

October provides the golden moment when home-improvement programs which have been delayed through the lazing beach and vacation season suddenly take on an irresistibly inviting look.

While the days dwindle down, saws sing out in a minor key and power drills whine against the staccato beat of driven nails.

The master of the household may dust the cobwebs from his tool kit—unused during the summer except for a screwdriver employed on an emergency repair job. And even a homeowner who would be helpless with a screwdriver is prone to hasten to the telephone to summon someone who is not.

THE BUSTLING universal activity generally is credited to October's mild chill, although there have been many explanations.

Even mandatory maintenance tasks such as semi-annual lawn and garden renovations merely pique the appetite for bigger things.

There's the outside painting to be done before the weather becomes somewhat unpredictable and the long-planned family recreation room to turn to.

The October energy, of course, comes sometimes in as minute doses as the planting of a one-gallon shrub. Still, it could lead to a year-round swimming pool with the pocketbook advantages of winter construction.

BY SOUTHLAND popularity trends, the family recreation room could well be the choice. A homeowner will add a room or two these days nearly as quickly as he used to repair a fence.

He may want to arm himself with blueprints and do the whole job—permits, construction, inspection and all. Or he may prefer to perform most of the work by telephone—calling in professional help.

Unless he's a near-professional himself he'll probably be wise to leave the fireplaces and floors to people who build them for a living. For most of the rest, he possibly has, or doubtlessly can acquire, the necessary technique.

(Even in the technical field of ceramic tiling, the home handyman these days is not beyond his depth either in the kitchen or constructing attractive interiors or exteriors.)

Then, unless he's unusually wealthy, the home-improver must face the problem of money. Happily, it's usually not insurmountable.

PRIVATE SOURCES, such as banks, generally are ready to finance a 'worthwhile' project—particularly if the improvement qualifies for loan insurance under the Federal Housing Administration.

(The FHA under its Title I will insure amounts from $100 to $3,500. Under a recently passed federal law, it is now possible to obtain FHA assistance on loans from $2,500 to $10,000 for structural changes on a 20-year basis. This program is expected to grow in popularity when the newness wears off.)

Chances are that October's handyman has saved himself quite a tidy sum if he really needs a roomier home. Hunting a larger residence can be disillusioning—particularly when his new addition probably will be contracted for less than $10 a square foot and be built for considerably less if he does part of the work himself.

He also possibly has saved himself some family grieving at being uprooted from the familiar school area and the midst of neighbors and nearby friends.

IN CASE the October-inspired builder embraces something less imposing than a residence-enlargement project—although experts say about half the homes in most neighborhoods either have been remodeled or are going to get the treatment in the next five years—he can count on plenty of company.

He may turn to the patio or yard, inspired perhaps by the Southland's "outdoor living" concept.

The lure is so potent that some firms which once depended chiefly on fencing are now devoting their energies almost exclusively to garden beautification.

The home-improver probably will be happy to find that the mild climate permits barbecues and other forms of outdoor enjoyment the year around.

EVEN SO, he will be wise to give some thought to patio protection, such as an overhead shelter of latticework, reed or split bamboo.

If he puts in sliding doors to open on the patio, he may roof the outside slab to prevent fading of carpets and furniture, as well as to reduce glare and reflected heat.

Should the home handyman's fancy run more toward autumnal gardening, he'll find that there's plenty more to it than just clearing away the summer's overgrowth.

As an amateur fall horticulturist, he'll enjoy displaying his carefully nurtured blooms in the wintery months of December, January and February.

He may have picked October as the ideal time to set out nursery transplants, bulbs, shrubs and vines—particularly bulbs from Holland, Japan, Italy, India and South Africa.

Waxing enthusiastic and stimulated by the October impulse, he'll probably go far beyond the actual planting and care of his garden.

Perhaps he'll install a self-contained natural waterfall made of fiberglass. Colored like rock, it's guaranteed to impress winter guests, and features a pump and reservoir requiring no outside water source.

WHILE HE'S decorating has garden area, he may install South Seas tiki sculptures or Alaskan totem pole figures to enhance the primitive effect.

Just as the October appeal is irresistible, the possible projects are limitless—air conditioning, new roof, built-in television, bar—plus countless others.

And just as summer is the lazy season to conjure shimmering visions of gracious living, fall is the often hectic but rewarding time of their realization.

October provides the golden moment to add a room, build a patio or pool, paint, or even install new furnace equipment. This house is under construction at 2244 Knoxville Avenue. FHA often will help with a loan.

City dwellers can enjoy home-grown fruit despite small garden space. For instance, a few feet of chain-link fence suffices for berries like these.

FALL FIX-UP AND GARDENS

City Lots Can Be Fruitful

By J. M. Story

IT IS AMAZINGLY easy to have delicious home-grown fruit from any garden in Southern California.

Here's fruit ready to pick from the narrow, erect Edranol avocado tree.

And it needn't be a country acre nor even a large lot. In fact, it's surprising what you can do even on the average tract lot with a little planning and a few tricks of pruning. You can make use of odd corners, neglected spaces, bare walls and fences to provide a wide variety of fruits which the entire family will relish.

Most of our common fruit varieties, such as peaches, pears, apples and figs, can be trained into interesting shapes and sizes to fit a particular space.

The practice of espaliering or growing these trees against a wall or fence is very common in the crowded gardens of Europe where space is at a premium. And we can use the same methods to advantage in our own small gardens. Heavy winter pruning and the lighter summer pruning which is required in training these fruit trees will tend to dwarf them. And even though restricted in growth, they will often produce fruit larger and of better quality than a standard tree.

THE FORM of espalier you choose can be varied from one of the very formal styles to the less difficult fan type. Even during the short period when espaliered trees are without leaves, the tracery pattern of the boughs against a wall or fence makes an interesting garden feature—especially when they break into spring bloom.

These trees were just made for those areas where planting space is limited. In the case of the pears, apples, or dwarf citrus trees, special rootstocks are used so that the trees, throughout their lifetime, will seldom exceed a height of about eight feet. Since the dwarfing is actually a function of the understock, these pears, apples and citrus trees may be obtained in a number of varieties.

So far, there seems to be no entirely satisfactory method for dwarfing peaches, however, a couple of naturally dwarf varieties, Flory and Elbertita, are available now, and we understand that some new genetic dwarfs are soon to be introduced.

Despite their small stature, all of these dwarf fruit trees will produce fine fruit as large and luscious as you can pick from any full-size tree, and they bear remarkably heavy crops.

RECENT RESEARCH has made available something quite new and different—something especially valuable to the back-yard planter. These are the dual purpose fruiting-flowering peaches which provide very showy spring flowers and fine edible fruit as well. Two recently introduced varieties, Saturn and Double Delight, are outstanding examples. The trees are loaded with pink flowers in spring, just as showy as any flowering peach. Then, in midsummer, they produce big, golden, yellow-fleshed peaches of delicious flavor.

In years past, it was quite common to bud or graft several compatible fruiting varieties onto a single rootstock.

This has never proved entirely satisfactory because in most cases the stronger growing variety ultimately crowds out the others. A much more satisfactory method is to plant three different kinds in a single planting hole, spacing the trunks 18 to 20 inches apart. In this way, one may grow three peach varieties for a long fruiting season or plant a mixture of peaches, apricots, nectarines or whatever your taste dictates.

Southern Californians are fortunate in being able to grow a number of evergreen fruiting varieties which will provide landscape beauty, shade and at the same time an abundance of fruit. Avocados are an example, and if your space is limited, you can plant such varieties as Edranol, Anaheim or Hass. All of these grow into a very narrow, erect tree, demanding only a few square feet of garden space.

ANOTHER interesting and most ornamental tree is the macadamia or Queensland Nut. It, too, is a handsome erect grower. If you've never tasted one of these Queensland nuts, you have a treat in store for you.

There are others, including the small but very ornamental loquat tree with its big, tropical-looking foliage and delicious, early-season fruit.

A number of fruiting plants may be used in lieu of more conventional ornamental shrubs and many of them are just as attractive as any ornamental you will ever find. Guavas are very ornamental and the abundant fruit is unsurpassed for making jellies and preserves. They are a rich source of vitamin C, too. Another handsome fruiting plant is the Natal Plum or Carissa.

"Espalier" is the magic word for growing fruit trees in cramped gardens. Diagram above shows one form of spreading branches for pattern and fruit.

Gardening Is Part of Homemaking

By Karen Smith

GARDENING for the Southlander is an essential part of homemaking and a satisfying activity. A few years ago gardening did seem easier, it is true. But don't blame that on your age nor your lumbago. Blame the weather. It really does take a lot more work to dramatize a heat-weary and dry landscape that has created special problems.

Before you so much as turn a spadeful of earth, make a few plans. Sketch an outline of your property. Put in house, garage, service yard, play area, barbecue, pool if any, paths, retreats, and other spaces. Then indicate where established plants exist—trees, shrubs that are taking the years well, the perennial garden.

Perhaps there will be very few changes you will need to make. Often the difference between a lovely garden and a depleted one may depend almost entirely on water and soil cultivation. On the other hand, you may need to make major changes—eliminating too much shade, making more shade, creating better harmony and doing away with confusion, cut-up spaces, or redoing the perennial garden. Then again, your garden work may lie in some other place. Perhaps you need new shrubs near the house to take the place of some that have become formidable, and perhaps some fresh flowers close to the house and around various boundaries.

IN ANY EVENT, probably deep irrigation is first in order. If the ground is impossibly baked and dry, and often it is—especially on a slope that won't hold light watering—you might consider calling in a professional gardener with grounded electric equipment and get some deep holes wherever possible. Then set the hose and soak, soak, soak. When the earth can again be spaded and debris cleared away, consult your nurseryman about soil food and other conditioners.

In watering and improving soil, look over areas around deciduous trees and shrubs. These often go neglected, but they hold their foliage longer if they receive moisture and nourishment. If your evergreen plants look like they are in trouble, with leaves turning yellow or burning at the edges, they may be suffering not only from dryness but from poor health the arborists call chlorosis, a lack of iron. Evergreen plants must manufacture food to store in the leaves to enable new leaf buds to form for next spring's growth, but without iron they will starve. This condition is common where earth is alkaline. Your nurseryman may want you to introduce into the soil a product containing iron sulfate, ground sulphur, aluminum sulfate, and ammonium sulfate. Or he may recommend a chelated iron spray.

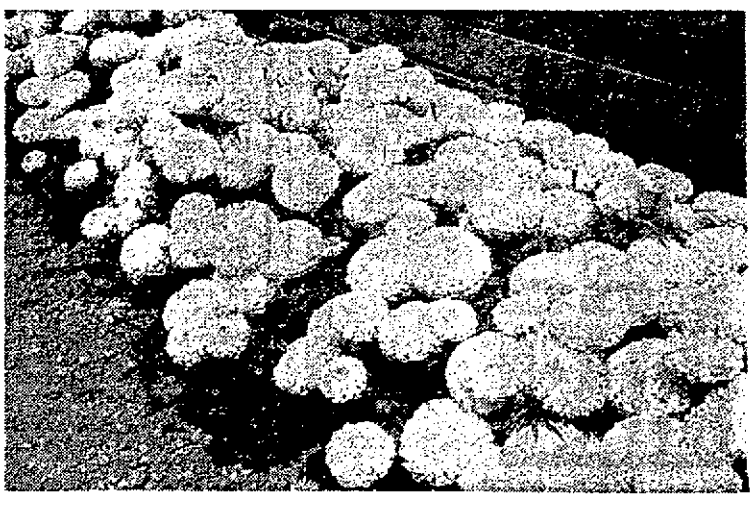

WHEN SOIL is damp deep down and nourished, you are ready for planting. Since trees and shrubs are your garden's furnishings, choose them wisely. They may be expensive, but the initial investment is more than repaid by their beauty and ease of care. Many types of trees and shrubs can be planted now. Avocado and other subtropicals, however, do best when planted in the spring. Be certain to keep earth on roots during planting so they will not be disturbed. Planting holes should be large enough to permit firming of soil around plant balls. Be generous with water as you fill up holes so balls will be thoroughly soaked.

Waxy camellias come in several varieties, some to provide flowers almost immediately, others to form exquisite flowers through April. Camillias are dormant when in full bloom, and their growth period sets in immediately after. Fertilizer can be fed

Room for Hi-Fi or Stereo Fun

Otherwise unused attic space here has been converted into hobby room for hi-fi or stereo enthusiast of the family. Furnishings and acoustical tile add to the pleasure.

IF THERE'S a hi-fi or stereo bug in the family, beware! This breed of hobbyist will gradually take over every room in the house. Ask anyone who's ever stumbled across a dismantled amplifier spread out on the living room floor, or found a 10-inch woofer half buried in the cushions of his favorite easy chair.

Why not set aside one room in the house that the hi-fi enthusiast can call his own? If there's a spare bedroom available, this might provide the ideal spot. Also, don't overlook the attic, if suitable, or a basement. This unused space can be converted into an attractive, livable hobby room for surprisingly little money.

The attic, for example, is already roofed over and enclosed and often includes at least one heating outlet. All that normally remains to be done is to install the interior finish materials (ceiling, walls and floors), plus a few built-in shelves and work tables. Furnishings and decorative touches can be added later as time and budget allow.

Here are a few pointers from the Armstrong Cork Company's Bureau of Interior Design to keep in mind when planning an attic or basement "hi-fi" room:

1. Make sure there's plenty of storage space for tools and equipment. Built-in units are desirable because they are compact and require a minimum of room space.

2. Avoid excessive sound reflection within the room. Too much reflection not only decreases listening pleasure, but in the case of stereo, can actually destroy the desired effect. A useful tool to control this condition is acoustical tile, an inexpensive, sound-absorbent ceiling and wall finish that fits in with modern concepts of room decor. In many cases, applying tile to the ceiling will provide enough sound absorption; in others, it may be necessary to cover part of the wall surface as well.

3. Don't forget, if you're redoing the attic, that footsteps and other impact noises on the attic floor will disturb family members below unless they are muffled. Probably the easiest way to soften impact noise is to install a resilient material on the attic floor that can dissipate much of the impact energy before it passes through the floor structure. Cork, rubber tile and sheet vinyl flooring installed over a suitable underlayment are excellent materials for this purpose, as are some types of homogeneous vinyl tiles. Besides providing good sound isolation, these flooring materials will be easy to keep clean, and will do a lot to spruce up the general appearance of the room.

Cover-Ups for 'Devil's Spaces'

Gazanias are popular cover plants for idle land areas.

IT is the wise gardener's maxim that practically no garden space should be left unplanted. For idle land is the Devil's workshop and before you know it, he'll raise all sorts of weeds to cause you trouble.

The problem, of course, is how to fill the space, and this really isn't a problem at all, according to the California Association of Nurserymen. You just plant open spaces with ground covers and leave them to fill in themselves.

This sounds deceptively simple, but there's no catch to it. You'll find ground covers to carpet any open space you might have in your garden whether it's on the level or on a steep slope, in good soil or poor. The most difficult thing, in fact, is choosing the right cover from a nursery full of them.

You can narrow the choice by asking yourself a few simple questions. Will the ground cover have to bear traffic? Grow in shade? Survive drought? Will it bloom and do I want it to?

GROUND COVERS that bear up under considerable traffic are few and far between, but so is your need for them. Dichondra is the best bet, or lippia, though the latter seems less popular than it once was.

Ground covers for shaded areas are fewer than those for sunny spots. Ivy is perhaps the best, being relatively drought resistant in the bargain. Baby's Tears is a good one for shaded beds where moisture is available.

For sunny spots, Mother of Thyme is a particular favorite, being dense, rugged and fragrant. California native, Point Reyes creeper, is more and more to be seen. The vivid orange or yellow daisy flowers of Gazania are a timeless first choice.

If shrubby covers are desired, try prostrate junipers, prostate rosemary or the new postrate abelia. As mentioned already, there are dozens to choose from.

What Cost America?

ONE HISTORIAN who has done considerable research in an effort to estimate the cost of the discovery of America, has come up with these figures:

Total cost of fitting out three vessels, plus salaries, 1,140,000 maravedis. A maravedi is a Spanish coin worth about ⅓ of a cent in American money at present. The historian took into account the tendency of a nation's money to decrease in value, and based his estimate on a maravedi equal to seven mills, making the total cost to the Spanish government about $8,000.

Christopher Columbus, as an admiral, received an annual salary of $320; his three captains, $192 each; three pilots, $140, and the sailors were paid $2.75 per month.

Salary of the ship's physician was equal to $38.50 per year.—OLIVE BREED.

A House Gets a Customizing

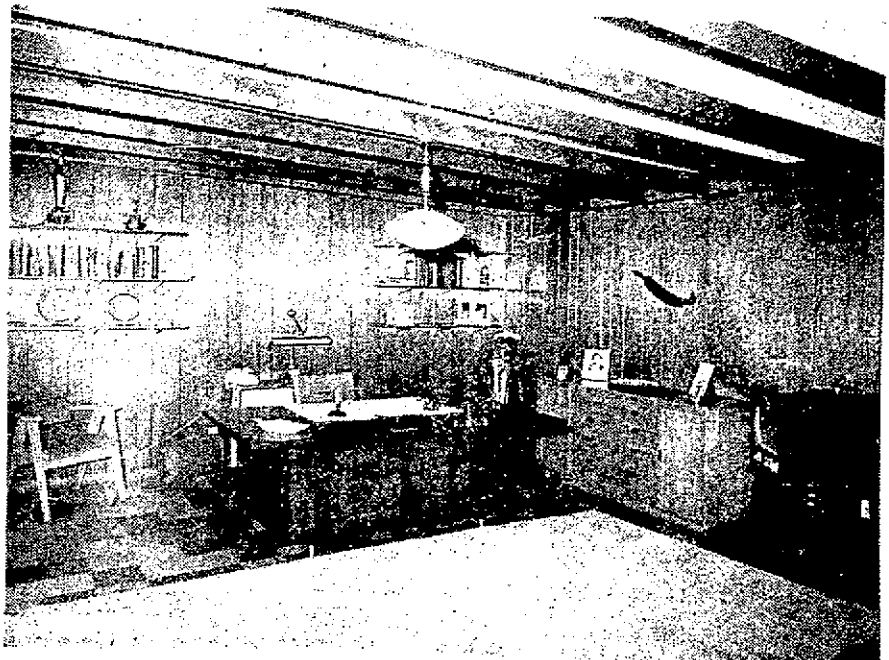

Recently added family room of the Pete Wards' home is shown in this view looking across the living room through movable shoji screens. Carpeting helps unite the areas.

By Stella George

WHEN Mr. and Mrs. Pete Ward, 11661 Puryear St., Garden Grove, bought their home they liked the modern, casual comfort it provided. However, they felt that certain additions would not only make it more livable and attractive, but would add to the important everyday functional aspect so necessary to busy young couples with children.

Doubling the size of the living room by adding an adjoining family room, separated by sliding shoji screens, was one major architectural change. The addition of a service porch more than 20 feet long was another. A den for Ward that would afford privacy and convenience was still another "must" on the list. The finished house now is truly adapted to the Wards' particular needs.

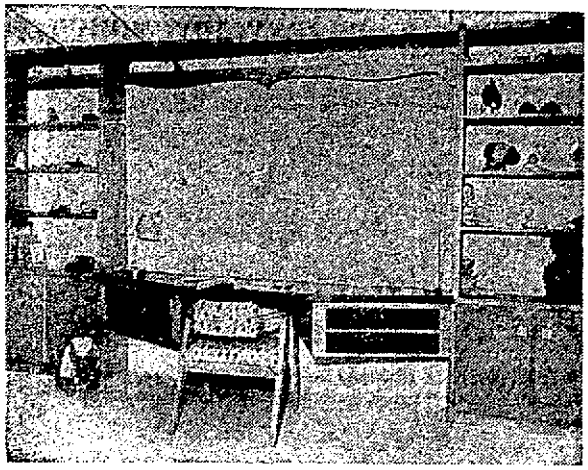

From the exterior the visitor is intrigued by the various aspects of the home. It is not a prosaic home with a front door here and windows there but has architectural lines that are partially hidden by shrubbery as the house rambles over the property to become a part of the landscaping itself.

THE FRONT door opens into the living room and directly ahead is the kitchen with a low, sit-down bar between the two rooms. A panel closes off the kitchen when desired. To the right is the new family room. Carpeting in all rooms with the exception of the bedrooms, den, and kitchen, is of golden hue, thus the family room and living room merge as one extra large room when the shoji screens are opened.

The wall nearest the door is of white brick. Accents in the decor are oriental, and the fireplace in the brick wall features andirons in brass with an Oriental motif. A semi-circular beige couch backs the kitchen area and faces the fireplace. A TV is in one corner. Furnishings are of blond wood mounted on black legs.

The color scheme shows off the furniture and carpet to advantage and gives an uncluttered feeling to the rooms. In the family room, for instance, there is a feeling of space with the desk on one side, the couch on the other and a glass wall forming the third side.
dryer and their former space in the kitchen is now used for a pantry.

A hall near the kitchen leads to the bedrooms and baths. Ingenious decorating ideas developed by the Wards have made the rooms particularly attractive. In one girl's room, for example, size was a problem. The room is small but the appearance of size was obtained in this way: A fitted desk was built in the left corner with hanging shelves above. The head of the bed is directly in back of the study area, with the bed facing the window. A dressing table is opposite with closets alongside.

In the other girl's room an illusion of space has been developed in a different way. The window is on the long wall of this room and Ward has created a desk unit that covers the entire wall. The desk itself is half a hexagon in shape, placed directly in front of the window. Shelves matching the desk are on either wall. Cupboards have been built on both sides below the shelves.

The master bedroom has soft carpeting, black furniture and turquoise walls, with oriental accents in the form of pictures and bric-a-brac.

THE DEN is large, tailored carefully to needs and masculine in theme. A desk is centered, facing the front. A gun rack is placed on one paneled wall and a TV set in one corner faces the desk. Back of the desk are hanging shelves. An occasional chair in orange brightens one corner and a chest of drawers provides storage space. The room is reached by a long, sloping hall from the new family room, although it has an exterior entry at the front.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Solid Comfort for a Big Family

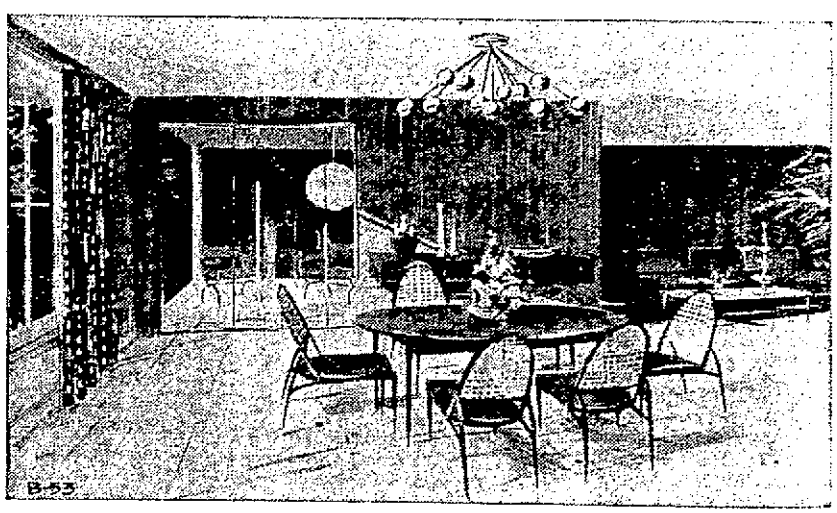

By David L. Bowen

UNPRETENTIOUS comfort is the theme of this simple split level carefully designed to serve with complete adequacy every need of an active, growing family.

The house is large—as it must be to shelter properly a family of three to six children—but there are no expensive frills or fancy extras. Four good-sized bedrooms make up the main sleeping section, with a fifth bedroom or study on the recreation room level. The kitchen has dinette space big enough so that the whole family can sit in comfort for family meals. Living room, arranged in an L-shape with dining room, is spacious but not spectacular.

WHAT IS spectacular in House of the Week B-53 is the way the architect, Samuel Paul, has arranged everything with an eye on practical efficiency.

5600 FACULTY AVENUE

Impressive entrance foyer is key to excellent circulation in upper level (above). Recreation room has the fireplace, thus helping to make it a true family area.

an excellent central location so that the housewife is only steps away from the front door, yet can serve either of the two eating areas with a minimum of walking. The recreation room (which has a fireplace while the living room does not) also is handy, just a half-flight down from the impressively roomy front foyer.

Habitable area on the living and bedroom levels is 1,976 square feet, not including the covered porch, with an additional 584 square feet on the recreation room level. The plan measures 59 feet 2 inches by 41 feet 6 inches over-all and will fit comfortably on a 100x100-foot lot.

IN THE KITCHEN, Paul calls for two countertop cooking areas. A four-burner range near the wall oven provides for preparation of the main meals. The two-burner unit near the dinette is handy for preparing breakfast or midday quick lunches.

Inside the arms of the "L" formed by living and dining room is a covered porch, accessible from the dining room through sliding glass doors. This area could be converted for a year-round use by erecting jalousies, or simply screened for summer use only.

Up a wide staircase from the traffic-sorting main foyer are four bedrooms. The 16 feet by 15 feet 6 inch master bedroom has an entry guarded by two 8-foot closets. This room also has its own full bath.

The other three rooms on this floor are uncrowded and have abundant closet space. The large bathroom has a twin lavatory, adequate to handle the morning traffic. The lavatories are set into an 8-foot long vanity with linen storage below.

THE RECREATION room downstairs faces the rear yard. Sliding glass doors effectively convert this space into an indoor-outdoor area in pleasant weather. The corner fireplace makes it a cozy nook in bad weather. Off the recreation room is a spare room that can be used as a maid's room, study, guest room, or an extra bedroom.

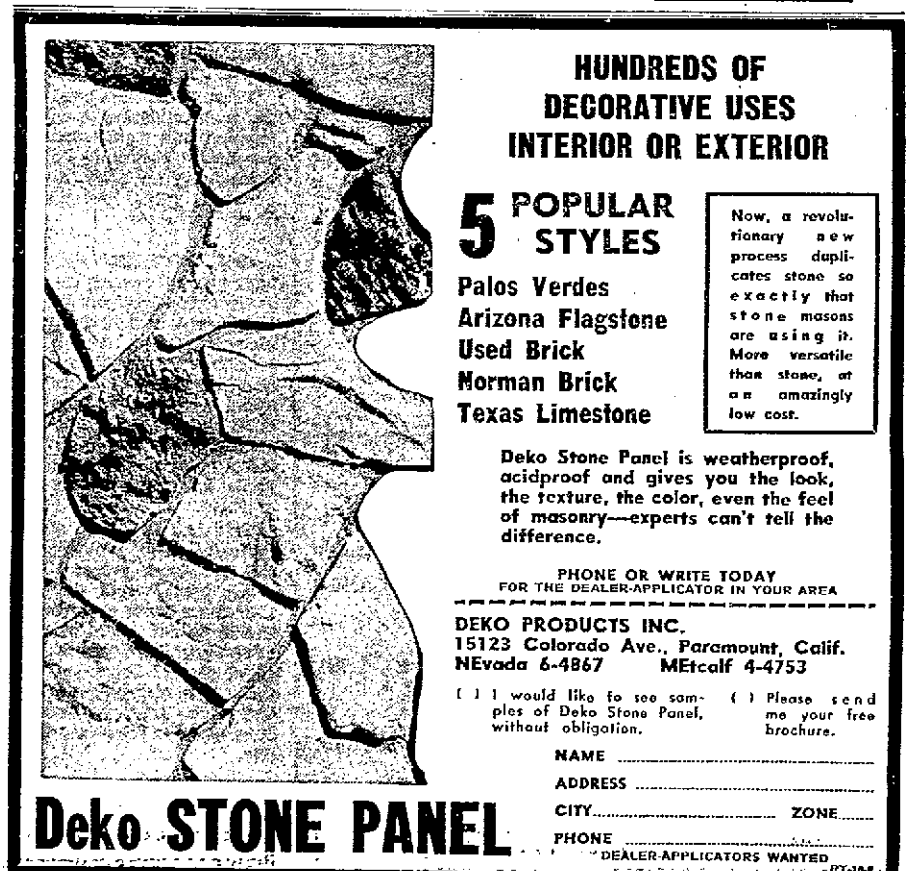

On this same level is the two-car garage, deep enough to store bicycles, carriages and bulky toys without interfering with parking. Laundry is in the open cellar.

Bayside fresh-water pools usually are built between high tides on a tight time schedule; otherwise underground seepage of salt water might damage installation.

Hole in His Back Yard Started It

By George Eres

THE world's largest swimming pool builder, Phil Anthony, began by digging a hole in his back yard in Pasadena and lining it with cement blocks. That was in 1947.

Today, 14 years and 15,000 swimming pools later, Anthony's Pools Inc., does about 25 per cent of the business in a highly competitive field.

His firm has built pools for Elizabeth Taylor, Betty Grable, Louis Prima and Keely Smith, all the Marx Brothers, Olympic Diving champion Dr. Sammy Lee, Dean Martin and Frank Sinatra.

These pools have been built on a bewildering array of terrains. An aerial view of Southern California shows them hung on cliffs, nestled in back yards and slanted across terraces.

ONE OF THEIR big problems was conquering the sites at beaches—Newport Beach's Lido Isle, where Anthony and his wife, Oletia, who is vice president of the firm reside is a case in point. There are about 40 pools in the district, one of the heaviest concentrations of beach pools in the United States. Anthony Pools has built almost half of them.

"We had to devise special systems to cope with the special problems presented by beach pools," said Anthony.

Because basic construction had to be completed between tides—usually within a period of several hours—excavation, guniting (cementing) and steel reinforcing must be done under a relentless deadline.

"GUNITING MUST be completed between tides so that the pool can be filled with water as the tide comes in. Otherwise the pool might be lifted like a boat by underground tidewater," Anthony said.

Then, most fresh-water tide pools are built in sand, which is shifty until contained by the guniting and steelwork. The crews again must work fast to shore up the sand and prevent caveins while the job is progressing.

While the average price of a basic 35-foot Anthony pool is $2,800, a beach pool costs an average of $200 more because of the tight work schedule and gamble on tides and sand, Anthony said.

"WE STARTED in this business when you could afford to make mistakes," Anthony said. "Today, with competition in every direction you look, you can no longer afford to make mistakes."

A lot of water has gone into and out of pools since Anthony, son of Norwegian immigrants, who was a mason and cement worker by trade built his own pool in his backyard. A tractor executive in San Gabriel heard about the pool and asked Anthony to build one for him. Anthony found himself in the pool business.

In those days, Anthony recalled, swimming pools were a luxury only the rich could afford.

Today a pool is frequently standard equipment in medium-priced subdivisions.

Forced Bulbs --A Gift Idea

By Karen Smith

Amaryllis, largest bulb of them all, can be forced to bloom at Christmas.

Narcissus will grow well in water with pebbles, produces forced blooms easily.

LET BULBS help solve some of your gift problems. Nearly all of the tougher spring-flowering bulbs may be forced into bloom by Christmas. And the procedure is simple. All you need are containers of any kind — attractive one being best, of course—and either earth, peat moss, water and pebbles, or mineral solutions.

Forcing should start immediately. Check with nurserymen when purchasing bulbs for additional help with this interesting gardening sideline.

Although growing bulbs in water to which chemicals have been added is probably the simplest way to force bulbs, you may feel safer using good garden soil, or, better yet, a soil made up of one-third peat moss, one-third sand, and one-third loam to which has been added a teaspoonful of plant food per pot.

LINE CONTAINER with soil, place bulbs with flat root end down, and cover with soil until tips are just buried. Press soil firmly and water generously. Set covered pots in a cool, dark place or in a well-drained cool garden corner until roots establish, which is usually in three to eight weeks.

Then move containers into the light and uncover. After a day or so, place in a sunny window where temperature never gets below 50 degrees, or higher than 68 degrees. From now on keep moist.

Bulbs that you do not wish to bloom until later may be left in storage until you are ready for them.

MANY GARDENERS prefer to use peat moss for bulb forcing, although the rooting period is longer, usually from six to eight weeks. Fill pot with wet peat moss and bury bulbs with tips just covered. Place in a cool, dark, airy spot, and water every other week. When rooted, put out in the light, moving pot closer to the light as the plants grow. Remember, however, that direct sunlight will shorten the blooming period. Keep fairly moist all of the time.

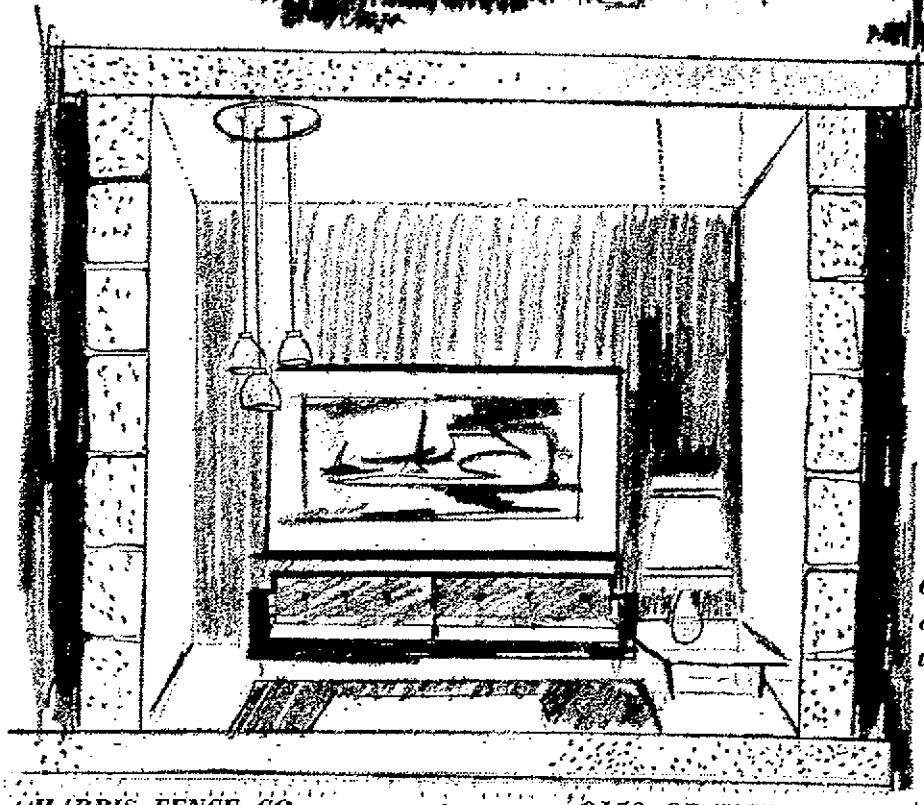

Tulips, especially the early-flowering varieties, are easy to force, but soil is required. Narcissus also are easy and grow rapidly in water. Freesias are good and are exceptionally beautiful.

JONQUILS, hyacinths, particularly Roman variety in water, grape-hyacinth, scillas, snow-drops, fritillarias, alliums, ixias, crocus, and other spring-flowering bulbs may be forced successfully. Tougher bulbs that take kindly to indoor forcing are red-gold and gold ranunculus, some kinds of anemones, particularly St. Brigid, and also amaryllis and bulbous iris. Force plenty of amaryllis, for you will want some for yourself. Amaryllis bulbs may protrude a little above ground.

Should any of these bulbs not be in bloom by the holidays, they nevertheless will make nice gifts if potted attractively, and they will give the recipients something to which they can look forward with pleasure.

ARCHITECT'S Sketchbook

Build your own pretty and practical buffet from plan.

TODAY'S PROJECT: An easy-to-build modern buffet for the dining room.

URSULA M. S. DADRAS, New York City designer, explains:

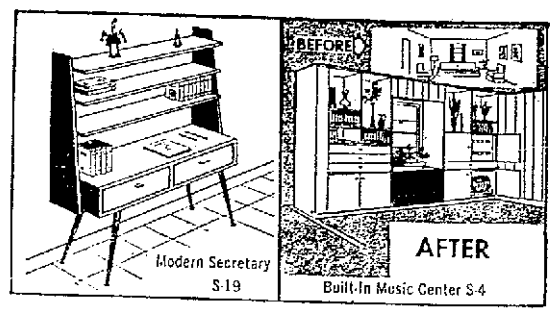

If you have been longing for a buffet, but thwarted by that familiar pinched feeling in the pocketbook, here's your chance to add to your dining room furniture with a minimum financial outlay.

The modern piece shown in the illustration can be constructed with one and one-half sheets of ¾" plywood. The legs are purchased ready-made and simply screw into metal plates attached on the bottom of the unit.

THE BUFFET top is 18" wide and 71¼" long. Height from the floor is 31 inches. Center section shelves provide an opportunity for displaying table ornaments or other items every woman loves to collect and cabinets at either end can be used for storage of table linens.

Only simple carpenter's tools are required in assembly, fully illustrated step-by-step in the Sketchbook plan. The sawing can be eliminated by having your lumber dealer cut parts to specifications given in the plan.

To order, specify Modern Buffet Plan S-26, Modern Secretary Plan S-19 or Built-In Music Center Plan S-4, whichever plan is desired, and send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif. If one or more plans desired, add 50 cents for each additional unit.

Here are two more modern Sketchbook designs.

Decor Goes Literary

By John Ronson

DATING from the old anecdote of the decorator who ordered books by the yard in assorted bindings to brighten a client's library shelves, books have been widely appreciated for their decorative possibilities — as well as for literary benefits. A random survey of bookstores might even suggest that current best-seller status might be credited more to the colorful dust jackets over the covers than to the brilliant words between them!

Whether for ornamental or cultural reasons, surveys show that Americans are buying more books than ever before. This has led to a quest for new and usual ways to show them off. Books have moved out of the library, off the traditional floor-to-ceiling shelves, and appear unexpectedly as decorative accents in almost every room of the house.

Books can be as delightful to look at in decorating a room as they are to read. Here's a unit in example.

WIDE-AWAKE furniture designers, joining the literary handwagon, have created functional pieces with book display space in unlikely places. Typical is one from Valley Upholstery Corp., which consists of an imposing L-shaped sectional sofa with walnut shelves built into the back of the shorter section. Books and magazines on the lower shelves, coupled with an eye-catching lamp or contemporary sculpture on the topmost shelf, add the finishing touches to an ingenious room divider.

The popularity of bookcase-headboards in recent years, even in children's furniture, has brought books into the bedroom — where they are sensibly convenient for night reading. Many manufacturers are bulding such book-nooks across the top or down the sides of wooden headboards — while another, Drexel, offers the supreme luxury of a slanted headboard for semi-reclining readers-in-bed!

A number of bedroom furniture ensembles suggest an easy way to brighten even the simplest room—dressers are being shown with shelved top-decks, just the right size for showing off a colorful assortment of books and those precious personal mementos we all accumulate, and so rarely find space for!

IN THE living room, undoubtedly the most heartening news in recent years is the widespread use of the "wall-hung" furniture that is so well suited to present-day smaller rooms—freeing floor space by suspending chests, desks, even tables from wall rails. Books have become indispensable elements in making this furniture look its best—sitting atop shelves and cabinets, they rub bindings with plants, sculpture or antiques to create a one-of-a-kind focal point in the room.

One room in which books are most frequently seen is, of course, the den. The only "surprise" trend of late has been the introduction of many desks with bookshelves built into the back—providing extra space for often-used volumes, and making the desk more attractive when placed at right angles to a wall.

which grows into a bushy plant with light green foliage and of medium size, to yield tangy, lime-like fruits delicious in ades and drinks. And with a dwarf Chinese or Meyer lemon, you will never want for plenty of fresh lemons winter, summer and fall.

BECAUSE OF their large attractive foliage and the rapidity with which they grow, grapevines are just about "tops" for covering a pergola, patio or carport. Big bunches of the crisp, mouth-watering grapes during the summer and fall months are nice to have, too!

The Eastern Concord or the very early-ripening European types are best for coastal areas.

Just a few plants of raspberry, blackberry or boysenberry will produce plenty of delicious fresh berries for the family to enjoy. The vines make an attractive covering for a lattice or wire fence, too. If you favor strawberries, plant Rockhills as a border or edging. Because the plants produce no runners, they are very ornamental used in this way and will give you some of the best strawberries you've ever tasted.

The possibilities are endless and the adapting of fruit trees to small spaces or using them in place of more conventional ornamentals can become a unique and interesting hobby.

Green Knight Flares bows into the garden scene as a clear chartreuse lily.

Chartreuse Lily Is New

Green Knight Flares, 1961 lily of clear chartreuse tone, was introduced recently by Walter Marx Gardens of Boring, Ore. Aside from its rare color, this Aurelian hybrid origination of Oregon hybridizer Carleton Yerex features large, flaring blooms that refuse to fade in hot sunlight. Stems are strong, 6 to 7 feet long.

One of eight new Oregon lilies being introduced for fall or early spring planting, Green Knight Flares blooms in late July and early August.

To see this lily and other selected bulbs and plants illustrated in full-color fall catalog, send name, address and 50 cents to Walter Marx Gardens, Box 38, Boring, Ore.

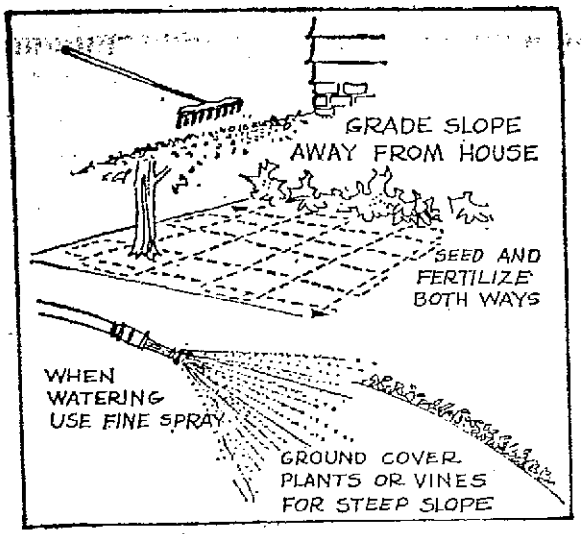

By Dorothy Jonson

Protection of dahlias and chrysanthemums through October is quite a serious garden problem because chewing insects are on the rampage. Many of the beetle species infest the garden at that time, chewing holes in the leaves and ravaging the foliage and even the blossoms.

The finest thing I know to prevent this is a spray combining malathion and dieldrin. This combination gives you a quick kill of the insects and a long-lasting repellency against them, and it leaves no obnoxious residue to spoil the appearance of the plants.

Wooly aphis, the cottony-looking masses that molest pyracantha in Southern California, can also be satisfactorily gotten rid of with this dieldrin-malathion spray. But when spraying for this infestation, flick the nozzle of the spray gun over the soil at the base of the plant to kill wooly aphis which are usually around the root area also.

How to Develop a Good Lawn

Good lawns don't just happen; they're planned.

By Walter Finch

BEAUTIFUL lawns don't grow by themselves. They must be planned and developed.

Actually, developing a good lawn is not difficult if you follow several basic steps. Fall is the best time to begin. Once established, an attractive lawn is an important asset to your property.

Good lawns can be produced on almost any kind of soil with the right preparation and care. First step is a proper seed bed. Loam or clay loam soils are ideal, but most soils will need some improvement.

ROUGH GRADE a slope away from your house. Avoid depressions where surface water might gather. You may need tile drains, especially to take water from downspouts and away from your house. Terracing may be necessary where ground is uneven.

If you live in a new development, it pays to fertilize subsoil with lime and phosphate before topsoil is added. They encourage deeper rooting. A good rule is 50 lbs. of ground limestone and 50 lbs. of superphosphate per 1,000 square feet. Grass likes sweet soil, and lime helps provide the proper pH condition, according to Scotts turf expert Dr. Joseph Howland. Also follow soil test recomendations to supply balanced fertilizer to give grass a good start.

ADDING 1 to 4 inches of topsoil for a new lawn is helpful if basic soil is poor. If you buy topsoil, make sure all stones, sticks and foreign materials are removed.

Rototill or turn soil well, adding compost, well-rotted manure or other organic matter with topsoil. These materials increase water-holding capacity of sand and loosen heavy clay.

More lawn failure can be attributed to poor seeds than any other cause, according to turf experts. Seed is a small expense compared to the time and other costs you invest in your lawn. You only need to buy good seed once.

Merion bluegrass is excellent in northern areas. Fescues, bents and other types also are good. Zoysia and bermudas are better in warm areas. Check a reliable garden center or your county agricultural agent for recommended grass varieties in your region.

TURF RESEARCH shows best temperature for seed germination is about 70 degrees F. That's why cool fall weather is best for planting lawns.

Distribute 2 to 4 lbs. of seed per 1,000 square feet, depending on type you use and available moisture. Apply half in one direction, half at right angles for even coverage. Mix lightly by raking with a steel tip rake, and roll the soil firm.

Apply a fine water spray daily to speed germination until grass is one inch tall. Mulching steep slopes prevents rain washout. Begin mowing when grass is 3 inches tall.

Regular feeding with high-nitrogen fertilizer like 20-10-10, 16-8-8 and 12-6-6 will assure strong, deep roots, healthy green color and a thick turf that resists disease and weeds.

FOOD

Tasty Cream Soup

By Mildred K. Flanary
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

CREAM SOUP is a nourishing choice as an entree for lunch or the first course for dinner. Cauliflower and cheese combined in a smooth cream sauce yield an interesting flavor combination.

Since milk is high in protein as well as calcium and other valuable minerals and vitamins, cream soups are a nourishing contribution to any meal. Growing children need three to four or more glasses of milk each day and adults need at least two glasses. Cream soup is an excellent way to include milk in the diet in cooked foods.

A crisp salad will add texture and color contrast to a lunch featuring Cauliflower-Cheese Soup. Add assorted crackers, warm fruit cobbler with spiced cream for dessert and glasses of chilled milk.

Cauliflower-Cheese Soup

- 1 medium head cauliflower (about 3 cups cooked cauliflower)
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 quart milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper
- 1 cup (¼ pound) shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
- Parsley, if desired

Cook cauliflower and chop fine or force through food mill or sieve. Saute onions in butter until transparent but not brown. Blend in flour. Add milk and cauliflower stirring constantly. Add seasonings and cook until smooth and thickened. Add ⅔ cup of the cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Serve and garnish with remaining cheese and parsley, if desired. Makes about 6 to 7 cups, enough for 4 to 6 servings.

Novel of a Hundred Adventures

By Vera Williams
Independent, Press-Telegram Book Editor

SOME critics say the most important literary events of the decade are Pasternak's "Doctor Zhivago" and Louis Aragon's "Holy Week."

Long regarded as one of France's finest modern writers, Aragon, 64, gains new freedom of thought and expression in "HOLY WEEK" (Putnam, $5.95), a panoramic novel of March 19 to 25, Holy Week in the year 1815. On Palm Sunday, 1815, the average Parisian thought of little else than "When will Napoleon get here? . . . What will the king do?"

Napoleon had fled from Elba Feb. 26, landing at Antibes March 1. As he marched north, with an initial force of 1,000 men, the successive armies sent by Louis XVIII to destroy him had gone over to his side to swell the army.

Peasants and workers, as well as troops, had greeted him with wild ovations in the villages and towns, in Grenoble and Lyons, and now the news had just reached Paris that Marshal Ney, "the bravest of the brave," who had promised the king that he would "bring back the usurper in an iron cage," had joined Napoleon at Auxerre.

Would the king remain at his post and "defend Paris with his life" as he had promised?

If not, what would be the alternative?

At this point, "Holy Week" begins and it sweeps forward in the tradition of "Les Miserables" and "War and Peace." A hundred adventures and as many characters are compressed within the crucial week.

Central figure is Theodore Gericault, young painter, who discouraged by the hostile reaction to his exhibit in the Salon, joins the King's Musketeers. As he guards the King's household in its flight through the countryside, he witnesses the incredible conditions of his countrymen and the wreckage of a kingdom.

Haakon Chevalier, the translator, is the author of several books including "The Man Who Would Be God." He has translated books by Stendhal, Andre Maurois, Salvador Dali, Joseph Kessel and Vercos, as well as two earlier novels by Aragon.

IN THE YEAR 9, the Emperor Augustus exiled the poet Ovid, ordering him to spend the rest of his life in a remote province of the Roman Empire—the small garrison town of Tomi, near where the Danube flows into the Black Sea. Vintila Horia, born in the country (then called Dacia, now Rumania) where the poet died, is the author of "GOD WAS BORN IN EXILE, Ovid at Tomi" (St. Martin, $4.98), an imaginary journal of Ovid's last years.

JULIET LOWELL

Just like most readers, Miss Lowell laughs heartily at her new book "DEAR MAN OF AFFAIRS: The Unexpurgated Correspondence of America's Potentates of the Swivel Chair." (Putnam, $2.95.)

PRIVATE correspondence of Queen Victoria and Lord Henry John Temple Palmerston was in effect a running battle between two determined people, it is revealed in "REGINA VS. PALMERSTON," by Brian Connell (Doubleday, $5.95.) When the 18-year-old Victoria came to the throne, Lord Palmerston was Britain's foreign minister, and he later became her prime minister. Victoria violently opposed Palmerston's plan to set up Turkey as a buffer state against Russia, the first battle of a series. The letters deal with the Crimean war, the balance of power in Europe, the Indian mutiny, and the Civil War in America.

ICELAND 1,000 years ago is depicted in "FIRE IN THE ICE," by Dorothy James Roberts (Little, Brown, $5), about a woman of fire and ice, Hallgerda Hoskuldsdaughter, her three husbands and their fate. The novel reaches a climax in Hallgerda's judgment of her last husband, the great hero Gunnar of the Land Isles. Included are descriptions of the month-long feasts and sacrifices to Thor and Odin, and the annual Parliament at Thingvellir where the chieftains gathered to settle disputes and exchange tales of daring.

IN 1800 THE United States had 16 states and 5¼ million inhabitants; 45 years later the figures were 26 states and 20 million inhabitants, says Charles M. Wiltse in "THE NEW NATION, 1800-1845" (Hill & Wang, $4.50. He says "The common man of 1800, whatever his political inclination, was restless, curious, acquisitive, jealous of his freedom and skeptical of authority . . . He was optimistic, confident, self-reliant, with a strong sense of 'mine' if not always of 'thine' . . . He was a hard drinker, a gambler, a brawler. He was a fierce competitor who believed in progress as surely as he believed in sin."

COMES NOW a one-volume Civil War history, "THE DIVIDED UNION," by J. G. Randall and David Donald (Little, Brown, $6.50). Based on the late Dr. Randall's "The Civil War and Reconstruction," published in 1937, this book was revised by David Donald, distinguished historian, author and a Randall protege at the University of Illinois.

IF YOU SHARE with Thomas B. Costain a liking for short novels, you will rejoice in "XII: TWELVE SHORT NOVELS" (Doubleday, $7.50). Costain chose "Young Joseph," Thomas Mann; "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," Thornton Wilder; "The Duel," Joseph Conrad; "The Old Maid," Edith Wharton; "Father Sergius," Leo Tolstoy; "The Turn of the Screw," Henry James; "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," James Hilton; "Prisoner of the Sand," Antoine de Saint Exupery; "Portrait of Jennie," Robert Nathan; "The Lost Sea," Jan de Hartog; "Father of the Bride," Edward Streeter; "The Short Reign of Pippin IV," John Steinbeck.

And if you like to read lying down, and not sitting up straight you will rejoice in "THE HORIZONTAL READER," a rare mixture of amusing tales, irreverent verse, surprises and chills (Doubleday, $4.95). Expains Mel Evans who compiled it: "This book is designed to ride easily on bellies of various shapes, to sit comfortably on the weary, relaxing mind, to slip silently from your hand when you go to sleep." Among the authors: George Ade, Alexander Woollcott, Ambrose Bierce, Bill Nye, Josh Billings, John Barrymore, Ramon Runyon, Guy de Maupassant.

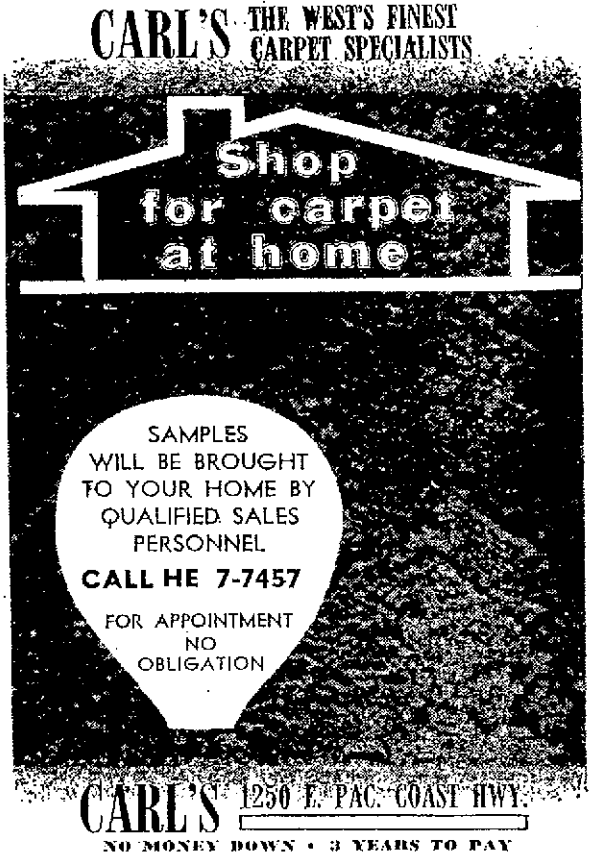

GRANT WAS PRESIDENT and Custer and his cavalrymen were about to be wiped out by the Sioux when the National League of baseball clubs was formed, thus setting an infant game off on a career that was to see it become modern America's "national pastime."

Now "THE NATIONAL LEAGUE STORY" (Hill & Wang, $4.50) is told by the astute scholar, Lee Allen, historian for the Baseball Hall of Fame at Coopertown, N.Y.

Allen places the emphasis on the careers and personalities of historic and colorful players and managers and the games and plays that made them famous.

His book is a factual account and does not attempt to gloss over the NL's rough and tumble beginnings.

Illustrated with 32 pages of many heretofore unpublished photographs, it makes reading as exciting as a ninth inning rally.

SOUTHLAND TRAVELER

Passport, Mister?

By Fred Taylor-Kraft
Independent, Press-Telegram Travel Editor

IF YOU were issued a passport during the second quarter of this year, you know how you wrangled it: You had to stand in line.

In fact, Long Beach-Los Angeles area globe-trotters' requests for passports during this period totaled 50,070—which is in increase of 95 per cent over the same period a year ago.

That, fellow traveler, is the greatest increase of any area in the United States. And it came during a period when Department of State figures show issuance and renewals of passports actually declined 2 per cent.

During the first six months of 1961, the Long Beach-Los Angeles metropolitan area held second place among large cities with 73,190 passports issued — exceeded only by New York City-Northeastern New Jersey with 138,100.

HOW DID WE GO, and where did we go?

Californians, says a survey by the Auto Club, did 83 per cent of their globe-trotting by air, thereby keeping pace with the national average.

Most popular destination, both nationally and among Californians, is still Europe. However, the number dropped 17,000, or 6 per cent, from those going to Europe during a similar period in 1960.

France, as usual, was the most popular destination, edging out Italy. Those two leaders were followed by Switzerland and the United Kingdom.

With the arrival of the fleet jets and their tendency to shrink the size of this old world, travel continues to mount. For instance, during the first six months of this year 548,658 requests for passports were filled; for the entire year 1919 — a little more than four decades back — passport activity totaled only 97,952.

Are you using your passport soon?

SKIN DIVERS who like to explore new waters should be interested in Baja California's northern coast and extreme southern tip. Several skin diving supply stores and a compressed air station make Ensenada the center of most activity for divers who may wish to explore the numerous lagoons along the rock coast as far south as San Quintin. Facilities are few below San Quintin Bay.

On the gulf side, such spots as San Felipe, Mulege and Loreto are reported by the Auto Club to be popular, and La Paz, once noted for pearls, is still an attraction. Boats and supplies at all of these places are reported available and at reasonable prices.

DEER HUNTING season will be on a zonal basis in Arizona again this year, but deer will be legal targets somewhere in the state from Oct. 10 to Nov. 10; for bow hunters, there will be two special seasons, now to Oct. 15 and Dec. 1-23. Other legal hunting: elk, now to Oct. 4 and Nov. 18-26; turkey, Oct. 14-24; bighorn, Dec. 8-17; javelina, Feb. 22-March 4; buffalo, Oct. 20-25; bear, until Feb. 28; and squirrel, Oct. 18-Nov. 12. A special archery season for javelinas runs Jan. 24-Feb. 21.

Going Places

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

ONE OF the complications of visiting in Paris is that hardly anyone, least of all the Parisian, ever gets around to going to sleep. On one visit, we averaged less than four hours a night because turning in seemed a totally absurd thing to do.

The impression is unmistakable that Paris sweats out the daylight hours, the subway running and cops writing out parking tickets and exquisitely tuned and turned shopgirls selling perfume, because it must be done. But all day a voluptuousness, a sense of accelerated ferment, hangs impatiently in this luminous air.

One of the things which makes Paris a true night-time city is that there are no closing hours. From the ratty beatnik joints in St. Germain de Pres to the luster of Maxim's, every place stays open so long as a waiter can prop his eyelids open and there is one more customer to demand yet another glass of Pernod.

BECAUSE THE END of the evening is never in sight, there is never any rush to get a night's fun accomplished. Invariably it begins with a leisurely meal at a restaurant chosen to fit the mood of the night as deliberately as the wine is chosen to fit the mood of the dinner. There is no rush as in London, where the restaurants don't start serving dinner until 6:30 and the theater curtains go up at 7:30.

It may be the Lido cabaret, where the last show doesn't even start until 2 a.m. Or it may be one of those not-quite-believable night clubs where the decor may range from a Frenchman's dream of a Wild West saloon, to a designer's nightmare of a Spanish courtyard. The shows, always playing touch and go with France's schizophrenic obscenity laws, vary hardly at all.

Neither do the women, who, wherever you encounter them, are inexplicably gorgeous. This is no mere quixotic whim; all the cliches about French women are true, from the women of the night to the showgirls of the evening, to the secretaries, and on to the garden variety of housewife.

There are several musts for Paris by night. One is a boat ride on the Batcau Mouche, a sleek sightseeing boat that slithers along the Seine on hourly schedules.

Another is a walk up and down, and then up and down again, the Champs Elysees. You have to do it to know why, but the main reason is that it is the Champs Elysees, and that's what it's there for.

You may climb the Eiffel Tower at a wee hour; the view is infinitely spectacular and pure Paris.

AND YOU MUST wind up the night at Les Halles, the produce market, for a bowl of onion soup, the kind they don't have at Andre's French Restaurant and Pit Barbecue on Route 25.

SYDNEY

"Any shopping, hotel and eating ideas for Australia, particularly Sydney . . ."

LOTS OF GOOD eating spots in Sydney (and Melbourne) now that the new Australians are in. (New Australians are European immigrants. They have taken that cold-boiled-potatoes-and-bully-beef feeling out of the menus.

In Sydney: Caprice at Rose Bay, Romano's downtown. Chelsea and Le Trianon at King's Cross are all excellent.

If you are an oyster buff, you'll go wild for Sydney rock oysters. Try the Australian wine. It's a sleeper.

Shopping is not much. Stuffed koala bears (made of kangaroo hide), medium alligator materials, sheepskins, Australian wool sweaters.

". . . We cannot make up our minds about stopover . . ."

You can make a lot of them: Tahiti, Samoa, Fiji, New Caledonia, Honolulu — all on flights from the States. If you are coming down from Singapore on BOAC or QANTAS, you can make Jakarta and Darwin. Not worth much unless you are curious.

For traveling couples, Tahiti holds up for about three days. Then they've had it. Samoa (and Aggie Grey's hotel) is for the adventurous, but it's the prettiest island outside Bora Bora — where there is an outstanding hotel on a primitive island.

Fiji goes over very well. Korolevu Hotel, halfway between Nadi Airport and Suva, is most popular. Better yet, the three-day cruise on the yacht "Blue Lagoon" down to the primitive Yasawas. A swinger with everything included for $100. Ask the Fiji Visitors Bureau at the airport.

Pretty good tortoise-shell shopping and Indian tailoring in Suva. The Grand Pacific Hotel—the "GPH" of South Pacific fame — is venerable and British with tea in the morning. Jumps on Saturday night.

THE WAY THEY GO: (Group division) "Caravans of Fun," a new travel service in Mexico, sounds good to me. If you can corral a group of ten people who are interested in driving through Mexico, this is the easy way. Your automobiles will be met at the border. Two-way radios are installed in each car. The guide in the lead car gives you a running commentary on the country.

Best of all, you don't have to worry about road maps, gasoline or food. And the caravans cary a mechanic. In case your car develops a Mexican complaint.

Because the radios are two-way, you can ask questions of specific interest to you. And the trip will be tailored to your special interests. You can take a general tour of the country. Or ask for a fishing tour. Or hunting. Or visit the ancient Mexican empires.

For information, write to Bob Peacher, Post Office Box 30316, Mexico City 7, D. F. $25 a day per couple includes everything: accommodations, food, auto and medical insurance and gas.

"You mentioned a storage garage in New York where we can leave our car if we're traveling to Europe by ship. . . . We're going by plane . . . should we use the same garage?"

No. Drive to Idlewild International or La Guardia Airports. Then phone the Queens Garage Co. at TW 6-3955 during the day. Or HU 7-6382 if you're traveling at night. They pick up the car. $25 the first month, $15 per month thereafter.

CAMERA ANGLES

How to Shoot Little Tigers

"Hey, what's he doing?" "Oh, he's taking my picture."

"I'll ham it up for him." "Okay, okay, that's all!"

Chosen from 60 "negs" shot in one afternoon, this series of Dennis Tracy of Yonkers presents what a youngster may be thinking when someone points a camera at him.

By The Shutterbug

IN THE TIME it takes you to read this column, possibly several thousand doting parents are pointing cameras at their offspring and beseeching the little ones to smile.

And quite a few are going to be disappointed with the results.

The little tiger just won't smile. He stands there stiffly, squinting into the lens. Technically, the picture is perfect but it just doesn't look like Daddy's laughing, bouncing boy at all.

WHAT HAPPENED?

Here are a few hints, from one amateur to another, that might help to brighten up the family snapshot album for future amusement and nostalgic reminiscence.

First, don't let Mom "fix him up" for the camera. Chances are he rarely looks like that for more than five minutes at a time. Slicked-down hair, face scrubbed shiny, wrinkle-free clothes. Hardly the way you'll want to remember him after he grows up.

Don't try to pose him. He won't pose the way you want him to anyway. Let him do what he wants. Let him wander. Prefocus the camera at, say, five or six feet and follow him, keeping the preset distance away.

PATIENCE IS a necessity. If Junior is a little ham, let him ham it up. He'll grow tired of it after a while and you can snap him as he really is. If he's shy, let him hide. He'll warm up to the camera shortly.

Once he has come to see the camera as just another part of old Dad, like a finger or an ear, you can induce him to do things. Notice that the word is "induce." You can never successfully "direct" a child.

Talk to him. Make noises that interest and amuse him. Give him something to play with, a ball, a book, a deck of cards—but not the traditional watch, unless he's in a straitjacket.

Kid pictures may be pretty stuffy business to show friends and neighbors who haven't the family interest at heart; but dolling up the photos with bright captions, like the accompanying layout, helps add interest.

Now—a 2-way treatment helps clear up piles faster

Unlike some leading preparations, Paracin contains a local anesthetic that works in minutes to ease pain and stop itch. Reduces swelling and relieves pressure so piles can heal naturally.

PARACIN® complete home hemorrhoid treatment is the new way to ease the pain and itching of tender, swollen piles. This new special medication contains three ingredients prescribed by many doctors . . . to help nature clear up piles faster. PARACIN has been proved effective in clinical tests. It acts fast to relieve most painful hemorrhoid conditions.

PARACIN starts working fast to ease pain and stop itch. Soothes and cushions the irritation of piles. Makes movement less painful, more natural. Reduces swelling and helps protect against infection.

Now PARACIN gives you this special home treatment with both ointment and suppositories for internal and external application at the same time. By using the ointment externally before using the suppositories, you get the most complete relief. Sold with money-back guarantee.

Tips on Choosing a City Dog

Playful and plucky, the Scottish terrier makes a good family pet. This puppy, owned by Marlorain Kennels of 26332 Belle Porte Ave., Harbor City, is good example.

By Eleanor Avery Price

"WHAT breed of dog is best — not a toy nor overwhelmingly large—for a medium-sized city home where there are children?" This is a question asked repeatedly.

There are wonderful dogs in all medium-sized breeds, but the fact must be faced occasionally there is one not so good. Select a puppy that is running around happily (even in a strange part of the yard), has bright eyes, clean skin, a firm round stomach. Be certain the dam and sire have sound temperaments.

Among sporting dogs—and the man of the house may prefer one—the spaniels hold high favor. The Brittany fits very well into the family scene, he is handsome, resembles a setter but has a docked tail. The English springer spaniel is a little larger—(40 to 45 pounds)—but his affectionate nature makes him a fine pal for the family, and his beauty makes him ornamental as well. The English and American cocker are both lively, affectionate home pets. "He loves me better than the sunlight without," wrote Elizabeth Barrett of a beloved cocker.

MOST POPULAR of the hounds is the winsome, likable beagle. He needs inclusion in all family excursions. Dachshunds are alert, companionable, usually gentle, and love to romp with children. The basenji is devoted, playful, normally quiet, odorless, cleans himself like a cat. Although the basset is really a big dog, he is low to the ground and a real homebody, friendly and irresistible.

A fine family dog among the working group is the docile Shetland sheepdog. His beautiful coat needs attention, but his merry loving ways are charming, and he is protective of children, having been known to put himself between them and strangers. The low-slung small Corgis, both the Cardigan and Pembroke, are agreeable, affectionate, intelligent, very alert. And if you can find one, you will say that the smaller-sized border collies are wonderful, easily disciplined, intelligent beyond belief.

A NUMBER of the terriers are ideally smallish in size yet big in character. They are plucky, tireless when romping with children, affectionate but not maudlin. Consider fox terriers, dandie dinmonts, Irish,

Insist on Red Star the ONLY Steer Manure DOUBLE-CURED with INFRA-RED

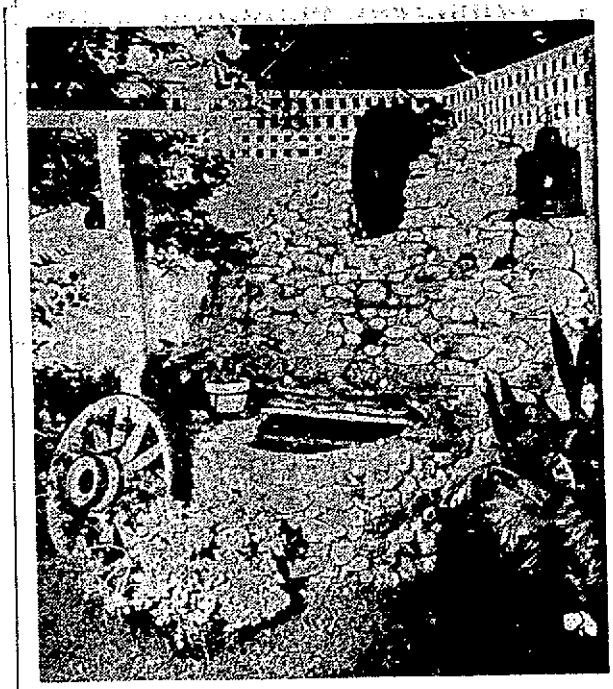

MORE FOR YOUR MONEY

Double-cured with Infra-Red. Two to four times the humus growth value of cheap "green" manures. Lighter, drier, easier to spread. Even has less odor!

BEST FOR YOUR GARDEN

Thoroughly aged, from 12 to 18 months—ready to use. Comes from concrete floored steer feeding pens, not dairy pastures; free from weed seed. An ideal mulch that also has a higher percentage of organic matter.

There's a story behind the water wheel and plant basket in this view of the garden of Mr. and Mrs. John Snell.

FALL GARDENS

Garden With a Story

IN AN AREA that is unfamiliar to many Long Beach residents—although it is but two blocks from busy Pacific Coast Highway—the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Snell, 3625 E. 17th St., offers seclusion and a view and opportunity for a garden set up with sentimental touches.

The home is neat and attractive, with just enough elevation to afford front-window glimpses of the city nearby and the sea in the distance.

Because the street is more or less secluded, there is little traffic. Thus the garden in the rear of the lot is particularly quiet and restful.

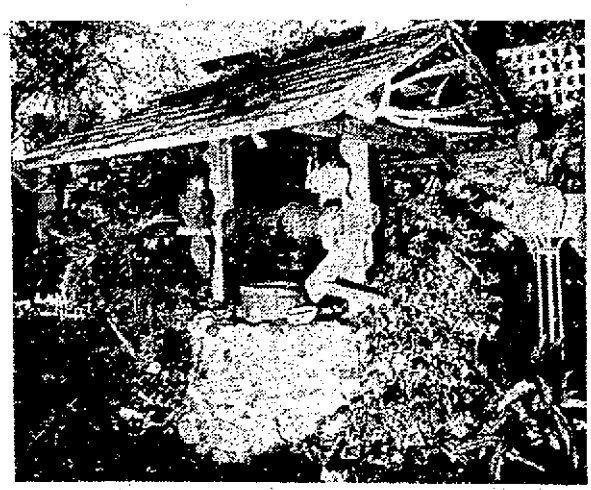

In one corner, Snell has built a small water wheel that slowly trickles water to rocks below. The arrangement is based upon a wheel from a bicycle Snell's brother, the late Bill Snell, used in 1920 in delivering papers for the Long Beach Press. (Bill Snell later became circulation manager for this newspaper.)

THE BASKET that carried the papers on the brother's bike has been made into a planter and rests now at the foot of the water wheel.

Rocks from all over the United States form the mound surrounding the wheel. Tiny round white rocks that resemble ping pong balls, imbedded near the front, are from Italy.

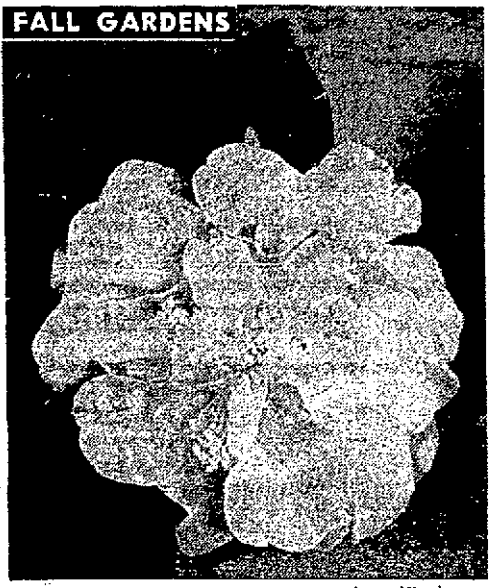

The "wishing well" in the center rear of the garden has an aging charm. The winch in the center was once a portion of a mast on a ship upon which Mrs. Snell's father was shipwrecked. The well has been designed so that water trickles when the winch is turned. Abundant shrubs and plants surrounding the well give it a true old-time feeling.

—STELLA GEORGE.

Expressing the peace and quiet of the Snells' garden is this scene with its "wishing well" and shrubbery.

FALL GARDENS

Camellias are jewels in winter gardens. King's Ransom is a 1961 All-America camellia choice.

Camellias Take Over

By Avery Angle

FALL IS THE time when the camellia gardener sits back to enjoy the full fruit of his year's labor—and a rich reward it is for the modest effort required in the care of these handsome shrubs. Camellias, strange as it seems to the uninitiated, go dormant in the fall—and burst into bloom!

Camellias are the queens of the fall and winter garden and their beauty ranges widely in shades and blends of reds, pinks and whites and the blooms take many forms. The fall-winter period also is best for choosing camellias which may be seen in flower at nurseries.

Camellias appreciate good drainage, soil mixed with a good grade of high-altitude oak leaf mold and/or peat moss and sand. Planting holes should be dug well out around the area the roots will occupy and well down below the deepest roots, filling in the extra under space with broken rock or heavy gravel for drainage. Keep plants at original soil level because deep planting can be fatal.

Camellias prefer semi-shade but will take more sun than usually thought; they are excellent for north-side planting. They enjoy damp soil but not wet feet, so they must be watered before completely drying out but not kept soaked.

FERTILIZING THREE times annually with a good commercial camellia food is recommended. This quick chore should be done in April, June and August, and many growers recommend the August feeding be done with an 0-10-10 formula food (nitrogen lacking or minimized) to promote flowers, not growth. A good clean-up spray about once a year is usually the sole spraying need, although aphis may attack new growth in the spring and require an extra "shot." Keep area under shrubs raked up because dead flowers and leaves that fall may foster fungus formation. However, camellia roots spread out in shallow fashion and should not be disturbed by hoeing or spading.

Pruning need consist only of taming occasional wild sports or shaping shrubs. Camellias may also be espaliered or container grown effectively. Disbudding is practiced by many gardeners to thin out excess bloom in heavy years.

Gardening

in three periods—April, June and August preferably.

Gardenias will provide special floral beauty, and so will poinsettias, but water regularly. Consider also pyracantha, holly, and all berrying plants that are so attractive during winter holidays.

Roses need plenty of moisture during fall, but they should not stand in water. Use a mulch to help absorb excess moisture. Apply plant food or liquid fertilizer to help increase size and quantity of bloom.

PERENNIALS lend glory to the autumn garden and will bloom year after year, sometimes improving with time, although they may need dividing. In fact, now is the time to divide clump perennials or replace old with new. Some may need just a tidying to destroy any possible winter hiding places for pests, their eggs, and various diseases.

Perennial seeds may be sown now, but you'll get flowers much faster with nursery-grown plants. You may see some in gallon cans that are in bloom. Consult your nurseryman on loosening the soil and feeding these most grateful of plants. Perennials to select now include agapanthus, columbine, marguerite, delphinium, gazania, hemerocallis, penstemon, iceland and oriental poppy, and chrysanthemum.

Chrysanthemums are, of course, most often in the form of annuals. Other annual favorites include ageratum, calendula, centurea, cineraria, larkspur, marigold, pansy, snapdragon, stock, viola, zinnia, sweet peas. All these and others grow easily, their soil requirements are modest, they are gay, and they are excellent to hide withering foliage of bulbs. Keep annuals bushy by pinching off top leaves after a dozen or so appear. Prolong blooming by keeping faded flowers cut before they go to seed. Numerous annuals can be purchased started in flats.

MANY ground covers do well started at this time. They include ivy geranium, vinca minor and blue bugle for shade, lippea, variegated Algerian and the ivies. Lawns can be sown most any time, but they do best when started in spring or fall. Never let a newly planted lawn dry out on the surface. Sprinkle lightly, do not create ugly depressions. Glorify an old lawn with a good food so it will not suffer from grass hunger. Always fertilize when grass blades are dry. Then follow with gentle watering so the plant food will go to the root system.

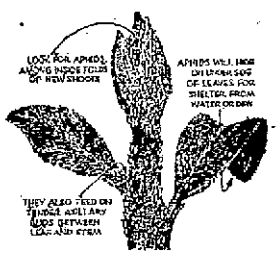

Many bulbs are ready now, some to go right into the ground, others to hold until the weather is cooler. Make early selections and buy only first quality. This does not necessarily mean the largest. Look now for Madonna lily, amaryllis, freesia, tritonia, watsonia, Dutch iris, sparaxis, ixias, white calla, narcissus, Chinese sacred lily, baby gladioli. Anemone and ranunculus should not be set out until October. Remember, bulbs have different soil needs but all must have good drainage. No bulb should be put into very wet soil, and no bulb should come in direct contact with fertilizer. Consult your nurseryman for complete instructions. Bulbs live a number of years, so give them a good start.

IF YOUR house plants have suffered neglect, try to revive them. Ferns, palms, philodendrons and others will respond to regular watering and feeding. If they look too bad, put them, pot and all, outside in soil in a shady place, apply fertilizer, and keep moist. When they perk up, repot if necessary, and take them back into the house if you wish. Discard all plants badly infested with scale or mealy bugs.

don't let aphids and black spot ruin your roses

When you see these danger signs, give fast first-aid with ISOTOX and ORTHOCIDE

APHIDS
suck young growth; harden buds, distort leaves, stunt growth. ISOTOX Garden Spray, which contains Lindane, Malathion and DDD, controls aphids, red spider and a wide variety of other garden insects.

BLACK SPOT
During summer, circular black spots ⅛ to ½ inch across appear. Spots will enlarge, merge, leaves turn yellow, die and fall. Also affects stems, canes.

ORTHOCIDE Garden Fungicide (captan) effectively controls black spot on roses; brown patch on lawns; damp-off on bulbs, seeds and cuttings and many other plant diseases.

IT'S EASY AS WATERING to apply ISOTOX Garden Spray and ORTHOCIDE Garden Fungicide. Mix them together in the ORTHO Spray-Ette garden hose attachment. Spray both at same time.

YOUR GARDEN

For Color, Fragrance

By Joe Littlefield

STOCKS may lack vivid colors, when compared with snapdragons, but they more than make up for this minor fact by sweet-scenting garden areas in which they are planted.

Mass them in groups about ten inches apart so they'll hold themselves up. Plant the colors separated in groups but within the mass planting.

Stocks are not partial to soil cultivation and do better if watered only when soil becomes dry. Keep them growing by feeding them at least twice during the active period before they set flower buds.

SPRAY FOR aphids that might suck plant sap juices from tip foliage and stunt the plants, resulting in short flower stems and inferior masses of blossoms.

A companion plant in front of stocks would be calendula, with rich orange or bright yellow flowers. The double blossoms are totally different from spikes of stocks and establish interesting contrast of blooms and colors.

Calendulas planted in front of stocks provide color accents in the borders of this attractive approach.

Choosing a Dog

Welsh, and Lakeland terriers, miniature schnauzers, Scottish terriers, Sealyhams, Skye terriers, and that most gentle little fellow, the West Highland white.

In the non-sporting group, the miniature poodle, ever merry and lovable, holds top spot. The Boston terrier (a cross between terrier and bulldog) has been bred for city life and is neat and companionable. The pint-sized French bulldog is a blithe soul, sweet-tempered and playful. The Schipperke's gentle way with children and his watchful loyalty endear him to his owners.

You can see all of these breeds today at the Pasadena Kennel Club show and obedience trial at Brookside Park.

PLAN TO ATTEND Los Angeles Poodle Obedience Club and German Shepherd Dog Club of L. A. County specialties at North Hollywood Park on Oct. 15.

JOSEPHINE REYNOLDS
It's Polynesian

"THE HOUSE a steak built." That's what the customers call the Melody Cove restaurant, 1960 Santa Fe Ave.

And they know what they're talking about.

Down through the years, the Melody Cove—owned by Jerry Reynolds and his tall wife Josephine—has always featured a special high quality steak at a low price. From time to time, this steak has variously been a sirloin, New York cut or filet mignon, changing according to market conditions. The Reynolds have always made their beef purchases carefully, succeeding in buying the best cuts available at reasonable prices.

Currently the restaurant features two special steaks which keep the customers smiling and coming back for more. The newest is a Polynesian teriyaki steak for $2.25. This is a tender, broiled filet served with a cup of tangy teriyaki sauce (made from soy sauce, ginger and other lively spices). The price includes soup du jor or a fine salad with choice of dressing; a dandy baked potato with butter or cheese sauce; hot garlic toast and coffee.

The other special steak is a 10-ounce top sirloin for $2.50, and this is also excellent quality beef, skillfully broiled to retain the maximum juices and tenderness. It is served with the same side dishes as the teriyaki steak.

The menus at the Melody Cove (which is closed Sundays) list many other lip-smacking entrees, such as a large top sirloin for $3.25 and a delectable steak and lobster combination for $4.25. Another gourmet dish currently at the height of its season is fried oysters—$2.25 on the dinner. On Thursday nights the special is a fine prime rib au jus dinner for $1.95.

The Cove, which has a separate dining room for families with children, serves luncheons and dinners from 11 a.m. to midnight Mondays through Saturdays.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Gentlemen—those of you who are married—The Continental has some advice for you on how to romance your wives.

Ordinarily, Renzo Cesana, The Continental, largely directs his advice to women.

A gentleman of international charm, his coast-to-coast video advice for femmes was romantically sugar-coated with poetry, soft music and champagne when he was the toast of late TV nine years ago.

Now that he has returned to afternoon television (channel 5, 12:30 p.m. daily), he has dropped the champagne, uses the soft music sparingly, but still gives major-league treatment to the poetry.

HIS NON-POETIC ADVICE for husbands also is "major-league" caliber.

"Men," said The Continental, "treat your wives as women—not pals.

"I do not mean that you should run fetch them a drink of water every time they are thirsty. That is not the idea at all.

"What I mean is that, even if your wife weighs 170 pounds, call her 'Little Darling.'

"Be a little jealous—it is proof that you love her.

"Don't try to prove that you have complete faith in her by asking your best friend to take her to dinner. Establish your ownership of the girl.

"The safest thing to do is to assert yourself as the male with all the defects that a male has.

"Only God can make a woman beautiful.

"But there is something beautiful about every woman—some little thing of her own.

"Capitalize on it."

HIS ADVICE FOR WIVES:

"Just be a woman—don't try to be a pal.

"A man loves to talk about himself and his work. Let him talk."

The Continental takes issue with the "authorities" who picture the American woman as being highly frustrated.

He claims she is no more frustrated than her European counterpart. The American woman has to be a happier woman than the European even if she sometimes won't admit it.

She has to be happier because she has a home, a car, opportunities to study and, most important, is freer.

"All women—everywhere—look for romance," said The Continental.

"And you can not tell me that the French, German or Italian husband is romantic for 30 years.

No man can be romantic that long with the same woman.

"He may love her, but the honeymoon doesn't last forever.

So the Italian wife, too, is a sentimentalist. She, too, seeks escape in films and books.

"WHY SINGLE OUT the American man as being unromantic and make him the only guilty one in the world?

"Like other men everywhere, he works hard all day. When he comes home, he is tired.

"The American woman, with her material advantages, is in a much better position to receive him in a romance-inspiring home."

The Continental does not believe that American women are attracted to foreign men any more than foreign women are attracted to American men.

He told of sitting in an Italian cafe one day where there were two lovely Italian girls at a table. At another table, there were two Italian men. At a third table, there were two American men.

"All of the men plotted to get the girls," said The Continental. "The Americans succeeded.

"I am sure it was not because they had more money or were more handsome. It was simply that, in Italy, they were foreigners—they were different.

"And for the girls of Italy—like everywhere else—the grass is always greener from some other pasture."

THE OTHER PASTURE appeal of foreigners for American

DAVID'S REAL WIFE IN REEL LIFE

'Ozzie and Harriet' Gain Daughter-In-Law

JUNE AND DAVID NELSON
Newlyweds at Home

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There is a new member of the Nelson family, expanding the winsome foursome to a quintet.

Added to the longtime team of Ozzie and Harriet, David and Ricky, is Mrs. David, also known as June Blair. She is a lovely, green-eyed redhead with a Marilyn Monroe-like background and a figure to match.

Viewers of the "Ozzie and Harriet" show will be seeing June at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, channel 7, in the quite logical role as David's wife.

"The show has us moving into our new apartment," June reported. "It was decided not to make a big thing of our marriage in the show, since most people know we're married anyway."

* * * *

SHE ADDED that her introduction to the show doesn't mean that her life's work is cut out for her.

"I expect to be in only one out of four chapters," she said. "I want to keep my own career going, too."

To this end, she has a separate agent and press agent from David's. You can understand her ambition when you learn of her history.

Her official biography tells it: Born in San Francisco, orphaned in infancy. Adopted at 4, returned to the orphanage at 6. Adopted at 7 by an unkind family. Ran away at 14, transferred to another family who insisted she "earn her keep."

Discovered by photographer at 16, became model and movie extra. Television bits, contracts at Warners and Fox. Finally an important role with Ernest Borgnine in "The Rabbit Trap."

* * * *

"THAT'S WHEN David saw me," June said. "He asked his father to keep an eye out for a role I could do on their show. One came along and that's how we met."

Wedding bells rang last May 20, and then June became a circus wife. Their honeymoon was largely spent traveling the country with the Flying Viennas, aerialist act in which David stars.

This summer the act played fairs and other shows in such places as San Mateo, Santa Rosa and Pacific Ocean Park in California; Anchorage, Alaska, Oklahoma City, Salt Lake City, Springfield, Ill., and Monticello, Iowa.

"Most of the time we traveled by truck," June said. "David bought a flatbed truck with two compartments, one to sleep in and one for the trapeze rigging. At first I thought I would fly to meet him at each stop, then I decided to try the truck.

"I'm glad I did. It was a great way to see the country. I also got to know the circus people and learn all their customs. I found out the wives take care of their husbands' needs, even to washing out their leotards. So that's what I did."

June and David are now back in their Hollywood Hills home to pursue their acting careers, together and separately.

USO SHOW ON TONIGHT

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Features Marilyn Monroe, Jack Benny, Bob Hope, Danny Kaye

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI)—It should come as no surprise that "USO—Wherever They Go," the attraction on NBC's "DuPont Show of the Week" tonight (Sunday, 10 p.m., channel 4), will have a guest list which includes Jack Benny, Bob Hope, Danny Kaye, Marilyn Monroe, Marlene Dietrich, Bing Crosby and others of similar fame.

The producers of this tribute to the United Service Organizations on its 20th anniversary are John Aaron and Jesse Zousmer, who are old hands at persuading stars to be themselves on camera as a result of their supervision of the "Person to Person" program of recent seasons.

A major coup was in getting Miss Monroe to narrate the film on the troop-entertainment tour she made in Korea in 1951.

"She had just been released from the hospital when we called," said Zousmer, a graying, bespectacled man who looks like what a corporation president is supposed to look like. "So we went to her apartment with a projector, sound equipment and the necessary technicians to show her what we were doing.

"She got such a kick out of the film, she eagerly agreed to write her own narration."

THIS FILM FOOTAGE involving Miss Monroe in Korea has a bit of mystery attached, according to the producers.

"At the time the film was made it had a sound track, but when we got hold of the film this had been cut away," Aaron explained. "We called more than 30 ex-Army officers, potential 'suspects,' offering to buy the souvenir, but none would admit possession."

The producers found that Bing Crosby was one of the more ardent souvenir collectors on his USO jaunts. When Aaron and Zousmer visited his California estate, he sent a servant to the basement to bring up two dusty packing cases.

"They contained his collection of German hats, dozens of them, from World War II," Zousmer said. "They ranged all the way from an ordinary steel helmet to a Luftwaffe cap with goggles."

The producers had quite a time pinning down James Cagney.

"We were delighted when we arrived in West Berlin to tape some spot material featuring singers Eydie Gorme and Steve Lawrence to discover that Cagney was staying in our hotel. But every time we tried to reach him, he was on location with the motion picture, 'One, Two, Three—Go!' When Cagney would try to reach us, we would be out working with the Lawrences.

"WE SPENT SEVEN DAYS under the same roof with Cagney, but it wasn't until we had returned to New York and he had gone to Munich that we finally made contact—via an overseas telephone call."

President Kennedy and former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower accepted bids to appear in the USO film.

"We filmed General Eisenhower at his Gettysburg farm," Aaron said. "My daughter was with me and asked if he would pose for a picture with her. His reply was: 'After all of the old men with whom I've been photographed, it will be a pleasure to pose with a pretty girl'."

The World War II commander-in-chief also recalled the time Crosby, during a wartime USO tour, asked him what he wanted most for Christmas. The answer was: "Grits for breakfast." Crosby mentioned this casually in a radiocast a few weeks later, and for many weeks the general was deluged with sacks of mailed hominy grits.

"There wasn't one person we spoke to who wasn't proud of having had his share in the USO work," Aaron summed up. "A few, like Jack Benny, who have done so much, couldn't even remember some of the outposts they had been to. They were delighted to be reminded of them through the films of their appearances that we ran off for them."

'TOP HAT IN FARMYARD'

Daly Comes to West

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Quiz-master John Daly paid a rare visit to Hollywood to narrate a TV special and inadvertently added a touch of class to the town.

The polished New Yorker resembled somewhat a man in top hat and tails who finds himself inexplicably in a farmyard.

Urbane and elegant, Daly epitomizes Manhattan sophistication.

Until this year Daly was too busy to make the trip west. He was vice president in charge of news, special events and public affairs for ABC, in addition to appearing on his weekly panel show, "What's My Line?" and six or seven documentaries a year.

Last December he left ABC and relaxed with only his quiz show chores, which take up about an hour of his time each week.

"I'M VERY HAPPY about 'What's My Line?'" he said. "It's been on the air 11½ years, tying us with Ed Sullivan as the longest running show on television."

What is the smooth-voiced TV personality doing with his spare time?

"Still catching up on my sleep," he grinned.

"Leaving that grind was the best thing that ever happened to me. I had gone down hill physically from fatigue. I spent seven years on that schedule with only two four-day vacations."

Since then Daly has vacationed in Hawaii and Europe.

I've put my personal affairs in order and now I'm beginning to think about the future. I hope to get back into the news business. On my trip to Europe I put together some contacts and old friends in foreign governments.

"AND I ENCOUNTERED the most frustrating thing a newsman can experience. I was in Berlin the night before they sealed off the border. My greatest disappointment was to be in the thick of a news story and not have any news outlet to report to."

Daly will be seen 10 p.m. Monday, channel 4, in NBC's "The Sound of the Sixties," an hour-long special starring Art Carney, Tony Randall and Mahalia Jackson.

The show will project the sounds of modern music, leisure, education, entertainment and the home.

"Appearing in front of the camera doesn't interest me as much as working with the news of the day," Daly added.

"I've talked to both NBC and CBS about doing news shows, but I'm in no hurry to return to the daily grind. Electronic journalism is doing a good job, and it is getting better.

"Electronic tape has proved the answer for providing the kind of immediacy that TV news requires. It is an exciting occupation."

Daly, impeccable in a smartly tailored suit, returned to the rehearsal stage where his co-workers in slacks and sport shirts looked at him as if he were out of his mind.

JOHN DALY ON MONDAY SPECIAL

DONNA REED is seeking name for dog addition to her ABC-TV show. Entries should be mailed to "Donna Reed, 250 N. Canon Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif." The winner will receive a poodle. Entry deadline is midnight, Oct. 19.

Mexico's Soap Operas Need Clean-Up

By JACK RUTLEDGE

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Soap operas in Mexico could use —well, a little soap. Rape, murder, illicit love and dope addiction are considered fairly normal for this type of entertainment.

Soap operas are called "novelas" down here, and they are extremely popular on both radio and television.

Mexico is now producing video-taped, Spanish-language television soap operas for export throughout Latin America. A new one titled "La Leona" is ready for showing in Lima, Buenos Aires, Santiago, Quito, Caracas, Bogota, Panama and other cities where it has been signed up.

Let's take a look at "La Leona" to get an idea of what a soap opera is like in this part of the world:

ALICIA IS AN ADORING wife, mother, and hat-check girl with a beatnik husband and a daughter named Maria who adores her father, Julio.

Julio decides to pick up some spare change by kidnaping a child for ransom. He's killed by police in the attempt, and Alicia is suspected of complicity. Although cleared, she is socially ostracized.

She puts Maria in a boarding school and heads for Las Vegas, Nev., where she opens a brothel. It is immediately successful.

A Nevada gambler named Johnny wants to buy her out, and also to marry her. Her attorney also wants to marry her. Confused, she heads back to Mexico City to think things over.

Maria, the daughter, has become a social snob. Several days' TV-time are devoted to how Maria was straightened out by an old nanny.

Johnny comes to Mexico City to see Alicia, but something brews between him and Maria.

For some reason all head back for Las Vegas, where Johnny is shot dead by a pal. Everyone is suspect. Alicia fears her daughter did it, and to save her, confesses.

The real murderer, Johnny's ex-pal, is exposed and Alicia and Maria go back home to start life anew.

THAT'S ALL, FOLKS.

And that's another difference between U.S. and Mexican soap operas.

The Mexican version is completed in between 50 and 60 chapters, and then they start another serial.

Rene Anselmo of the Teleprogramas outfit says soap operas are booming in Latin America. The Spanish versions even have a good market in U.S. cities with large Mexican populations.

A television center spokesman said that to supply the growing demand, seven half-hour video-taped shows are being shot daily in Mexico City's Televicentro. This doesn't count the radio soap operas which are, if anything, a bit spicier than the TV brand.

Era of Silent Films Subject of TV Special

Gene Kelly will serve as narrator for an NBC-TV Nov. 29 special on the era of silent films.

Starting with "The Great Train Robbery" of 1907, the special will include the coming of the sound track in 1927 with Al Jolson's "The Jazz Singer."

The hour-long program has been titled "Hollywood: The Golden Years."

Some of the silent-screen stars to be seen include Pearl White, Ruth Roland, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Gilbert Roland, Rudolph Valentino, John and Lionel Barrymore, Harold Lloyd, Greta Garbo, Marie Dressler and Charlie Chaplin.

FORMER President Dwight D. Eisenhower talks with CBS correspondent Walter Cronkite about the presidential office's sources of power during "CBS Reports" at 10 p. m. Thursday, channel 2. The program is the first of three covering Ike's views on the presidency, national defense and international relations.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

'Continental' Offers 'Charm Appeal' Advice

women, The Continental believes, is mainly because of the men's accents.

The foreign accents make the American women feel that the men are helpless. And the helpless feeling appeals to the "great" maternal instinct of the American woman.

In the appeal department, there are several things American women—particularly young American women—can do to enhance their charms.

"First," said The Continental, "throw away all your slacks—they are atrocious.

"Second, throw away all your make-up except that for your eyes and your lips. The less you use on your lips, the better. In Europe, very few women use any lipstick, although they spend hours to fix their eye make-up.

"Third—and I repeat what I said before—capitalize on the 'something'—every woman has some little thing of her own—that is beautiful about you."

PERSONALITY PARADE

If you have a question of interest on a personality of note, send it to Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y. Names will be used unless otherwise requested in writing. PARADE cannot reply individually to the inquiries of readers.

Q. Is Warren Beatty, brother of actress Shirley MacLaine, the reason Natalie Wood and Bob Wagner broke up?—Ellen Hinds, Chicago, Ill.

A. No, Miss Wood began dating Beatty only after she and Wagner decided to dissolve their marriage.

Q. Judge Learned Hand, who died at 89 earlier this year, was conceded to be one of America's greatest judges. How come in the 52 years Hand spent on the federal bench not one of our Presidents saw fit to appoint him to the U.S. Supreme Court?—David Herman, New York, N.Y.

A. Unfortunately, politics and geography both play roles in the appointment of U.S. Supreme Court justices; and for Learned Hand the correct circumstantial combination never presented itself.

Q. Now that Judy Garland and Sid Luft have decided to call it quits, who will become Judy's fourth husband?—Dianne M., Wallingford, Conn.

A. The lucky man has not yet been chosen.

Q. Is it true that in World War II the first atomic bomb was scheduled to be dropped on Kyoto and not Hiroshima? Who changed the target? — Lewis Neustadt, Atlanta, Ga.

A. True. The target was overruled by then Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson with President Truman's okay. They decided to save Kyoto, Japan's old capital and one of that nation's most picturesque and historic cities.

Q. I would like to know how much Warner Brothers will pay Eddie Fisher and Elizabeth Taylor for making films at that studio?—Helen Parrish, Burbank, Calif.

A. Mr. Fisher will receive $100,000 a film as a producer. Miss Taylor will receive $1 million a film against 10 per cent of the gross plus 50 per cent of the net profit.

Q. Who said: "If a woman is intelligent she wants to enter the world of men, which then makes her unfeminine"?—Nora Rose, Des Moines, Iowa.

A. Roger Vadim, ex-husband of Brigitte Bardot.

Q. Whatever happened to Nancy Oakes, whose millionaire father was murdered years ago in a case that was a sensational scandal?—Owen J., Miami, Fla.

A. Nancy Oakes, 35, recently divorced from German Baron Ernst Huenc, lives in Mexico City with her children.

Q. How old is writer Somerset Maugham?—Julian Fine, Newark, N.J.

A. 87.

Q. Why did Darryl Zanuck and Juliette Greco break up? The truth, please.—F.I., Santa Monica, Calif.

A. One story is that Miss Greco asked Zanuck what role she would play in his newest film, The Longest Day. When Zanuck pointed out that he had no role for her in his latest project, she explained she felt the same way about him in her life.

Q. Can you tell me why Prince Rainier banished Britain's wealthy Lady Docker from Monaco?—Thomas Studley, Indianapolis, Ind.

A. In 1958 Lady Docker tore up a paper flag of the principality in a hotel restaurant. The Prince heard about it and promptly returned $2,000 worth of christening gifts Lady Docker and her husband had previously given to his son Prince Albert. He then banished Lady Docker.

Q. Is it true that the world-famous dance team of Darvas & Julia has broken up?—Judith E., Pasadena, Calif.

A. Darvas, author of the bestseller How I Made $2,000,000 in the Stock Market, broke with Julia after she sued him for back pay and part of his market earnings. He has announced plans to tour the world in search of a new partner.

Q. Is Alice Faye old enough to play Pat Boone's mother, which she's doing in* State Fair*?—Leona Finch, Atlantic City, N.J.

A. Miss Faye is 45. Boone is 27.

Darvas and Julia: The dance team have gone their separate ways. He wrote the controversial best-seller, How I Made $2,000,000 in the Stock Market.

When childhood constipation occurs

More mothers use Fletcher's Castoria than any other laxative

Because

Fletcher's Castoria gives the prompt, yet natural-like relief from temporary constipation that medical authorities agree is best for a child's young system. Its pure extract of Senna is considered one of nature's finest vegetable laxative products.

Fletcher's Castoria is gentle, the prime requisite for a child's laxative. It contains none of the harsh drugs which are so often found in adult laxatives, drugs that can upset your child's system.

Fletcher's Castoria is liquid, so exact dosage is sure: from drops to teaspoonfuls as needed. Very important, too, Castoria tastes good. So children take it willingly, even lick the spoon.

Fletcher's Castoria is the only nationally-recognized laxative made especially for children of all ages. So why take chances... the laxative that's "right" for you can well be "wrong" for your child. Get famous Fletcher's Castoria today.

It takes a child's laxative to fulfill a child's needs

FELICIA ATKINS

A chorus girl in the stardom sweepstakes

HOLLYWOOD.

MOST CHORUS GIRLS enter show business because secretly or openly they want to become movie stars. One day, they hope, a talent scout or movie producer will chance along, discover them on stage, take them to Hollywood and eventual stardom.

It happened that way with Barbara Stanwyck, Lucille Ball, Betty Grable, Shirley MacLaine, Mitzi Gaynor, many others. "Why not," the chorine reasonably asks, "with me?"

The truth is it hasn't happened in years. Las Vegas, the show business capital which employs more chorus girls than any other U.S. city, has been trying for a decade but has yet to produce a full-fledged movie star.

Its latest entry, however, is given the best chance to date of accomplishing the coup. Her name is Felicia Atkins. She comes from Sydney, Australia. She's constructed with scenic-railway curves, generates sex appeal the way an atomic blast spouts radioactivity and she's starring opposite Jerry Lewis in his latest film, The Errand Boy.

Jerry, who makes films for children, has no taste in clothes, cars, literature, art or decor. When it comes to girls, however, he's a specialist in discovering sexy, earthy, lusty, stimulating, well-put-together females and casting them in his films. Janet Leigh, Anita Ekberg, Mona Freeman, Polly Bergen, Corinne Calvet, Marilyn Maxwell—these are just a few. Jerry claims to know what will arouse the red-blooded American male, and his latest candidate is Felicia Atkins, the former "Miss Australia," 25, black hair, vital measurements: 40-23-37.

Jerry discovered Felicia when he was playing Las Vegas, and she was playing the Tropicana Hotel there. The statuesque beauty has been a steady at the hotel since it opened five years ago. Her only layoff occurred a few seasons back when Jayne Mansfield opened at the casino. The buxom blonde took one look at the buxom brunette, decided the competition was too keen and diplomatically suggested that Felicia take a vacation.

Star or Stylist?

While Jayne and her husband Mickey Hargitay put on their act, Felicia studied makeup and hair styling.

"Other show girls," she says, "want to become motion picture stars, but I've always wanted to become a makeup artist and hair stylist. In fact, when Jerry Lewis started to cast The Errand Boy, I asked him if he wouldn't hire me as a makeup girl. He gave me the once-over and said, 'Listen, Felicia, I get all the laughs around here.' Then he hired me as an actress. He said I have what it takes to be a star, and with a little luck I might make it."

Felicia Atkins came to America in 1956 with the Water Follies. After a tour, she signed on in New York as a model. In 1957 she went to Las Vegas, worked as a show girl and later as a dancer.

Two years ago Jerry Lewis met her, took optical inventory of her physical assets, said he would keep her in mind for a future part. Felicia, who has heard that line for years, put no stock in it. But a few months ago Lewis, true to his word, called the beauty from Las Vegas, cast her opposite him as the lead in his new film.

"Now," he says, "we'll have to wait until the picture's released to see if Felicia's got that star magic. If the fans like her, then the kid's made it, and for her the Las Vegas line is a thing of the past." —NANCY HAGEN

The Swiss have no juvenile delinquency

WHY?

by LLOYD SHEARER

ZURICH, SWITZERLAND.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY is on the rise everywhere —not only in slum areas but in suburban districts—not only among the poverty-ridden but among the white-collar classes—not only in the U.S. but in France, Canada, Mexico, England, Russia, any country you can think of. Except Switzerland.

Switzerland has no juvenile delinquency problem.

How come?

What goes with this wealthy, industrious nation of 5 million people — half-Protestant, almost half-Catholic?

Why in this picturesque alpine democracy partitioned into German-, French- and Italian-speaking cantonments, are there fewer policemen proportionally than in any neighboring European country—and less crime?

How do the Swiss do it? Here are a few of the ways:

Stolid and stable, the Swiss control their children more strictly than we do ours.

In Switzerland youngsters are banned from motion picture theaters until they are 16. To see most films in most cantonments they must be 18 or over. For innocuous entertainment of the Walt Disney stripe the age requirement is lowered to 12. There is strict cinema censorship on the local level. The police control the theater box office. No 13-year-old girl and her boy friend saunter into a Swiss movie house to see a Brigitte Bardot film or Not Tonight Henry.

"We believe in raising our children," one Basel schoolteacher explained to me, "free from the violence and sex which characterize your American movies and television. Also we do not make heroes of gangsters. I guess we have a more prosaic, middle-class set of values."

The Swiss cannot understand why we refuse to classify our movies for adult and minor viewing the way France, England and other democratic nations do.

"It makes no sense," a local official in Andermatt told me. "In America you do not allow children to frequent bars and saloons. No minors may be served alcohol in your country; yet you permit your children to see movies about call girls, prostitutes, gangsters and infidelity.

"It seems to me," he continued, "that Hollywood movies are getting more daring all the time."

(Editor's note: Forthcoming from Hollywood this year are such films as The Children's Hour dealing with lesbianism, Town Without Pity dealing with mass rape, Splendor in the Grass dealing with teenage sex problems. In addition, the production of nude and near-nude movies by fly-by-night operators in Hollywood has increased so widely that a group of industry leaders are finally trying to do something about the problem. Unfortunately, they can do little so long as these operators find motion picture theaters in which to release their fare.)

Actually, most individual Hollywood producers are in favor of classifying their movies. Practically the only ones against classification are Eric Johnston, President of the Motion Picture Association of America, whose handsome salary is paid by the major studios, and Albert Pickus, President of the Theatre Owners of America.

These two high-minded gentlemen apparently do not believe in imposing any system on the public that might restrict the box-office take.

Says Johnston: "We only get on solid ground when we consider the effects of classification—any form of it. For here we see it for what it is—censorship, nothing more, nothing less. Who can dispute the fact that classification is essentially a surrender of parental authority, a denial of a parent's right to decide what is best for his child? . . ."

Says Pickus: "Virtually all theater men are opposed to regulatory or statutory classification. We know of no individuals or groups so Solomonesque in their ability that they should tell us what age groups should see our films . . ."

Swiss parents to whom I showed these two quotations (taken from the September 1961 issue of the Journal of the Screen Producers Guild) smiled and snickered. They asked which was of more importance: the welfare of American children or the welfare of American theater-owners. And this, mind you, from a finance-minded people who love profits.

The Real Cause

The Swiss, who have studied juvenile delinquency, do not believe its major causes are founded in unregulated movie and TV fare. They are too realistic for that. They know that broken homes, poverty, illiteracy, malnutrition, glandular imbalance, mental retardation, mobility of population and other factors play large causative roles. But it is their firm opinion that there is little juvenile delinquency in their nation because there is little parental neglect of children.

In Switzerland parents do not believe that they must not interfere with a child's individual self-expression.

In Switzerland parents do not want their children to get a driver's license or a motorbike license until the children are at least 18. And that's the way they have compelled the cantonal regulations to read: no driver's license before 18.

Swiss parents believe that the development of a skill, a profession, a vocation is the most important factor in a youngster's rearing. And they believe that an automobile given to a young man is a deterrent to his educational progress, plus an unnecessary aid to premature dating and possible promiscuity.

Swiss teenagers do most of their traveling on bicycles. Auto licenses are forbidden until age of 18.

Hiking, skiing and mountain-climbing are part of vigorous outdoor life aimed at building character.

"I was shocked," a professor at the University of Neuchatel told me, "to discover in America how many high school students drive their own or family cars. I think American parents are crazy to allow this. It is educational suicide."

A recent survey made by an educator in Idaho of high school students who had autos showed none surveyed were A students. Most were D students or failing in their studies.

A further survey by an insurance company reached the same conclusion: ownership or control of an auto by a teenager in most cases leads to a lowering of educational grades.

Driving tests in Switzerland are extremely difficult, purposely so, and few youngsters obtain a driving license before they're 19.

The result is that there are relatively few juvenile car thefts or crimes involving the use of motor vehicles.

The average Swiss youth gets his first taste of danger not behind the wheel of a hot rod but in skiing, hiking or mountain climbing, all sports which the Swiss say our youngsters should grow up with, in addition to those they already practice.

In Switzerland parents tell a child over and over again, "You must make something of yourself in this life." Offices and schools start at 7 a.m.

The Swiss honor their school teachers. They consider them important and pay them well. Their seven universities are world-famous, and their Federal School of Technology has trained more brilliant engineers, chemists and scientists than any other university in the world.

The Swiss also maintain a compulsory system of apprenticeship in industry, commerce, arts and crafts. The boy who leaves school at 16 is apprenticed, say, to a watchmaking factory where he is paid a token salary while he learns what makes watches tick. He is closely supervised, must work by day and study by night. At the end of his apprenticeship he must pass a stiff examination or face the purgatory of becoming an unskilled worker.

In Switzerland a respect for labor and an interest in craftsmanship are instilled in children at an early age and reinforced time and time again.

American Money Standards

The Swiss make excellent teachers, and their training of children is so thorough and well-rounded that for years the world's royal and rich families have sent their offspring to school here.

These wealthy children attend Swiss private schools —no typical Swiss sends his child to such an institution—and many of them are either spoiled flunk-outs from their own country's schools or children of broken homes whose parents don't particularly want the responsibility of raising them. The Swiss have seen these so-called "private school children — all foreigners" in action for years and have some snide but closely-guarded comments to make about them.

"The trouble with the American educational system," a Swiss educator confided to me, "is that your people don't regard your teachers as successful human beings. In America everyone uses money standards for judging success. Since teachers don't make much money they are not considered successful and are therefore not as widely respected as our teachers here.

"If you paid your teachers better you would respect them more. You would attract a higher type of teacher, and good teachers always help reduce the number of potential juvenile delinquents, since they inspire pupils to study and achievement."

While Swiss primary schools are co-educational, the Swiss parent does not believe his son should start dating girls until he passes 16. He believes his son should study, work, play and prepare himself for a useful career. The same holds true for his daughter. Swiss parents are notoriously thrifty with allowances, so that youngsters don't have nearly as much money to spend as in America.

The Swiss do not believe in a society where sex is more important than work; and they impress this upon their children. The result is that the country has no Casanova tradition--but its divorce rate is also one of the lowest in the world: 3.59 per thousand.

Swiss family life is stable. In the average Swiss home the mother reigns supreme. She is house-proud and children-proud and generally avoids frivolity. She does not vote and has never voted—except against her right to exercise the ballot.

Domestic Virtues

She cannot take up a profession without her husband's consent, but it is she who controls the children and makes them toe the line. She impresses upon her children the need for good citizenship. She prepares her son for his compulsory military training, her daughter for a life of orderliness and thrift.

In Switzerland domestic virtues are encouraged, and domestic training schools and advice bureaus are provided for wives and young women.

Frequently girls from the very best families in Zurich are sent as domestics to homes in England and France to acquire housekeeping skills and knowledge of foreign languages.

Of late there has been an upsurge of church-going by young people in Switzerland, largely attributed to the increase of young, new and enthusiastic pastors.

One of the most popular Swiss youth activities involves the various Youth Parliaments in which children of secondary school age meet in session, urge free railroad trips for students, more parks, more youth activities. These Youth Parliaments are recognized here as a useful preparatory grounds for adult citizenship.

In Switzerland all men to the age of 50 face military service. They put in four months of training at age 20, then three-week courses each year for the next 12 years. Every Swiss soldier keeps his uniform, gun and ammunition at home, considers military service an honorable duty, a school for citizenship and equality.

Switzerland is essentially a country peopled by a middle-class society with all the virtues and faults of such a society. It is prosperous, solid, slow, inartistic, conservative, frugal, upright, pedantic, unimaginative, sober, precise and hardworking.

Unlike our own country, it is not exciting, glamorous or dynamic, but somehow while the youth of the world is enslaved in a cult of violence and crime for kicks, the people of this tiny, land-locked nation have managed to solve the problem of juvenile delinquency by setting a pattern for their children of hard work and meaningful life. ■

Famous fires

See if you know what caused them

Kate O'Leary's cow "kicks off" one of the worst fires in history.

TODAY MARKS the beginning of the 50th annual Fire Prevention Week, an observance calculated to remind us that some 2 million fires claim more than 11,000 lives and damage property in excess of a billion dollars each year. While these staggering losses have been largely the cumulative result of "little" fires, there have been others that have been national calamities. Can you match the 10 fires listed below with the causes (bottom of page) generally attributed to them?

1. CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 8, 1871
The Great Chicago Fire raged 30 hours, killed at least 200, destroyed 17,400 buildings, including the whole downtown section.

2. PESHTIGO, WIS., Oct. 8, 1871
Often overlooked because it started the same day as the Great Chicago Fire, its death toll of 1,152 is the largest in U.S. history.

3. CHICAGO, ILL. Dec. 30, 1903
Upwards of 2,000 people crammed into the "fireproof" Iroquois Theater to see Eddie Foy in Mr. Bluebeard. The audience panicked when an asbestos curtain failed to smother a backstage fire. Death toll: 602.

4. NEW YORK, N.Y., June 15, 1904
When fire broke out on the excursion steamer General Slocum as it paddled up the East River, 1,030 people, mostly Sunday School children, lost their lives.

5. NEW YORK, N.Y., March 25, 1911
A fire in the Asch Building, housing the Triangle Shirtwaist Co., killed 145 employees. Only one stairway led to the ground, and women workers fleeing to fire exit doors found them bolted from the outside.

6. ASBURY PARK, N.J., Sept. 8, 1934
The S.S. Morro Castle became a floating funeral pyre for 134 off the New Jersey shore. The frightened crew made no attempt to use modern fire-fighting equipment.

7. BOSTON, MASS., Nov. 28, 1942
More than 1,000 revelers were crowded into the 600-capacity Cocoanut Grove night club when the place burst into flames. The revolving door jammed. Fatalities totaled 492, including cowboy film star Buck Jones.

8. HARTFORD, CONN., July 6, 1944
When the circus' 75,000 sq. ft. big top burst into flames, 169 lost their lives.

9. LIVONIA, MICH., Aug. 12, 1953
This fire at the General Motors automatic transmission plant was the most expensive under-one-roof fire in history. Damage was estimated at $50 million.

10. CHICAGO, ILL., Dec. 1, 1958
A blaze that spread rapidly in Our Lady of the Angels parochial school took the lives of 90 children and three nuns.

Here are the causes. Match them with the fires

A. Faulty wiring of a powerful arc lamp ignited after it fell across theater curtain.

B. Rubbish under a basement stairway caught fire from a spark.

C. Sudden gale whipped "under-control" forest fires into a 150-mile long inferno.

D. Boy lighting a match near flammable ornaments, according to a witness.

E. Small fire in men's lavatory regarded as "minor" until it got out of hand.

F. Welding gun spark sizzled into combustible liquid, spread rapidly through building.

G. Compartment door closeting likely internal combustion fire was foolishly opened, feeding oxygen to blaze.

H. Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over kerosene lamp in hay-filled barn.

I. Electric motor spark dropped into rag bin.

J. Smoldering fire in deserted writing room went undetected.

CAN YOU AFFORD THIS BED?

Statistics show that your chances of becoming disabled from accident or illness this year are 1 in 4.* Pretty grim odds for a man, particularly if he has a wife and children. Pretty expensive odds, too, in view of today's high hospital and surgical costs, and the income loss that may result from a long term disability.

To help guard against such financial hardships, New York Life offers many up-to-date Health Insurance Plans. There are hospital and surgical expense plans for single individuals and for families, and even "senior citizen" plans for persons from 61 to 75 years of age—all providing Lifetime coverage. There are also Major Medical Plans to help protect you against the really big bills. All provide realistic benefits in line with today's higher costs. Yet, because of practical deductible clauses and sensible exclusions, premiums are surprisingly modest.

For the family breadwinner, a New York Life Income Protection Plan is extremely important. Under such a plan if you should become totally disabled, you can receive a regular monthly check—vital income your family will need.

Remember, the odds are 1 in 4. Wouldn't it be wise to have financial protection against accident or sickness and its resulting hardships before the need arises? Call your New York Life Agent soon. Or, for more information, mail the coupon below.

Five Minute Sea-Supper. So steeped in flavor you'd guess it cooked for hours. Use canned chicken, shrimp, clams and seasonings. Minute Rice goes in right from the box, simmers and turns golden-good with the savory juices.

Coney Island Quickie. Happy combination! "Franks" sautéed in rich butter, then slow simmered with tomatoes. Minute Rice absorbs all the delicious flavors and you've a supper to sing for—all in just ten minutes.

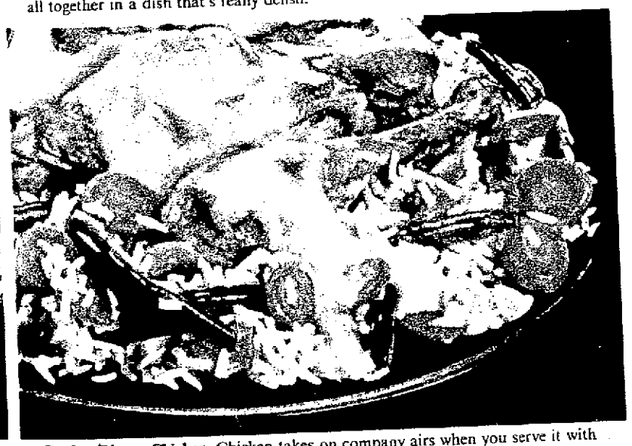

Cherokee Casserole. Nourishing fare for little "Indians." You use beef, tomatoes, mushroom soup. And Minute Rice absorbs all the hearty tastes and blends them all together in a dish that's really delish.

Apricot-Rice Roast. Minute Rice goes right from the box to steam with tangy spices and golden apricots. Minute Rice absorbs all the flavor. No rice you boil first could give your stuffing such goodness . . . in 15 minutes.

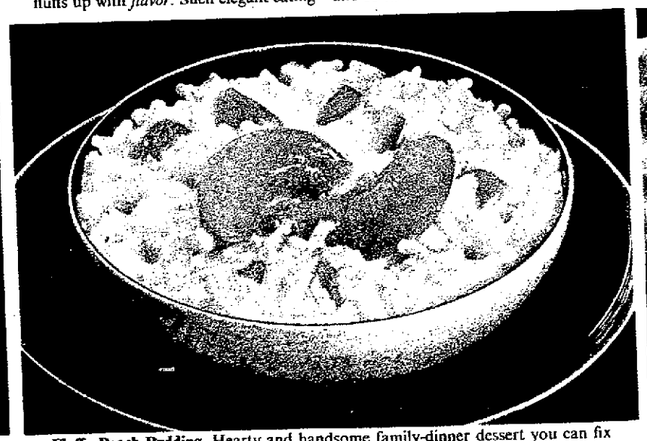

Luncheon Turnovers. Crunchy Brazil nuts are teamed with savory ham and mushrooms, then molded with Minute Rice. Unlike rice you boil first, Minute Rice fluffs up with flavor. Such elegant eating—and so fast.

Sunday-Dinner Chicken. Chicken takes on company airs when you serve it with Minute Rice made with carrots, green beans and a creamy sauce. Each long grain puffs up with all the goodness and flavors there are.

Danish Rice Crème. Slivered almonds—thick, whipped cream, Bing cherry topping . . . with fluffy Minute Rice to blend the luscious tastes. You can make this "swanky restaurant" dessert in 10 minutes . . . but only with Minute Rice.

Fluffy Peach Pudding. Hearty and handsome family-dinner dessert you can fix in 15 minutes. Minute Rice absorbs all the rich flavor from peaches, eggs and the surprise ingredient . . . Jell-O Pudding and Pie Filling.

Lemon Rice Puffs. Creamy custard below. Fluffy rice on top. Fabulous flavor all through. Minute Rice makes desserts extra luscious because it absorbs all the flavor. Recipes for all these dishes are in the large-size boxes.

Only with Minute Rice can you make all these dishes so fast...so flavorful

Try one of these treats tonight. Family hurry-ups, company pleasers, sensational desserts—they're all in the recipe folder in the large-size boxes of Minute Rice . . . great with Minute Rice because . . .

You don't cook Minute Rice first. Add it right from the box with the other ingredients. Instead of soaking up water, Minute Rice absorbs flavors from meat and vegetables . . . from luscious desserts. It's the only rice that gives "cooked-for-hours" goodness . . . in minutes.

COOKIE JAR TREAT

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

Keep them on a low shelf in the kitchen, ready for a youngster's eager reach

MOLASSES CIRCLES

- 1 cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- ½ cup light molasses
- ¾ teaspoon vinegar
- ¾ cup rich milk or light cream
- 3 cups sifted enriched flour
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- ½ teaspoon mace
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt

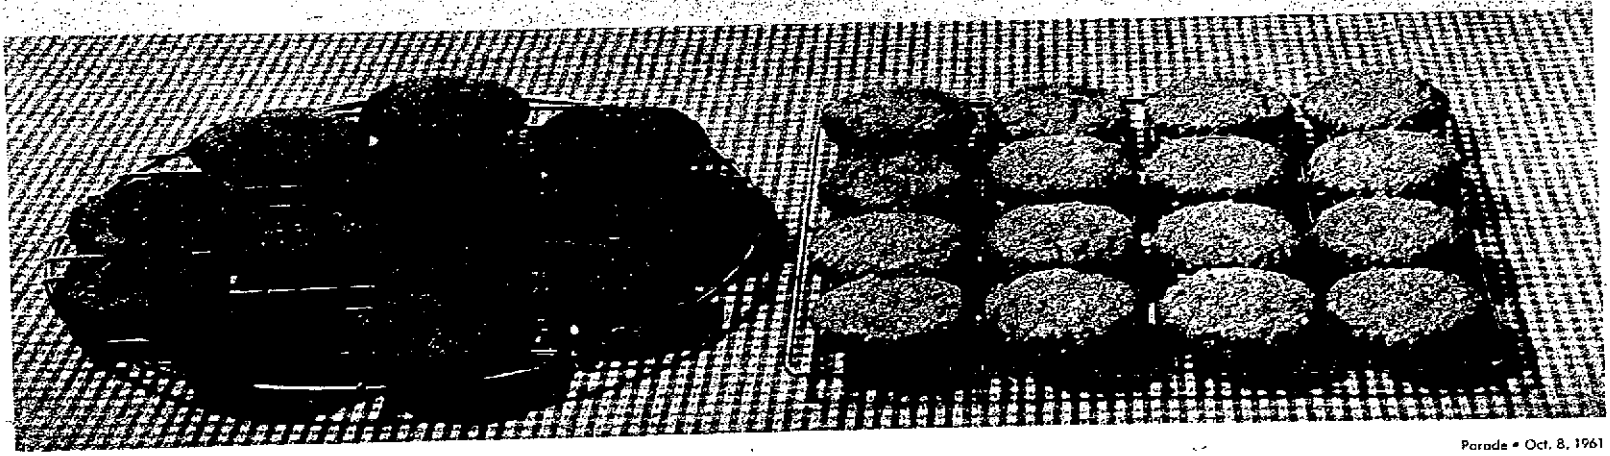

Cream shortening and sugar. Add egg; beat well. Add molasses; beat well. Combine vinegar and milk or cream. Sift flour, spices, baking soda and salt. Add alternately with milk mixture. Drop by tablespoons about 2" apart on greased cookie sheets. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 8 to 10 minutes. Makes about six dozen.

OATMEAL COOKIES

- 2½ cups sifted enriched flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1½ teaspoons cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg
- ¾ cup shortening, soft
- ½ cup granulated sugar
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 2 eggs
- ¼ cup milk
- 2½ cups rolled oats, uncooked
- 1 cup seedless raisins, chopped

Sift first 5 ingredients together into bowl. Add shortening, sugars, eggs and milk. Mix until smooth, about 2 minutes. Stir in oats and raisins. Chill. Roll out on lightly floured board or canvas to ¼" thickness; cut with floured 3" cookie cutter. Place on greased cookie sheets; sprinkle lightly with granulated sugar, if desired. Bake in moderate oven (375°) 10 to 12 minutes. Remove from cookie sheets at once. Makes 60.

Safe shower: If your shower often turns suddenly hot or cold, a new valve should solve the problem. Installed without disturbing bathroom fixtures, it automatically compensates for pressure changes produced when water is turned on or off elsewhere in the house, holds shower temperature to within a single degree of what you select. $19.95. Tempera Corp., Dept. PP, 4035 N. Interstate Ave., Portland 17, Ore.

Light dimmer: The first full-range electronic dimmer that fits into a standard single wallbox is available. Installed like any conventional two-way switch and using the same two wires, it controls light intensity all the way from dark to full bright on incandescent circuits up to 600 watts. By electronically reducing current flow, it saves electricity, increases bulb life. $24.95. Electro-Solid Controls, Dept. PP, 8001 Bloomington Freeway, Minneapolis 20, Minn.

Easier leaf cleaning: Removing leaves from under bushes and between plants is simplified by a 46"-long steel tool with a uniquely designed tine (tooth). The tine's serrated edges ferret out leaves from spots where rakes will not operate. $2.95. Wolco Tool Div., Dept. PP, 721 Custer Ave., Evanston, Ill.

Traveling bureau drawers: Here's a new idea (above) in luggage—bureau drawers that can travel. At the touch of a pushbutton, the drawers (made of reinforced plastic and protected by vinyl covers) become light-to-carry luggage. One advantage: no need to jam closets with suitcases. The luggage-drawers also can be used to form vanities, desks, chests. Details: Matrulin Co., Dept. PP, 701 N. State St., Elgin, Ill.

Now! The three kinds of insurance a young father wants most — all in one new policy

Equitable's new Planned Security Policy combines permanent life insurance with term insurance to give you maximum protection when needed most, at an unchanging, low premium.

Provides for your family if you die: 1. Lump sum cash payment for beneficiary. 2. Monthly income while children are growing up.

For you, if you live: 3. Cash for your own retirement.

The newest form of Living Insurance, Planned Security gives you a comprehensive life insurance program in one policy. Planned Security combines permanent life insurance with term insurance. The permanent life insurance builds cash values and helps you save. The decreasing term insurance provides extra protection when your family needs it most.

$10,000 policy at age 30 gives you more than $57,000 of immediate protection

Planned Security keeps in step with your responsibilities. When you are young and your main responsibility is to provide protection for your family, it does that for you. For example, a $10,000 policy taken out at age 30 would give your wife, if you were to die immediately, $10,000 cash plus $250 a month for 20 years —or a single cash payment of $57,398.

If you were to die ten years after issue, when you are 40 and your children older, your wife would receive $10,000 in cash plus $250 a month for 10 years—or a single cash payment of $36,610. This gradually reduces to the $10,000 protection provided by the permanent insurance after age 50.

At age 50 when your children will probably be starting out on their own, the family income provision terminates. The same premium continues and permanent cash values build faster. Premiums end at age 65 and the $10,000 protection can be continued without further payments or the policy's cash value may be used to help provide for your retirement.

You get all this protection at age 30 for a premium of only $337.30 a year or $29.80 a month. (Dividends can cut the cost below even this low figure.) Smaller size policies have a somewhat higher premium per $1000.

No other form of insurance policy gives you this triple protection at this unchanging, low premium.

Living Insurance for the modern way of life

Planned Security is an Equitable exclusive. It's new, modern insurance—planned for today's modern way of life. And it's the type of new insurance you'd expect from Equitable, the company that pioneered Living Insurance . . . with benefits for the living, for better living.

Three questions to ask before you buy any one single life insurance policy

1. Will it provide a cash payment large enough to cover heavy immediate expenses and enable your family to get a fresh start free of debt?
2. Will it guarantee a monthly income to help raise and educate your children?
3. Will it help take care of your retirement?

Stop Bad Breath 4 Times Better With Listerine

*See directions on label

The Listerine way kills germs that tooth paste doesn't even reach

Tooth paste covers only a small area of the mouth, yet most bad breath is caused by germs throughout the mouth and throat. With the Listerine way*, the recommended way, you get antiseptic action all over the mouth and in the farthest recesses of the throat . . . and in germ-harboring crevices too tiny for tooth paste, or even water, to enter. This means Listerine acts in four times as much area—to stop bad breath four times better than tooth paste, and for hours on end. Why settle for less when so much is at stake?

FLOWERS for the

by FRED BLUMENTHAL
Parade Washington correspondent

WASHINGTON, D.C.

FIRST LADY JACQUELINE KENNEDY has made a lot of changes throughout the White House since she took over from Mamie Eisenhower last January.

She's added antique furniture, changed wallpaper and introduced modern art to the stately old mansion. But only White House insiders know that she's also brought about a revolution in floral fashions.

Every First Lady has loved flowers. And, like her predecessors, Mrs. Kennedy has her own preferences: small cut flowers in season —no greens—no flowers in the President's office or in the family bedrooms.

"One of the first things Mrs. Kennedy said to me when she came to the House," says Chief Gardener Robert M. Redmond, "was to get rid of all the potted plants.

Meadow Blooms and Daises

"For her table arrangements, whether it's a state dinner or an informal tea, she insists on small pieces, meadow blooms, daisies and other seasonal flowers. She doesn't have any strong preferences in her bouquets, but the First Lady doesn't want any greens like leaves and ferns to back up her flower arrangements."

Possibly Mrs. Kennedy's choice of small, simple table arrangements traces back to her first luncheon at the White House as the guest of Mamie Eisenhower. That day, as the wife of Sen. John F. Kennedy, she found it all but impossible to talk to a friend across the table, because of the high bank of flowers between them.

"The flowers were beautiful, but it was like trying to talk through a jungle," Mrs. Kennedy later commented.

This simply proves to Redmond that White House flower fashions vary with the personalities and preferences of the First Family, or, more importantly, of the First Lady.

Redmond joined the gardener's staff at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue as a boy of 16, back in 1923 during the Harding administration. Today he directs a staff of 12 gardeners from his office in the flower room of the White House.

His responsibilities range all the way from providing a single rose for a favored visitor to providing mammoth floral arrangements for a state dinner. Apart from the beautiful blooms in the White House rose gardens, most of the First Family's flowers are purchased from wholesale florists.

A small greenhouse on the White House roof is used to keep flowers and plants that require sunshine; a walk-in refrigerator in Redmond's office helps preserve cut flowers ready for arranging. Once used, they are sent to hospitals in the Washington area.

A Single Red Rose

Flowers have always been an integral part of White House life. Redmond recalls emotionally the sadness of the Coolidge household after the death of young Calvin Jr. in 1924. Each morning thereafter, Mrs. Grace Coolidge had a small cart of flowers brought to her; she arranged them herself simply and tastefully for the various rooms—and never neglected to place a single red rose next to the photograph of her lost son.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover was an expert who knew the exact botanical names of all flowers, but she was never difficult to please and was quick to praise the gardeners for an especially beautiful arrangement.

Both Eleanor Roosevelt and Bess Truman "just liked flowers, lots of them," and were not unduly concerned about color, size or arrangement. Mamie Eisenhower, on the other hand, was definitely partial to tall, brightly colored pieces with plenty of greens showing. While these large arrangements may have complicated conversation across the dinner table, she felt they softened the impact of gleaming white linen tablecloths and added warmth to the setting.

And how does Caroline Kennedy feel about flowers? Redmond reports that Caroline scampered into his office soon after coming to live in the White House and asked solemnly:

"Please, may I smell the flowers?"

"And that," says Robert Redmond, "is just about the nicest thing you can say to a gardener." ■

Chief gardener Robert Redmond has been arranging flowers in the White House since 1923.

FIRST LADY

Jacqueline Kennedy sits beside type of flower arrangement she prefers: small cut blooms, no greens. The President likes flowers — but not in his office.

Noted beauty consultant answers questions about face creams

Can face creams iron out wrinkles?

by HELEN F. PORTER

IF I HAD a dime for every time I've been asked whether face creams help when it comes to wrinkles, I'd have salted away a pretty penny by now.

For if there's one thing I've heard over and over again as a beauty consultant, it's those troubled questions about facial wrinkles from women of all ages. What about you? Have you been disappointed in the way face creams fail to smooth out those little laugh lines, or those character lines around your mouth?

Well, from long experience I can tell you that no cream is going to iron away wrinkles. But at the same time, let me tell you about a face cream I've recently come across that I think is just what women have been hoping for. First of all, it's light, greaseless and it's poly-unsaturated. It smooths into your skin almost instantly and goes right to work on wrinkles . . . helping to soften the crevices, smooth facial lines and stave off the appearance of new wrinkles. Especially if you give yourself a nightly facial with it the way I do.

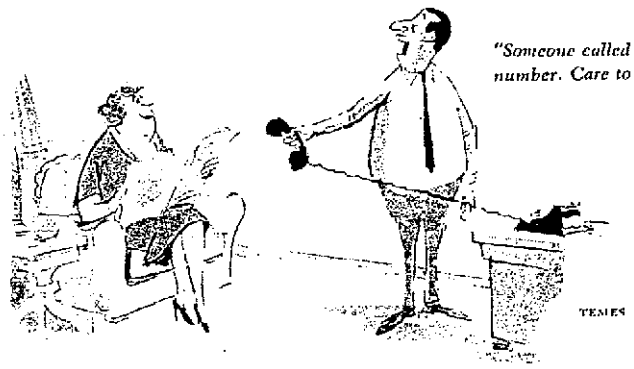

Before you go to bed, just cleanse your face, then pat it with a warm washcloth to open the pores so that your skin is ready to receive the full benefits of this poly-unsaturated cream. Next, smooth it on with your finger tips, up and out from your chin and circling very gently around your eyes. Then, and this is important, give special attention to any little wrinkles. Take a bit of extra cream on your finger tip. Then use that finger like an iron — gently pressing and releasing. The contraction and relaxation of this action works on the fatty layer below the skin and stimulates circulation.

Afterwards, while you sleep, (did you know sleep is the time when skin cell renewal is at its peak?) this poly-unsaturated cream supplies the skin with poly-unsaturates.

These elements with the tongue-twister name are about 50% more abundant in healthy young skin at 20 than in skin at 40. And the unique formula of this cream contains all 3 "essential poly-unsaturates" in totally fresh form, the one form that makes them potent.

The name of this cream, in case you're wondering, is Polyderm, and it's made by Prince Matchabelli. I do wish you'd give it a try, because I feel sure you'll be dedicated to Polyderm once you start using it regularly. For, if what happened to me happens to you (and I have a hunch that it will from all the enthusiastic letters I've been receiving lately) before you know it, you'll be taking a second look at yourself in the mirror—delighted to see how much softer, smoother, and younger looking your skin is.

But before you go out and buy Polyderm, I thought you'd like a chance to try it yourself to see whether you like the feel of it on your skin (and of course to see whether you like what it does for you). That's why I've arranged to have a week's supply, trial-size jar made available. If you'd like one, just send 25c, your name and address to Polyderm, P.O. Box 98, Mt. Vernon, N. Y. If you just can't wait to get started, you'll find Polyderm at leading stores for $2, $3.50, $5 plus tax. Also available in Canada.

THE LINE IS BUSY

Scientists claim the telephone is the most significant invention yet devised by man. That's an assertion that can't be denied by the ladies, who average three calls a day, or teenage girls, who can tie up a line until parents explode. Here are a few females at the phone, as pictured by PARADE comic artists.

My favorite jokes

EDITOR'S NOTE: Eddie Cantor, born Eddie Iskowitz in New York City on January 31, 1892, has spent most of his life in front of the public joking, singing and acting. He has appeared in every branch of show business, has won top honors in all and is today, because of a heart condition, semi-retired. Cantor's lengthy career began in 1909 when he entered an amateur night contest at Miner's Old Bowery Theatre. He won first prize and then became a singing waiter in the Coney Island beer garden where Jimmy Durante played piano. In 1914 Eddie married his childhood sweetheart, Ida Tobias, who over the years gave him five daughters. Today Cantor spends most of his time writing, relaxing, telling such jokes as these.

by EDDIE CANTOR

IN AN EXCLUSIVE NEW YORK MEN'S SHOP many years ago, I came in just as John Barrymore was ready to leave. To the clerk who had taken his order, he instructed, "Charge it to Barrymore."

"Which one?" asked the clerk.

John, striding toward the door, stopped, turned, drew himself up and with a haughty Hamlet expression intoned, "Ethel, of course."

WHEN I LEARNED THAT JIMMY DURANTE and I were to play the same benefit in New York (we were both in California at the time), I called him and said, "Jimmy, let's go together. Let's fly."

Jimmy said, "Eddie, I ain't flying. If Mudder Nature wanted me to fly, she'd a made me wit feathers!!!"

I'VE HEARD A LOT OF AD LIBS in my time, but the best one came from a veteran in a hospital during World War II. I had just finished singing some songs, telling some jokes and was on my way through the ward. To the boy in the bed near the door I said, "So long, fella. Hope you get better."

He said, "The same to you, Mr. Cantor."

LONG BEFORE EITHER OF THEM was married, Phil Silvers and Olivia De Havilland dated several times, but when he asked her to the Academy Award Dinner (social event of the season), she said, "Phil, I'll go with you on one condition. Don't wear those glasses, they make you look silly."

Silvers promised, and he kept his word. He arrived at her door that evening in white tie and tails, with a corsage of orchids, and—a Seeing-Eye dog!

DID YOU HEAR ABOUT THE CUSTOMER in a waterfront cafe who howled: "Hey, what about this? There's an insect in the bottom of my cup!"

"Listen, bud," said the counter man, giving him a look, "if you want your fortune told, go to a gypsy."

THE QUICKEST WAY to change a woman's viewpoint is to agree with her.

ANOTHER ONE THAT ALWAYS GIVES ME a chuckle was originated by my wife Ida. One of our daughters—I think it was Marilyn—when she was in her teens wanted a strapless evening gown. I think it was I who felt she was a little too young for such a dress. Finally Ida and I had a discussion about the matter. "I'll tell you what," said Ida. "Let her try one on in the store. If it stays up, she's old enough to wear it."

I LIKE THE ONE ABOUT THE WIFE who kept complaining about her husband's nasty temper. "He's made me such a nervous wreck," the wife explained, "I'm losing weight."

"If that's the case," said her lawyer, "why don't we sue for divorce right now?"

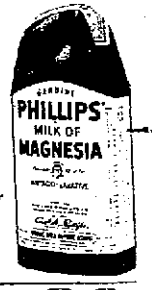

"Let's wait," suggested the wife, "until I'm down to 118."

I took my doctor's advice!

NOW MY CONSTIPATION WORRIES ARE OVER!

• THOUSANDS of doctors were recently asked, "Do you ever recommend Milk of Magnesia?" The overwhelming majority replied: "Yes!" And no wonder! Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is both a gentle laxative and a soothing antacid. This means that while Phillips' relieves constipation, it also relieves accompanying acid indigestion. No single-purpose laxative can offer you such complete, yet comfortable relief. Just ask your doctor!

San Jose dogs check new dog food claims

SAN JOSE, Calif. – Local dogs turned out in force recently when General Mills held dramatic, informal dog food tests at the San Jose City Hall. This test, one of several held in various West Coast cities, confirmed earlier kennel tests in which 2 out of 3 dogs switched to New Surechamp Meal Ticket from their regular dry dog food.

2 out of 3 dogs switched to New Surechamp Meal Ticket in General Mills' Kennel Tests

$1.00 GUARANTEE OFFERED

One of America's leading food producers, General Mills, has created a new dog food called Surechamp Meal Ticket with such an appealing and different taste that:

- 2 out of 3 dogs tested switched to it from their regular dry dog food in scientific kennel tests.
- In a series of public feeding tests 2 out of 3 dogs also chose new Surechamp Meal Ticket over their owner's choice of five leading packaged dog foods.
- General Mills guarantees dogs will enjoy the new food and backs the guarantee with the offer of a $1.00 coupon, good toward the purchase of any dry dog food.

Meal Ticket is a greatly improved formulation of Surechamp, a food long popular among West Coast dogs.

Tests prove theories

The feeding tests, General Mills spokesmen say, gave scientific proof to widely held theories that dogs, like people, welcome exciting new flavor in their diets.

Discoveries about the importance of a combination of ingredients, cooking, shape and texture in the enhancement of dog food flavor produced the taste triumph.

Unique new shape

The product's unique new roll shape is of great importance, General Mills officials say. Kennel tests show dogs are especially fond of this new form.

And, certain ingredients not only enhance flavor but add vitamins and proteins to an already completely balanced canine meal.

"EATIN' GOOD" GUARANTEE

Following are details of the product's guarantee, believed to be the most daring in the history of the dog food industry.

New—guaranteed eatin' good. Your dog will eat and enjoy Surechamp Meal Ticket. If he doesn't, send the certificate of guarantee from any package of New Surechamp Meal Ticket and a letter describing your dog's reaction to: General Mills, Inc., Box 37, Minneapolis 60, Minn. We'll send you a $1.00 coupon good on any dry dog food at your grocer's. Limit, one coupon to a customer.

Berlin Reds Rattle Rockets, Kidnap 3

But Mikoyan Makes No War Threats

Offers Guarantee for Free City of West Berlin

BERLIN (UPI)—Five Communist police kidnaped three West Berliners at gunpoint Saturday and took them into the East sector for questioning before returning them to West Berlin.

The incident occurred amid the rocket-rattling of the East German Communist leaders on the 12th anniversary of their regime. Although the East German statements were warlike, Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan said in a speech the Russians do not want war. He called for a peace treaty but set no deadline and made no threats.

* * * *

THE THREE West Berliners, who were not identified, were kidnaped while the East Germans were holding their anniversary celebrations a few blocks distant.

They were taken to a local police headquarters, then to East Berlin central police headquarters. The Communists then freed them and put them aboard the only elevated train still connecting the East and West sectors. Eight refugees took advantage of the anniversary celebrations to slip across the border. Two of them were Communist policemen.

* * * *

POLICE said the escapees swam, used a small boat and cut through the barbed wire to reach West Berlin. One 51-year-old man was fired on by two Red policemen as he scrambled through the barbed wire, but he was not hit by their machine pistol bullets.

The Western police said three West Berliners wandered too near to the barbed wire barricades dividing the city and that five peoples' police (Vopos) leveled guns at them and forced them to enter East Berlin territory.

Western police said Communist police shot an apparently drunk East Berlin man of about 55 who staggered too close to the East-West border. They said he was dragged away by the Communists, blood streaming from his arm.

* * * *

MIKOYAN'S speech contrasted sharply with those by the East Germans. He offered "all effective guarantees" to respect the rights of a free city in West Berlin and scarcely referred to the possibility of war.

Mikoyan's was the first official Russian statement since President Kennedy's Wash-

JFK Briefs Brandt on Crisis Talk

NEWPORT, R. I. (UPI)—President Kennedy held a telephone talk with Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin Saturday and then joined his family here for a restful weekend.

Before leaving the White House lawn by helicopter, Kennedy conferred for nearly an hour with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara. This was the President's third major defense conference within a week.

The Chief Executive made a 52-minute jet flight from Washington to Quonset Point Naval Air Station Saturday morning and immediately set out on a family cruise aboard the White House yacht Honey Fitz.

* * * *

EARLY Saturday, Kennedy put in a long-distance call to Brandt, who was attending a Freedom Assembly meeting in New York.

(Brandt in New York said Kennedy briefed him on his Berlin crisis talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. Brandt said he was convinced "the fate of his Communist-encircled city was in good hands." Later, the mayor ended his 48-hour U.S. visit and flew back to Germany.)

* * * *

LANDING at Quonset Point across Narragansett Bay from Newport, the President was welcomed by his frisky blonde daughter, Caroline, nearly 4.

The President was being greeted by an admiral when Caroline broke through a line of officers and threw her arms around his knees, shouting, "Hi, Daddy."

Kern County Fire Threatens Town

KERNVILLE (UPI)—A fire fanned by winds up to 30 miles an hour swept through tinder dry brush, scrub and some timber Saturday posing a possible threat to the lakeside community of Warford Heights.

The U.S. Forest Service estimated the fire—some five miles southwest of here and 45 miles northeast of Bakersfield—burned well over 1,000 acres in rough terrain at the 6,200-foot level. There was no immediate hope for control.

* * * *

KERN COUNTY fire units were dispatched and rescue units were standing by in Warford Heights, on the northwest side of Lake Isabella, should the town be endangered. There was hope the fire would not reach the community of about 100. It was about four miles from Warford Heights early Saturday night.

High winds made it impossible to use borate bombers in fighting the fire—cause of which was not determined.

Firemen also were hampered by lack of water for fighting the flames that forced closing of the new road between Kernville and Greenhorn.

The fire burned some timber on the southeast slope below the summit of Greenhorn Mountain, according to one report.

"We can't say the cabins and Wofford Heights are out of danger," said one Forest Service spokesman, "until we know what the wind will do tomorrow."

Two Killed, 9 Hurt in L.B. Crash

Two teenagers were killed and nine other persons were seriously injured Saturday night in a head-on collision of two automobiles on 223rd Street west of Santa Fe Avenue.

* * * *

THE HOSPITAL identified the dead as Manuel Tapia Jr. 18, of 10431 E. Compton Blvd., Bellflower, and Diana Gutierrez, of 7925 Croesus St., Los Angeles, stepbrother and sister of professional boxer Art Aragon.

Booked on felony drunk driving and manslaughter charges was Frank Gutierrez, 24, husband of the dead woman. He and Rosalee Perez, 20, of 14313 Cairn St., Compton, were seriously injured. All four were in the car registered to Aragon.

Police said the Gutierrez car apparently swung into the path of a sedan driven by Joe Paul Bermudez, 26, of 9231 Canford St., Pico Rivera, containing seven occupants.

Soviets Fire Big Rocket Into Pacific

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union Saturday fired a multi-stage rocket more than 7,440 miles into the Central Pacific and claimed an "extremely high degree of accuracy," the Tass news agency reported.

Tass said a new guidance system was responsible for the accuracy of the shot, the fourth in the current Soviet series. But it did not disclose details of the system.

The agency described the missile as "a multi-stage carrier rocket of a new type."

* * * *

TASS SAID special ships "equipped with various measuring instruments" carried out "all the measurements provided for by the program."

"In order to collect further experimental data, the launchings of powerful new carrier rockets into the area announced earlier will be continued," it added.

Moscow radio said the last two stages of the rocket hit the water "in the immediate vicinity" of the target area.

It said the rocket traveled more than 7,440 miles.

Russ, Bulgarians Recognize Syria

MOSCOW (AP) — Official recognition of Syria's new revolutionary regime by the Communist bloc began Saturday with an announcement by the Soviet Union that it is establishing diplomatic relations with Damascus. Bulgaria quickly followed suit.

The Soviet news agency Tass said ambassadors would be exchanged between the two capitals in response to a request for recognition by the new Syrian premier, Mamoun Kuzbari. He gained power last month in a military coup that split Syria from Egypt and President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

None of the Western powers has recognized the Kuzbari government as yet.

The Bulgarians have played a major role in Communist aid to Syria with the construction of two large dams.

* * * *

THE NEW Syrian government is anti-Communist. Kuzbari, soon after accepting the post of premier, said his government would continue a ban on the Communist party.

But the Communists—threateningly strong in Syria before being forced underground in 1958 by Nasser's rule—have openly expressed hopes of returning.

The Syrian Communist party announced in the Beirut Communist organ On Nida, on Wednesday that the revolution was a "historical victory." It demanded the formation of a national front including all parties.

In the elections promised within four months' time by Kuzbari, no parties will participate as such.

Nasser in Cairo declined comment on the Soviet bloc move.

Nike-Zeus Explodes in Takeoff

POINT MUGU (AP)—A Nike Zeus antimissile missile, the United States' most advanced weapon against nuclear missile attack, blew itself up Saturday in the second failure within a month.

The missile's second stage exploded seconds after launch from its seaside launching cell, showering burning metal from the sky. The solid-fuel weapon is only 48 feet long but packs more thrust than an ICBM twice as big. In combat it would use three stages.

Nike Zeus is geared to destroy itself if there is any appreciable change in its speed or direction. There was no official explanation after the failure, but Army spokesmen had said beforehand destruction within the first minute would indicate the missile was off course or moving too slowly.

* * * *

THE TEST took on added significance with speculation that Russia has tested antimissile warheads in her current series of nuclear blasts at high altitudes.

The missile-killer shot upward at 11:03 a.m. In five to seven seconds, when it was more than two miles high, it exploded in a fiery display reminiscent of fireworks.

Its takeoff speed, 10 times that of a liquid-fuel Atlas missile, makes self-destruction in event of trouble mandatory in the first 16 seconds, because a human could not react quickly enough. The weapon launches at up to 2,600 m.p.h.

France Ends A-Tests in Atmosphere

PARIS (UPI) — France announced Saturday it was suspending its tests of nuclear bombs in the atmosphere.

The announcement came as Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, in a letter Saturday to a ban-the-bomb group in Tokyo, said Russia had resumed testing because France, a member of NATO, was conducting nuclear tests.

An announcement by the French Atomic Energy Commission said France had completed its program of above-ground nuclear tests but did not say when they would be resumed.

Probe Crash Fatal to 2 From L.B. Area

Sheriff's officers at Jean, Nev., Saturday night continued their investigation of a grinding head-on collision which killed two Long Beach area persons.

Dead are Charles E. Loftin, 31, of 637 E. First St., Santa Ana, and Beaula M. Mellon, 29, of 12103 Jersey Ave., Norwalk.

Fifteen other persons have lost their lives along the same stretch of highway — known as the "Death Row" area of U. S. 41 south of Las Vegas —in the last three months.

Fallout in L.A. Drops Slightly

LOS ANGELES (CNS) — The level of radioactive fallout in Los Angeles dropped slightly Saturday.

City Health Department radiological officer Jack C. Rogers said a level of 18.6 micro-microcuries was recorded at Civic Center, compared with Friday's reading of 19.

Rogers, who emphasized both readings were well within limits considered safe, said fluctuations in the radioactivity levels will be noted as long as the Russians continue their current series of atomic tests in the atmosphere.

Movies Win Out

EDENBRIDGE, England (UPI) — Twenty schoolchildren petitioned Saturday to have the town's only movie theater reopened because they said they were "bored to tears with television."

Doctor Arrested in Poison Plot

PORT ORCHARD, Wash. (AP) — A prominent physician was arrested Saturday and accused of trying to poison his wife.

Dr. Robert Boehme, 41, was charged with first degree assault with intent to kill. A complaint filed by Prosecutor Gordon Walgren accused Boehme of injecting a lethal toxic into the arm of his wife, Dorothy, 34, Sept. 20 with a blood-sampling syringe.

EVERYBODY'S WELCOME

Builds Shelter for 100

BOONTON, N.J. (AP)—A man who makes parts for missiles has built a fallout shelter which could house and feed 100 persons for a month.

"A lot of people around here thought I was crazy, but I feel a lot less crazy now that it's ready," said Patrick T. Marotta, owner of the Marotta Valve Corp., who has spent $50,000 to build and equip his 66-by-23-foot shelter under his house a few miles from this Morris County town.

The 54-year-old manufacturer, whose factory turns out valves for missiles, submarines and aircraft, has installed in his shelter 92 bunks, two toilets, running water and $3,000 worth of canned and boxed foods.

In addition, the shelter has a power plant for heat and light and a 2,000-gallon water tank supplied by a well.

The shelter is completely underground and is covered by two feet of reinforced concrete and six inches of earth. It has walls of 12-inch reinforced concrete and its concrete and steel framed door weighs three tons.

Except for his own family and his employes and their families, Marotta said he has no special list of guests he would invite to his shelter.

Everyone who can squeeze in will be welcome, he said.

L.A.C. Says:

How You Doing?

A large portion of our working population seems to have little concern over the danger of inflation. They have been receiving pay raises and new fringe benefits almost annually. They are prosperous and like what has been going on. But those who were working 15 years ago realize how much less their dollar will buy than it did then. All but a few of them have received enough more dollars to make up for the loss from inflation—but many have not—and what about the next 15 years?

We were reminded of these changes when we saw a chart in the Tax Foundation bulletin. It shows how many dollars you need today to have as much buying power as a family had in 1946. As examples, a family of four in different income brackets has faced the following:

If your 1946 income was	In 1961 you must have	Just to be even you need increase of
$ 2,000	$ 3,140	57%
3,000	4,750	59%
5,000	7,844	57%
7,500	11,659	56%
10,000	15,461	55%
20,000	30,104	51%
50,000	73,482	47%
100,000	145,285	45%

It would appear that the high-income group has not been hurt as much as the lower-income group. This is because the income tax on high incomes is about the same—50 per cent to 91 per cent tax as it was in 1946. But the increased cost of consumer products has hit the lower-income groups as the inflationary spiral gained momentum.

If the above figures also included the year of 1939 it would show it takes more than twice as much income today to have the same living standards as were prevalent 23 years ago. The BLS cost of living index is considerably more than twice as high as it was in 1939. But it also shows that wages of workers have increased faster than the cost of living increase—so many people say, what of it.

Those older people who retired on fixed incomes from bonds, pensions, annuities or cash in the bank can tell you how terrible it is to find dollars worth only half what they used to be. Older people soon to retire are wondering what security they actually have from what now seems to be an adequate retirement income.

The father who took out an insurance policy to pay the cost of his son's education may find it will now pay only half the cost. This is because inflation has raised the cost of all factors concerning college life. It is true many of our increased costs are costs of high living rather than the high cost of living. But the cold facts are the cost of the same standard of living is 50 per cent more today than it was 15 years ago and 100 per cent more than it was 23 years ago.

We have lived through this spiral with only a minority of our people suffering because they did not receive more dollars to make up for their reduced value. But we may not be so fortunate in the next 10 to 15 years. A spiraling inflation can quickly get out of hand. There is much concern over our present trends. The greatly increased spending by government is a prime factor. It is a trend that should concern everyone who has an interest in their future economic safety.—L.A.C.

Strike Idles 42 Ships

The number of ships idled in West Coast ports by the 11-day-old maritime strike reached 42 Saturday—six of them in Los Angeles Harbor.

The disputants in the strike—the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union and the Pacific Maritime Association—scheduled no new negotiations. A federally-mediated round of talks ended Friday when a three-man government team left San Francisco after the union and the PMA received the panel's contract renewal recomendations with qualifications.

Spokesmen for both sides said they would await the panel's reaction to the qualifications. Barring such action, they said, they would try and negotiate directly with one another sometime next week.

The union meanwhile set up picket lines around the freighter President Taft in Los Angeles Harbor, bringing to six the number of ships tied up locally. None are in Long Beach Harbor.

Continuation of the strike could tie up 135 PMA vessels—about 15 per cent of the American merchant fleet.

Laos, Viet Nam Crises Grow; JFK in Plea to K

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy has challenged Soviet Premier Khrushchev to keep his promise to convert the precarious cease-fire in Laos into a secure peace.

Kennedy's verbal message to Khrushchev was given to Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Friday evening during their two-hour talk on the twin war threats in Germany and Southeast Asia.

Gromyko's answer was not disclosed. But U.S. officials remained pessimistic Saturday about what one called "the extremely serious situation in Laos and S. Viet Nam."

BAN HIN HEUP, Laos (UPI)—Negotiations to resolve the Laotian crisis foundered again Saturday, and the Communist-backed rebel leaders warned of renewed civil war.

The warning came in a joint communique issued by "neutralist" Prince Souvanna Phouma and his half-brother, "Red" Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao.

It followed fruitless talks by representatives of the three factions on the question of how to combine the rival elements into a coalition government.

The two princes warned that the scheduled with Prince Boun Oum, premier of the pro-Western royal government, in this tiny village today may be decisive.

They said that if the princes failed to resolve their differences today "as a result of the ill will and torpedoing by certain aggressive American circles and their puppets, they will be solely responsible for the results . . ."

TOKYO (AP)—Cambodia's neutralist Prince Sihanouk warned Saturday that sending American or SEATO troops to Laos might provoke a Korean type war in which the West would be 'surely defeated" by the Chinese Communists.

But he said in his opinion sending U.S. troops to South Viet Nam would mean 'less danger" of triggering massive Communist intervention and a major conflict in Southeast Asia.

"I think it would be possible for the U. S. to interfere militarily in South Viet Nam because North Viet Nam is interfering in South Viet Nam," the Cambodian chief of state told a news conference.

High State Department sources in Washington disclosed Friday that the United States is considering sending troops to South Viet Nam. Which is faced with increasingly dangerous operations by Communist guerrillas.

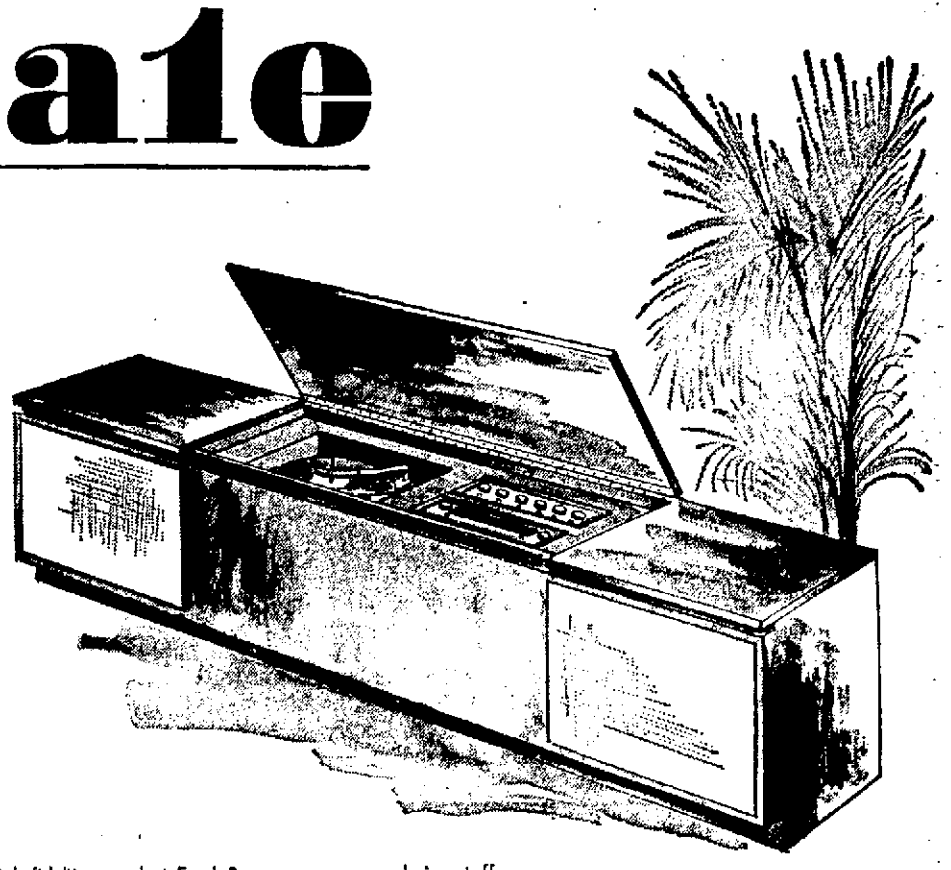

Atom Objectors' Sitdown Halted

BONN, Germany (AP)—Would-be sitdown demonstrators against nuclear testing were hauled away from the Soviet Embassy Saturday by West German police.

Between 40 and 50 members of the conscientious objectors group ignored orders to keep away from the embassy. They were released shortly afterward.

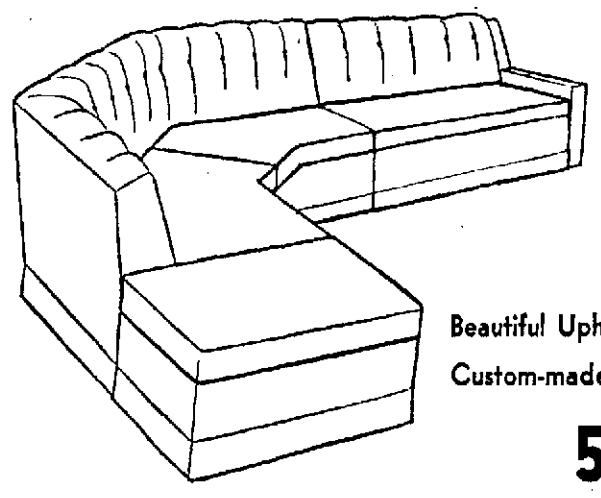

The demonstrators carried placards proclaiming "nuclear tests are death—whoever orders them are murderers."

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Soviets 'Show' Nuclear Subs

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet press published for the first time Saturday a picture of what it claimed was one of a fleet of Soviet atomic submarines. Premier Khrushchev has said in speeches that the Soviet Union has nuclear-powered underwater ships armed with missiles, but there has never been any direct mention of them in the press nor has any Westerner ever seen one.

The picture shown in the newspaper Izvestia did not give away any secrets and it could have been a picture of almost any ships. The newspaper account from its reporter, who was said to be cruising on the submarine, described it as having a snub nose like an old fashioned transport plane and "an elastic tail" like an overgrown caviar-laying sturgeon.

Rayburn Sits Up

DALLAS (AP)—House Speaker Sam Rayburn, incurably stricken with cancer, felt strong enough to sit on the side of his bed Saturday and ask for a steak lunch—which he received, along with mashed potatoes and gravy. The 79-year-old speaker seemed more alert and cheerful. Anti-cancer drugs probably will be started on Rayburn but with hope only to slow the spread of the disease, not for a cure.

91 Seized in Alhambra Riots

ALHAMBRA (UPI) — Four wild riots, which pitted 100 law officers against some 1,000 angry, jeering youths in this suburban Los Angeles community, were described by authorities Saturday as "one of the worst examples of civil disobedience in the county in 15 years." The chain-reaction rioting in the streets that lasted about two hours early Saturday was touched off by the opening of the local high school football season and the breaking up of a teen-age drinking party by officers. Ninety-one boys were seized.

34 Britons Killed in Air Crash

TOULOUSE, France (AP)—Twin-engine British airliner—a DC3—smashed into a forested Pyrences peak in the darkness early Saturday with a party of British vacationists. Investigators said all the 34 persons aboard were killed. Bodies were scattered over an area of 100 yards at an altitude of about 6,000 feet on the northwest slope of 9,137-feet-high Mt. Canigou.

Thurber Suffers Setback

Junta Arrests 15 Officers

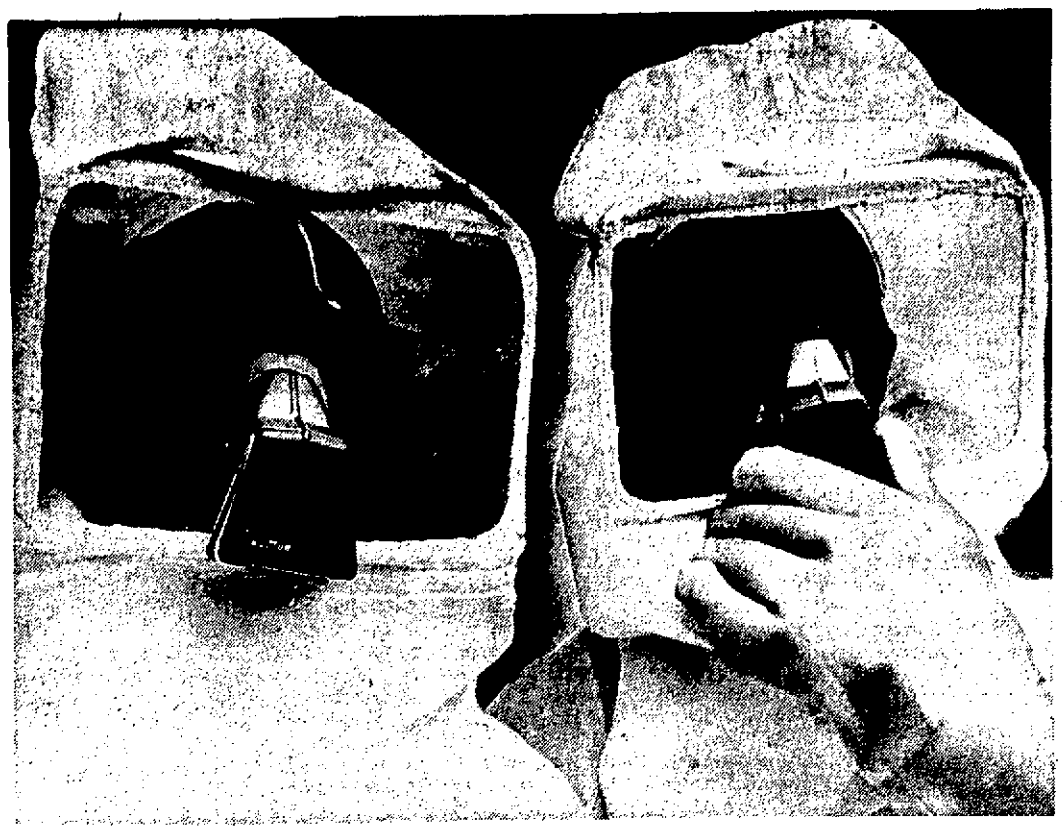

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea's ruling military junta announced Saturday night the arrest of 15 officers appointed last May to investigate illegal fortune building. None of the officers are members of the 28-man junta led by Lt. Gen. Park Chung-hee. But it was apparent that the arrests deeply embarrassed the military men who seized control of the country May 16.

Czech Diplomat Ordered Out of U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has ordered a Czechoslovakian diplomat out of the country and denied espionage charges against two American diplomats.

State Department press officer Joseph Reap said the Czech Embassy has been informed that the presence of its third secretary, Jaroslav Skacil, is no longer acceptable. He did not say what reasons were given.

At the same time, Reap said Czech spy charges against Robert W. Kent Jr. of Oakland, Calif., and Timothy J. Burke of Buffalo, N.Y., were totally without foundation. Both are second secretaries at the U.S. Embassy at Prague.

2 Students' Deaths Laid to Cyanide

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (UPI) —A coroner's jury ruled Saturday that the mystery deaths of two University of North Carolina students yetserday was caused by cyanide poisoning. The jury did not determine how the poison had been administered.

James Barham, 20, a junior from Burlington, N. C., and his roommate, William Harrison, a graduate student from Statesville, N. C., were found dead in their beds Friday. Barham had been violently ill the night before.

The case attracted attention because of a possible connection with a dental school laboratory photographer who died under similar circumstances Thursday. But Assistant Coroner, C. A. Cannady ruled the death of Robert S. Mauldin, 33, was from natural causes.

Bar Cuba Exile Regime

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State Department informed the head of the Cuban government in exile Saturday that it cannot permit the organiation to set itself up in the United States.

State Department spokesman Joseph Reap said it cannot permit the Cuban exile government to base itself in this country because such action would imperil the lives of U.S. citizens and American interests still under control of the Castro regime.

In a wire to Dr. Julio Garceran, president of the new exile government, the State Department said permission for the organization to work from the United States would amount to recognition of the exile government.

Reap said this would pull the rug out from under the Swiss government's representation of U. S. interests to the government of Fidel Castro.

"United States citizens are imprisoned in Cuba and can only be offered such protection as is available in Cuba under the Castro regime by the continued ability of a foreign government to represent United States interests," he added.

New Frontiers Demos Meet

Discussion of the forthcoming Leadership Conference on Key Legislation will be the main order of business for the New Frontiers Democratic Club Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. in the Panorama Room of the Lafayette Hotel.

Luncheon will follow the business session.

Mrs. Trudy Owens, president of the Democratic Women's Forum, and Mrs. Pauline Clark, special projects chairman for the Women's Division of the Democratic State Central Committee, will speak on the leadership conference in Los Angeles Oct. 26, New Frontiers President Louis Countryman announced.

5 Deputies Sought for U.N. Top Man

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — With Burma's U Thant virtually assured selection as acting secretary general, diplomats concentrated Saturday on ironing out other troublesome details of a small-power plan for administration of the United Nations.

A diplomat in the midst of two weeks' intensive negotiations to fill the vacancy left by the death of Dag Hammarskjold said, "There is general agreement on Mr. X"—the man to be named interim U.N. chief—"it is the rest of the plan that I am worried about."

As worked out by a committee of eight non-committed powers, the plan calls for an acting secretary general to be appointed by the General Assembly upon recommendation of the Security Council to serve until April 1963 when Hammarskjold's term would have expired.

* * * *

THE PLAN called for five assistant secretaries general, chosen on the somewhat political basis of geographic distribution, to work closely with the interim chief, but not—as Russia originally demanded—for a "troika" of three deputies with veto power over his actions.

Agreement between the United States and Russia on the top man would be required before his name was put before the Security Council.

The United States, decrying such political injection in the highest level of the United Nations, opposed this.

* * * *

DELINEATION of the subordinate details was left until agreement between the United States and Russia on the acting secretary general appeared certain.

Leaders of the small-power group said they expected formal announcement of agreement on that early next week, and it was possible that the security council would initiate action on his appointment before the week is out.

Speculation centered on possibilities for his five assistants.

Informed sources said high consideration was being given to Dr. Ralph J. Bunche of the United States, now undersecretary for special political affairs; Georgy P. Arkadev of Russia, now undersecretary for political and Security Council affairs; T. G. Narayanan of India, now in the executive office of the secretary general; Pier Spinelli of Italy, now director of the U.N. European office in Geneva, and Raul Prebisch of Argentina, now executive secretary of the Economic Commission for Latin America.

MIKOYAN said: "We are ready to give all effective guarantees according to international law" and that the guarantees would cover the right of access to the city from all directions.

"Naturally the sovereignty of the German Democratic Republic, through whose territory the routes run, will have to be respected," he said.

But Mikoyan did not repeat the previous Soviet threat that East Germany would get complete control over Western Allied air and ground traffic after a peace treaty is signed.

He said a peace treaty would legalize the German borders laid down in the Potsdam agreement and accept the existence of two German states.

"Only a madman with a suicidal drive would answer a peace treaty with military action," Mikoyan said.

* * * *

ONE of the warlike East German statements came from Interior Minister Karl Maron in an order of the day to the East German armed forces.

"The West zone rulers in opposition to the desires of peace-loving humanity are continuing their dangerous policy and have the intention of blocking conclusion of a peace treaty with war provocations," he said.

"In view of the clear superiority of the socialist world system, such attempts are doomed to failure. The most modern large rockets and nuclear weapons of monstrous destructive power stand ready in the Soviet Union to shatter any aggressor."

* * * *

ANOTHER warlike statement came from Bruno Leuschner, deputy chief of state. He warned "German militarists and revenge-seekers" that "no one must be in any doubt. Any warlike provocation against the borders of the German Democratic Republic means the unleashing of a great war."

"Whoever raises a weapon against the German peace state will be destroyed, no matter who he is," Leuschner said.

2 Torrance Stores Have Bomb Scares

Anonymous telephone warnings that bombs had been planted in two Torrance stores proved false Saturday.

Police searched a variety store and a jewelry store but found no bombs.

Officers said an eight-minute interval separated the phone calls.

U.N. IS STANDBY ARBITER

U. S. Plans Allied Talks on Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration plans to start a new round of consultations with Britain, France and West Germany next week on the next moves toward seeking a peaceful solution of the Berlin crisis.

The consultation may lead to a Western foreign ministers' conference late this month.

The Western powers are known to be divided in their approaches to a possible Berlin settlement with Russia. High-level policy talks may be needed to develop a unified position for further East-West discussions.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Saturday in the wake of talks with Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko that the Berlin crisis undoubtedly would be placed before the United Nations if it "deepens."

* * * *

JUST 24 HOURS after he and President Kennedy held a two-hour meeting with Gromyko, Rusk said the world body could play a "decisive role" in the crisis. But for the moment, he added, it was too early for such a move while the two major parties—Russia and the United States—were jointly trying to see if there could be a basis for a peaceful settlement.

He said the talks with Gromyko had been held in a "good atmosphere." But he added that they have not yet shown what the possibilities are for a get-together on terms for formal Berlin negotiations.

"The atmosphere on the whole has been constructive," he said. "But as to the outcome, we will just have to wait and see."

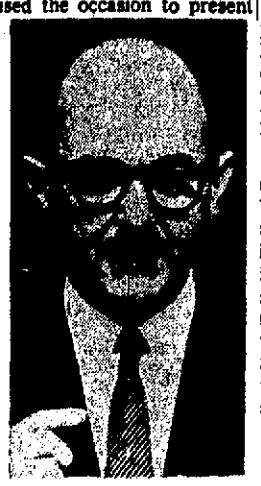

* * * *

OFFICIAL sources said meanwhile that the next move to break the deadlock appeared to be up to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. The source said that Kennedy and Rusk were awaiting reaction from Khrushchev following the round of talks with Gromyko here and in New York.

The Russian foreign minister showed no "give" in his meeting at the White House Friday evening.

But Rusk and Kennedy reportedly gained from Gromyko the impression that Premier Khrushchev prefers to continue exploratory talks in some form rather than allow the situation to move toward a military showdown.

In Friday's session, Gromyko is understood to have done most of the talking. He used the occasion to present to the President Khrushchev's argument that a peace treaty with East and West Germany is long overdue and that if the Western powers will not join in making a treaty—as they have declared they will not—then the Soviet Union will proceed with its own pact with Communist East Germany.

DEAN RUSK

* * * *

GROMYKO asserted, it is understood, that this proposed pact would give the East German regime sovereign control of its own territory including the supply lines to West Berlin from West Germany.

Gromyko reiterated Soviet readiness to "guarantee" Western access to Berlin, but this was linked to Russia's insistence that West Berlin itself must be given a new status. Under this status Western troops would either be withdrawn or be joined by Soviet troops; if they were withdrawn the Soviets would agree to some new arrangement, perhaps through the United Nations, to guarantee West Berlin status as a "free city."

Kennedy is said to have told Gromyko that in trying to get the Western powers out of West Berlin while guaranteeing the independence of the city and access to it, the Soviets were offering to trade an apple for an orchard. He made clear that the United States and its allies rejected any such bargain.

Prisoners Offer Blood to Girl

The blood needed to keep 2-year-old Theresa Lynn Montgomery alive has been offered by federal prisoners on Terminal Island.

The little Garden Grove girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Montgomery of 12402 El Rancho Place is suffering from leukemia and is being kept alive with blood transfusions at UCLA Medical Center.

Seventy-seven prisoners have volunteered to give blood, Warden R. J. Willard said.

Underdog Role Puts Knight in Toughest Fight of Long Career

By United Press International

There never has been any question about the popularity of Goodwin Jess (Goodie) Knight, one of California's most colorful and eloquent political campaigners. But the big question facing the 64-year-old former governor of the Golden State today involves the toughest battle of his long career in state politics.

Can he stage a comeback by beating such a formidable foe as fellow Republican Richard Nixon for the 1962 GOP gubernatorial nomination and go on to win back his old job?

Although the gregarious, hail-fellow-well-met politico has strong support in both parties and may get many Democrats to change registration and to vote the Republican ticket for him in the forthcoming primary, most political pundits in the state doubt he can do it. Nixon is considered too strong even for such a popular political veteran as Goodie.

UNDER California's old cross-filing system of voting, Knight would have stood a good chance of upsetting the former vice president in a close race. But now, with balloting strictly along the party line, Nixon is expected to come away with the lion's share of registered GOP voters.

Of course, true to his tradition of relishing a good political fight, Knight already has touched off a heated controversy with Nixon and vows to make a showdown battle of it "all the way." The 1962 gubernatorial race is beginning to look like a free-for-all.

* * * *

SAYS Knight:

"I've got a secret weapon in this campaign . . . the Democrats! I'm going to win the primary," the hard-hitting, confident ex-governor says, "and I think it'll be a good race.

"I've spent 25 years in state government and politics is in my blood. I still do not need the job for any financial gain, for my income at present is twice that of the governor's. I simply want to complete many tasks I was working for when I was so rudely interrupted." This draws a grin from the affable politician.

Knight, who was California's 31st governor, stepped aside under pressure in 1957 in the gubernatorial contest in favor of Sen. William F. Knowland, who was defeated by now-Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown in the subsequent election. Knight ran instead for U.S. senator against Democrat Clair Engle, but lost.

The white-haired former California chief executive has made it plain that he feels Nixon was largely responsible for his elimination from the 1958 race.

* * * *

HE TOUCHED off a political war of charges and counter charges with Nixon after both annouced their entry into the race for the Republican nomination for governor in 1962. Knight accused Nixon of threatening, in 1957, to campaign against him in every California county if he opposed Knowland. Then he later said a Nixon emissary had offered him any job in the state if he would withdraw from the forthcoming primary. Nixon called this charge "false and libelous on its face."

Nixon said: "I have never made any promises of any kind to Knight or any other individuals to keep them out of the race for governor."

The man Knight later named as the emissary, Los Angeles financier J. Howard Edgerton, admitted talking to Knight, but said in a letter to the ex-governor: "At no time . . . have I ever asked you not to run for the governorship." He denied he was Nixon's emissary.

* * * *

KNIGHT had indicated more political fireworks to come between now and the primary, saying: "I'll have more for you . . . don't worry." The ability to wage a good fight has been inbred in him by experience, profession and heritage.

He got into statewide politics in 1946, being elected lieutenant governor, a post he held for seven years. He took over as governor on Oct. 5, 1953, succeeding Earl Warren, who became chief justice of the United States, and maintained the post for six years, until 1959.

* * * *

KNIGHT has a record of tremendous popularity with the voters of both parties, and is liked by both labor and management. In the 1954 primary election for governor his pluralities set new records for volume of votes in California's gubernatorial primaries. In the 1954 general election he was elected to a full four-year term with a majority of 551,151 votes—a greater margin than that received by any other candidate for statewide office with major party opposition.

Recently Knight described his withdrawal from the 1958 gubernatorial race as "the worst personal problem" he had as governor and as "very distressing."

"There hasn't been the slightest doubt," he said, "that Mr. Nixon was pleased and delighted with the defeat of Knowland and myself."

Ford, UAW in Accord on Local Fights

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers union Saturday reached agreement on a "very important" jurisdictional rights issue which could settle more than half the still-unresolved local disputes in the strike-bound company.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther said after emerging from a bargaining session that the jurisdictional settlement "could lock up 20-odd local agreements." There are 36 Ford plants where local agreements still have not been reached.

Reuther said the agreement came on one of five national issues which led 120,000 Ford workers to go on strike last Tuesday. This issue concerns the rights of skilled and unskilled labor, setting the lines of demarcation for each type of worker.

* * * *

"YES, it was very, very important," Reuther said. "That's why we made it the first order of business."

In pressing for settlement of the jurisdictional problem, Reuther told Ford Vice President Malcolm L. Denise that lower-paid nonskilled workers were being assigned duties that should go to higher-paid skilled employes. It wasn't known how the issue was resolved since neither would go into detail on the settlement.

Reuther said the union and company recessed national negotiations—except for some subcommittee meetings—until 1 p.m. today so they could get word of the jurisdictional agreement to the locals by phone.

Secret Army 'Show' Fails in Algeria

ALGIERS (UPI) — A cold wind and rain sweeping through Algiers Saturday put the damper to a demonstration called by the outlawed extremist "secret party organization" OAS against President Charles de Gaulle.

The OAS, headed by fugitive Gen. Raoul Salan, is violently opposed to De Gaulle's plan to grant independence to Algeria. It called on "every man, woman and child" in Algiers to wear a tricolored pin or ribbin as evidence of their support in the struggle to maintain "Algerie Francaise" (French Algeria).

But the driving rains and cold kept most Europeans indoors. Among those that did venture out, only a handful sported the French national colors.

Germans Fight Red Spy Ring

BONN, GERMANY (AP) — West Germany is fighting off the most massive Communist espionage attack ever lanched against a single country.

Interior Minister Gerhard Schroeder said recently that an estimated 16,000 agents work for East bloc intelligence services in West Germany.

Despite many obstacles, Bonn Government agents manage to uncover about 200 agents a month. Still, for every lost spy the communists seem to have another ready to take his place.

High-ranking officials of Red intelligence services, who defected to the West, have reported that about 18,500 persons are full-time employes of Soviet, East German, Polish, Czechoslovakian, Hungarian and Bulgarian spy organizations in East Germany, mostly stationed in or around East Berlin. It is the base of operations against West Germany.

* * * *

THE EAST German communists alone spend $125 million a year on espionage and subversive operations against West Germany, Schroeder said.

To combat this operation, the Bonn Government employs just over 3,000 counter intelligence agents and office personnel. They operate on an annual budget of $17.5 million.

Officials are reluctant to release precise annual statistics, but in the last eight years courts convicted more than 2,000 persons on espionage charges and more than 19,000 admitted receiving assignments which were not carried out.

* * * *

THIS IS A staggering figure compared to the 17 spy convictions in the United States during the last 11 years. But at least four of the Americans — the Rosenberg couple, Harry Gold and David Greenglass—may have been more dangerous than all of the Red agents in Germany put together. They betrayed atom bomb secrets.

West Germany does not have American nuclear secrets, but there have been a few agents who have done considerable damage.

According to security officials the most dangerous was Alfred Frenzel, 61, Socialist member of the Defense Committee of The Bundestag (parliament) from 1953 until his arrest last fall.

* * * *

FRENZEL, sentenced to 15 years at hard labor earlier this year, supplied the Czechoslovakian intelligence service with West Germany's defense plans for 1961 and betrayed the outlines on the Atlantic Alliance's defense requirements until 1963. The latter information included projected troop strength, equipment, ammunition and fuel requirements for the 15 NATO countries.

Another dangerous traitor —and most embarrassing to the government — was Otto John, head of the government's counter intelligence service.

After four years as top counter spy, during which he once dined cozily with Director Allen Dulles of the U.S. Central Inteligence Agency, John defected to East Germany in 1954. He gave the communists important West German and Allied counter intelligence secrets, including names of agents operating behind the Iron Curtain.

* * * *

JOHN REMAINED in East Germany for 17 months and then redefected to the West. After a long trial, during which he claimed he was drugged, kidnapped and held against his will in East Germany, John was sentenced to four years at hard labor. He served barely half of his sentence.

There were perhaps another half dozen serious cases but the overwhelming majority of agents are "little operators."

Red spy recruiters have a relatively easy job finding prospects in this divided nation. One-fifth of West Germany's population are expellees and refugees from German-speaking areas now dominated by communism. Perhaps every third West German has relatives in communist East Germany.

* * * *

THE GERMAN agent spying on his own country needs no elaborate disguise and before the communists closed the border around Berlin a great many agents slipped in with the refugee stream.

Western security chiefs say about 80 per cent of the 16,000 agents operating in West Germany are working for the East German Ministry for State Security (MFS) and the East German army's military intelligence branch. The other 20 per cent work directly for the Soviet Union and the other Red countries.

Directing and supervising the East German apparatus are two Soviet agencies — the Committee for State Security (KGB formerly MVD) and the defense ministry's Military Intelligence Branch (GRU).

* * * *

THE KGB in East Germany, with headquarters in a former hospital at the maximum security compound in the East Berlin suburb of Karlshorst, has a staff of about 900.

The GRU headquarters is located at the Germany headquarters of the Soviet Army in Wuensdorf near Berlin. About 150 GRU officers are reportedly attached to the KGB headquarters as liaison personnel.

The East German Ministry for State Security is headed by Lt. Gen. Erich Mielke, and old-time German communist for whom West Berlin police still have an arrest warrant for murder dating back to 1931. Mielke himself has repeatedly boasted of killing two Berlin policemen at that time.

* * * *

SECURITY OFFICIALS assert that only 1 out of 1,000 agents is spying for the communist for idealistic reasons. The greatest number are "in the business" for material gain or adventure.

But only a few agents make more than $100 a month.

Blackmail is an effective and widely used recruiting method. Officials cite the case of the pretty wife of a Bonn Defense Ministry official who was visiting her mother in East Germany. During a family celebration, attended by several officers from the East German security ministry, the woman drank a bit too much and was photographed in an "embarrassing situation" with one of the Red agents.

A few days later, an MFS officer told the woman she would have to spy for the Reds or the photographs would be sent to her husband. Even worse, the woman found out that the "family celebration" was arranged with the cooperation of her family to coerce her into becoming a spy. This experience was so nerve-shattering the woman attempted suicide three times after she returned to the West.

* * * *

THE TASK OF tracking down spies falls on two separate agencies of the Bonn government — The Bundesverfassungsschutz or BFV for short (Federal Office for the Protection of the Constitution) and the Sicherungsgruppe or SG (Security Group) of the Federal Criminal Police Agency. Both are branches of the Federal Interior Ministry.

In the basement rooms of the security group headquarters in Bad Godesberg near Bonn is a fascinating collection of communist espionage equipment.

One large shelf is packed with radio and coding equipment, the center of attraction being a small, almost new American-made radio set used in West Germany by a Soviet agent.

"The United States sent about 10,000 of these sets to Russia during World War II for use by the guerrillas," an official explained. "Only the guerrillas never used them and now they are turning up over here."

* * * *

THE MOST complicated spy tools shown were photographic gadgets, including the so-called microdot process.

To use this process, the agent must make his own special film and "camera" which actualy is only a wooden board with a light bulb, a magnifying glass and a tiny special lens. With this equipment the agent can reduce a large piece of paper filled with information to a tiny dot which is then glued beneath the flap of an envelope or other hiding place.

Counter intelligence officials said their biggest obstacle is the courts, which they believe tend to be too lenient with spies.

Interior Minister Schroeder said German courts should follow the examples of their U.S. and British counterparts, which hand out sentences more than twice as long as German courts.

"The communist intelligence organizations can recruit a person and say: don't worry if you get caught . . . you'll only go to jail for a couple of years and when you're free we will take good care of you," one Allied intelligence official commented.

SPY'S TOOLS

An American-made radio set used by a Soviet spy in West Germany is examined by AP Reporter John O. Koehler at the West German security group headquarters in West Berlin. Security agents said the United States sent about 10,000 of these sets to Russia during World War II for use by the partisans. Above the radio display are samples of codes used by Red spies.—(AP)

World's Highest Earth Fill Dam Finished; Start Higher One

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California celebrates this week the completion of the world's highest earth-filled dam, and breaks ground for a much higher one.

Trinity Dam, 537 feet high, will be dedicated Saturday by Secretary of Interior Udall.

On Thursday, Gov. Brown will break ground for Oroville Dam. By 1968 it will rise to 735 feet—highest dam of any kind in the United States.

AS TALL as a 50-story building, Oroville will be eight feet higher than Hoover Dam, which is concrete. There are higher concrete dams in the Alps and in India.

Dams are cause for celebration in California, which has suffered drought for three straight years.

Things would be much worse except for more than 900 dams, large and small, already built. The state has plans for 260 more dams, which experts say will enable 40 million people to live in California by the year 2000.

* * * *

WITH A present population of 16½ million, growing by half a million a year, water is the most urgent political and economic issue.

The problem is that most of the state's rivers originate in the northern mountains, torrents in winter and trickles in summer.

The biggest and fastest growing icties are on the arid South Coast, and the richest farmlands are in valleys where it doesn't rain for five months a year.

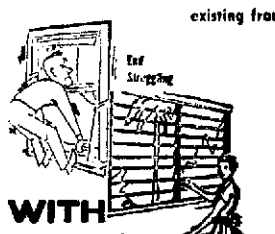

The state, already working on one branch aqueduct, hopes to get the main canals and pumping stations under way by 1963, delivering water to the southern San Joaquin Valley by 1965 and to Los Angeles by 1972.

Utah Decrees Fine or School for Young Smokers

By GERALD B. TRAPP

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—Anyone under 21 caught smoking in this city gets a ticket from the police and must pay a fine or attend a 2½-hour school that features two color movies and a lecture on "The Evils of Tobacco."

Strict enforcement of this 1907 law began several months ago. It's debatable whether enforcement has produced less smoke, but it's provoked more fire among the citizenry—pro and con—than any police action in years.

Juvenile Judge Regnal Garff Jr. started the intensified enforcement program of the state statute that prohibits smoking or possesion of tobacco by anyone under 21 year of ago. There also is a companion statute making it illegal to give, sell or provide tobacco to anyone under 21.

The judge's announcement created a furor of comment in a city where smoking is forbidden in most public places, a law that is violated about as often as the ban against teen smoking.

There is strong support for the law in Mormon doctrine.

"The word of wisdom," the code of conduct of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, as defined by its founder, Joseph Smith, says: "Tobacco is not for the body and is not good for man."

Mormons make up 63 per cent of the state's 890,627 persons and 56 per cent of Salt Lake County's 383,035 residents.

But Judge Garff, a Mormon, contends the drive on smoking "is no moral or religious issue. It is just a matter of education. We want them (the juveniles) to stop flaunting the law."

Only 150 tickets for smoking were issued in all of 1960, most of them mere formalities to hold youths for questioning about something else. With enforcement, there were 130 smoking tickets last July alone. The police issued 39 in August, but referred many more to the smoking school.

A City Court appearance is necessary for violators 18, 19 and 20. But they too can attend the smoking school in lieu of a first offense $10 fine.

Youths under 18 report to Juvenile Court, and are given a choice of attending the class or appearing before an official. All have picked the class.

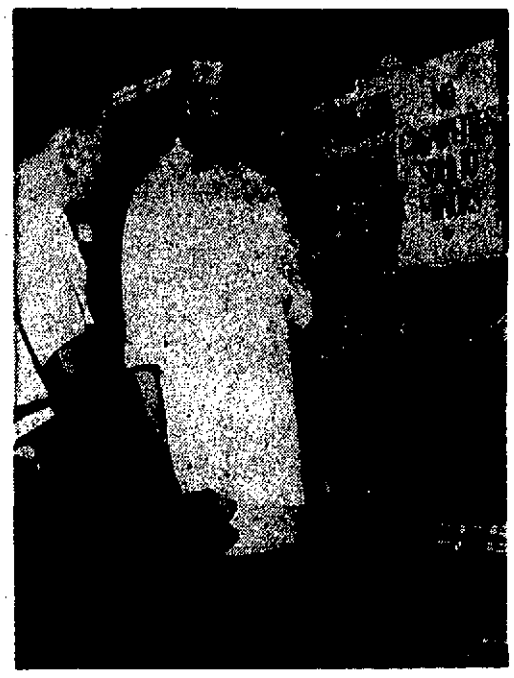

Salt Lake City police were guinea pigs for the first smoking class. The immediate result: 25 of the department's 240 policeman stopped smoking.

The next immediate result was a dearth of smokers at the usual teen hangouts.

The school includes two films and a lecture.

The first film—"Time Pulls the Trigger"—shows a doctor dripping a drop of nicotine down the throat of a mouse. The audience watched closely as the mouse wiggled and squirmed to its quick death—a matter of seconds.

The second film—produced by the American Temperance Union—is called "One in 20,000." Its highlight is a lung cancer operation successful; its star, staunch tobacco foe Dr. Alton Oschner of New Orleans.

NOT FOR TEENS

Store owner Orson Rowley points to sign to show 16-year-old William Brumbaugh that teen-agers are forbidden by state law from buying cigarettes in Utah. The posed scene is typical of many that occur in the Salt Lake City area.—(AP photo.)

Colleges Apply for U.S. Housing Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has reported that 70 per cent of the country's eligible colleges and universities have applied for college housing loans.

The report said loans totaling more than $1.4 billion have been made during the past 10 years with another $248 million reserved for pending projects. Under the extension of the program approved by Congress this year an additional $300 million will be available during each of the next four years.

Plan Pioneer Immunity Study

By BEN ZINSER AND GEORGE X. TRIMBLE, M.D.

The National Institutes of Health plan a pioneer study of how and why an individual develops some diseases but is immune to others.

The study will be the first of its kind to deal strictly with a new science: propetology. The term is from the Greek word "propet" — meaning "leaning toward."

Propetology, therefore, is the study of the tendency to lean toward certain diseases.

NIH scientists will observe 500 young persons for several years, testing them periodically and paying special attention to the illnesses that commonly afflict them.

The study is disclosed in the American Journal of Medicine by two chemists—Drs. Roger J. Williams and Frank L. Siegel of the University of Texas.

MEDICAL AUTHORITIES now frown on two traditional exercises used for conditioning in football practice and other sports: the deep-knee bend and the duck waddle.

Either can result in serious injury to the internal and supporting structures of the knee joint, according to the American Medical Association's Committee on the Medical Aspects of Sports.

THERE'S A NEW phobia—nucleomitophobia, or fear of the atom. It's a product of the nuclear age, says Dr. Milton A. Dushkin, medical director of the North Shore Hospital in Winnetka, Ill.

Dr. Dushkin, reporting in a publication of the American Medical Association, says public officials are receiving calls for help from frantic persons who believe they are radioactive.

He explains: "When a person feels overwhelmed by feelings of insecurity and frustrations beyond his control, he must find a scapegoat. Nowadays it's fashionable for the emotionally ill to blame their confused state on radioactivity in their environment."

PATIENTS WHO undergo anal or rectal surgery will experience less pain afterward if they practice special exercises in the first few days after surgery.

The finding is that of proctologists at Loma Linda University School of Medicine.

The doctors taught the exercises to 50 patients at White Memorial Hospital and Clinic. Then they compared their recovery with that of 50 patients not told about the exercises.

The exercises, repeated three to four times a day for 20 minutes, are those in which the anorectal muscles are alternately contracted and relaxed.

In the exercising group, swelling either was less or subsided sooner than in the non-exercising patients. Pain was far less. In fact, administration of sedative drugs was 50 per cent less in the exercising group.

The doctors, reporting in the journal Diseases of the Colon and Rectum, say that the exercises stimulate circulation and improve muscle tone.

Patients in the exercising group returned to work sooner than did the patients in the non-exercising group.

PORTRAIT OF THE average medical school graduate, result of a survey reported in the Journal of Medical Education:

He hails from a small urban family.

His parents are above average intellectually.

He fared well academically in high school. As an undergraduate he preferred courses in biological and physical sciences and the humanities but showed little interest in the social sciences or languages.

He's probably married. If so, there's a 50-50 chance he has one or more children.

He may be in debt (50-50 chance). If so, his indebtedness probably ranges between $1,000 and $3,000.

Youth Clubs Seek Community Projects

Worthwhile community service projects are being sought by high school youth clubs sponsored by the Los Altos YMCA. Public suggestions are invited.

Suggestions may be forwarded to the Los Altos branch, 1720 Bellflower Blvd., according to Pat Vest, branch secretary.

The Los Altos YMCA presently has 19 clubs, each with membership of 25 high school boys and girls. All clubs are eager to make a community contribution in the form of service work, Vest said.

In other Los Altos YMCA activities, Dr. Thomas Clarke will preside today at the first annual "Layman's Retreat" at the YMCA mountain retreat, Camp Oakes.

Board and committee members will discuss pans for the proposed Los Altos YMCA building, Dr. Clarke said.

Employment Over Year Rises in L.B.-L.A. Area

Employment in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area increased 1.7 per cent in August over August, 1960, according to the research department of Security First National Bank.

The bank called the upward trend "continuous, but moderate." The improvement was attributed to normal seasonal increases in certain non-manufacturing fields such as trade and construction.

Employment in the area reached successive record levels of 2.76 million in July and 2.78 million in August, the bank said.

But unemployment figures presented a less optimistic picture. While employment has increased, the population has increased at a faster rate, showing the difference in the unemployment figures, the bank's report said.

The level of unemployment in August for the Long Beach-Los Angeles area fell below 200,000 for the first time this year, but the reduction was in line with seasonal expectations.

FBI Exchange Club Topic

The "Federal Bureau of Investigation" will be discussed by Charles W. Peasinger Jr., assistant special agent in charge of the area office, at the luncheon meeting of the Long Beach Exchange Club Wednesday in the Lafayette Hotel.

ARDENT COMMUNISM FIGHTER

Pastor Resembles Khrushchev but There Likeness Ceases

Jackie Burris, 55, looks enough like Premier Khrushchev to have been taken for him in Moscow where he addressed students at the university in 1959.

The likeness stops at looks.

The Rev. Mr. Burris is the new pastor of the First Baptist Church of Los Alamitos, Green Street and Bloomfield Avenue.

The Cathedral of Tomorrow, Akron, Ohio, where he was pastor before coming to Los Alamitos, sent him to Moscow where he was invited to address students — but not on religion.

* * * *

HE DISCUSSED his travels, Berlin, Israel, the five months he spent as a prisoner of the Chinese in Red China — and when the question-and-answer period arrived he found his questioners wanted answers to questions on religion. He turned to the man in charge, who nodded and the Rev. Mr. Burris was on a topic that is his life's work.

REV. JACKIE BURRIS
Widely Traveled

"I love the Russian people dearly," he said. "In the 72 countries I have visited in my four trips around the world I have never met a more gracious people. But I consider communism to be the great enemy of God, of church, of man. I cannot, as a minister, express too strong a warning against even flirting with communism. I hope every trace of communism can be eliminated from our lives." He plans to continue his talks on Russia at his evening service tonight.

The Rev. Mr. Burris is a missionary, an airplane pilot, photographer and lecturer who has preached (mostly through interpreters) to audiences in 72 of the countries he visited.

* * * *

IN AKRON he conducted a television program he estimates was seen by 2½ million viewers. He intends to develop another television program in this area.

"Surveys show 78 per cent of the people in America do not attend any church. Southern California is a greater mission field than the East. I hope the TV program will have greater appeal than anything I have done to date."

He said: "I want to try to get to men to return to God. The church is the best means for their doing so. I hope to do this by visitation and with enjoyable programs. A Christian's life doesn't have to be dull. The Gospel sermon should be the most interesting thing in the world."

Krishna Menon 'Satisfactory' in Brain Surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon was reported resting comfortably in Montefiore Hospital Saturday after undergoing surgery for removal of a blood clot on the brain.

Dr. Leon Davidoff said the one-hour operation was successful and "a small collection of blood was found and removed from the brain."

A hospital spokesman described the Indian statesman's condition as "satisfactory" and said Menon would probably be permitted to get on his feet today.

TELLS OF DRIVE

Mrs. Herbert Landwehr, left, Red Cross recruitment chairman, hopes new volunteer will fill uniform as she explains the plans for the Red Cross Volunteer Recruitment Drive to Mrs. Leo Rogers, local chairman of volunteers for the Long Beach Chapter.

Red Cross Issues Special Three Day Call for Volunteer Helpers

Help wanted . . . for a rush trip to the hospital with desperately needed blood, or helping the Mother of a serviceman who has just died, or running errands for patients in hospitals, or writing a letter for a bed-ridden patient. These are a few of the many activities of the Long Beach Red Cross Volunteer.

The local chapter of the Red Cross has issued a plea for volunteers to aid in these and many more activities in the Long Beach area. A special "call for volunteers" is set for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Volunteers are needed immediately in such services as canteen, motor service, social welfare aides, Gray Ladies, and hostesses. These positions require an average of six hours per week of service.

* * * *

EXPLAINING the role of the Red Cross Volunteer, Mrs. Herbert Landwehr, Recruitment chairman said, "The most rewarding service a person can offer is a helping hand to his fellow man. Your part as a Red Cross Volunteer is very important in these times of prepardness as your service not only aids others but better prepares you for emergencies with your home and family."

"If you can type, drive an automobile, cook, sew, or just like people there is a place for you as a Red Cross volunteer worker. You can pick your hours and the type of service in which you wish to participate. Give the Red Cross volunteer office a call (HEmlock 7-2921) this week and join with your friends and neighbors to serve the community as a Red Cross worker," said Mrs. Landwehr.

FBI Arrests 19 in Loan Fraud

NEW YORK (UPI) — The FBI Saturday arrested 19 persons, including two former bank officials, in connection with a $5 million fraud involving the misuse of government-insured home improvement loans.

The FBI said the scheme involved making fraudulent applications for home improvement loans which, when received, were used by the homeowners for other purposes, with "kickbacks" to the construction firms.

When improvements were made, the contractors usually used inferior materials, the FBI said.

Series to Tell How You Can Earn More

Can you get better pay?

In most cases, says Meredith Wiley, prominent Southern California management and personnel consultant, the answer is yes.

Over the past 20 years Wiley has interviewed and traced the progress of thousands of job-seekers. He has recruited scores of top-flight men for some of industry's best-paying jobs. His inescapable conclusions from these experiences:

1. Success is rarely a matter of luck.
2. Success follows a pattern.
And the pattern can be learned!

WILEY NOW SHARES his expert knowledge with Independent, Press-Telegram readers in a 14-part series, "You CAN Get Better Pay," starting next Sunday.

He tells, for example, how to ask for a pay hike, how to get discovered by the boss, how to find and how to quit a job, and how to work into one of those $25,000 to $150,000 jobs which go begging for the right men.

The articles, based on a booklet by the same title, are written with Harry Karns of the I, P-T editorial staff, and released by the Associated Press.

Don't miss what can be the most important series of articles in your life.

DR. RAY D. OWEN
Biologist to Speak

Science Series Set at LBCC

Dr. Ray D. Owen, acting chairman of the Biology Division of the California Institute of Technology, will be the first speaker in a new "Frontiers of Science" series opening at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Long Beach City College auditorium. The public is invited to attend.

A specialist in genetics and immunology, Dr. Owen will present an illustrated lecture on recent discoveries in molecular biology. He has been on the Caltech staff since 1946 and is widely known among fellow scientists for his work on inherited blood-groups and tissue transplants.

Other lecturers in the science series, sponsored by the City College General Adult Division, will cover current developments in high-energy physics, computer mathematics and radio and stellar astronomy.

* * * *

ANNE PHILLIPS, member of the American Institute of Decorators' national board of governors, will open a series of four lectures on interior decoration at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Hill Junior High School auditorium, 1100 Iroquois Ave. First topic is "Space — Making the Most of It."

Other admission-free programs this week:

MONDAY

Psychology—Dr. Arthur L. Bietz, "Factors That Go into a Happy Marriage," 7:30 p.m., Jordan High School auditorium.

WEDNESDAY

Health for Senior Citizens—Dr. George W. Ainlay, "Disorders of the Intestinal Tract," 2 p.m., Dewey High School auditorium.

Investments—Jess Grundy, "How to Pick an Industry," 7:30 p.m., Hill Junior High School auditorium.

THURSDAY

Exploring Colorful California—Herbert Williams, "The Mission Coast" (illustrated), 7:30 p.m., Jordan High School choral room.

Library Has Four Free Loan Films

Four new films, which have been deposited on long term loan to be circulated without charge, are now available through the Public Library Film Service, according to Miss Nina Boyle, film librarian.

"Rival World" and "Fossil Story," sponsored by the Shell Oil Company, are outstanding science films in color with appeal for adult and youth groups alike. They combine scientific objectivity with great visual impact.

For a very different type of program, Miss Boyle recommends "Moscow Concert," which is on loan to the local library through December only. Filmed at the Tchaikovsky Conservatory, this film features Dimitri Shostakovich's Seventh Symphony and Aaron Copland's "Billy the Kid" ballet suite. As an intermission feature, the late Jospeh N. Welch comments on the responsibilities implicit in citizenship.

Tax Reforms in Latin Nations Meet Goal

By ARNALDO OTERO

WASHINGTON (UPI) — High American officials voiced confidence Saturday that the Oct. 11-19 tax administrators' conference in Buenos Aires will be a major step toward tax reforms in Latin America.

The conference is the first phase of the joint Latin American taxation program sponsored by the United Nations Economic Commission for Latin America (ECLA) and the Organization of American States (OAS).

It also is the first hemispheric meeting on tax administration, considered one of the cornerstones of new efforts for economic developments in the region.

* * * *

PARTICIPATING will be about 60 tax experts and high government officials from most of the Latin American countries and the United States. Cuba, Haiti and the Dominican Republic are not expected to attend.

Representing the United States will be Stanley S. Surrey, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and one of the key tax reformers in this country.

Also participating will be representatives from the Inter-American Development Bank and the Harvard University School of Law.

* * * *

"IT IS SIGNIFICANT that the conference takes place in Argentina, which is making effective strides in reforming its tax system," one U.S. official said. He added that the conference "will provide a forum for experts from the various countries . . . to exchange ideas and experiences in the field of tax administration."

The talks have official approval of the Inter-American Economic and Social Council which recommended at the Punta Del Este Conference that the member governments cooperate in preparing the agenda.

Although the experts will participate in a personal capacity, rather than as representatives of their countries, they will take initial steps toward a broad tax reform plan.

* * * *

THE AGENDA is based on eight topics on which papers have been prepared by outstanding authorities in various fields of tax administration.

Included are subjects ranking from the processing of tax data to the adminitration of the various taxes.

One official said Argentina and several other large countries such as Venezuela might be ready to start using the automatic data-processing technique which is still being improved in the United States.

VANCE PACKARD
Speaks Friday

Author to Speak Here

Author Vance Packard, who made household words of "hidden persuaders" and "status seekers," speaks at Long Beach State College Friday at 8 p.m. in the Little Theater.

He will discuss the overcommercialim of American society, an ailment he terms "consumerism."

Packard's appearance is part of LBSC's Evenings-on-Campus series. There is no admission charge for the program.

Packard pioneered in alerting the American public to techniques employed for "persuasion in depth" advertising, and came into prominence in 1957 when his book "the Hidden Persuaders" quickly climbed to the No. 1 spot on the nation's best seller lists.

Today he continues his social critic's role in the recently published "The Waste Makers" in which he berates our philosophy of "planned obsolescence."

Pine at Broadway, Phone HE 6-9841

A GROUP of laborers beside a road, stripped to the waist in the hot sun, fascinated a 5-year-old Long Beacher, JoAnn Simington.

Turning to her mother, Anne, she exclaimed: "Look at those men wearing half of their birthday suits!"

WHEN the Republicans get through fighting each other, and one of their men gets down to the serious business of beating Pat Brown, they'll find the Demo governor backed by at least one big, solid group—the people who love Pat because he appointed them to jobs.

I've never seen any comparison with other states, but surely the governor of California must be right at the top in the number of appointments he's permitted to make in the course of a term in office.

Bro. Brown's staff is nice enough to send to this desk a daily release of news items —speeches, announcements, etc. And in virtually every batch, there are several notifications of appointments to jobs big and little over the state. They range from major, good-paying positions to spots on various boards, some of them local or district, with per diem expenses or no pay at all.

In the course of a term, this runs into hundreds, and this of course, has real political significance. In some cases, I suppose, there are disappointed candidates who are sore at the governor, but over all, it's a big advantage for the incumbent.

Republicans enjoyed this advantage for a long time. The Demos overcame it, at least in 1958, and certainly the number of appointive jobs hasn't shrunk any since the Democrats took over.

ON THE subject of press releases, the county fair people sent us one the other day reporting that Mrs. Laura Gibbons of Long Beach had won a first prize in the fancy work division.

We ran it, and that left Mrs. Gibbons slightly embarrassed. It seems that she won not only one, but four firsts, a couple of seconds and a third. Before our story came out, she had reported her triumph to her friends. Failure of the press to tell the whole story aroused some suspicion that maybe she had over-rated her case. This note is to confirm her report—she did right well, and is a truthful woman.

THE name chosen by the Council for the auditorium annex, Long Beach Arena, disappointed some people, who felt it was lacking in imagination. It wasn't my favorite. But it did conform to a principle that City Atty. Gerald Desmond has been plugging for a long time. It emphasized the Long Beach identification.

Desmond contends that every public building hereabouts should bear the name of the city in one way or another, especially in the signs seen by the public. He noted that many motorists in this area do not know in what city they are traveling, and do not know that notable public facilities they see belong to Long Beach, unless there's sign identification.

So Jerry, for one, likes the name. In fact, he probably had a lot to do with its choice. He's got influence.

OLDER people of the community, as you may know, meet once a week in Lincoln Park for an old-fashioned sing. They make the welkin ring with time-honored numbers like "Good Old Summertime."

Half a block away there's a string of bars on Ocean Blvd., and about the time the Lincoln Park singing gets going, warbling begins also in the bars. Friend of mine has visited both the bars and the park on such occasions, and reports it's quite a study in vocal contrasts. Not often, he says, do they sing the same selections.

DOWN TO BUSINESS AT NURSERY-SCHOOL LEVEL

Buckley Schools' Teaching Starts Early

By GEORGE ERES

Twenty-seven years ago, Mrs. Isabelle Buckley's son came home from first grade with all A's on his report card.

"But, I found he couldn't read," said Mrs. Buckley.

In years since, Mrs. Buckley has become founder-director of the Buckley schools—four in the Los Angeles area, one in Oxford, Mich.

The schools, nursery through high school, operate on a 10-month plan, plus a 6-week summer program.

The schools put a premium on character-building, discipline "with emphasis on respect and order, application and follow-through," and get down to the business of teaching, starting at the nursery-school level.

* * * *

MRS. BUCKLEY, who began her schools in 1933, does not want to be considered a critic of public education but pointed out what she believes to be three drawbacks in the public school program:

"1. Too much play in the kindergarten.

"2. Too many electives.

"3. Too many pupils per teacher."

In the 27 years since Mrs. Buckley decided to establish her own schools, the public education system has changed, she noted.

* * * *

"THERE IS NOT the emphasis on progressive education — permissiveness —that there was then, but there remains a subtle indoctrination that holds over from the period."

"The parent who weighs the pros and cons of progressive education honestly and objectively can see the logic of combining the saner attributes of both traditional and progressive forms of education," she writes in her book, "Guide to a Child's World." "Sound reasoning dictates the abandonment of extreme authoritarianism on the one hand and impractical theory on the other. Somewhere between these two poles lies the approach to common-sense education."

Buckley nursery school pupils are told "college starts at 2" and get right down to art, dancing, music, French, story time, free play and games in the 2-to-4-year period. Kindergarten, 4 to 5 years, has the same program. Reading readiness for 5- to 6-year-old pupils follows the kindergarten route with special classes in phonics added.

* * * *

THE FOREIGN language taught in the preschools is not from textbooks, of course. It is taught through pictures and conversation.

In the primary grades, 1 through 3, the curriculum is made up of phonics, reading, writing, arithmetic, spelling, history, geography, French, art, dancing, music dramatics, Bible study (the school is nonsectarian) and sports.

Fourth through sixth grades—arithmetic, English (grammar and language arts) including diagramming of sentences, spelling, music, penmanship, comparative religion, reading, science history, geography, French, art, physical education and swimming.

* * * *

THE HIGH SCHOOL curriculum:

Seventh grade — English, arithmetic, history, geography, French, science, Latin, drama, ethics, art, physical education.

Eighth grade — English, mathematics (plus elementary algebra), history, geography, French, Latin, science, drama, ethics, civics, art, physical education.

Ninth grade—English, algebra, French or Spanish, Latin, modern world history, science, drama, ethics, English review, physical education.

Tenth grade — English, geometry, French or Spanish, Latin or European history, chemistry or biology, physical education.

Eleventh grade—English, algebra or geometry, French, Russian, Latin or Spanish, German, physics or history (modern world or U.S.), physical education.

Twelfth grade — English, Latin or Spanish, French, Russian, physics or history, trigonometry or revisional mathematics and physical education.

* * * *

THE SCHOOL day starts with a handshake and greeting from the schools' principals and a prayer (nondenominational).

"I daresay there are those who consider even this fundamental emphasis on good manners artificial," stated Mrs. Buckley. "Yet teaching children the mechanics of getting along honestly seems to me a very important part of their education."

The full results of her system remain to be measured. The high school program has not been in existence the three years required for it to get accreditation.

* * * *

MANY OF THE students go to Whittier college, some to SC and UCLA.

Most famous of these is 12-year-old Lance Kerr who entered UCLA this semester. Actually, young Kerr got his basic education in another school, said Mrs. Buckley. "He started here in the 11th grade and did not have a strong liberal arts program background.

"He came to me after start of the term and wanted to drop Latin. I wouldn't let him. I told him he started it and would have to see it through. He did."

START THE DAY RIGHT

Educator Isabelle Buckley is a firm believer that children should start out their school day with a firm handshake. It develops poise and sense of respect, she says. (Staff Photo)

INTERPRETS FOR JFK-K

L.B. Woman Hears From Ex-Hitchhiker

By VERA WILLIAMS

In theory, at least, Bernice Tay, 4610 Virginia Ave., is against picking up hitchhikers.

But she is glad she picked up a hitchhiking student one hot afternoon in the summer of 1955 because now she knows a Kennedy - Khrushchev-Schaerf interpreter!

Let Mrs. Tay tell it:

"I was driving the freeway from Santa Rosa to San Francisco when I saw this young man, 'Northwestern University' on his sweater, carrying a placard 'Foreign Student.'

"There was an island and I turned around and came back. He introduced himself as Dietrich Bukowski of Austria, a Fulbright student who had just received his master's degree in international law at Northwestern and was hitchhiking across the country.

* * * *

"HE HAD READ Steinbeck's 'Grapes of Wrath' and had wanted to see the San Joaquin Valley, he said.

"I took him to San Francisco so he also could see the city and the bridges."

After that Bukowski circled the globe in a combination of hiking, hitchhiking and working on cargo vessels. In June 1960 he received his doctor's degree in international law from Vienna University; since February he has been an attache in the Austrian embassy in Vienna.

* * * *

A RECENT letter describes his experiences at the Vienna summit meeting: "I interpreted for President Kennedy, first English to German between him and our President Adolf Schaerf, and then in Russian to Khrushchev.

"This was at the reception our president gave at Schoenbrunn palace, the former summer residence of the Hapsburg emperors. I first was assigned to President Kennedy's mother. I guessed who she was when she began talking about the President of the United States as 'Jack.'

"When my colleague assigned to Kennedy realized he would have to interpret the toasts before the world press, TV and radio, he bashfully admitted his English was not perfect. Owing partly to my time in your country, I volunteered.

"English to German did not give me any trouble, but English to Russian was tough, and even more so Russian to English!

"It was thrilling to have the Soviet prime minister 'hang on my lips' as we say in Austria, to find out what the U. S. President told him."

L. B. Fire Prevention Week Set

Long Beach area residents —along with people throughout the United States—will observe annual "Fire Prevention Week" this week.

The Long Beach Fire Department, Long Beach Insurance Association and Long Beach Chapter of the National Safety Council are cooperating in sponsoring the week under chairmanship of H. W. Walgren.

The Fire Department is putting strong emphasis on its Dwelling Safety Check which will continue throughout the month.

As in the past three years, firemen will call on homeowners throughout the city to help with fire-prevention problems through a fire safety check.

Through use of the Fire Department's Dwelling Safety Check, danger of fires could be cut in half, according to Fire Chief Leonard V. Foster. "It's a simple matter of permitting your fire department to help you spot fire hazards."

The week's program will include fire drills and safety instruction in all schools, messages flashed on screen in movie theaters, distribution of posters and educational pamphlets and fire prevention talks at service clubs, said Walgren.

Anniversary to Be Feted

Fridjof Nansen Lodge No. 9, Sons of Norway, will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the birth of its namesake at 8 p.m. Tuesday. The lodge is located at 681 Redondo Ave.

Henry T. Gunderson, 6th District president, will pay tribute to Nansen's work as an explorer, scientist, author, statesman and humanitarian, according to Einar E. Fekjar, lodge president.

BUKOWSKI, CENTER, AT VIENNA SUMMIT

Dad Warner, 88, Still On The Job for Armed Services

Lee (Dad) Warner, 88, of 840 St. Louis, put in 23 years in the U. S. Navy, had the distinction of shaving Admiral Dewey, participated in the Battle of Manila Bay — and never saw a shot fired.

After all that action, how come he never saw a shot fired?

Dad Warner grinned slyly.

"I was down in the hold every time there was a battle. They kept the hatches tied down during battles."

Nevertheless, he managed to win five medals for service to his country.

* * * *

ONE OF THOSE medals is the Dewey Medal, another the Manila Bay Medal.

He was hailed as one of the heroes of the Battle of Manila Bay.

"We were at Hong Kong when we got orders to sail for Manila. I cut the cable between Hong Kong and Manila, so the Spanish couldn't get word that we were coming.

"I've still got the hacksaw I used."

* * * *

WHILE SERVING under Dewey Warner was trimming a couple of officers' hair.

"We didn't have a barber aboard and I had scissors and razor," said Warner, whose rating was chief electrician. "Having the tools made me the barber.

"Admiral Dewey saw me and said he wished he could get a shave. I told him I'd shave him if he'd risk it. The Admiral was a brave man."

ADMIRAL DEWEY was also indebted to Warner for easing another of his burdens. Out of pipe tobacco sometime later in Memphis in a Dewey Victory Parade, the admiral asked Warner for a pipeful.

"I gave him some of my Havana leaf."

"That the kind the Admiral smoked?"

"He did when he could get it from me."

The Admiral was not the forgetting type. For favors rendered, he sent Warner a case of beer.

* * * *

WARNER sailed around the world in Teddy Roosevelt's Great White Fleet. He recalls putting into San Francisco and Long Beach.

About those wood ships in the Navy that Warner knew so well.

How did they compare with the steel ships?

"Well they were coal burners you know. They were damned dirty."

He left the Navy in 1918 after serving in World War I, and came to Long Beach where he has been ever since. He raised three sons and two daughters—all Navy people.

"My sons served in the Navy; my daughters married Navy men."

* * * *

IN 1945 HE enlisted in the Armed Services again — this time as a volunteer worker. They called him a "runner." He takes names of recruits to the Police Department daily for a routine police check.

He shows up every morning at 7:45 a.m. and stays till quitting time at 4 p.m.

"Never misses a day," said Sgts. Don Reeves and Howard Scholes of the Army Recruiting Service office in the Post Office Bldg.

* * * *

WARNER tried unsuccessfully to recall what he got his other three medals for.

"I guess one damned thing or another. Tell you the truth I never wanted no medals. I never even took them out of the boxes. They're somewhere in the bottom of a trunk at home."

Command to Change at Reserve Facility

Capt. Anthony D. Christopher has arrived from New York to succeed Commander Anthony A. Mazur as commanding officer of the Long Beach Naval Reserve Training Center. The change of command will take place Wednesday at the Naval Reserve Training Center at Los Alamitos at 7:30 p.m.

The ceremony will bring to a close a brilliant 30-year career in the Navy by Cmdr. Mazur and will mark another important milestone in the professional life of Capt. Christopher.

Cmdr. Mazur has had distinguished service in both wartime and peacetime since he began his life in the Navy 30 years ago as an apprentice seaman at Philadelphia, Penn.

Prior to World War II, he served in the Atlantic, Pacific and Asiatic Fleets in cruisers and destroyers. The outbreak of World War II found him serving on the U.S.S. Vestal that was moored alongside the battleship, U.S.S. Arizona, when attacked by the Japanese on Dec. 7, 1941. He served heroically in the Palaus, Leyte and Lingayen operations.

* * * *

AMONG HIS duties after World War II were commanding officer of the weather patrol ship PCE893, supply ship Grainger, destroyer escort G. A. Johnson and the Naval Reserve Training Centers at San Jose and Long Beach.

Cmdr. Mazur will retire on Nov. 1, 1961, and will make his home with his wife in Downey.

Capt. Christopher was designated a naval aviator on Dec. 8, 1941 and commissioned an ensign on Jan. 2, 1942. He was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal, Naval Unit Citation, and 10 other service and campaign medals and ribbons for service in World War II and Korea. He was with the 3rd and 5th Fleets as a fighter pilot and participated in the Battle of Leyte Gulf and in operations in the Okinawa, Formosa, Philippines and South China Sea areas. His most recent assignment was at the Naval Air Station, New York.

The Long Beach Naval Reserve Training Center serves the harbor area. Several thousand young men have been started on officer and petty officer careers at the local center. Many of the officers and men who manned the two destroyer escorts that were added this week to the fleet at Terminal Island ceremonies had their basic training at the Long Beach center.

Port Offers Good Case for Building Huge New Pier J

ONE OF Long Beach Harbor's biggest expansion projects is to be evaluated this week at City Hall, where the question is whether the Harbor Reserve Fund should be released as the main source of financing.

City Council members share in the responsibility of determining whether the proposed construction of the 311-acre Pier J is sound, for the $13,575,000 in the reserve fund can be unlocked only if they consent. Quite properly, they are going to insist on answers to questions directed at port officials who are supporting the project.

As the case has been presented thus far by harbor spokesmen, it looks like a multi-purpose improvement that will pay for itself in direct money returns, with extra benefits on the side.

THE IMMEDIATE reason for the pier, from a port operating standpoint, is what harbor spokesmen call the growth curve—the demand for more berths as historic increases in population and cargo-handling continue. The curve indicates a need for two new berths every year during the next 15 years.

Shipping specialists list as secondary purposes the accommodation of light industry, recreation, fisheries and oil development.

But from a municipal and community standpoint, the oil development is more than secondary. The pier is so designed as to provide drill sites for Parcels K and L, southeast of the developed offshore field. Estimated yield from these pools is double the $19.5 to $21 million cost of the project.

SINCE THE STATE is entitled to half the proceeds from the tideland oil, indefinite delay in a development program would be hazardous to the city. It could give certain state legislators the excuse they have been seeking to declare Long Beach an improvident trustee. An act of the Legislature could clear the way for state exploitation, in which the city would have no share.

Further, the expected completion date of the pier coincides approximately with the expiration of Long Beach Oil Development Company's contracts for production from the portions of the offshore field already developed. LBOD may or may not get the new contract, which must be let after competitive bidding. But regardless of the successful bidder, the enlargement of the contract to cover the added parcels appears to be a profitable arrangement for the city.

Engineers also note that the big pier could serve as a drill site for production still farther to the east, once the city completes its plans for moving in that direction.

AN ADDED inducement is the proposed use of the pier as a unique location for the 1966 World's Fair.

City Hall officials will of course want to analyze the port's financial projections showing that the reserve fund can be replenished within a comparatively few years by earnings from the parcels already producing oil, regardless of the K and L additions. They will want assurance that a working margin of oil income will remain on hand to meet any emergency that may reasonably be expected. And it would be surprising if they neglected to demand ironclad subsidence safeguards.

We hope a close examination of the proposal will lead to mutual agreement and an early start on bringing in materials for the pier—30 million cubic yards of hydraulic fill and 3 million tons of rock.

WALTER LIPPMANN

Soviets Maneuver to Cut U. N. Power

IN THE DISPUTE about choosing a successor to Dag Hammarskjold, the true purpose of the Soviet Government is to see to it that he has no genuine successor. Under Hammarskjold the United Nations evolved beyond what he described as "a conference machinery" into a rudimentary, tentative, provisional experiment in international government.

LIPPMANN

It is against this development that the Soviet Union is striking, using variations on the troika principle as the instrument. Essentially, what the Soviet government intends to do is to force the abolition of the Secretary General's office as it developed under Hammarskjold, leaving the U. N. again no more than a conference machinery.

IN LAOS, in Palestine, and then in the Congo, he transformed the U.N. from a debating forum into an international power which legislated and executed policy. In Laos probably, in the Congo certainly, Hammarskjold's action interfered and frustrated Communist expansion, and this is the reason why the Soviet Government is determined to abolish the kind of Secretary General that Hammarskjold was.

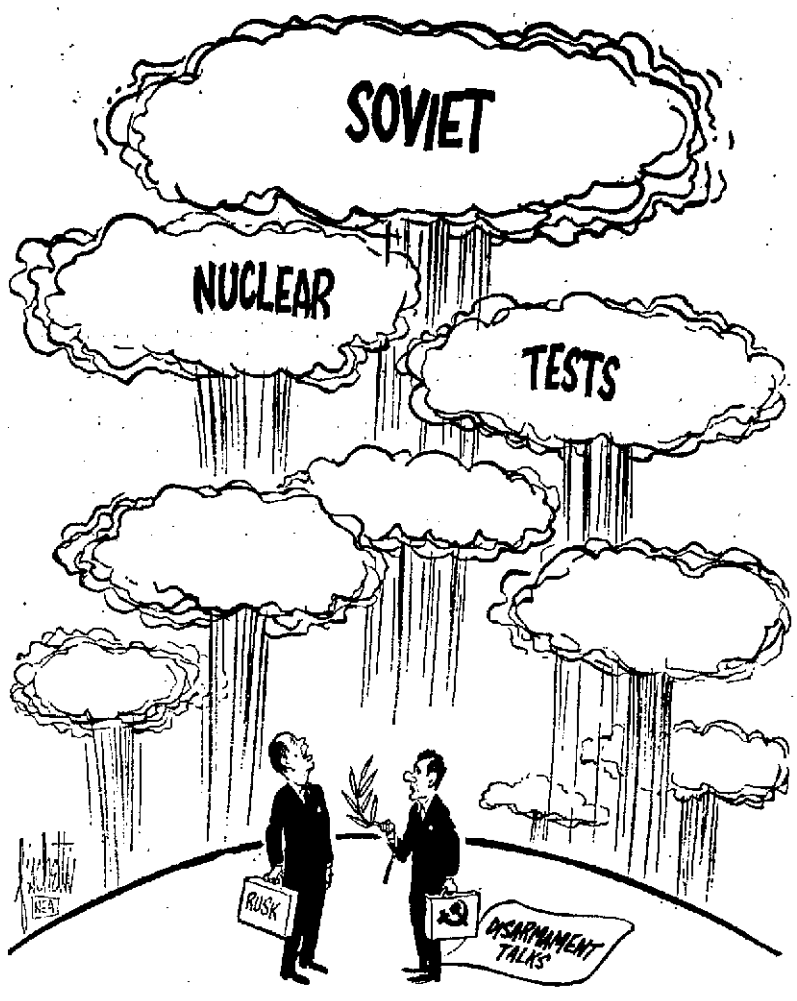

In this policy of diminishing the U.N. as a power in the world, it must be said that Mr. Khrushchev finds much support, never avowed but nonetheless real, in the West. He finds it particularly in France. Gen. de Gaulle has not taken off his shoe to demonstrate against the U.N., but he has done much to weaken it by a policy of studied insult. This is a tragedy for the Western society as well as for the United Nations. For it means that France is absent from the work of trying to establish order in the world.

IT IS hard not to ask oneself whether Hammarskjold's essay into international action was premature. In the last analysis the U.N. exists and can grow only with the concurrence of all the Great Powers. They will not concur on amendments to the Charter adopting Mr. Khrushchev's troika. But he is not likely to concur in the selection of another strong Secretary General.

The prospect is that out of the dispute will come a weak Secretary General. He will not be neutral in the Hammarskjold style of being an international civil servant.

I'm Waiting, Mr. Gromyko

Congress Bails Out Banks for Bad Loans to Railroad

WASHINGTON—It takes a long time for the public to catch up with the conglomeration of legislation shoved out by Congress during its closing days. In the hectic heat and turmoil of the last few hours, all sorts of strange deals are put across that the public knows little about, wakes up to learn about later.

PEARSON

One interesting act of the recent Congress was its last-minute approval of $14.7 million to reimburse New York banks for their bad loans to the New Haven Railroad. This took the form of a $14.7 million bail-out in the supplemental appropriations bill for some of the same bankers who oppose aid for the aged and federal aid to education. The loans, incidentally, included $600,000 in salary and pension rights for George Alpert, president of the New Haven.

* * * *

THE MONEY was voted only after a protest by Rep. Albert Thomas of Houston, Tex., who cross-examined Interstate Commerce Commissioners as to why the ICC guaranteed two loans totaling $14.7 million when the ICC knew the railroad was on the rocks financially.

ICC Commissioner Kenneth H. Tuggle answered Thomas's question.

"I used to be president of a bank," he explained. "I have made some loans I should not have made. Nobody ever loaned much money and got it all back. All banks charge off loans."

"But," prodded Thomas, "the statute says there must be probability of repayment. The statute lays down a yardstick and the final test is repayment. You are spending the public's money for rendering a public service."

"We are not required by the act to follow banking standards," Chairman Everett Hutchinson alibied. "If they could have got the loan from a bank they would not have come to us."

"Probability of repayment—that's what the statute says," Thomas persisted, reading the statute.

Bankruptcy, incidentally, soon followed.

* * * *

THE LOANS were guaranteed under the authority of a law promoted by Sen. Smathers, Florida Democrat, one-time golfing partner of President Kennedy, whose law firm is attorney for the Seaboard Railroad. Seaboard paid the firm $34,290 in 1959 and $62,810 in 1960. It was in 1958 that Smathers sponsored the law giving the ICC unprecedented power to grant government guarantees to private banks for loans to railroads and to suspend passenger traffic without hearings.

Rep. Thomas turned to the appointment of George Alpert as New Haven president succeeding Pat McGinnis, who had secured control by various interesting stock deals.

"From 1954 to 1956, Mr. McGinnis was president and director of the company," Thomas stated.

"That is true," said Hutchinson.

"During that period he sold stock of the railroad to a New York bank at far above its current market value—is that a true statement?"

ICC finance director Vernon V. Baker was evasive in his answer.

"Let us not get into the squabbles," reprimanded Thomas. "Just answer the question."

"He did arrange it," Baker conceded.

"He promised the railroad would buy it back at more than the bank had paid for it — is that correct?" demanded Thomas.

"That is correct," Baker replied.

* * * *

REFERRING to George Alpert, Thomas continued: "He was a Boston lawyer without previous experience in operating a railroad and secured from the directors a contract to pay him $60,000 a year for five years and thereafter on his retirement $25,000 a year for the next 12 years."

Thomas—"Is that a true statement?"

Hutchinson—"That is substantially correct."

Thomas read from a memo: "The ICC knew about that contract before it guaranteed the New Haven Railroad loan from several New York banks."

"Did you know about that contract?" he asked.

"Yes," answered Hutchinson.

Thomas — "The president of the line drawing $60,000 from a broke line, and not knowing anything about railroads, is pretty risky business."

Note 1—The banks which underwrote the government-guaranteed $14.7 million loans were Chase Manhattan, Bankers Trust Co., First National City Bank of New York, Morgan Guarantee Trust Co., Irving Trust Co., Manufacturers Trust Co., First National Bank of Boston, the Bank of New York, Industrial National Bank of Providence, Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co., Second National Bank of New Haven, Fairfield County Trust Co., Second National Bank of New Haven.

Note 2—About 4 a.m. in the closing hours of Congress, the same Congressman Thomas inserted the "junk free mailing privilege" for Congressmen amendment into the supplemental appropriations bill, thereby permitting Congressmen to mail to any boxholder in their districts, free, without even an address. After inserting this mailing privilege in the bill the House adjourned, making it impossible for the Senate to kill the bill. Apparently Rep. Thomas figured that if the New York banks and the New Haven Railroad were entitled to a $14.7 million bonanza, Congressmen were entitled to a modest bonanza too.

'University' Booers Enemies of Freedom

EDITOR:

The rule at the University by the Sea once was that any speaker talked for 15 minutes straight. The concocted rule now is that a speaker talks only five minutes, then the audience votes. "Yes" means the speaker continues, "No" means he leave the platform.

The atheistic-freedom (?) group votes "No" — thus many religious and Republican speakers are booed, insulted and forced off, so their freedom of speech is destroyed.

People in any audience who are against religion and Republicans can walk out, for the door is always open. Any people who destroy the rights granted others have no concept of real freedom.

EDITOR:

We should have been prepared for Soviet nuclear testing. The moment they started, we should have moved some of our devices as close geographically to Russia as possible.

That would have given them something to think about. At least, they would know we had our pants pulled up for once.

Less U. S. Aid Seen as Proper Sacrifice

EDITOR:

In a letter to President Kennedy regarding his proposal to the steel industry, I have stated that the result of his theory would be the gradual collapse of all private enterprise.

Mr. Kennedy said all of us should sacrifice. We are certain that everyone would sacrifice, and that the ready sacrifice would be less government aid. Government control, except in emergencies, will produce the inevitable tragedy of the nation losing freedom and prosperity.

Fogies Join the Club: They Also Have Policy Disputes

BY DEFINITION, by declaration of principle, Goldwater conservatives believe that there are only a few of us left in America who ever really got the idea of what this country was, is and aspires to be.

Thus homogenized, you might think that a meeting to organize a Long Beach chapter of Californians for Goldwater would haul true. But such a meeting Thursday night developed a preposterous troika of left, right and middle of the road Goldwater conservatives.

HOUSER

Remember the youth for Goldwater group back at the GOP national convention in July 1960? They were dubbed the "Young Fogies." Here Thursday we had an assortment. In the 23 present were probably five who could be called youths, five fogies in age as well as political disposition and 13 young adults.

Traffic went (in my opinion to their democratic credit) about as follows:

Champagne blonde and beautiful, organizer-type fogie: We conservatives for "the White Knight of the Far Right" are accused of being our own destruction because we don't organize or educate to sell our point of view . . . of bringing the country back to Constitutional government before it's too late. We want to elect conservative candidates at all levels of government. This will not be a Republican organization; there are as many good Jeffersonian Democrats as Republicans in this group.

YOUTH: Who do we support for Governor in 1962?

Chair: Joe Shell seems to be the most conservative. We'll go to the next best if he doesn't win the primary.

Question: Our program?

Chair: First we'll study what the Constitution stands for as presented in Goldwater's "Conscience of a Conservative." Then we'll learn from speakers, for example, somebody from the American Medical Assn. to tell us what's wrong with socialized medicine. Then general electioneering techniques. Then talks by the candidates.

Man: We could tape-record sessions of Dr. Peter Odegard's TV Continental Classroom and show, point by point, how he's insinuating the idea of one-world government and is tending toward the left.

Man: My sister took one of his courses. I wouldn't say she was brainwashed but she became difficult to talk to.

Woman: A great deal of news media and education is saturated with left-wingism which we must eradicate or try to eradicate.

Man: Let's first educate ourselves and then spread the word.

WOMAN: We're not a witch-hunting group; we're not trying to condemn or to point fingers at organizations or people as slightly leftists, but rather we're trying to educate. We're not necessarily a flag-waving group.

Beautiful Fogie: "Oh, I am!"

Man: "I don't believe in publicly condemning Odegard, but we need to present people with both sides.

Vitriol Fogie: Is this group for debating or action?

Answer: Definitely action. But only after educating ourselves toward what action to take.

Vitriol: We'd better act quickly or there'll be nothing to act on. Like mental health—a little Hitler deal.

Woman: Or urban renewal. I can phone some people and we can be prepared to present our side at City Council.

BEAUTIFUL: When the Council says, "Let's see what we can get the federal government to do for us today, we'll say, "Let's not. Let's see what we can do for ourselves."

Man: Don't forget United States Day and flying our flags.

Man: How about United Nations Day. (Laughing) Should we fly our flags upside down?

Woman: Selling calendars can be our main money raiser. I haven't seen the calendar yet but the cover will be of a very conservative nature, maybe with a fife and drum and a flag . . . a nice, clean-cut cover.

Youth: Where do we get outside references?

Woman: The library system is flooded with liberal material but very few good documents. I'll compile a list.

LIBERALS who doubt the pulling power and rampancy of conservatism today might well take a look at last week's special election to fill the vacancy left by the recent death of State Sen. James J. McBride (D-Ventura).

Robert J. Lagomarsino, mayor of Ojai, was elected over two Democrats. The election reversed a trend of six Democratic victories in special elections singe 1951, cut the Senate Democratic majority to 29-11, and established Lagomarsino as the youngest of the state's 40 senators.

Defense Chief Clamps Lid on Inter-Service Feuding

By WALTER T. RIDDER and WILLIAM W. BROOM

WASHINGTON — The joint chiefs of staff, whose inter-service squabbles have made headlines for years, have turned over a new leaf and are now getting along. Most observers credit Defense Secretary Robert McNamara with indirectly bringing this about. He's tough, and the chiefs try to reach unanimous agreement on their recommendations to prevent McNamara from allowing a civilian assistant to umpire the fracas.

ROBERT McNAMARA

Rather than allow a civilian this power, the chiefs are working harmoniously among themselves. Major credit is also due Adm. George Anderson, the new chief of naval operations. Anderson is a smooth talker and master salesman, and he turned his talents on Air Force chief Gen. Curtis LeMay. As a result, the Navy and the Air Force, source of the big disagreements in the past (remember the aircraft carrier versus B-36 bomber row?) have buried the hatchet, and all is serene.

* * * *

IF RICHARD NIXON passes his first test in the California gubernatorial primary with ex-Gov. Goodie Knight, he can expect some formidable help from President Eisenhower in the fall campaign.

Republican sources report the former President expects the Kennedy administration will send out its big guns to help Gov. Pat Brown in the important race, and Ike is willing and itching to help counteract them with a few speeches in California.

In doing so, Ike would be fulfilling a moral obligation to Nixon. Eisenhower's was one of the first and most insistent voices calling on Nixon to make the race.

* * * *

THE CONGRESSIONAL Record's computers have finally stopped clacking and come up with the information that the Senate spent 1,005 hours legislating during the recent session, while the House spent only 569 hours and 43 minutes. That makes the average length of a Senate day about 7 hours, while the House was putting in only 4 hours.

Of more interest, however, was the fact that the Senate held 207 yea-and-nay votes, while the House had but 116 roll calls. Among those complaining that the Senate lost status as the world's greatest deliberative body was Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy (D-Minn.), who found his colleagues not very deliberate.

McCarthy complained to Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield that the frequent roll calls were putting that house in the same class as professional basketball, whose teams hardly ever score less than 100 points in a game.

THE NEW FRONTIER'S foreign policy makers are becoming increasingly cool toward the neutral countries because the latter seem more neutral toward the Soviet Union than toward us. But they are absolutely frigid toward Khrishna Menon of India.

The State Department blames the Indian for stalling a U.S.-sponsored campaign to name an acting secretary general to replace the late Dag Hammarskjold. He's been telling Afro-Asian bloc members, who hold the balance of power at the U.N., that the existing secretariat can carry on without a leader. U.S. delegates disagree.

LANGUAGES in the NEWS
By Charles F. Berlitz and Robert Strumpen-Darrie

THERE IS a new joke in Berlin, based on the recent Jack Paar controversy. One Berliner is supposed to say to another: "What was the trouble at the Friedrichstrasse?—Was war los bei der Friedrichstrasse? The answer is:—"Nothing much. There were only a few soldiers there,"—which in German is translated by: —Nicht viel. Es waren nur paar Soldaten dort. The point of the jest is, that when it is said as written above in German, it means just that, but if the "p" of "paar" were capitalized (and it sounds the same), it would mean: "There were only Paar's soldiers there."

(Does some word in the language puzzle you? Put your question to "Languages in the News" in care of this newspaper.)

Rite Tuesday for Adman L. R. Koch

Funeral service will be held at 11 a.m. Tuesday at Dilday Family Funeral Directors for Louis R. Koch, former Long Beach resident and business leader who died Friday in Los Angeles.

Koch, 60, had been president of Long Beach Advertising Club and Pacific Coast Advertising Association, commander of the Alamitos Bay Post of the American Legion and a member of the Southern California Tuna Club. He worked as an account executive with Foster & Kleiser Advertising.

Surviving are his wife, Hazel; son, Richard, and mother, Mrs. Dora Koch.

GENE LENTZNER (LEFT), EMANUEL GYLER AND CHARLES LITWIN Prepare For panel Discussion Of Survey-Population Study

Federation to Report on Population Survey

A preview report of a survey and population study sponsored by the Jewish Community Federation will be given at the federation's 14th annual meeting at the Jewish Community Center Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The survey is being conducted by Dr. Frederick Massarik, director of research of Los Angeles Jewish Federation-Council and an associate professor at UCLA.

Following the report there will be a panel discussion by Charles Litwin, president of the Jewish Family Service and chairman of the study-sponsoring social planning committee; Dr. Elbert Kronick, president of the Jewish Community Center, and Eugene Lentzner, chairman of the federation allocation committee, with Emanuel Gyler, chairman of the program committee, as moderator.

At the meeting first steps will be taken to put into operation new by-laws recently adopted by the federation.

The meeting will also include annual reports by Irving Kern, federation president and Morton J. Gaba, executive director.

The federation comprises the Jewish communities of Long Beach, Lakewood and Rossmoor.

Cadillac

"The word for it is...Masterful!"

"Superb" . . . "luxurious" . . . "beautiful" . . . "brilliant"—there are many words that might be used to describe the new 1962 Cadillac car.

But if we were to select from the Cadillac vocabulary the one word that most completely captures the essence of this latest "car of cars"—we would choose "masterful".

For here is a motor car that has already established its mastery in everything that makes an automobile good and fine and desirable.

In appearance, it is clearly a Cadillac masterpiece—graceful, clean-lined and elegant.

In performance, it is a revelation. Its power plant is a reservoir of silken power—and the car rides and handles with an instinctive ease and sureness.

In safety, it is in a class of its own—with a host of exclusive features, including remarkable new side cornering lights.

In craftsmanship, it is simply without rival. Every 1962 Cadillac will undergo more than 1400 inspections to assure its quality and goodness.

On and on the list could go. But however lengthy, that list could never replace the experience of inspecting the car and driving it.

Your dealer will happily let you do both.

Once you have, you'll understand why the word has gone out so quickly that this is the finest motor car ever to bear the Cadillac name.

LONDON (UPI) — Patrick Armstrong was caught in the act Saturday when he tried to steal from the poor box in a London church. The box was wired to ring a bell in the church office and the minister grabbed Armstrong. He was sentenced to six months in jail.

Translate Better, Says Vicki

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Singer-actress Vicki Benet, a Paris-born doll, believes much world tension could be relieved if translators were a little more accurate and more peaceful.

Vicki speaks Italian, German, French, Russian and English, the last three like a native. Her knowledge of Russian has been used by Radio Free Europe for broadcasts behind the Iron Curtain.

"I have listened to most of Khrushchev's tirades," she says. "I don't think his speeches should—or can be—translated on the spot. He speaks a peasant Russian while most of his translators use an aristocratic form of the language.

* * * *

"SOMETIMES his translators soften what he says, other times they give an entirely different meaning to his words—sometimes this is good, mostly it is bad."

Vicki, daughter of a Russian opera singer, argues that world tension is such that teams of scholars should work on translations of major policy statements, from both the White House and the Kremlin.

"I have read Tass texts in Russian of President Kennedy's statements," she says. "Hasty translations have given his remarks an entirely different interpretation than the English version. I hate to see a nuclear war erupt over semantics."

* * * *

VICKI DOESN'T pose as an expert on world affairs.

"I speak only as a statisic —one of millions—if someone pushes the button in anger."

As a singer, she has traveled the world.

LANGUAGE EXPERT

Vicki Benet is a curvy (36-23-35) Paris-born singer and actress who speaks five languages, including Russian. She thinks there'd be less tension in the world if the translators were more accurate and peaceful.—(SP photo.)

Stock Ticker on Set --It's in the Contract

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Miss Myrna Fahey believes she's the only TV actress whose contract provides that she shall have a stock ticker on the set.

"That sounds like a phony story," this reporter said recently to Myrna, the 21-year-old Elizabeth Taylor look-alike, from Southwest Harbor, Me., who plays Leon Ames' daughter in the new CBS series, "Father of the Bride."

"Yes, it does," nodded Myrna, sitting with me in the King Cole Room at the St. Regis.

"But it's in my contract, and though I don't actually have it yet, I'm going to have it within two weeks."

* * * *

IT MAY BE a clue to the kind of actresses that are around today.

"I never dreamed I'd become interested in finance," Myrna said, "I did take an investment course in the U.C.L.A. extension summer school but that wasn't what did it.

MYRNA

"I bought some industrial stock," she explained.

(A man in the next booth was observed to be listening to our conversation. It's well known that pretty girls get very good stock tips.)

"I bought it at 60 and it went to 145," Myrna said. "It split for the second time."

"Well!" I said. "Did you get the tip on it from a man?"

"Yes," she admitted.

* * * *

I WAS ABOUT to say "Ah HA!" when Myrna said:

"My brother. He's with that company. He's in what they call 'inertial guidance.' It sounds like some kind of psychiatry but it has to do with guided missiles."

Myrna then went on babbling about growth stocks and added, "I dabble lot in new issues . . . "

* * * *

THIS IS MYRNA'S second crack at fame. Five years ago, just after she'd graduated from high school in Maine and gone to Hollywood, she entered the Miss Rheingold contest and became one of the six finalists.

Still, she'd lost, so she studied acting, got into the movie, "The Story on Page One," and then co-starred with Vincent Price in "House of Usher."

"Somebody happened to see me on 'Sunset Strip' and asked for me for the series. I was skiing in Aspen, Colo., at the time.

* * * *

"MY AGENT phoned me there and I said, 'We just got 10 inches of snow and I can't leave now.' They said 'Do you want it or not?' So when I came in to talk to them about the pilot I still wasn't sure.

"They said they had to do the pilot next day and they would give me 5 minutes to make up my mind."

She made it up in 3 minutes—

Stand-in for Cooper Says He's Making His Last Film

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The late Gary Cooper's stand-in and pal is back in pictures for the first time since that longtime movie favorite died.

Tall, angular and bearing a slight resemblance to "Coop", Jay (Slim) Talbot is working as a cowboy in "Who Shot Liberty Valance," directed by John Ford and co-starring James Stewart, John Wayne and Vera Miles.

"I'm not going to work any more," said Talbot. "When Cooper folded up, I'd had it. I'm only doing this picture because Mr. Ford has been very nice to me."

* * * *

TALBOT and his wife live on a ranch about 55 miles from Hollywood. He's been an outdoorsman all his life and came to Hollywood in 1923 as a rodeo rider and stunt man.

Sitting at lunch in the Paramount Studio commissary, Talbot recalled the day years ago when he first met Cooper.

"I came down here in 1923 when I was working in rodeos," he said. "In those days all the rodeo guys came down here in the winter to keep from starving. We'd work with Tom Mix, Buck Jones and those guys.

Senior Citizens' Gains Hailed

A battery of California Democratic Party wheels Saturday hailed social welfare accomplishments of the 1961 State Legislative session at a rally of the California Institute of Social Welfare here.

Approximately 1000 oldsters in Morgan Hall — some traveling here from San Diego—heard Lt. Gov. Glenn Anderson, Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk; State Senator Richard Richards, Assemblyman Joseph Kennick and pension advocate George McLain tell accomplishments and plans for the future.

Anderson called the new social welfare program a "declaration of emancipation for California's 250,000 old age pensioners."

Atty. Gen. Mosk, noting that the Democratic party and administration in California strongly backed the Kennedy program for health care for the aged under social security, urged support for the measure stating: "The life you may extend may be your own."

The meeting's announced intent was to celebrate legislation passed and to "kick off a new drive by organized senior citizens to make voting power of the elderly a potent influence in the 1962 elections."

On the national scene, the Social Security hospitalization and health care bill (H.R. 4222) by Rep. Cecil King (D-Calif.), will be pushed. Now in the House Ways and Means Committee, the elderly citizens group will start a letter-writing and personal visit program to congressmen to get a discharge petition action. This action would bring the bill out of committee onto the floor of the House.

All the speakers had words of praise for McLain, chairman of the institute.

Two of the scheduled speakers did not appear: U.S. Sen. Russell Long (D-La.) and County Supervisor Burton Chace.

Nigerians Rap U.S. Segregation

LAGON, Nigeria (UPI)—The opposition party action group called on the government Saturday to make a strong protest to the United States over the refusal of a Maryland restaurant to serve a Nigerian diplomat.

Newspapers here were also critical of the rebuff which occurred last Wednesday when Aliyu Y. Bida, education attache in the Nigerian Consulate at New York, was asked to leave the restaurant.

Contract NROTC Term Increased

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Navy announced that college students who enroll in the Contract Naval Reserve Officer Training Corp will be required henceforth to obligate themselves for three instead of two years of active duty. Contract students take naval science courses and receive approximately $27 a month.

$5,000 Recovered in Pile of Trash

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Raymond Martin, 41, dug through 10,000 pounds of trash and came up with $5,000.

Martin, a hardware store owner, sifted through the pile at an incinerator to recover his store receipts.

He took the money home in a paper bag to wait for the bank to open. His wife placed it on top of a trash basket for a moment. The maid scooped up the basket—and the bag—and handed it to the trash collector.

49ers Grab 17-15 Win

By AL LARSON

SAN DIEGO — Pistol Pete Yoder's passing arm and Tom Turrill's golden toe enabled Long Beach State College to launch its CCAA title bid on a successful note as the 49ers nipped San Diego State, 17-15, before 8,015 onlookers here Saturday night.

Yoder's 12-yard touchdown pass to Bob Heberer with three minutes remaining in the third period stretched the 49ers lead to 17-8.

But it was Turrill's 20-yard field goal with the second half eight minutes old that provided the difference as Long Beach locked up its second straight win of the year.

* * * *

THE 49ERS opened the scoring in the first period when Dallas Moon squirted seven yards and Turrill booted his sixth perfect conversion of the season without a miss.

The drive was launched when Moon picked off his fourth interception in four games. Steve Hartman, who spearheaded the 57 - yard march covering nine plays, burst 20 yards to the 11 to set up Moon's payoff scamper.

After the 49er fullback gained three to the eight and Hank Edney picked up one, Moon went in for the score.

The Aztecs came to life early in the third period when reserve quarterback Wayne Sevier whipped his charges 52 yards following the second-half kickoff.

Sevier spurted the final 12 yards on a keeper for the first of his two touchdowns. He passed to Mario Mendez for the two-point conversion which put the Aztecs ahead 8-7.

The 49ers came right back, marching 53 yards before sputtering on the Aztec 12. On fourth down, Turrill dropped back and booted his all - important three - pointer from the 20. Long Beach now led 10-7.

Following the ensuing kickoff, Sevier committed the first of his crucial fumbles and Long Beach capitalized on both. Hartman fell on the first on San Diego's 41 and eight plays later Yoder found Heberer on the goal line. Turrill added the PAT to make it 17-8.

* * * *

LONG BEACH'S onsides-kick backfired and San Diego took over on its own 44. Eight plays later Sevier powered into the end zone from the three and Vic Starks' conversion narrowed the gap to its final count.

A final Aztec drive with two minutes left was choked off when Sevier fumbled on Long Beach's 19. Curtis Bennett pounced on the ball to cave in the Aztecs' last-ditch hope. The 49ers ran out the clock with the aid of a roughing-the-kicker violation.

The victory marked Long Beach's third straight in four meetings with San Diego.

Iowa Fights Off USC Bid in 35-34 Win

By JEROME HALL

'Twas a far, far better thing they did than they had ever done before, so you will pardon the USC football team for being satisfied with defeat following a 35-34 setback Saturday at the trembling hands of the national leaders from Iowa.

Unranked and berated USC met the Iowa Hawkeyes at their own game of power tactics and did everything but chop the corn kings into bite size as a national television audience watched tense drama in the Coliseum.

USC had the Coliseum audience of 30,263 standing at the finish as it drove for a touchdown in the final seconds. Then, with the ball game riding on the outcome of their two-point conversion try, they missed with a pass attempt and no one in sight seemed to mind too much that down the chute went the collegiate upset of the year.

* * * *

IOWA CAME to town as the nation's No. 1-ranked team to face a rag-tag bunch of floppy-eared USC kids weakened by injuries and battered by critics.

The team which Trojan coach John McKay has insisted is a good one but which sputtered through its first two contests, started Saturday with Iowa running up a 21-0 lead.

Then, as if humiliated in front of all those people peering into television sets across the country, the Trojans found the missing chord. They became a genuine football team.

They rared back from the 21-0 deficit with a pair of touchdowns within five minutes at the close of the first half, smothered the Hawkeyes at the outset of the second half and closed to 20-21.

MARIS' HOMER GIVES YANKS EDGE

Ford Faces O'Toole Today

By GEORGE LEDERER
I.-P-T Staff Writer

CINCINNATI—"If I get the one hit that counts, I don't care if I get any other."

Roger Maris said it after he got the hit that counted for the Yankees Saturday, but he said it in monotones unlike a World Series hero.

The newly crowned Sultan of Swat sat subdued and sullen in front of his locker and it was not modesty that held back his reaction to a ninth - inning, game - winning home run. To Maris, the crippling blow to Bob Purkey and the Cincinnati Reds was no bigger or better than any of the 61 he hit during the season, even if this one did mean a 3-2 Yankee victory in the pivotal third game.

* * * *

THIS WAS, in fact, Maris' first hit of the Series in 11 tries and what did he have to be happy about?

Photographers pleaded with Maris to smile. "You want me to smile? For what?"

Reporters asked if this might mean the end of his slump, if perhaps he was doing something different at the plate. "I don't know what I'm doing, to be truthful," he snapped. "I made three outs the first three times up and I did it seven other times in the first two games.

"If I ever start hitting, you'll know about it."

This was Roger Maris, the home run king whose crown has created such mental pressure that only the end of the Series might relieve it.

* * * *

THE REST of the Yankee clubhouse found reason to be professionally cheerful about a 2-1 edge in the Series with Whitey Ford, the first game winner, scheduled to face Jim O'Toole in a rematch this afternoon.

The Yankees were made 4-1 favorites to win the Series and the oddsmakers also picked them at 7½-5 to win today.

Smiles were in evidence particularly around the dressing cubicles of winning pitcher Luis Arroyo, starter Bill Stafford, home run pinch-hitter John Blanchard and manager Ralph Houk.

Even surprise starter Mickey Mantle, his hip still painful, found reason to be happy, although he struck out twice and was hitless in four trips.

"I felt much better than I thought I would," he said. "I hope I can try again tomorrow."

Houk was pleased with Mantle's performance "even if he didn't connect. He took a lot of good swings and

LBCC TURNS BACK EAST L.A., 22-16

By BOB SHIBLEY

Long Beach City College overcame a rash of fumbles and interceptions Saturday night to defeat East Los Angeles, 22-16, in the Metropolitan Conference opener at Veterans Stadium.

A solid three-touchdown favorite at game time, the Vikings held a 22-0 advantage with 14:59 left in the second quarter but saw every offensive thrust thereafter thwarted by sloppy play.

When Lonzo Irvin scored two touchdowns and Dee Andrews one, all within a six minute period, it appeared that the Vikings were off on one of their customary routs.

* * * *

LBCC coach Jim Stangeland began substituting freely at this point and even the reserves held their own against the Huskies as the Viking adjourned at halftime with this 22-point bulge.

The third quarter, however, was a different story.

East Los Angeles took the kickoff and marched 67 yards in five plays. John Jones' three-yard run and conversion scamper capped the march.

Jones also scored the second Huskie TD as he caught a 23-yard aerial from Mike Uruburu with 30 seconds left in the third period. This score was made possible when an Ed Reddick fumble was recovered by East L. A. on it.

Long Beach took the ensuing kickoff and marched to the E.L.A. 14 before Mike Langie picked off a Reddick pass. Such was the story of the game for the Vikings: fumbles and interceptions.

The first score of the game came with 5:37 left in the initial period as Irvin bulldozed four yards up the middle. Andrews runs the PAT.

When Dick Wurth made the first of his two interceptions two plays later, the Vikings were on their way to another score. This time it was Andrews, who scampered 23 yards around right end. Dee also scored the PAT on a pass from Reddick.

One second into the second period, the Vikings closed out their scoring, this one also set up by a Wurth interception. After a double reverse, with Willie Martin running, carried to the E.L.A. three, Irvin again went up the middle. This time a Reddick to Andrews pass failed for the conversion.

When not losing the ball via fumbles and interceptions —which happened six times in all—the Vikings did manage to block well enough for Andrews to set an all-time school rushing record.

Dazzling Dee gained 122 yards on 16 tries to run his two-year (13 game) total to 1,418, two yards better than the previous best set in the 1950-51 seasons by George Van Zant.

Bucks Shake Bruins, 13-3

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Ohio State finally shook its sophomore halfbacks loose Saturday for fourth-period touchdowns in a come-from-behind 13-3 victory over UCLA in the first meeting between the sectional powers.

The Buckeyes, with their vaunted power attack stymied, mixed junior Bill Mrukowski's passing with Paul Warfield's fancy running for an eight-play 65-yard drive, including 20 yards gained on penalties, for their first touchdown.

Ohio, aroused once it had scored, held UCLA in check after the ensuing kickoff and although hurt by a 15-yard penalty, sent halfback Matthew Snell through a big hole at right tackle untouched on a 33-yard touchdown run.

Both teams puttered around in a punting duel until late in the first half when UCLA's workhorse halfback Bobby Smith kicked a 32-yard field goal from a wide angle to give his team a 3-0 lead that stood until early in the fourth period.

The victory was the first for Ohio State, tied 7-7 by Texas Christian last Saturday. The defeat was the second in three intersectional games for UCLA this season. It opened the season with a 19-6 win over the Air Force Academy.

The crowd of 82,992 began to applaud as coach Woody Hayes put some variety into the traditional powerhouse attack.

Mrukowski completed 10 of 11 passes for 86 yards, one a key play in the first touchdown drive. Halfbacks Warfield and Snell carried the ball 26 times for 133 yards, more than UCLA's net yards rushing, and two touchdowns.

Smith, in addition to his field goal, stood out on both offense and defense. He carried the ball on 22 of the 39 Bruins' rushing plays for 82 yards and completed one of two passes for 8. He also cut off a possible third Ohio touchdown with a smashing tackle on the one-yard-line of UCLA late in the game.

USC, Iowa Had Fans Chirping

College football received a much-needed hypo Saturday when the USC Trojans sneered at Iowa's No. 1 national ranking and almost pulled off the colossal upset of the season.

A glance at the 35-34 final score would leave the casual observer to believe two pro teams had just performed, I should say two pro teams of five years ago, because the Trojans and the Hawkeyes put more action into their four quarters than the Rams and their opponents have done in many moons.

A lot of bad football was viewed by the national TV audience—Iowa constantly was plagued with offsides and backfield-in-motion penalties, while USC's play-calling continued to perplex even the most ardent beany-wearer—but the affair was interesting. And, really, what else counts when you're plunking down $3.90 to watch?

Maybe the most perplexed man in the Coliseum was Iowa's young coach, Jerry Burns, who admitted the Trojans fooled him.

"This big fullback, Wilson (Ben) is as good as any Big 10 fullback we might see all year," moaned Burns. "But he ran as the tight halfback in the other Trojan games and he caught us off guard. I'm just glad he didn't carry the ball more often."

Ben, plucked from Houston, Texas, by USC's national scouting corps, hauled the freight only eight times, but for almost an eight-yard average. Conversely, Troy's run-happy quarterback, Bill Nelsen carried an astounding 20 times for a somewhat less brilliant 1.9 yard average!

You know Burns was happy Nelsen was running, instead of the big boomer from Texas.

"The USC defense really surprised me,' sighed Burns. "The line was good and tough, especially Buncom (Frank). We'd expected him to be a tackle only, but when they pawned him off at end, he really hurt us. He stopped our running game cold.

"We found some leaks in the Trojan deep defense,—thank heavens—and three or four of our touchdowns came in the air. We pride ourselves on our running game, but we didn't run very well today."

BURNS FELT THE LOSS of All-American halfback Larry Ferguson hurt the Hawkeyes more than the Iowa advance man led us journalists to believe.

"We wouldn't have been socked with those crucial backs-in-motion penalties if we had Ferguson," insisted Burns. "We were using two fullbacks (Joe Williams and Bill Perkins) in our No. 1 backfield and one or the other was a step in motion at the wrong times. With Ferguson gone, our timing suffered horribly."

Did Iowa let down after getting in front 21-0?

"We sure did," admitted Burns. "I always get worried when my team jumps out in front too fast. These 20-year-old kids can't stand success. On the other hand, 21 points should be enough to handle most college teams, so give USC tremendous credit for killing us in that last half."

JOHN McKAY almost tore the head off an interrogator who wondered why the Trojans settle for a one-point conversion and a tie.

"We wanted the win," roared the USC coach, "not a tie. Anyway, my kids would have gone for the two points, no matter what I had ordered."

McKay explained why the Trojans went for one-point (and missed) when behind 21-20 in the third quarter:

"I was thinking of a field goal later on, so one or two points didn't matter at that point. I knew we'd score again because I'm convinced we'll move the ball on any team in the country."

Why did the Trojans pass on their last-second two-point attempt, instead of run, with people like Wilson and Willie Brown available?

"Our last touchdown was scored on the same pass play we used for the conversion attempt," explained McKay. "We thought they'd be expecting a run, too. I didn't want to use Brown because the poor kid was too damn tired."

IN SUMMARY, the Trojans exhibited a fine line defense—Buncom, Ben Rosin, Frank Bundra and Britt Williams were as good Saturday as you'll ever see in college ranks—and a nifty running attack with Brown and Wilson.

Like the Rams, however, they won't jell into an outstanding squad until they teach their defensive backs to ward off passes, instead of picking their teeth as they've done in three games.

Likewise, the running T-quarterback (unless he's an Arnett or Willie Brown scooter) is as obsolete as a Wendell Wilkie button. When Nelsen swings out on an option play, there's no option—he just runs (for 1.95 yards-per-20-tries).

Even with the ref halting the game for TV commercials and with a Trojan kickoff man missing the ball entirely, the Iowa-USC contest was a thriller which had fans chirping like magpies. It was like old times and, everyone hopes, a forerunner of things to come!

Third-String Soph Bullseyes Two TDs

SEATTLE (AP) — Washington loosed a secret weapon named Pete Ohler on unsuspecting Pittsburgh Saturday, and the rookie quarterback's sharp passing took the Huskies to a 22-17 intersectional football victory.

The cool young Canadian, who had not played even one down for Washington this year, whipped a 42-yard pass to end Lee Bernhardi for the deciding touchdown in the closing minutes.

STATISTICS	Pitt.	Wash.
First downs	9	17
Rushing yardage	182	219

Passes	3-14	7-14
Passes intercepted by	2	1
Punts	9-35.2	6-29
Fumbles lost	1	1
Yards penalized	47	78

The game was not quite a quarter old when Ohler, listed as a third stringer, made his first appearance. He drove the Huskies 71 yards in six plays, tossing a 22-yard pass to Nat Whitmeyer for the touchdown and then hitting Whitmeyer with a conversion toss to put Washington in front 8-0.

Less than four minutes later, he climaxed a 68-yard Husky attack by sending Whitmeyer over from the one for touchdown No. 2. He missed the conversion pass, however, and this looked like a fatal error when the Panthers rallied to tie the score before the half ended.

The late-starting Panthers finally got their attack moving in the final four minutes of the half. Richard Leeson touched it off with a 42-yard canter. With Leeson carrying the ball on nearly every play, Pittsburgh went 80 yards in nine plays, quarterback Paul Martha negotiating the final five yards. The conversion kick was blocked, but Pitt was right back when a bit of Washington strategy misfired.

WITH ONLY a minute left, Washington kicked on third down, and the poorly punted ball went out of bounds on the Husky 36. Pitt quarterback Sam Colella pitched two first-down passes and then sent Leeson two yards for a touchdown. Martha passed to John Yaccino for the conversion to tie the score.

After a scoreless third period, Pittsburgh apparently wrapped up the decision when Fred Cox booted a 21-yard field goal. But then Ohler came off the Washington bench to connect with his payoff pass to Bernhardi.

Gold's Bears Tie Missouri

COLUMBIA (UPI) — Quarterback Randy Gold passed and ran the sophomoric California Bears to a 14-14 tie with the heavily-favored Missouri Tigers Saturday in an intersectional football game played before 42,000 fans.

Gold, who was sidelined for California's first two games this season, guided the Bears to a second-quarter touchdown with halfback Jerry Scattini carrying the ball across from one yard out. Gold ran 13 yards for the second California score early in the third quarter, the touchdown being set up on a 77-yard gallop by Alan Nelson.

MISSOURI, last year's Orange Bowl champions and the sixth-ranked team in this week's United Press International poll, rallied its forces for a fourth quarter touchdown and two-point conversion to stave off defeat.

STATISTICS	Mo.	Cal.

Quarterback Ron Taylor ran one yard for Missouri's touchdown in the first period and then scurried across from four yards out for the fourth quarter score.

Trailing 14-12, Missouri went for the two-point conversion and sophomore halfback Daryl Krugman whipped around right end to tie it up.

Missouri, victorious in its first two games, moved the ball well on the ground in the first half and marched 89 yards for its first touchdown. The Tigers passed only once in the drive, with Taylor throwing to end Larry Nichols for 17 yards and a first down on the California three. Three plays later, Taylor plunged across.

California safety man Larry Balliette contributed to the upset by intercepting three Missouri passes. A fourth Balliette interception was nullified by a penalty.

Gold accounted for all of California's passing yardage, completing 7 of 13.

Taylor completed the same number for Missouri, picking up 94 yards.

SPARTAN YEARLINGS RUN WILD

First Loss for Stanford, 31-3

EAST LANSING, Mich., (UPI) — Michigan State's speedy sophomore backs, led by Dewey Lincoln and Sherman Lewis, romped over Stanford's previously unbeaten Indians Saturday, 31-3.

With the yearlings carrying the load, the Spartans rolled for 24 points in the second half after sloppy play in the first half held the score to 7-0.

Lewis, a 5 ft. 8 in., 154-pound, speedster, slipped around left end for six yards for the first MSU score early in the second period. Lincoln scampered 20 yards around end for a touchdown in the final period.

Stanford's only scoring came on a 40-yard field goal by Stan Lindskog in the third period.

MSU sophomore halfbacks Ron Rubick and Herman Johnson and quarterback Dick Proebstle also ripped off big gains as the Indians faded against the MSU depth in the second half.

Lincoln got 93 yards in 10 carries and Lewis 72 yards in 13.

Proebstle sneaked over from one in the final period and fullback George Saimes ran three yards for MSU's other touchdown. End Art Brandstatter kicked three extra points and took a shovel pass from quarterback Pete Smith for another two points. MSU also got a safety in the final period when Ed Lochamer tackled Stanford's Chuck Butler in the end zone.

Smith's father, Archie, 47, died of a heart attack in the stands while watching his son direct much of the Spartan attack. Smith was told of his father's death when the game ended.

Longhorns Wallop Wash. State, 41-8

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Tailback James Saxton led the fifth-ranked Texas Longhorns to a runaway 41-8 victory Saturday night over Washington State's Cougars with two touchdowns, one of them a brilliant 56-yard run.

Saxton's break-away run and a 58-yard pass from sophomore quarterback Duke Carlisle to wingback Bobby Nunis were the only maneuvers to bring the crowd of 40,000 to its feet as the Longhorns played mostly uninspired ball while registering their third consecutive victory.

The second half was only a minute old when Saxton angled off right guard and broke for the sidelines on his 56-yard scramper. He crossed the goal line 10 yards in front of the nearest defender. The skinny, 160-pounder made the game's first touchdown early in the first period on a 10-yard sprint around right end.

Stephens' 2nd Half Heroics Overcome Webfoots, 14-7

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Quarterback Sandy Stephens sped over for two touchdowns in the second half Saturday to give Minnesota its first 1961 victory, a 14-7 comeback effort over Oregon.

The smaller but quicker Oregon squad played inspired football the first half, stopping the defending national champions four times inside the Oregon 30-yard line and finally scoring a touchdown with only 30 seconds left in the half.

Minnesota got rolling in the third period, with Stephens, halfback Bill Munsey and fullback Judge Dickson grinding out 80 yards in 14 plays. Stephens went over from the 8-yard line for the score and pitched out to halfback Jim Cairns for a two-point conversion and an 8-7 lead.

Early in the fourth period Minnesota end John Campbell pounced on a fumble by Oregon halfback Dennis Jackson on the Ducks' 18. Five plays later Stephens swept three yards to score. The kick for extra point was blocked.

Oregon quarterback Doug Post got hot in the second period, hitting three passes only to have the drive stall when a pass on a fake field goal missed the mark.

After Stephens netted only six yards on a punt into the wind, Post hit another long pass and then fired a strike to halfback Mike Gaechter in the end zone, six yards away.

That score stood up, largely through defensive efforts of guard Micky Ording and tackle Steve Barnett, until the Gophers caught fire after intermission.

BAKER'S PASSING, POISE PUNISH IDAHO

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI) — The powerful running of sophomore fullback Bruce Williams gave Oregon State a needed punch and quarterback Terry Baker provided the passes and poise Saturday as the Beavers routed outmanned Idaho, 44-6.

Baker, having his best day of the year, threw two touchdown passes and scored once himself.

But it was Williams, a 199-pounder starting for the first time, who got the Beaver attack rolling. He packed the ball 10 times in Oregon State's 88-yard touchdown drive. It was climaxed by Baker's eight-yard scoring pass to end Roger Johnson.

In all, Williams carried the ball 21 times for 117 yards before he was taken out in the third period. He gained 83 yards in the first half.

other two, was the Trojan downfall.

IF, IF, IF. . .

That's the only way you can recount the final offensive play of the game for USC, which was a try for two points on the conversion after Troy had matched the giants from the Midwest touchdown for touchdown. If QB Bill Nelsen had thrown the conversion pass to end Hal Bedsole a split-second sooner, in the words of the intended receiver, "We would have had it all."

And if Nelsen had looked out into the corner of the end zone to see Willie Brown standing unguarded, waiting, it would have been 36-35.

And it is quite likely power-packed fill-in fullback Ben Wilson could have bulldozed his way through the weary defense.

But the PAT play went this way:

Nelsen flipped a little pass across the middle toward Bedsole on what was the same play that had accounted for the TD seconds before. Iowa halfback Sammy Harris got a hand in front of it and deflected it upward.

As it fell, only a step away from Bedsole, he was leaning the wrong way. It fell. Thud. Plunk. Ugh.

While the Iowa dressing quarters looked like a losers', McKay held forth in USC's amid major clamor and commented, "Iowa is not a typical Big Ten team—it's much better."

* * * *

USC'S DEFENSES were geared to stop Hawkeye QB Wilburn Hollis and Iowa's were pointed toward halting Willie Brown's wide runs. SC was successful, holding Hollis to 63 yards net, including one 50-yard run.

Though Brown, the Long Beach prep sensation of recent seasons, was held touchdown-less, he gained 99 yards—more than any other man on the field.

Troy's concentration on halting the Iowa running opened up the deep secondary, however, and they got stung. Ouch!

Statistics told the same story as the final score. Iowa held a seven-yard advantage in total offense. The Hawkeyes held a 229 to 220 advantage rushing and USC had a 156 to 154 edge through the air.

In truth, USC had many chances to win the game and when the team begins drills Monday for next week's encounter at South Bend with Notre Dame, McKay will go through a long list of flubs.

* * * *

BUT THE SHEER drama of the final minutes will erase all the mistakes, in the minds of the alumni.

Troy began the frantic finish when, behind 35-20, it struck for a 71-yard touchdown on a Nelsen-Bedsole pass—a play of beauty. Nelsen passed to Bedsole for the double PAT.

Now down only seven points, USC smothered the conservative Iowa running game and end-tackle Frank Buncom, a giant all day, recovered Hollis' fumble on the Iowa 28.

Wilson plowed for eight yards and Nelsen got a first down on the 16. Wilson went to the 10.

With one minute left and USC running out of times out to stop the clock, Nelsen fumbled back to the 15. But he fell on it. And with gigantic luck, Iowa was penalized to the five for being offside.

* * * *

AFTER AN incomplete pass to Brown in the end zone, Nelsen hit 6-foot-5 Bedsole one step inside the end zone and even the usually-staid press box went into tumult.

Iowa scored first on a fake field goal after USC had staged a goal line stand on the six that pushed the Hawkeyes back to the 20. From field goal formation Hollis threw a screen pass to Williams who zig-zagged through defensive backfield.

The second TD came after Iowa recovered a Willie Brown fumble at the Trojan 44. On first down Hollis flipped a scoring pass to fullback Joe Williams who was alone on the 10, far behind defender Nelsen. It was a fine play by Hollis, a product of the original Boys Town, who was facing the opposite sideline and twisted around with his throwing motion. The Trojan defensive backfield had rotated to cover Hollis' fake.

TD No. 3 made it take on the complexion of a rout. Defensive standout Jim Maples, on his first play of offense, fumbled the kickoff after the second touchdown and Iowa took over on the Troy 23. In five plays they had the score, Williams circling end on another of his twisting runs.

* * * *

THAT'S THE point where any football team could be excused for folding its blankets and heading for a steam bath, but that's the point where USC became a full-fledged team.

Maples got the first Troy TD drive rolling with a 30-yard kickoff return to the USC 44. Third-string fullback Rich McMahon, the Wilmington boy elevated to a starting assignment in the new series of injuries, ripped off 28 yards up the middle. McMahon, who also is out with injuries now, added two more and Brown gained 17 on two carries. Nelsen ran two keepers to the one yard line and bucked the final yard by leaping over the middle.

* * * *

WILSON provided the momentum for the second touchdown within the next five minutes. After Troy swarmed all over the Iowans and forced a punt, they went on the prowl from the Hawkeyes 43. Wilson gained 19 and 3 yards, Brown went up the middle for 16 and with a first down Nelsen ran three consecutive QB keepers that got to the 3.

McKay rushed second-string QB Pete Beathard into the game and he worked the keeper for a score with 35 seconds left in the half.

Yanks 4-1 Series Favorites

looked exceptionally good, considering how long he's been out. Whether he plays tomorrow will depend entirely upon his reaction."

Little Luis, unwanted by the Reds two years ago, worked the last two innings in relief of Stafford and Bud Daley and held the Reds to one hit. It was not quite that simple, however.

The one hit was a ninth-inning pinch double by Chico Cardenas after Arroyo had struck out Gene Freese to start the inning. Cardenas rattled the scoreboard in left-center and the assembled 32,589 Red rooters were hoping that Arroyo also might be rattled.

* * * *

ARROYO admitted that he had "butterflies, you might say" when he made a wild throw and allowed two runs in the eighth inning of the second game. "Today, I felt better, much better, and I hope to feel that way the rest of the Series."

Arroyo himself stopped pinch-hitter Gus Bell's drive to the mound and threw him out for the final out after shortstop Tony Kubek had made a fine play to retire pinch-hitter Dick Gernert while keeping Cardenas at second.

Stafford, while unable to match Purkey in the first seven innings, "pitched a helluva game" in the words of his manager "and deserves a lot of credit."

"I can't give him enough credit," said Houk. "Here's a 23-year-old kid starting his first World Series game and in a strange park, at that. He did a great job."

Stafford allowed seven of the Reds' eight hits and both runs before Daley came in to retire Vada Pinson for the final out with two Reds aboard in the seventh inning.

* * * *

A THROWING error by Stafford helped the Reds to their first run in the third inning, although it was earned. Elio Chacon, after fouling a pitch over the left field wall, surprised the Yankees and bunted.

Stafford turned a 15-foot single into a 180-foot error by throwing the ball into the right field bullpen. Chacon scored easily from second on Frank Robinson's first Series hit, a double off the center field wall.

With Purkey pitching magnificently, Chacon's run stood for six innings. Until Kubek led off the seventh with a single to center, Purkey had allowed only two Yankees to reach base: Yogi Berra on a walk in the second and Elston Howard on a double in the fifth.

* * * *

CHACON, who dashed home with the Reds' lead run on a passed ball in the second game, was to figure in the Yankees' tying run, also accomplished with the help of a passed ball.

Kubek took second as a Purkey knuckler ticked catcher John Edwards' mitt and scored when Berra blooped a single off Chacon's glove in front of the charging Robinson in right field.

It was a tough play for either Chacon or Robinson and Reds manager Fred Hutchinson could find fault with neither.

Purkey's lead was restored in the home half of the inning as Edwards doubled, pinch-hitter Jerry Lynch drew an intentional walk and Eddie Kasko singled to make it 2-1.

Then came the Yankees' famous five o'clock lightning, slightly ahead of schedule perhaps because Cincinnati is on Eastern standard time. Home runs, producers of all but one of the Yankees' seven runs in the Series to date, shattered Purkey's magic in two pitches and turned his six-hitter into bitter defeat.

* * * *

BLANCHARD, batting for Daley, drove Purkey's first pitch into the right field bleachers with two out in the eighth and Maris added the clincher into the same sector to start the ninth.

"I had no intentions of hitting it out of the park," said Blanchard. "But I did make up my mind to swing at the first pitch if it was near the plate. He generally doesn't start you with a knuckler and I was right. It was a slider."

Purkey, explaining that "I'm only human and not a machine," admitted that he made a mistake on Blanchard. "The pitch missed by a couple of inches. What can you do? It's a game of inches.

"Give the Yankee scouts some credit. They must have known something about me the way they were swinging at first pitches."

Utes Nip Ariz. State With Last-Ditch TD

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Utah scored on a 38-yard pass in the final four minutes of play Saturday night to defeat an underdog Arizona State University team, 28-26.

ASU had taken the lead only two minutes before and appeared on the way to an upset victory.

But the Utes swept 82 yards on just four plays for the touchdown. Halfback Dennis Zito ignited the rally with a 42-yard run.

SCALPERS BUSY, BUT SO ARE CINCY POLICE

CINCINNATI (AP)—While the Cincinnati Reds and the New York Yankees battled it out, the law also had plenty to do with the World Series Saturday.

Judge Clarence Denning in police court fined a 68-year-old parking meter salesman $54 for trying to peddle World Series tickets at a markup of $42.80 each.

Remarked Judge Denning sympathetically:

"If I had tickets and someone offered me $50 for them I think I would be tempted to sell them."

Lewis Glenn Wilkin was arrested after he tried to sell twelve $7.20 tickets to a detective for $600. Judge Denning ordered police to return the tickets to their owner.

Fifty-two detectives were assigned Saturday to scout bars, streets, hotels and buses for law violators, while almost 100 uniformed police kept an eye on things around Crosley Field.

Noren Agrees With Reds--Yanks Lucky

By IRV NOREN

(Former New York Yankee outfielder Irv Noren is giving Independent-Press-Telegram readers his views on each World Series game).

CINCINNATI—The Cincinnati Reds are a long way from dead. They know—and the entire baseball world knows—that the New York Yanks are very fortunate to be leading the World Series, 2-1.

I went into the Reds' dressing room after Saturday's comeback 3-2 Yankee victory to see for myself if Fred Hutchinson's battlers had their chins down.

There was no black crepe hanging over the lockers, nobody was crying over spilt milk. The Reds' attitude was this: "We've played the Yanks even all the way; we've stayed with them every inning; our pitching is great; we've got the fire and the spirit; the Yanks are lucky to be ahead."

* * * *

I THINK this interpretation is just about the true state of affairs. That tremendous threat of a home run through so many spots in the Yankee lineup is the difference so far.

Johnny Blanchard's homer which tied the game in the eighth inning and Roger Maris' home run in the ninth which won are examples of this lone Yankee advantage. The Yanks have scored only one run on anything but a homer.

True, most of us picked the Yanks to win the series mainly because of this home run strength, but when one sits through three straight demonstrations of this feverish Red battling and steady pitching, there has to be realization that New York is fortunate to be in command.

The Reds have been forcing the issue in every game. They run the bases with more daring, have made more scoring chances, and have fought their hearts out on defense.

* * * *

THIS HUSTLE actually produced one of the bad breaks the Reds suffered Saturday when Elio Chacon and Frank Robinson collided on Yogi Berra's looper which scored the first Yankee run. Costly as that was, you can't criticize hustle.

There was another example of the Yanks' good fortune in the ninth when Leo Cardenas hit a ball that was headed for Pittsburgh except that the 50-foot scoreboard got in its way to prevent the score from being tied.

The Reds even feel that Whitey Ford, who was so masterful in beating them in the opener, was a bit lucky. The ball Vada Pinson hit to center off him in New York would be a homer here and the Reds intend to go at Ford today with confidence.

Don't be surprised if Mickey Mantle has to take a rest again today. He is suffering plenty.

* * * *

I THINK it is quite a compliment to Jim O'Toole, opening day Reds' loser, that Hutchinson is sticking with him to oppose Ford today. There are some who think it would be smart to switch to Joey Jay who did so well in winning the second game.

Hutchinson is showing his balance by sticking with his series rotation. He is letting O'Toole know he pitched a fine game in his opener. Hutchinson's way of maintaining spirit and confidence is very commendable.

The Yanks came out of the 3-2 victory respecting Bob Purkey. They were under instructions to go for Purkey's first pitch, but instead they took his first offering time and again.

San Jose St. Grinds Out 14-0 Victory

SAN JOSE (AP)—San Jose State end Oscar Donahue blocked a punt in the final minute of the first half Saturday night, starting the Spartans to a 14-0 victory over Colorado State.

He smashed through and knocked down Roy Schubert's attempted kick at the Coloradans' 21 with 51 seconds to go before intermission. Three plays later quarterback Chon Gallegos hit Donahue with a touchdown pass from the same 21-yard stripe.

The Spartans scored their second touchdown on a 16-yard left end sweep by halfback Phil Clifton. Clifton also passed for the two-point conversion. Gallegos hit Chuck Elder on a 43-yard pass play for the big gainer that put the Spartans in position for Clifton's run.

Purkey Wanted 3 Runs, Lost With 2

By GEORGE LEDERER
I.P-T Staff Writer

CINCINNATI—Bob Purkey even in defeat is one pitcher who is not allergic to bandbox ball parks.

"Give me three runs," says the Reds' knuckleball artist," and I'll take my chances on topping the Yankees or any other team in this park. We should score plenty of runs here. That's why I prefer to pitch here."

"I wouldn't even mind pitching at Wrigley Field in L.A. I'll take those runs any time."

The 32-year-old Purkey is as confident as any pitcher could dream to be. Because he has faith in his ability, he controls the game, but by the same token can leave himself open to criticism.

"The catcher calls the pitches, but I control the game," says Purkey. "I decline whether or not I want to throw a particular pitch like the knuckleball."

Purkey decided to throw a knuckleball to Mickey Mantle in the seventh inning Saturday with one out and Tony Kubek on first base. It failed to break, eluded catcher John Edwards and allowed Kubek to move to into scoring position for the tying run. Purkey was not reluctant to throw the knuckler in a jam.

"I can't worry about the ball getting by the catcher, I tell myself. I say that it's my job to throw it and it's the catcher's job to get it."

Purkey says he has been "known as knuckleball pitcher for three years, but I've been one for only seven games. Until recently, my slider has been my best pitch. A few weeks ago, I threw 87 knucklers out of 110 pitches against Pittsburgh, but that was only because I found myself in a rut. Nothing else worked.

"In the next game, my other stuff was good and I threw only 40 knucklers. In the last game of the season, I pitched six innings and used only six knuckleballs, all strikes.

"The trouble with throwing a knuckler is in making it break. If it doesn't break, it's worse than a hanging curve ball. Fortunately, it came to me pretty quick. I can control about 28 out of 30, but I was wild with it today."

Series notes, quotes and anecdotes:

Yogi Berra inspected the steep terrace leading to the leftfield wall, shook his head and said, "It reminds me of the hill where I used to live in St. Louis."

The stealing outfield, unique in the major leagues, has been the scene of some comical situations.

Gene Freese, now the Reds' third baseman, was reminded of his first encounter with the terrace as a Pittsburgh outfielder. "I chased a ball across the terrace, toward the scoreboard in left-center. There's a door leading to the scoreboard and I didn't notice that the attendant had left it open.

"Well, I had to keep my eye on the ball, which was drifting toward center and I just kept running. Suddenly, there was darkness all around me. I had run inside the scoreboard."

Crosley Field was dressed in a new white coat of paint. . . . It was so new that the ramp railings and the benches in the visiting clubhouse were sticky.

. . . Some of the Yankees took home a permanent souvenir from Friday's workout on the seats of their pants.

Sign greeting arrivals at the Cincinnati airport: "L. A. seats more, but Cincy beats more."

Yankee manager Ralph Houk said it wasn't a case of Mickey Mantle asking to play Saturday. "I asked him, 'Do you think you can play?'"

Bobby Bragan, who'll return to the coaching lines at Houston next season, is willing to bet that more players will be drafted from the Dodgers and Phillies than from any other expansion list.

USC, Iowa Had Fans Chirping

College football received a much-needed hypo Saturday when the USC Trojans sneered at Iowa's No. 1 national ranking and almost pulled off the colossal upset of the season.

A glance at the 35-34 final score would leave the casual observer to believe two pro teams had just performed, I should say two pro teams of five years ago, because the Trojans and the Hawkeyes put more action into their four quarters than the Rams and their opponents have done in many moons.

A lot of bad football was viewed by the national TV audience—Iowa constantly was plagued with offsides and backfield-in-motion penalties, while USC's play-calling continued to perplex even the most ardent beany-wearer—but the affair was interesting. And, really, what else counts when you're plunking down $3.90 to watch?

Maybe the most perplexed man in the Coliseum was Iowa's young coach, Jerry Burns, who admitted the Trojans fooled him.

"This big fullback, Wilsnn (Ben) is as good as any Big 10 fullback we might see all year," moaned Burns. "But he ran as the tight halfback in the other Trojan games and he caught us off guard. I'm just glad he didn't carry the ball more often."

Ben, plucked from Houston, Texas, by USC's national scouting corps, hauled the freight only eight times, but for almost an eight-yard average. Conversely, Troy's run-happy quarterback, Bill Nelsen carried an astounding 20 times for a somewhat less brilliant 1.9 yard average!

You know Burns was happy Nelsen was running, instead of the big boomer from Texas.

"The USC defense really surprised me,' sighed Burns. "The line was good and tough, especially Buncom (Frank). We'd expected him to be a tackle only, but when they pawned him off at end, he really hurt us. He stopped our running game cold.

"We found some leaks in the Trojan deep defense,—thank heavens—and three or four of our touchdowns came in the air. We pride ourselves on our running game, but we didn't run very well today."

BURNS FELT THE LOSS of All-American halfback Larry Ferguson hurt the Hawkeyes more than the Iowa advance man led us journalists to believe.

"We wouldn't have been socked with those crucial-backs-in-motion penalties if we had Ferguson," insisted Burns. "We were using two fullbacks (Joe Williams and Bill Perkins) in our No. 1 backfield and one or the other was a step in motion at the wrong times. With Ferguson gone, our timing suffered horribly."

Did Iowa let down after getting in front 21-0?

"We sure did," admitted Burns. "I always get worried when my team jumps out in front too fast. These 20-year-old kids can't stand success. On the other hand, 21 points should be enough to handle most college teams, so give USC tremendous credit for killing us in that last half."

JOHN McKAY almost tore the head off an interrogator who wondered why the Trojans settle for a one-point conversion and a tie.

"We wanted the win," roared the USC coach, "not a tie. Anyway, my kids would have gone for the two points, no matter what I had ordered."

McKay explained why the Trojans went for one-point (and missed) when behind 21-20 in the third quarter:

"I was thinking of a field goal later on, so one or two points didn't matter at that point. I knew we'd score again because I'm convinced we'll move the ball on any team in the country."

Why did the Trojans pass on their last-second two-point attempt, instead of run, with people like Wilson and Willie Brown available?

"Our last touchdown was scored on the same pass play we used for the conversion attempt," explained McKay. "We thought they'd be expecting a run, too. I didn't want to use Brown because the poor kid was too damn tired."

IN SUMMARY, the Trojans exhibited a fine line defense—Buncom, Ben Rosin, Frank Bundra and Britt Williams were as good Saturday as you'll ever see in college ranks—and a nifty running attack with Brown and Wilson.

Like the Rams, however, they won't jell into an outstanding squad until they teach their defensive backs to ward off passes, instead of picking their teeth as they've done in three games.

Likewise, the running T-quarterback (unless he's an Arnett or Willie Brown scooter) is as obsolete as a Wendell Wilkie button. When Nelsen swings out on an option play, there's no option—he just runs (for 1.95 yards-per-20-tries).

Even with the ref halting the game for TV commercials and with a Trojan kickoff man missing the ball entirely, the Iowa-USC contest was a thriller which had fans chirping like magpies. It was like old times and, everyone hopes, a forerunner of things to come!

Husky 'Secret Weapon' Clips Pitt

Third-String Soph Bullseyes Two TDs

SEATTLE (AP) — Washington loosed a secret weapon named Pete Ohler on unsuspecting Pittsburgh Saturday, and the rookie quarterback's sharp passing took the Huskies to a 22-17 intersectional football victory.

The cool young Canadian, who had not played even one down for Washington this year, whipped a 42-yard pass to end Lee Bernhardi for the deciding touchdown in the closing minutes.

STATISTICS	Pitt.	Wash.
First downs	9	17
Rushing yardage	182	219

Passes	3-14	7-14
Passes intercepted by	2	1
Punts	8-35.2	6-29
Fumbles lost	1	1
Yards penalized	47	76

The game was not quite a quarter old when Ohler, listed s a third stringer, made his first appearance. He drove the Huskies 71 yards in six plays, tossing a 22-yard pass to Nat Whitmeyer for the touchdown and then hitting Whitmeyer with a conversion toss to put Washington in front 8-0.

Less than four minutes later, he climaxed a 68-yard Husky attack by sending Whitmeyer over from the one for touchdown No. 2. He missed the conversion pass, however, and this looked like a fatal error when the Panthers rallied to tie the score before the half ended.

The late-starting Panthers finally got their attack moving in the final four minutes of the half. Richard Leeson touched it off with a 42-yard canter. With Leeson carrying the ball on nearly every play, Pittsburgh went 80 yards in nine plays, quarterback Paul Martha negotiating the final five yards. The conversion kick was blocked, but Pitt was right back when a bit of Washington strategy misfired.

* * * *

WITH ONLY a minute left, Washington kicked on third down, and the poorly punted ball went out of bounds on the Husky 36. Pitt quarterback Sam Colella pitched two first-down passes and then sent Leeson two yards for a touchdown. Martha passed to John Yaccino for the conversion to tie the score.

After a scoreless third period, Pittsburgh apparently wrapped up the decision when Fred Cox booted a 21-yard field goal. But then Ohler came off the Washington bench to connect with his payoff pass to Bernhardi.

Gold's Bears Tie Missouri

COLUMBIA (UPI) — Quarterback Randy Gold passed and ran the sophomoric California Bears to a 14-14 tie with the heavily-favored Missouri Tigers Saturday in an intersectional football game played before 42,000 fans.

Gold, who was sidelined for California's first two games this season, guided the Bears to a second-quarter touchdown with halfback Jerry Scattini carrying the ball across from one yard out. Gold ran 13 yards for the second California score early in the third quarter, the touchdown being set up on a 77-yard gallop by Alan Nelson.

MISSOURI, last year's Orange Bowl champions and the sixth-ranked team in this week's United Press International poll, rallied its forces for a fourth quarter touchdown and two-point conversion to stave off defeat.

STATISTICS	Mo.	Cal.
First downs	20	12

Passing yardage	94	86
Passes	7-13	7-13
Passes intercepted by	1	1
Punts	4-34.3	6-28.5
Fumbles lost	1	0
Yards penalized	12	86

Quarterback Ron Taylor ran one yard for Missouri's touchdown in the first period and then scurried across from four yards out for the fourth quarter score.

Trailing 14-12, Missouri went for the two-point conversion and sophomore halfback Daryl Krugman whipped around right end to tie it up.

Missouri, victorious in its first two games, moved the ball well on the ground in the first half and marched 89 yards for its first touchdown. The Tigers passed only once in the drive, with Taylor throwing to end Larry Nichols for 17 yards and a first down on the California three. Three plays later, Taylor plunged across.

California safety man Larry Balliette contributed to the upset by intercepting three Missouri passes. A fourth Balliette interception was nullified by a penalty.

Gold accounted for all of California's passing yardage, completing 7 of 13.

Taylor completed the same number for Missouri, picking up 94 yards.

SPARTAN YEARLINGS RUN WILD

First Loss for Stanford, 31-3

EAST LANSING, Mich., (UPI) — Michigan State's speedy sophomore backs, led by Dewey Lincoln and Sherman Lewis, romped over Stanford's previously unbeaten Indians Saturday, 31-3.

With the yearlings carrying the load, the Spartans rolled for 24 points in the second half after sloppy play in the first half held the score to 7-0.

Lewis, a 5 ft. 8 in., 154-pound, speedster, slipped around left end for six yards for the first MSU score early in the second period. Lincoln scampered 20 yards around end for a touchdown in the final period.

Stanford's only scoring came on a 40-yard field goal by Stan Lindskog in the third period.

MSU sophomore halfbacks Ron Rubick and Herman Johnson and quarterback Dick Proebstle also ripped off big gains as the Indians faded against the MSU depth in the second half.

Lincoln got 93 yards in 10 carries and Lewis 72 yards in 13.

Proebstle sneaked over from one in the final period and fullback George Saimes ran three yards for MSU's other touchdown. End Art Brandstatter kicked three extra points and took a shovel pass from quarterback Pete Smith for another two points. MSU also got a safety in the final period when Ed Lochamer tackled Stanford's Chuck Butler in the end zone.

Smith's father, Archie, 47, died of a heart attack in the stands while watching his son direct much of the Spartan attack. Smith was told of his father's death when the game ended.

Longhorns Wallop Wash. State, 41-8

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Tailback James Saxton led the fifth-ranked Texas Longhorns to a runaway 41-8 victory Saturday night over Washington State's Cougars with two touchdowns, one of them a brilliant 56-yard run.

Saxton's break-away run and a 58-yard pass from sophomore quarterback Duke Carlisle to wingback Bobby Nunis were the only maneuvers to bring the crowd of 40,000 to its feet as the Longhorns played mostly uninspired ball while registering their third consecutive victory.

The second half was only a minute old when Saxton angled off right guard and broke for the sidelines on his 56-yard scramper. He crossed the goal line 10 yards in front of the nearest defender. The skinny, 160-pounder made the game's first touchdown early in the first period on a 10-yard sprint around right end.

Stephens' 2nd Half Heroics Overcome Webfoots, 14-7

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Quarterback Sandy Stephens sped over for two touchdowns in the second half Saturday to give Minnesota its first 1961 victory, a 14-7 comeback effort over Oregon.

The smaller but quicker Oregon squad played inspired football the first half, stopping the defending national champions four times inside the Oregon 30-yard line and finally scoring a touchdown with only 30 seconds left in the half.

Minnesota got rolling in the third period, with Stephens, halfback Bill Munsey and fullback Judge Dickson grinding out 80 yards in 14 plays. Stephens went over from the 8-yard line for the score and pitched out to halfback Jim Cairns for a two-point conversion and an 8-7 lead.

Early in the fourth period Minnesota end John Campbell pounced on a fumble by Oregon halfback Dennis Jackson on the Ducks' 18. Five plays later Stephens swept three yards to score. The kick for extra point was blocked.

Oregon quarterback Doug Post got hot in the second period, hitting three passes only to have the drive stall when a pass on a fake field goal missed the mark.

After Stephens netted only six yards on a punt into the wind, Post hit another long pass and then fired a strike to halfback Mike Gaechter in the end zone, six yards away.

That score stood up, largely through defensive efforts of guard Micky Ording and tackle Steve Barnett, until the Gophers caught fire after intermission.

BAKER'S PASSING, POISE PUNISH IDAHO

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI) — The powerful running of sophomore fullback Bruce Williams gave Oregon State a needed punch and quarterback Terry Baker provided the passes and poise Saturday as the Beavers routed outmanned Idaho, 44-6.

Baker, having his best day of the year, threw two touchdown passes and scored once himself.

But it was Williams, a 198-pounder starting for the first time, who got the Beaver attack rolling. He packed the ball 10 times in Oregon State's 88-yard touchdown drive. It was climaxed by Baker's eight-yard scoring pass to end Roger Johnson.

In all, Williams carried the ball 21 times for 117 yards before he was taken out in the third period. He gained 83 yards in the first half.

other two, was the Trojan downfall.

IF, IF, IF. . .

That's the only way you can recount the final offensive play of the game for USC, which was a try for two points on the conversion after Troy had matched the giants from the Midwest touchdown for touchdown. If QB Bill Nelsen had thrown the conversion pass to end Hal Bedsole a split-second sooner, in the words of the intended receiver, "We would have had it all."

And if Nelsen had looked out into the corner of the end zone to see Willie Brown standing unguarded, waiting, it would have been 36-35.

And it is quite likely power-packed fill-in fullback Ben Wilson could have bulldozed his way through the weary defense.

But the PAT play went this way:

Nelsen flipped a little pass across the middle toward Bedsole on what was the same play that had accounted for the TD seconds before. Iowa halfback Sammy Harris got a hand in front of it and deflected it upward.

As it fell, only a step away from Bedsole, he was leaning the wrong way. It fell. Thud. Plunk. Ugh.

While the Iowa dressing quarters looked like a losers', McKay held forth in USC's amid major clamor and commented, "Iowa is not a typical Big Ten team—it's much better."

* * * *

USC'S DEFENSES were geared to stop Hawkeye QB Wilburn Hollis and Iowa's were pointed toward halting Willie Brown's wide runs. SC was successful, holding Hollis to 63 yards net, including one 50-yard run.

Though Brown, the Long Beach prep sensation of recent seasons, was held touchdown-less, he gained 99 yards—more than any other man on the field.

Troy's concentration on halting the Iowa running opened up the deep secondary, however, and they got stung. Ouch!

Statistics told the same story as the final score. Iowa held a seven-yard advantage in total offense. The Hawkeyes held a 229 to 220 advantage rushing and USC had a 156 to 154 edge through the air.

In truth, USC had many chances to win the game and when the team begins drills Monday for next week's encounter at South Bend with Notre Dame, McKay will go through a long list of flubs.

* * * *

BUT THE SHEER drama of the final minutes will erase all the mistakes, in the minds of the alumni.

Troy began the frantic finish when, behind 35-20, it struck for a 71-yard touchdown on a Nelsen-Bedsole pass—a play of beauty. Nelsen passed to Bedsole for the double PAT.

Now down only seven points, USC smothered the conservative Iowa running game and end-tackle Frank Buncom, a giant all day, recovered Hollis' fumble on the Iowa 28.

Wilson plowed for eight yards and Nelsen got a first down on the 16. Wilson went to the 10.

With one minute left and USC running out of times out to stop the clock, Nelsen fumbled back to the 15. But he fell on it. And with gigantic luck, Iowa was penalized to the five for being offside.

* * * *

AFTER AN incomplete pass to Brown in the end zone, Nelsen hit 6-foot-5 Bedsole one step inside the end zone and even the usually-staid press box went into tumult.

Iowa scored first on a fake field goal after USC had staged a goal line stand on the six that pushed the Hawkeyes back to the 20. From field goal formation Hollis threw a screen pass to Williams who zig-zagged through defensive backfield.

The second TD came after Iowa recovered a Willie Brown fumble at the Trojan 44. On first down Hollis flipped a scoring pass to fullback Joe Williams who was alone on the 10, far behind defender Nelsen. It was a fine play by Hollis, a product of the original Boys Town, who was facing the opposite sideline and twisted around with his throwing motion. The Trojan defensive backfield had rotated to cover Hollis' fake.

TD No. 3 made it take on the complexion of a rout. Defensive standout Jim Maples, on his first play of offense, fumbled the kickoff after the second touchdown and Iowa took over on the Troy 23. In five plays they had the score, Williams circling end on another of his twisting runs.

* * * *

THAT'S THE point where any football team could be excused for folding its blankets and heading for a steam bath, but that's the point where USC became a full-fledged team.

Maples got the first Troy TD drive rolling with a 30-yard kickoff return to the USC 44. Third-string fullback Rich McMahon, the Wilmington boy elevated to a starting assignment in the new series of injuries, ripped off 28 yards up the middle. McMahon, who also is out with injuries now, added two more and Brown gained 17 on two carries. Nelsen ran two keepers to the one yard line and bucked the final yard by leaping over the middle.

* * * *

WILSON provided the momentum for the second touchdown within the next five minutes. After Troy swarmed all over the Iowans and forced a punt, they went on the prowl from the Hawkeyes 43. Wilson gained 19 and 3 yards, Brown went up the middle for 16 and with a first down Nelsen ran three consecutive QB keepers that got to the 3.

McKay rushed second-string QB Pete Beathard into the game and he worked the keeper for a score with 35 seconds left in the half.

Utes Nip Ariz. State With Last-Ditch TD

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP)—Utah scored on a 38-yard pass in the final four minutes of play Saturday night to defeat an underdog Arizona State University team, 28-26.

ASU had taken the lead only two minutes before and appeared on the way to an upset victory.

But the Utes swept 82 yards on just four plays for the touchdown. Halfback Dennis Zito ignited the rally with a 42-yard run.

MARIS SULLEN, SUBDUED

Yanks 4-1 Series Favorites

looked exceptionally good, considering how long he's been out. Whether he plays tomorrow will depend entirely upon his reaction."

Little Luis, unwanted by the Reds two years ago, worked the last two innings in relief of Stafford and Bud Daley and held the Reds to one hit. It was not quite that simple, however.

The one hit was a ninth-inning pinch double by Chico Cardenas after Arroyo had struck out Gene Freese to start the inning. Cardenas rattled the scoreboard in left-center and the assembled 32,589 Red rooters were hoping that Arroyo also might be rattled.

* * * *

ARROYO admitted that he had "butterflies, you might say" when he made a wild throw and allowed two runs in the eighth inning of the second game. "Today, I felt better, much better, and I hope to feel that way the rest of the Series."

Arroyo himself stopped pinch-hitter Gus Bell's drive to the mound and threw him out for the final out after shortstop Tony Kubek had made a fine play to retire pinch-hitter Dick Gernert while keeping Cardenas at second.

Stafford, while unable to match Purkey in the first seven innings, "pitched a helluva game" in the words of his manager "and deserves a lot of credit."

"I can't give him enough credit," said Houk. "Here's a 23-year-old kid starting his first World Series game and in a strange park, at that. He did a great job."

Stafford allowed seven of the Reds' eight hits and both runs before Daley came in to retire Vada Pinson for the final out with two Reds aboard in the seventh inning.

* * * *

A THROWING error by Stafford helped the Reds to their first run in the third inning, although it was earned. Elio Chacon, after fouling a pitch over the left field wall, surprised the Yankees and bunted.

Stafford turned a 15-foot single into a 180-foot error by throwing the ball into the right field bullpen. Chacon scored easily from second on Frank Robinson's first Series hit, a double off the center field wall.

With Purkey pitching magnificently, Chacon's run stood for six innings. Until Kubek led off the seventh with a single to center, Purkey had allowed only two Yankees to reach base: Yogi Berra on a walk in the second and Elston Howard on a double in the fifth.

* * * *

CHACON, who dashed home with the Reds' lead run on a passed ball in the second game, was to figure in the Yankees' tying run, also accomplished with the help of a passed ball.

Kubek took second as a Purkey knuckler ticked catcher John Edwards' mitt and scored when Berra blooped a single off Chacon's glove in front of the charging Robinson in right field.

It was a tough play for either Chacon or Robinson and Reds manager Fred Hutchinson could find fault with neither.

Purkey's lead was restored in the home half of the inning as Edwards doubled, pinch-hitter Jerry Lynch drew an intentional walk and Eddie Kasko singled to make it 2-1.

Then came the Yankees' famous five o'clock lightning, slightly ahead of schedule perhaps because Cincinnati is on Eastern standard time. Home runs, producers of all but one of the Yankees' seven runs in the Series to date, shattered Purkey's magic in two pitches and turned his six-hitter into bitter defeat.

* * * *

BLANCHARD, batting for Daley, drove Purkey's first pitch into the right field bleachers with two out in the eighth and Maris added the clincher into the same sector to start the ninth.

"I had no intentions of hitting it out of the park," said Blanchard. "But I did make up my mind to swing at the first pitch if it was near the plate. He generally doesn't start you with a knuckler and I was right. It was a slider."

Purkey, explaining that "I'm only human and not a machine," admitted that he made a mistake on Blanchard. "The pitch missed by a couple of inches. What can you do? It's a game of inches.

"Give the Yankee scouts some credit. They must have known something about me the way they were swinging at first pitches."

SCALPERS BUSY, BUT SO ARE CINCY POLICE

CINCINNATI (AP)—While the Cincinnati Reds and the New York Yankees battled it out, the law also had plenty to do with the World Series Saturday.

Judge Clarence Denning in police court fined a 68-year-old parking meter salesman $54 for trying to peddle World Series tickets at a markup of $42.80 each.

Remarked Judge Denning sympathetically:

"If I had tickets and someone offered me $50 for them I think I would be tempted to sell them."

Lewis Glenn Wilkin was arrested after he tried to sell twelve $7.20 tickets to a detective for $600. Judge Denning ordered police to return the tickets to their owner.

Fifty-two detectives were assigned Saturday to scout bars, streets, hotels and buses for law violators, while almost 100 uniformed police kept an eye on things around Crosley Field.

San Jose St. Grinds Out 14-0 Victory

SAN JOSE (AP)—San Jose State end Oscar Donahue blocked a punt in the final minute of the first half Saturday night, starting the Spartans to a 14-0 victory over Colorado State.

He smashed through and knocked down Roy Schubert's attempted kick at the Coloradans' 21 with 51 seconds to go before intermission. Three plays later quarterback Chon Gallegos hit Donahue with a touchdown pass from the same 21-yard stripe.

The Spartans scored their second touchdown on a 16-yard left end sweep by halfback Phil Clifton. Clifton also passed for the two-point conversion. Gallegos hit Chuck Elder on a 43-yard pass play for the big gainer that put the Spartans in position for Clifton's run.

Noren Agrees With Reds--Yanks Lucky

By IRV NOREN

(Former New York Yankee outfielder Irv Noren is giving Independent Press-Telegram readers his views on each World Series game).

CINCINNATI—The Cincinnati Reds are a long way from dead. They know—and the entire baseball world knows—that the New York Yanks are very fortunate to be leading the World Series, 2-1.

I went into the Reds' dressing room after Saturday's comeback 3-2 Yankee victory to see for myself if Fred Hutchinson's battlers had their chins down.

There was no black crepe hanging over the lockers, nobody was crying over spilt milk. The Reds' attitude was this: "We've played the Yanks even all the way; we've stayed with them every inning; our pitching is great; we've got the fire and the spirit; the Yanks are lucky to be ahead."

* * * *

I THINK this interpretation is just about the true state of affairs. That tremendous threat of a home run through so many spots in the Yankee lineup is the difference so far.

Johnny Blanchard's homer which tied the game in the eighth inning and Roger Maris' home run in the ninth which won are examples of this lone Yankee advantage. The Yanks have scored only one run on anything but a homer.

True, most of us picked the Yanks to win the series mainly because of this home run strength, but when one sits through three straight demonstrations of this feverish Red battling and steady pitching, there has to be realization that New York is fortunate to be in command.

The Reds have been forcing the issue in every game. They run the bases with more daring, have made more scoring chances, and have fought their hearts out on defense.

* * * *

THIS HUSTLE actually produced one of the bad breaks the Reds suffered Saturday when Elio Chacon and Frank Robinson collided on Yogi Berra's looper which scored the first Yankee run. Costly as that was, you can't criticize hustle.

There was another example of the Yanks' good fortune in the ninth when Leo Cardenas hit a ball that was headed for Pittsburgh except that the 50-foot scoreboard got in its way to prevent the score from being tied.

The Reds even feel that Whitey Ford, who was so masterful in beating them in the opener, was a bit lucky. The ball Vada Pinson hit to center off him in New York would be a homer here and the Reds intend to go at Ford today with confidence.

Don't be surprised if Mickey Mantle has to take a rest again today. He is suffering plenty.

* * * *

I THINK it is quite a compliment to Jim O'Toole, opening day Reds' loser, that Hutchinson is sticking with him to oppose Ford today. There are some who think it would be smart to switch to Joey Jay who did so well in winning the second game.

Hutchinson is showing his balance by sticking with his series rotation. He is letting O'Toole know he pitched a fine game in his opener. Hutchinson's way of maintaining spirit and confidence is very commendable.

The Yanks came out of the 3-2 victory respecting Bob Purkey. They were under instructions to go for Purkey's first pitch, but instead they took his first offering time and again.

In-Field and Out

Purkey Wanted 3 Runs, Lost With 2

By GEORGE LEDERER
I.P-T Staff Writer

CINCINNATI—Bob Purkey even in defeat is one pitcher who is not allergic to bandbox ball parks.

"Give me three runs," says the Reds' knuckleball artist," and I'll take my chances on topping the Yankees or any other team in this park. We should score plenty of runs here. That's why I prefer to pitch here."

"I wouldn't even mind pitching at Wrigley Field in L.A. I'll take those runs any time."

The 32-year-old Purkey is as confident as any pitcher could dream to be. Because he has faith in his ability, he controls the game, but by the same token can leave himself open to criticism.

"The catcher calls the pitches, but I control the game," says Purkey. "I decline whether or not I want to throw a particular pitch like the knuckleball."

Purkey decided to throw a knuckleball to Mickey Mantle in the seventh inning Saturday with one out and Tony Kubek on first base. It failed to break, eluded catcher John Edwards and allowed Kubek to move to into scoring position for the tying run. Purkey was not reluctant to throw the knuckler in a jam.

"I can't worry about the ball getting by the catcher, I tell myself. I say that it's my job to throw it and it's the catcher's job to get it."

Purkey says he has been "known as knuckleball pitcher for three years, but I've been one for only seven games. Until recently, my slider has been my best pitch. A few weeks ago, I threw 87 knucklers out of 110 pitches against Pittsburgh, but that was only because I found myself in a rut. Nothing else worked.

"In the next game, my other stuff was good and I threw only 40 knucklers. In the last game of the season, I pitched six innings and used only six knuckleballs, all strikes.

"The trouble with throwing a knuckler is in making it break. If it doesn't break, it's worse than a hanging curve ball. Fortunately, it came to me pretty quick. I can control about 28 out of 30, but I was wild with it today."

Series notes, quotes and anecdotes:

Yogi Berra inspected the steep terrace leading to the leftfield wall, shook his head and said, "It reminds me of the hill where I used to live in St. Louis."

The sloping outfield, unique in the major leagues, has been the scene of some comical situations.

Gene Freese, now the Reds' third baseman, was reminded of his first encounter with the terrace as a Pittsburgh outfielder. "I chased a ball across the terrace, toward the scoreboard in left-center. There's a door leading to the scoreboard and I didn't notice that the attendant had left it open.

"Well, I had to keep my eye on the ball, which was drifting toward center, and I just kept running. Suddenly, there was darkness all around me. I had run inside the scoreboard."

Crosley Field was dressed in a new white coat of paint. . . . It was so new that the ramp railings and the benches in the visiting clubhouse were sticky. . . . Some of the Yankees took home a permanent souvenir from Friney's workout on the seats of their pants.

Sign greeting arrivals at the Cincinnati airport: "L. A. seats more, but Cincy beats more."

Yankee manager Ralph Houk said it wasn't a case of Mickey Mantle asking to play Saturday. "I asked him, 'Do you think you can play?'"

Bobby Bragan, who'll return to the coaching lines at Houston next season, is willing to bet that more players will be drafted from the Dodgers and Phillies than from any other expansion list.

Once Over Lightly

Baseball Taking Care of Its Own

Now that baseball's pension plan is on solid footing and with more and more money rolling in all the time, steps are being taken to expand benefits for players who reach the major leagues and stay longer than just for a cup of coffee.

Right now, the pension plan is designed mainly for the players who remain in the majors over a long period of time—from 10 to 20 years.

But as one baseball man points out, "the plan should be designed to help the five-year man more than the 20-year athlete. The 20-year man has already piled up plenty of money in salaries . . . and if he's at all smart, in business through added business opportunities.

DAVE LEWIS

"The five-year man is the one who really needs the pension plan. He's usually the borderline case who never makes much out of the game, but nevertheless has made an important contribution to baseball."

Retention of the second All-Star game, which the players are urging, although the owners are not keen about it, will be a step toward making it possible in the future.

The added revenue from two All-Star games has so solidified the pension fund that the players recently were able to vote themselves big pension increases.

For instance, at age 50, 10-year men will now be able to collect $250 a month instead of $175, while 20-year men will receive $452 a month instead of $275.

IT WON'T STOP THERE. Many new ideas are being formulated to take care of the ballplayer in his later years.

It has long been said that baseball takes care of its own. This is generally true. A man who has gond for baseball during his playing days usually finds some place in the game later—if he needs it.

But usually those cases involve players whose name affords publicity value.

It's not so with the fringe ballplayer . . . the fellow who most often needs the help.

The practice by which baseball will take care of its own will become an eventuality under a plan outlined by Judge Robert Cannon, legal advisor to the Baseball Players' Assn.

While pensions take care of players when they reach 50, the period between retirement from the playing field and the pension age will be encompassed in the new plan.

JUDGE CANNON RECENTLY POINTED out that "we are going to set up an employment service in the office of Frank Scott, director of the Players' Assn.

"Here we shall have a file of jobs which former players may fill. We shall build up this file through our many connections. The kind of people who might register with us are unlimited.

"Most club owners are wealthy with interests in many other businesses which employ thousands of men. Then there are many former ballplayers who have been successful in a variety of businesses and they, too, employ thousands. And many good fans who are important in business or industry would avail themselves of our plan, too.

"Actually," Judge Cannon points out, "there will never be a great many totally unemployed former major league players. Many of them stay in the game in some capacity, many others have started their own businesses and others have no trouble finding jobs with their connections.

"But if anyone who has been good for baseball needs work and is willing to work, we'll find it for him once this service is established . . . which will be very soon."

THIS UNEMPLOYMENT SERVICE is just one new innovation which the players hope to incorporate into their association to assure their own of never having to worry about the future.

Ultimately, with the pension fund as the basis, the players' association will cover in some manner every man who ever reaches the major leagues . . . whether he stays for a week or 20 years.

And there is talk of even expanding the pension fund to include players in the higher minor leagues who never quite make it to the big-time, but who spend many years in the game.

Baseball still offers the brightest future for young athletes. The playing career is longer than in other pro sports, the average pay and fringe benefits greater, and now the years after they hang 'em up are offering more security.

IT LOOKS LIKE A SHOTGUN AMBUSH

Rams, 49-Oers Tangle in TV Tilt

By JERRY WYNN

SAN FRANCISCO — Open that golden gate, friends. This looks like an ambush.

The Rams play the San Francisco 49ers at Kezar Stadium today with the odds against them as high as a drunk at the Top of the Mark. The game will be televised over Channel 2 at 1:30 p.m.

It would be bad enough to contemplate the record of the Rams against the 49ers in the two years ex-Ram Red Hickey has held the S.F. reins . . . no wins in four league games, no touchdowns in two games at Kezar. But to compound matters, the 49ers had to go out and beat the Lions, 49-0, at Detroit last week.

Now professional football men are conservative. They know from experience just how tough is the game. They know the defenses have caught up with the offenses. They know that there was no way possible for the 49ers to beat the Lions, 49-0.

Asked if he was shocked by that score, Ram coach Bob Waterfield replied: "I was flabbergasted when it was only 21-0."

The recipe for the amazing 49er victory that still has all San Francisco in ecstacy (you'd never know there was a World Series in progress) was a Shotgun with three loaded barrels. Hickey called every play by shuttling in quarterbacks John Brodie, Bill Kilmer and Bobby Waters.

Commented stunned Detroit linebacker Wayne Walker after the game: "Judas K. Priest. It was like the Drake Relays."

Thus the sentiment on Geary Street is one of supreme confidence. "If we can beat a good team like the Lions, 49-0," said one cable car driver, "we should take the Rams 88-0."

The odds really favor San Francisco by only eight points, and the 49ers really aren't as devastating as that Detroit score would indicate. However, they do appear good enough to beat the Rams today just as they did (32-20) in their pre-season encounter at the Coliseum.

The Rams have been blasted by the Shotgun in two previous battles. The best offense they've shown in the last two games was the sideline attack on John Henry Johnson last week.

Irish Collect on Field Goal

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI)—Notre Dame's gridiron gamblers, behind by one point when their pass for a two-point conversion failed, defeated Purdue Saturday, 22-20, on Joe Perkowski's 28-yard field goal with 12 minutes to play.

It was tremendous offensive struggle for 60 minutes, and Purdue at one point in the first half held a 10-point margin. But Notre Dame came back to trail by seven points at the half and in the third period moved to within one point.

Then Daryl LaMonica, the Irish quarterback, gambled for a win. Instead of a place kick, he tried a pass for two points, and when his receivers were swarmed under, Notre Dame was behind 20-19.

But the Irish, growing stronger as the game went on, began their comeback drive from their own 42. Sophomore Don Costa gained 36 yards in three tries to lead Notre Dame to the Boilermaker 12.

The march bogged down, but Perkowski, who had failed on one placekick conversion attempt and one field goal try from the 15, booted successfully from the 28 for the clincher.

Alert Wolverines Crush Army, 38-8

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Michigan's Wolverines seized on three Army miscues and turned on a devastating ground attack Saturday to crush the previously unbeaten Cadets 38-8 and roll to their second straight triumph before 65,012 fans at Michigan Stadium.

The Wolverines, ranked eighth in the nation, capitalized on two Army fumbles to score a touchdown and a field goal in the opening period. They added four more touchdowns, one of them set up by an intercepted Army pass, to complete the rout.

The powerhouse Michigan ground attack was led by halfback Dave Raimey who went 12 yards for one touchdown, Bennie McRae who dashed 47 yards for another, Bill Tunnicliff who scored on a three-yard plunge and Bruce McLenna who ran seven yards for another score.

The final Michigan touchdown came late in the final period on a 36-yard pass from reserve quarterback Bob Chandler to end Bob Brown. Doug Bickle contributed a field goal and five extra points to the Wolverine scoring.

Army, which was able to gain only 15 yards rushing all afternoon, managed its only touchdown in the third period when quarterback Pete Eckert took to the air and completed eight-yard aerial to halfback Dick Peterson.

ILLINOIS FALLS HARD, 28-7

Soph Star Sparks Wildcats

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI)—Northwestern's new scoring ace, sophomore Bill Swingle, scored two touchdowns and was the spark behind two more Saturday in a 28-7 Wildcat triumph over Big Ten rival Illinois.

Swingle, a slippery, sliding runner, took a 21-yard pass for one touchdown in the second quarter and went two yards into the end zone in the fourth quarter. The key play in the final drive was a 24-yard Fred Quinn-to-Swingle pass.

Wholesale scoring is getting to be a Swingle habit. He scored three touchdowns in the Wildcats 45-0 rout of Boston College last week.

Halfback Bob Snider started off the Northwestern scoring attack for the Big Ten opener crowd of 40,138 by going four yards around right end late in the first period.

Illinois hit the scoring column after Swingle's first touchdown made the score 14-0.

With less than two minutes remaining, Wildcat Al Kimbrough fumbled a punt and Illini end Dick Newell recovered on the Northwestern 19. Seven plays later, on a fourth and one play, Al Wheatland went over with 17 seconds left in the half. Don Plankenhorn kicked the extra point.

Paul Flatley punched over the other Northwestern touchdown.

Field Goal Wins for Badgers

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI)—Jim Bakken, a reserve quarterback whose specialty is kicking, booted two field goals for a modern Big Ten record Saturday to give Wisconsin a 6-3 victory over hapless Indiana before 23,270 fans.

Bakken, a 5-11 senior from Madison, Wis., missed a half dozen field goal attempts against Utah and Michigan State this season but he was dead center Saturday for the Badgers' second win against one loss and their first in two conference games.

It was the second consecutive loss for the Hoosiers who couldn't put together a drive in their first league clash in two years.

Indiana sat out a penalty for allegedly recruiting violations last year.

Bakken made his first field goal in the first period from 22 yards out and his last for a clincher in the fourth was from 17. Both times he was rushed on the field by coach Milt Bruhn in fourth down situations.

Undefeated Chargers Blitz Patriots, 38-27

BOSTON (AP)—Quarterback Jack Kemp passed the unbeaten San Diego Chargers to a 38-27 American Football League victory over Boston Saturday night, pitching for three touchdowns including a pair within 70 seconds.

Kemp combined with end Dave Kocourek on a 75-yard aerial bomb on the first scrimmage play after the Patriots had closed the gap to 17-14 near the end of the half.

The ex-Occidental field general hit Don Norton on a spectacular 30-yard scoring pass just a minute and 10 seconds later to break the game open.

Kemp had notched only two touchdown heaves in the previous four San Diego triumphs this season.

Boston briefly threatened a comeback in the third quarter when Babe Parilli went to the Patriot's firing line in place of quarterback Butch Songin. Parilli hit on three successive pass play for 19, 9, and 17 yards, the last to halfback Jimmy Colclough for a score. Earlier, Boston fullback Billy Lott plunged one yard to cap a 17-yard, seven-play march that briefly tied the score at 7-all.

Kemp, in addition to passing for three scores, dashed around end for four yards and the other San Diego touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Once-Mighty Sooners Felled by Iowa State

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Iowa State struck for three quick touchdowns in the first quarter and held on grimly to topple fumbling Oklahoma, 21-15, Saturday.

The Cyclones took advantage of every Sooner mistake and put together scoring drives of 17, 58 and 33 yards.

Oklahoma roared back with two 80-yard marches and was headed downfield again in the last moments when another fumble killed the drive and the hopes of the once perennial Big Eight nemesis.

Iowa State's single wing ground attack was sparked by Dave Hopmann and Ozzie Clay.

Clay, 173-pound sophomore speedster, accounted for two first period touchdowns on runs of 8 and 12 yards.

THE SOUTHWEST

SMU Tips Falcons on Shoeless Kick

DALLAS (UPI)—John Richey, a shoeless sophomore placekicker, booted a 30-yard third-quarter field goal Saturday to give Southern Methodist a 9-7 victory over the Air Force that broke a 13-game SMU string without a victory.

Richey, a 188-pound reserve fullback who kicks extra points with his shoes on uses his stocking feet on kickoffs and field goal efforts, gave a crowd of 28,000 its biggest thrill in an otherwise dull afternoon of ground assault football.

SMU had matched the Air Force's second period touchdown, but the visiting Falcons' 138-pound defensive back, Bob McDonough, had broken through to block Richey's tie-seeking extra point effort.

Nick Arshinkoff, the Falcons' junior fullback, lunged three yards for the Air Force's touchdown at the end of a 60-yard second quarter drive and Wilson Parma tacked on the extra point.

A fumble recovery with two minutes left in the half set SMU up in a position for its two-play drive that saw 150-pound Tommy Brennan bounce 23 yards for the touchdown.

LSU's Vise-Like Defense Smothers Engineers, 10-0

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Louisiana State shackled Georgia Tech's roll and rumple offense with an unrelenting defensive vise Saturday night and upset the third-ranked engineers, 10-0, before 66,000 fans.

The loss was the first in three games for Georgia Tech, ranked No. 3 in this week's Associated Press poll and favored by a touchdown or more to make the Bayou Tigers their third straight victim.

An LSU line, spearheaded by all-America guard candidate Roy Winston, repeatedly rocked the swift Tech backs for big losses and the Tiger secondary kept the Engineer passing game well in check.

The Southeastern Conference victory was the second for LSU.

The LSU touchdown came midway in the second quarter after halfback Billy Williamson juggled a pass from center on a punt attempt and was smothered under on the Tech 16. Fullback Earl Gross rammed through the Tech line for 15 yards on two plays and substitute quarterback Jimmy Field slipped the final 1. Halfback Wendell Harris converted.

Late 'Cat TD Aerial Trips Auburn, 14-12

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI)—Rangy Kentucky end Tom Hutchinson shadowed constantly by pass defenders, hauled in a six-yard scoring pass in the last four minutes Saturday to give the Wildcats a 14-12 victory over powerful Auburn.

Hutchinson, a marked man as the frequent target for quarterback Jerry Woolum's passes, set up the winning touchdown by recovering a fumble on the Auburn 21.

The Wildcats, who garnered their first win of the year, also took advantage of another Auburn bobble to set up Perky Bryant's one-yard dash for a touchdown and Clarkie Mayfield kicked two decisive extra points.

Ole Miss Marches On, Rips Fla. State, 33-0

OXNARD, Miss. (UPI)—Quarterbacks Doug Elmore and Perry Lee Dunn and fullback Billy Ray Adams led second-ranked Mississippi to a 33-0 victory Saturday over stubborn Florida State, which refused to play dead for Rebel reserves.

Elmore directed the Rebels on a 77-yard touchdown march the first time they got the ball, then teamed with Adams for another first-period tally that covered 91 yards in 14 plays.

But Florida State, which held Florida to a 3-3 tie last week, refused to fold, and the second-ranked Rebels had to keep calling back the first string to score. Dunn, the third-string quarterback, was the only reserve able to move the ball. His passes provided one touchdown and set up another.

Mississippi's line completely bottled up Florida State's offense, holding the Seminoles to 50 yards in the first half.

Reserve Back Hurls Duke to 23-3 Triumph

DURHAM, N. C. (UPI)—Third string halfback Billy Futrell caught two second-period touchdown passes Saturday to spark Duke to a 23-3 victory over Wake Forest.

A dad's day crowd of 20,000 saw the 197-pound sophomore break scoring ice for Duke with 5:15 left to play in the first half after Wake Forest had moved out in front on a 28-yard field goal by Mickey Walker.

Futrell scored the touchdown on a four-yard pass from quarterback Walt Rappold. Bill Reynolds kicked the extra point.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (UPI)—Perfect pass patterns launched from behind a pulverizing forward wall carried Clemson's Tigers to a convincing 27-0 victory over North Carolina Saturday before 26,000 fans.

Line play was the difference in the struggle between the Atlantic Coast Conference challengers and Clemson's was clearly superior.

Quarterbacks Jim Parker and Joe Anderson threw a touchdown pass apiece. Another Anderson aerial set up a touchdown when officials ruled interference in the end zone.

CLAY STOPS MITEFF IN SIXTH ROUND

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Unbeaten heavyweight Cassius Clay stopped a sluggish Alex Miteff of Argentina in 1:45 of the sixth round Saturday night to score his ninth straight victory since coming out of the amateur ranks.

The fast-moving Clay, after using Miteff for a punching bag through most of five rounds, sent him to the floor with a short but stiff right cross to the jaw in the sixth round.

Vols Erupt, Register 17-3 Win

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—A teen-aged tailback knocked cold in the second period came off the bench in the last half and carried Tennessee to a 17-3 victory over Mississippi State.

It was a rugged, ragged, injury-filled game that did not begin to make sense until 19-year-old Mallon Faircloth took personal charge of the Tennessee attack.

With the score tied 3-3 late in the third period, Faircloth rifled a 42-yard scoring pass to end Johnny Hudson and, with four minutes left in the game, sliced over from the six for the final TD.

Houston Rolls to Easy 21-0 Win Over B.C.

HOUSTON (UPI)—Houston halfback Ken Bolin raced 80 yards for a touchdown and intercepted three passes Saturday night to spark the Cougars to a 21-0 victory over Boston College.

Bolin's scoring dash came in the second quarter, shortly after Houston quarterback Don Sessions flipped a nine-yard touchdown pass to end Clem Beard.

Houston added an insurance touchdown in the fourth period when Bolin intercepted a pass from George Van Cott and returned it to the Boston College 3. Sessions plunged over and Eddie Mitchamore kicked the first of his three conversions.

Van Cott threw 41 passes, the most ever thrown by a Houston opponent.

Barber PGA Player of Year

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI)—The Professional Golfers Assn. Saturday announced the selection of Jerry Barber as "player of the year" for 1961.

Barber, who lives in La Canada, Calif., and represents the Wilshire Country Club of Los Angeles, received 405 votes out of a total of 1,227 cast by PGA members.

Arnold Palmer was second with 374 votes. He won the award last year.

In third place was Gary Player, the 1961 Masters Champion from South Africa, who received 140 votes.

Barber, 45, is 5-5 and weighs only 137 pounds. He did not join the PGA tour until he was 38.

Barber scored a dramatic win in the 1961 PGA championship last July by defeating Don January in an 18-hole playoff.

Attention Nimrods: Watch Those Birds

If the hunters are able to follow a suggestion of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service this season, drakes will be falling and hens flying. The USFWS feels that there are far more male ducks than females and it wants to put the birds, which are in short supply any way, back in balance.

There's only one way to accomplish such a request: Let the birds come close enough to determine males from females. Hunters with real experience always do this, but how about the novices, who far outnumber expert nimrods? Many of those beginners fire before they can distinguish the type of bird, much less sex.

Any way, we are passing along the FWS request in the hopes that it may do some good. It's a well-known fact that drakes outnumber hens each year when birds return to Canadian nesting grounds. Hens are more vulnerable to predators and to hunters.

If you permit the ducks to come close enough, you also can determine the species. Remember, there is to be no shooting of canvasbacks or redheads. And only ONE wood duck or ONE hooded Merganser to a bag limit.

FIRST OF CALIFORNIA'S migratory waterfowl season's—the tiny Colorado River Strip—opened at noon Saturday with few shots and fewer birds. The duck population there was so small that not even natives in the Blythe-Palo Verde area paid it any heed.

The main part of the state's duck and goose season begins next Saturday. Prospects are anything but good for the Southland. Your chance of getting a full limit of ducks (five) south of the Tehachapis is just about as good as the possibility of filling a trout creel with a limit of three-pound rainbows (also five)!

Opening of the Modoc National Wildlife Refuge at Alturas next Saturday is about the best news for the waterfowlers in a decade. Along with Tule Lake-Klamath Basin and Honey Lake Refuge, Northern California now has enough facilities to attract many hunters from this area.

Modoc will follow the state's split-season dates. Hunters will have 1,400 acres plainly marked with red signs, but here will be no camping, boats or fires. Blinds must be constructed of natural vegetation and digging of pits will not be allowed. For further information, write to Manager, Modoc Wildlife Refuge, Box 1439, Alturas, Calif.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—Johnny Dieckman, world champion professional, and Jon Tarantino, best of all the amateurs, had no trouble winning their respective battles in the international casting tournament at Oslo, Norway. Dieckman, of Costa Mesa, took 13,431 out of a possible 15,000 points to win his title. Tarantino, of San Francisco, scored 12,269 points and won the Garcia trophy for the fourth consecutive time. He had already retired one Garcia trophy with three successive victories.

He checked the fishing boats at Santa Monica Pier. He came back very happy about Pierpoint; he said he saw only a few small barracuda, undersize kelp bass and a halibut or two on one of their top boats. On the same day, Long Beach boats were getting yellowtail from Santa Monica Bay . . . that's the way this fishing business goes.

"WET-FLY FISHING" is the title of a book just placed on the market by the J. B. Lippincott Company, East Washington Square, Philadelphia 5, Pa., at $2.95.

The book was compiled by the editors of Sports Illustrated, but mostly the contents concern the activities of the late James Leisenring, one of the nation's most famous anglers up to the middle of this century. Text was supplied largely by Vernon S. Hidy, a close friend of Leisenring. Anthony Ravielli did the drawings and diagrams.

There have been dozens of books on fly fishing, but this tiny volume (100 pages) provides everything that the wet-fly novice needs in casting, fishing and tying flies.

PERHAPS WE ARE USING the wrong kind of bait—and lishing in the wrong places.

The National Wildlife Federation reports that a 14-year-old Nebraska boy, Robert Brashears, caught two of the year's largest bass with a kingsize worm.

Robert was using a small hognose snake for bait and his fish weighed 8-2 and 6-11. Robert thought so much of the bait that he retried it from the second bass and stored it in mom's refrigerator.

Two years ago Robert captured fishing honors in his area with a catfish that weighed 17-8. The bait? Same kind!

SPILL MARS FEATURE AT HOLLYWOOD PARK

By MAC McGUIRE

Harold McGinnis' Stephan Smith came on strong in the stretch to win the 13th edition of the $6,000 Pasadena Pace Saturday at Hollywood Park, but the race was marred by a spill when the 8-5 favorite, Newport Admiral, went down at the head of the stretch.

Newport Admiral tangled and fell and was held down by driver Eddie Wheeler until help arrived to untangle him from the buggy. The horse suffered a gash in the leg.

Stephan Smith moved up from fourth place in the stretch to overhaul Hark Win for a three-quarter length victory. Vicki's Jet, who led most of the way, hung on for third.

The winner rewarded his backers with a $10.20, $5.60 and $3 payoff. Hark Win returned $4.40 and $2.80 and Vicki's Jet $2.40.

THE EAST

Maryland Rallies to Clip Syracuse, 22-21

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI)—Gallant and gambling Maryland upset unbeaten Syracuse, 22-21, Saturday on an electrifying 66-yard run by an unheralded sophomore halfback and a clutch conversion catch by all-America candidate Gary Collins.

STATISTICS	Syra.	Mary.
First downs	12	18
Rushing yardage	194	234
Passing yardage	61	97
Passes	6-13	8-18
Passes intercepted by	0	1
Punts	6-34.1	7-37.5
Fumbles lost	0	0
Yards penalized	15	20

Syracuse	0	13	0	8	—21
Maryland	7	0	7	8	—22

The powerful Orangemen had just taken a 21-14 fourth quarter lead on Ernie Davis' touchdown when the Terrapin lightning struck with only six minutes to play.

* * * *

THIRD-STRINGER Ernie Arizzi burst through a gaping hole off tackle and raced 66 yards to the Syracuse 10. Dick Novak passed to end Dick Barlund for a first down six inches away from the goal line and Dennis Condie swept off tackle on the next play for a touchdown that put Maryland only one point behind.

The Terps, who could have been forgiven if they had gone for a tie against the favored invaders, went for broke instead with Novak passing to Collins in the end zone for the winning two points.

Collins then nailed the lid on Syracuse hopes with three straight bone-crushing tackles on the Orangemen's last offensive series.

ROCKETS TEST ANGELS AT BLAIR FIELD

Tom Sisk, who hurled three perfect innings last week, will toe the rubber when the Long Beach Rockets meet the semi-pro L.A. Angels today at 2 p.m. at Blair Field.

Manager Jack Graham has a formidable mound staff in Sisk, Bob Lee, Bob Clear, Don Rowe and Casey Cox. The Rockets won their first game of the year, 8-3, last Sunday.

The Winter League season will begin Oct. 15.

Two Aces Fired in Hesperia Pro-Am

HESPERIA—Phil Rodgers, young ex-Marine from San Diego, and Cecil Harris, an aging professional golfer from Anaheim, shot holes-in-one in the pro-amateur preliminary to the 36-hole $10,000 Hesperia Invitational Open.

Dodgers had the low individual professional score of even par-72 and collected $250. There was no special prize for the hole-in-one.

The low pro-am best ball team was a trio led by former University of Southern California ace, Al Geiberger, with a 60. He earned $200. Geiberger had an individual medal score 76.

In today's 36-hole open—played on one day—Rodgers is the apparent favorite. He was the only one of the hundred golfers who played in the pro-amateur to equal par.

The southern California golfer got his hole-in-one on the 210-yard No. 3 hole, and said "I was lucky. I hit that ball at least 80 feet to the right of the pin but the wind blew it in."

Rodgers had a three-stroke lead in the individual pro scoring over Billy Maxwell, Dallas, Tex. The 1957 Hesperia winner had an individual 75.

Jack Fleck, who won the Bakersfield Open last weekend, picked up on his individual score and his team finished well down on the list.

21 Harness Horses Perish at Saratoga

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (UPI) — Twenty-one harness horses perished at Saratoga Raceway Saturday when flames roared through one of a row of nine barns.

The loss, including horses, barn and equipment, was estimated at $150,000, a track spokesman said.

No persons were injured. Two grooms sleeping in the barn escaped.

The trapped horses could not be reached, but police arriving at the scene turned loose about 50 horses from nearby barns.

Riverside Crushed by UC Davis, 40-12

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — The University of California at Davis cranked up its powerful running machine Saturday to overwhelm its sister school, the University of California at Riverside, 40-12.

Davis amassed 229 yards rushing, while holding Riverside to a meager 42 yards on the ground. One of the windiest days of the year thwarted passing attacks of both schools.

Sunbeam Alpine Tours La Jolla

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

Late summer fun in the La Jolla sun . . . on a sporty run down South 101.

That was our lucky lot a weekend back as we went motorlogging equator-ward along the smooth blue Pacific to picturesque La Jolla, "The Jewel," aptly named seaside resort 14 miles north of San Diego.

And our conveyance this time was truly a sporty set of wheels, a smart new Sunbeam Alpine roadster, a native of Coventry, England, and brought to these shores by Rootes Motors who also number the Hillman and Humber cars in their line. This is the car that has been making hot news in sports car circles recently and a week-end behind the wheel showed us why.

Dale Brown, Long Beach Rootes group dealer at 2440 Long Beach Blvd., put the classy little Sunbeam at our disposal. If you saw the movie, "Butterfield 8," you'll recall the sports car Elizabeth Taylor drove to a sensational death crash at the picture's end. While her's was a fiery red Alpine, our loaner was a jet black beauty and our week-end script featured fun and relaxation instead of a tragic crackup.

And Dale emphasized the fun aspects of sports car driving as he put the wife and me in the Sunbeam early Saturday morning for our short week-end cruise.

"You're going to have nothing but fun driving this car, Art," the affable dealer enthused as I started the engine of the top-down roadster. "This is the car my wife and I drove all over Europe — over 3000 miles through England, Holland, Belgium, France and other spots on the Continent.

ACCENT ON FUN

"I know Highway 101 is not quite like driving in the Swiss Alps, but after driving that torpid truck (here he glanced scornfully at the pride of Detroit I had parked on his lot) you'll see what fun driving is really like. I know."

And once on our way down the busy beach highway we could see the wisdom of Brown's words. Darting in and out of the slower moving traffic, shifting up and down through the four-speed gearbox while the exhaust changed tone to each gear, cornering the feisty Alpine around 101's many curves with almost an imperceptible move of the wrist, did add up to real driving pleasure.

Lorraine took the wheel of the Britisher a few miles south of Laguna and agreed the sportster was a real goer. Not one to stint on speed when the highway allowed, she had us barreling along the freeway back of San Clemente at a smoothly purring 65, although our closeness to the road made it seem like 80. I thought she might complain about wind damage to her raven tresses, but with some sort of a fishnet affair to cover her locks and the Alpine's rolls-up windows shutting out most of the whistling sea air, we rolled sportingly along to our seaside haven.

Turning right off 101 at the La Jolla sign a few miles beyond Torrey Pines, we were soon in the center of town and our Saturday night stopover, the famed La Valencia Hotel, 96 miles from home.

There are many fine modern motels in the La Jolla area but our choice was this stately hotel, much older in years than its glass and stone counterparts but offering the charm and class that only a distinguished resort hotel such as the well-managed La Valencia can offer. In a few moments, luggage unloaded incidentally there was more than enough room in the Sunbeam for our large bag and hangered clothes) we were settled in a spacious suite. On La Valencia's fourth floor, the room was tastefully decorated, deeply carpeted and modern in every respect to telephone and TV. Broad-picture windows gave us a beautiful view south of Pacific Beach and San Diego. Right below us was Scripps Park and the famous Cove, famed skindivers' paradise. It was a beautiful setting for a relaxing week-end.

The Valencia boasts three fine restaurants and the Whaling Bar for light snacks. This unique room with its harpoons and ship lanterns was our choice for a tasty lunch to launch our La Jolla stay.

LOTS TO DO

And there's plenty to do here in this beautiful cliff-side town and surrounding areas. Golfers can play a different course every day of the week. Six courses are near the hotel, including the two new courses at Torrey Pines, only two miles away. Also there are the famed La Jolla Country Club, the Rancho Santa Fe course and the Mission Valley Country Club. The Mission Bay public course is a few miles south.

La Jolla is the scene of numerous national tennis tournaments and 12 excellent courts are just five blocks from La Valencia.

Deep sea fishing is available out of San Diego. Mexico, 30 miles away offers horse and dog racing, jai alai and bull fights as well as shopping for unique gifts along Tijuana's tourist-jammed streets.

There's an art center in town, the Scripps Institute of Oceanography with its aquarium exhibits is only a mile from Valencia, and there are the many interesting historical landmarks that mark the beginning of California close by.

But our Saturday afternoon didn't include any of these. We wanted a little more of the sports car feel so early afternoon found our Sunbeam exploring the twisting, turning road of Mt. Soledad. This is the highest point in the La Jolla area and gave us another taste of the two-seater's hill-eating ability as well as a terrific view of the whole San Diego area when we reached the summit.

Late afternoon found our Alpine parked at La Jolla Shores sandy beach where the huge, crashing breakers had attracted many surfers to the scene. While Lorraine lazed on the beach watching the young surfriders perform, I took a turn in the tangy Pacific but with a wary eye out for fins along the breaker line for it was right in this vicinity that a shark devoured a hapless bather two summers back.

DINNER IN SKY

Dinner at La Valencia that evening offered a varied menu along with the superb attention and service for which the La Valencia is famed. A very tasty prime rib dinner, my choice, brought a tab of $3.85, while friend wife sampled the lobster at $3.95. Martinis and most libations go for 75c. All this was enjoyed in the hotel's unique Sky Room which, high on the roof, gave us the beautiful sight of the late-summer sun dying slowly in the red-black Pacific.

An after-dinner drink and a round of dancing at the Luau, one of La Jolla's several night spots ended our evening on a high note. Sunday morning found us on a leisurely stroll, window shopping the many smart shops in this friendly town before sliding into our Sunbeam for an unhurried drive back to our own city on the sea.

Sports car drivers, I am told, aren't too concerned with gas mileage they wring from their multi-barrel carburetors. But if you are, the perfect-performing Sunbeam chalked up a respectable 25.2 mpg on the 223-mile round trip.

And another Motorlog tour was over. It was more of a relaxing than a running-and-playing trip but the highlights were a fun-to-drive car plus a hotel of character and charm.

We might sum it up by borrowing from a well-played commercial. Just hum along. "How did they do it, what did they do? Who put real fun in sports car driving? Alpine, that's who."

GRADE CARD

Is Homework Load Too Heavy?

By HARRY KARNS
School Research Associates

A 12-year-old boy named Robert recently wrote to the California State Department of Education:

"Can't you make them cut down on all this homework?"

Dr. Helen Heffernan, chief of the Bureau of Elementary Education, observes:

"He was merely echoing the cry of thousands of children for help in resisting the pressures which are denying their rights to childhood.

"Children and parents report four or five hours of homework with an extra dose over the week-end as common practice for middle and upper grade children. Isn't it unrealistic to insist that a child work a 50 or 60 hour week while parents and other adults object to putting in more than 40 hours at a job?"

THE DEBATE over the homework load is a perennial one among educators, between child and parent in the home, and between parent and teacher.

Experiments have shown that students do better in school when they have suitable homework assignments.

But how much homework, suitable or otherwise, is too much?

When homework keeps a child from normal after-school and week-end activities, it is time for parents to show concern.

IF YOUR CHILD spends every spare minute at homework assignments and never seems to have time to play a game of ball or go to the Friday night dance, it is time to check with his teachers. They may have ganged up on him without knowing it.

Some schools require teachers to keep in touch with one another and make sure that their total homework requirements are realistic.

A SECOND ISSUE in the great homework debate concerns the extent of the parent's participation.

Some parents carefully avoid making any contribution, either because of indifference or because they feel that the child is cheating if he gets aid in any form.

Other parents take over the books and do most of the work themselves.

In either case, the child gets short-changed.

MOST EDUCATORS agree the parent's role should be confined to that of provider and guide.

Here are some guideposts:

1. Provide the child a quiet, well-lighted place to work, with adequate space for his books and supplies.
2. Don't interrupt his work for trivial things.
3. Discuss the homework and its objectives.
4. Suggest where to get information.
5. Provide reference works such as dictionaries and encyclopedias.
6. Indicate how a given lesson or specific problem should be tackled.
7. Give examples, minor items or information, and "hints."
8. Leave the actual work to him.

Edgerton Quiet but has Many Interests

By United Press International

J. (for James) Howard Edgerton, a highly respected and widely known figure in the sometimes allied fields of politics and finance, has never sought publicity and has never had much of it.

But he has it now as the central figure in a dispute between former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and former California Gov. Goodwin J. Knight.

Knight charges that Edgerton offered him "any state job he wanted" to stay out of the gubernatorial race in 1962. Knight said Edgerton was acting as Nixon's "emissary." Both Edgerton and Nixon have denied the charges. Nixon and Knight have both announced as Republican candidates for governor.

* * * *

EDGERTON, 53, has never been elected to public office but he has been a strong figure in California politics on the financial side. He is a lawyer by profession and president of a savings and loan association with $661,000,000 in assets.

He is active in an amazing number of civic and social organizations. He seems to be a man who has few intimates, many friends and a large number of acquaintances—in an ascending scale.

Some politicians describe him as "stand-offish." Some bankers describe him as "friendly but not a pat-on-the-back type."

Edgerton acted as Knight's finance chairman when the former governor ran for the U.S. Senate—and was defeated—in 1958.

EDGERTON took some of the edge off Knight's announcement of his name as the alleged Nixon "emissary" by announcing previously that he would probably be the man named. At the same time he issued a denial of the charges briefly, and then elaborated on the denial after Knight's announcement by releasing a 1,000-word letter he wrote to the former governor.

Coincidentally — with his Republican background—Edgerton was a Lincoln's birthday baby. He was born Feb. 12, 1908, in Sulphur Springs, Ark.

* * * *

HIS FAMILY moved to Prescott, Ariz., when he was a tot and there he gave early evidence of a liking for and a talent in two fields—scholarship and outdoor living.

He learned to hunt and ride and was the center of a standing family joke — whenever his mother expected lunch guests she would send young Howard out in the morning with his gun and he would always return with a bag of doves for the table.

When Edgerton was 12 the family moved to Los Angeles and he graduated from the Harvard Military School with honors. He matriculated at the University of Southern California, received a degree from the liberal arts college in 1928 and a law degree in 1930. He was a diligent student, got high marks but did not neglect extra-curricular activities. He was a prominent member of the staff of the university newspaper, the Daily Trojan.

AT THE YOUNG age of 22, he took the California bar examination and passed. He joined a Los Angeles legal firm and married his college sweetheart, the former Catherine Colwell. They have two grown children and one grandchild.

In addition to practicing law and banking, Edgerton found time to get a commercial pilot's license. In World War II, he served as a flight instructor.

Fishing, hunting and golf are his hobbies. He likes trout fishing but deep sea fishing off the California coast in the Pacific is his favorite pastime.

Expert to Describe Searles Lake Rocks

Searles Lake, a dry lake at Trona, and its minerals will be described by Mrs. Harvey Hardman, Lakewood rock student, before the Long Beach Mineral and Gem Society at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Firemen's Memorial Clubhouse, 3295 Pacific Ave. The program is open to the public.

The following weekend, members will go to Searles Lake for a rock show and rock hunting expedition.

Volunteers Aim for Chest Full of Community Aid

...good neighbor policy

When United Neighbors Community Chest campaign opens here in ten days, Long Beach will see an at-home good neighbor policy in action.

Run by and for members of the community, the Chest venture is a true 'hands across the block' program.

Its volunteer door-bell ringing members are all neighborhood women and the money they raise all goes to support 33 Chest agencies which service families and individuals here.

Mrs. Francis M. Lowry, who was appointed chairman of the drive last January, heads the community-wide campaign. Working with her are six area vice-chairmen: Mmes. George Nye Jr., Lakewood; Leon Sternberg, Westside; Julius Molina, Central; Bruce E. Mitchell, Los Altos and Northeast; John B. Merrell, North; and Harry Krusz, Eastside.

* * * *

UNDER the leadership of these chairmen, teams in each section of Long Beach, Lakewood, Signal Hill and Dominguez have been organized during the past five months to solicit 143,334 homes and 5,000 business firms in the area.

The army of volunteers is comprised of 18 area generals, 100 colonels and 600 captains with from eight to ten workers each.

"The residential division quota of $92,920 is larger than the entire campaign goal of many other drives in the community," says Mrs. Lowry. "So it is imperative that we have a much more extensive campaign."

A former president of the Catholic Welfare Bureau and a past member of the Chest board of directors, Mrs. Lowry has served as residential division chairman for the past two years.

She also is a member of the Junior League of Long Beach and a board member of the Community Welfare Council and Community Volunteer office.

* * * *

WHAT exactly does the Chest do for Long Beach?

During the past year six family welfare agencies of the chest gave counseling or financial aid to 45,631 troubled families and individuals.

More than 69,000 boys and girls were enrolled in 16 character building agencies. Health clinics treated 1,354 children while the Visiting Nurse Service made 12,061 home calls on the sick.

Volunteers recruited through the Community Volunteer Office gave approximately 100,000 hours of work to augment staff duties of both Chest and civic agencies.

Three day-nurseries cared for 416 youngsters while Children's Home Society and Pacific Lodge Boys' Home furnished services for unwanted babies and boys needing specialized boarding care.

Older citizens were not forgotten either, with more than a thousand men and women over 60 enjoying programs, classes and social events arranged for their pleasure at the Volunteers of America's Sunset Club.

* * * *

HOSPITALITY in the form of parties, concerts, plays, movies, dinners attracted more than 1,000 servicemen a day to the Armed Services YMCA and transients received assistance from such agencies as Travelers Aid and the Salvation Army.

These are only a few of the accomplishments. Concise records are kept of all money turned in to the Chest. Receipts and window stickers are furnished donors and all solicitors wear volunteer tags identifying them as registered workers for the drive.

Says Mrs. Lowry, "It's the work of the individual volunteers who want to see sufficient health, welfare, and youth services within our four communities that makes all this possible.

"They deserve a great deal of credit, not to mention courtesy and consideration," she adds. "I wish it were only possible to give each one a bouquet for the magnificent job she's doing."

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1961 SECTION W

Nightingales Will Dance

Twenty-five years of swing will be telescoped into one evening's entertainment when Nightingales hold their charity ball in Lafayette Hotel, International ballroom, Saturday.

The formal event will be attended by more than 400 guests who will gather at the hotel for cocktails at 7 p.m. Dinner will follow at 8 p.m.

Money from the ball will benefit children of Long Beach in need of hospitalization and medical treatment.

NIGHTINGALES, junior group to Children's Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, has a limited membership of 40. During the past year it gave a total of 3,368 volunteer hours to the hospital and earned $6,330 for medical care there.

Members and husbands of the group's patron committee will be special guests at the ball. They are Messrs. and Mmes. Loether J. Buck, Harrison E. Moore and Alfred D. Williams and Drs. and Mmes. Frederick G. Jensen and Montie Magree.

MRS. MOORE, president of the Children's Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, will give a cocktail party for the patrons at her home preceding the ball.

Members of the committee in charge of the ball are Mmes. John Cockriel, Donald Hardy, Stratten Easter, David Main, John McCawley, William Price, James Siprelle and Stuart King.

Associated committee members are Mmes. Gerald Barber, Robert Lemon, Donald Tosh, John Elder, Lamont Davis, Travis White and Norman Show.

Table arrangements for the event will consist of individual topiary trees decorated with roses of autumn hues.

NIGHTINGALES TURN stork with their latest venture—that of acquainting expectant mothers with Memorial Hospital facilities by way of monthly "Stork Club" teas. Here two members of volunteer group, Mrs. Stratton R. Easter and Mrs. Raymond B. Lake Jr. (seated), check over guest list for next tea. Money from Nightingale ball Saturday will benefit this, other hospital work by group.

A 'MODEL' WARDROBE

Travel: Make Light of It!

BLACK KNIT DRESS takes on travel airs when combined with red walking coat, black fur toque, meet-the-sleeves black kid gloves by professional model Diane Olson for three-week tour of Europe.

By MARY ELLIS
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Taffy-haired, green-eyed and terrific, Diane Olson is a model teenager. Her obvious assets: tremendous good looks and difficult-to-come-by fashion flair.

At only 17-plus, she knows (already) umpteen ways to whip together a model wardrobe—be it for job-going in Long Beach or globe-trotting in Europe.

Proof positive are the studies in black and white on this page, showing Diane's talent for getting real go-power out of travel clothes.

* * * *

THE BLACK knit dress, here doing a double take with character-changing accessories, is part of the capsule flight-weight wardrobe that will take Diane to Europe (in style) on Oct. 13.

Jetting away with her family (parents Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Olson and 14-year-old sister Donna), she'll tote only one suitcase.

Her one-suitcase wardrobe has been accomplished a la Olson with monochromatic planning, add-a-piece styling—and accessories, accessories, accessories.

* * * *

DIANE'S BASIC wardrobe color is black—with only one departure, a red, slim-styled walking coat.

Her clothes line-up includes two black knit dresses, a black wool dress with double-breasted shortie jacket, black petit point cocktail dress (high cut), two-piece black cotton shirtwaist, a black and white tweed travel suit and black cashmere topcoat.

Her wardrobe spicer-uppers: three colorful blouses for casual wear with an extra black skirt, a black cardigan with detachable black fox collar, white fox shrug and white satin toque for after-five, both long and short kid gloves in black and white (wardrobe musts), a black fur toque and a well-chosen array of costume jewelry (pearls and gold).

* * * *

DIANE'S seeming flair for charming her wardrobe into a this-minute or go-anywhere frame of mind is no accident.

Earning a cool $10 for quickie fashion shows at the age of 15, today she's considered one of Long Beach's most sought-after models.

She's said "cheese" for Wilma Hastings agency assignments, TV commercials and innumerable news photogs when reigning as queen of everything from Olympic competitions to commercial promotions.

And certainly, Diane's Europe-going wardrobe proves she's learned her "model" well — especially when it comes to selecting high-style fashions that go a long way.

SAME BLACK KNIT goes femme fatale when dressed up with white fox shrug, pearls, white satin toque and long white gloves. For even more formal dressing, Diane will wear black petit point cocktail dress, combine it with same accessories.—(Staff photos by Joe Risinger.)

Original Fantasy Opens Play Series

"The Magic Riddle," an original fantasy produced by Santa Monica City College Family Theater will open the current Programs for Children series Saturday morning with two performances, 10 and 11:30 a.m., in Long Beach City College auditorium.

Sponsored by Junior League of Long Beach and Long Beach Children's Theatre, this one-hour piece is co-authored by Hal and Gene Owens, founders of the SMCC project. Under direction of professional faculty instructors, students handle theater management, makeup, costuming, set design, lighting, acting, dancing and sound effects.

Started with cooperative action by the college, Santa Monica P-T.A. and elementary school principals, Family Theater has won numerous educational citations, including a special award presented by the California State Department of Education.

* * * *

ONE UNIQUE feature of the Santa Monica project, this year celebrating its 10th anniversary, is the production of new plays written specifically for the college actor to perform for youngsters and their families. Aware that children are keen observers and deserve the best in theatrical fare, SMCC is attempting to cultivate future theater audiences by offering festive and obsorbing live theater experiences.

Requests for season tickets, priced at $2.50 for the five-program series, may be made by contacting Mrs. Francis Fillipow, 471 Daroca Ave., or at the box office

Laurie K. Lloyd, Ken Adler Wed

In an elegant setting of stark white with bright red accents, Laurie K. Lloyd became the bride of Kenneth R. Adler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Adler, 4237 Palo Verde Ave.

Following the ceremony, held at Lakewood Country Club, a champagne dinner was served. Music was furnished by Hal Rose and his orchestra.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie A. Lloyd, 4320 California Ave., wore an Italian original gown of lace and silk pleated organza with jeweled neckline and sweeping bell-shaped skirt.

* * * *

WEARING red silk, Sharon Adler served the bride as maid of honor. Robin Goncher was flower girl.

Bridesmaids, dressed in white peau de soie, red jeweled veils and carrying heart-shaped red bouquets, were Sandra Symonds, Suzanne Lane, Sharon Licata, Mary Kramer, Jean Farrow and Birdetta Eggert.

* * * *

MITCHELL ADLER was best man; Danny Lloyd, ringbearer. The 350 guests were seated by Ronald Jessner, Kenneth Lloyd, Allan Kroll, Lawrence Lloyd, Ronald Rosen and Robert Lane.

Following a honeymoon at Lake Tahoe, the newlyweds are residing at 5585 Dairy Ave.

Both are graduates of Poly High School. The bridegroom attended Long Beach State College, where he was affiliated with Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

Laurie L. Whiteneck Reveals January Date

Laurie Whiteneck

Laurie Lynn Whiteneck's engagement to Gordon Duncan Cummings Jr., son of Mrs. Kathryn L. Cumming, Bronxville, N. Y., has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lynn Whiteneck of 905 E. Carson St.

Friends of the parents and young couple were informed of the forthcoming wedding at a recent cocktail party at the bride-elect's home.

The wedding will take place in January.

* * * *

MISS WHITENECK was graduated from Poly High School where she was a member of Tasma, and USC where she pledged Delta Delta Delta.

Her fiance was a student at Cornell University, Ithica, N.Y., and Columbia University, N. Y. He holds a degree in electrical engineering from USC.

Sisters Will Attend UDC Convention

Mrs. O. L. Skinner and her sister, Mrs. Grover C. Ballard, will leave on a month's trip Monday which will culminate in their attendance Nov. 6-9 at the United Daughters of the Confederacy general convention in Jackson, Miss., as representatives of Gen. Joe Wheeler Chapter, Long Beach.

En route they will visit another sister, Mrs. Minnie Blackburn in Nashville, Tenn., and will attend the convention of the John B. Randolph Society of UDC at the Hermitage Hotel. Mrs. Robert Bachman, president general, will be honored guest and speaker.

* * * *

THE TRIO then will go on to Birmingham, Ala., for a visit with Mrs. Blackburn's son before attending the UDC conclave in Jackson.

Final stop before returning to Long Beach will be for a visit with a niece in Miami, Fla.

Music Club Slates Formal Opening

Mrs. Don Gilson

Mrs. Don L. Gilson will officiate as president of Woman's Music Club for the first time Wednesday when the group holds its formal opening at 1:30 p.m. in Ebell Auditorium.

An active member since 1950, Mrs. Gilson has served on the executive board, as curator of groups, recording secretary, first vice president and printing chairman.

She is a graduate of the Conservatory of Music at Erie, Pa., and took advanced vocal training from Madame Von Klenner in New York City.

* * * *

HER MUSICAL debut was made with the National Opera Club of America in New York. She appeared as leading soloist in the American operetta "Carmelita" in Erie, Pa., and later won a scholarship award at the St. Cecelia School of Music at Grand Rapids, Mich.

She is a past president of the local P-T.A. Mothersingers and of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Union City, Pa.

The afternoon program will feature Betty Olsson, concert and operatic soprano, who will be introduced by Ona Lou Hondrum.

The meeting will be opened with an inspirational reading by Mrs. I. B. House.

Voice of the Vikings

SURFING FILM SCREENS AS AMS FUND-RAISER

Liberal Arts

Strictly the "Voiceless Vikings" last week, students of the Long Beach City College liberal arts division are back in print (this week, anyhow), thanks to a couple of interim contributors.

Members of the Associated Men Students are sponsoring a fund-raising surfing movie, "Barefoot Adventure," at 8 p.m. Monday and Wednesday in the college auditorium. The production is filmed and narrated by Bruce Brown, with original sound track composed by Bud Shank. Tickets available at the door both nights.

* * * *

FIRST LBCC Theater Arts production of the season will be Thornton Wilder's "The Skin of Our Teeth," scheduled Oct. 27-28. Leading roles will be played by Virlee Stickles, Alan Ross, Marlene Silverstien, Ted Cheadle and Deanna Del Buono. Director is J. L. White.

Dr. Rodger Swearingen, associate professor of international relations at USC, addresses the Student Forum at 11 a.m. Wednesday on "Life Behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains."

Alpha Mu Gamma, foreign language honorary, has elected Jeff Valentine as fall semester president. Other officers are George Viera, Carolyn Older, Thelma Diaz and Manfred Hanneman. Alpha Gamma Sigma, scholastic honorary, is currently conducting a drive for new members among those who attained the requisite grade-point average last year.

Business, Technology

On the Pacific Coast Highway campus two relatively new musical organizations, the Evening Band and the daytime Dance Band, continue to grow under the direction of Earl Thomas and plan a number of performances this fall. Additional performers are still welcome.

First Co-Rec program of the new term will be held Saturday from 8-11:30 p.m., with sports activities and dancing co-sponsored by Theta and Electrical Industrial Regents. Earlier on Saturday, Student Council members will attend the Southern California Junior College Student Government Association conference in Pasadena.

RUSHING is still in progress for several BTD clubs. The Order of Kisab has accepted 17 new members, who now undergo a four-week pledgeship period. Sigma Delta Phi rushees will entertain Sigma members with a talent show Wednesday evening. Bruce Hatch, president of International Club, announces the group's first off-campus social gathering for this evening.

New officers of the Inter-Club Council are Dave Bleasdell (Airframe and Powerplant Club), president; Ken Curry. (American Society of Tool and Manufacturing Engineers), vice president; and Vicky Kelly (Theta), secretary.

No pregame odds have been posted, but the BTD faculty has challenged the Student Council to an exhibition volleyball game at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the gymnasium.

Lunch Set by Chapter

Los Cerritos Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will open its club year with a luncheon program in the Lafayette Hotel Tuesday.

Mrs. John G. Kirk will discuss national defense and members will report summer travel experiences.

Reports also will be given on the recent Constitution Day program and Regional Conference.

The Wild Waves Say . .

By IOLA MASTERSON
I, P-T Women's Editor

IT WAS a double barreled celebration at the Long Beach Yacht Club the other night when a gang of friends gathered to honor Johnnie Miller on his birthday. You see, the women in the crowd were ushered, along with the male guests, downstairs and through a door clearly marked, "Men Only." No, Mable! The party site was the Skippers' Cove — that sanctum sanctorum of the stag luncheon and card party, a place which is, 99 per cent of the time, off-bounds to the gals.

'Johnnie-on-The-Spot'

Following cocktails, during which time Johnnie opened a veritable mountain of gifts and the crowd howled at the variety of totally disrespectful greeting cards, they meandered on back upstairs to co-existence territory for dinner.

* * * *

IF YOU had followed your ear to the source of joyous noises coming out of Orange County all week you'd have wound up on the doorstep of Flo and John Brooks. The noises have been typical of the kind made by people who learn they are grandparents for the first time. Stephen Sanford was born in Coronado Saturday, Sept. 30 to Elizabeth and Lt. John Brooks.

Now hear this, civilians, and count your blessings whatever they may be. Dad John leaves NEXT Sunday for a nine-month Navy cruise to Thailand. At the moment he probably grimly suspects his son will be in first grade before he ever sets eyes on him again.

* * * *

ON THE other hand, and still speaking of the Navy, let's give the devil his dues, by reporting the case of Eileen (Ball) and Lt. Cmdr. Nevin Rockwell. Wouldn't be surprised if Eileen has his new orders framed and on the wall, they're that pretty to her. They'll be on their way to Hawaii next month for three glorious years shore duty at Pearl Harbor. About time for some plush stuff. After all, Nevin has just returned from seven months in the Pacific and their baby daughter, Randy Anne, is six and one-half months old. So to heck with the dues to unowho.

Dues to Nevin, though. He helped win the coveted engineering Navy E for excellence from this past sea duty aboard U.S.S. Treble.

* * * *

WHIZ GOLFER Ruth Miller and her partner won a first at a Riviera Country Club member-guest tournament the other day—low gross someone said, and in a case like this least is "the most." Also playing were localites Kay Elliott and Elva Lawson. Asked to comment on THEIR standing in the event they countered with "Enjoyed the play . . . lovely course . . . fine club . . . " Their remarks, freely translated: "Back to the driving range for us."

* * * *

INVETERATE card and bouquet sender Georgeine (Mrs. Harry) Christensen is currently residing in St. Mary's Hospital where she can make a first hand study of other people's methods in the flowers and greeting card sending department and at the same time recoup from surgery undergone earlier this week. Her friends now have a chance to get even with her. Check with yon sterling ether emporium before bustling over in person; not too sure of her medic's orders regarding visitors yet.

* * * *

THE PROBLEM isn't to pull a rabbit out of a hat—but a hat out of the imagination in the case of socialites preparing for the always smart Headless Ball, sponsored by the L.B. Auxiliary to the L.A. Philharmonic, calendared for Nov. 4. Help is now on the way for those women determined to construct their own intricate "hats" for competition. Tabi Dorgan (their leader) had a coffee hour and instruction-on-construction session. Those unable to attend clamored for additional lessons from Virginia (Mrs. Earl B.) Milton, parade chairman and instructoress deluxe. Two more build-a-chapeaux coffees are set. One Monday morning at Vera (Mrs. Robert) Wallin's home and another on Oct. 16 at Isadine (Mrs. Ken) McCalls. Anyone planning to attend the ball and compete is welcome.

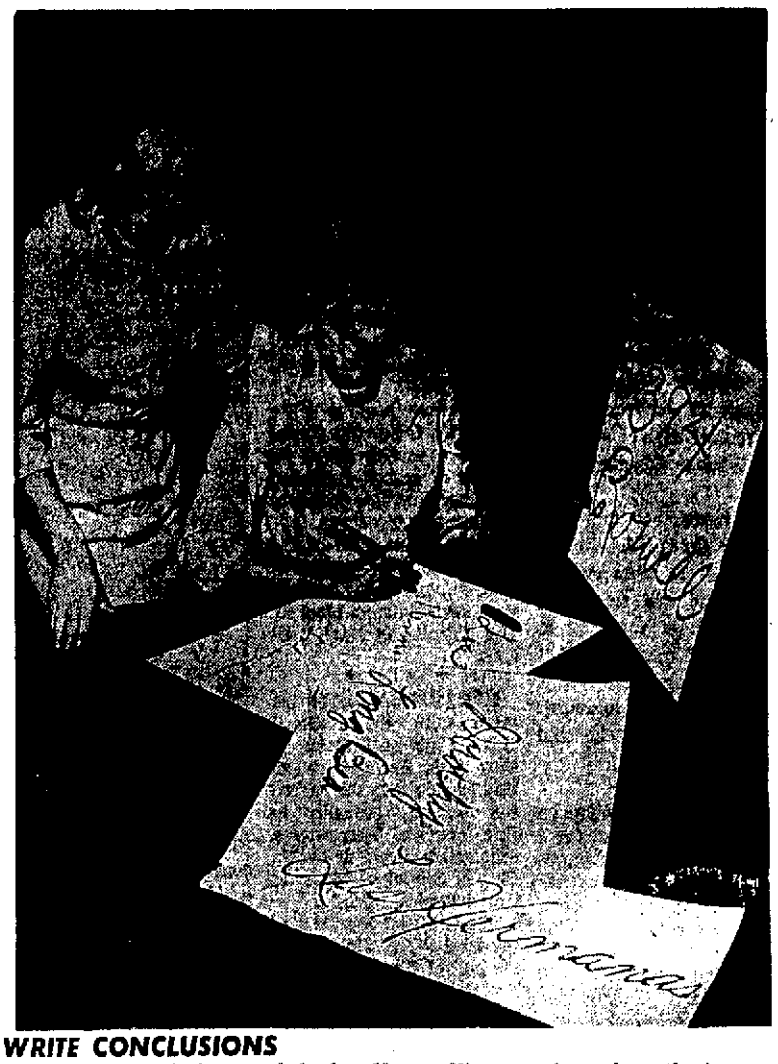

'The Hat Trick'

* * * *

THERE'S one driver in Katherine (Mrs. Irving) Smith's golf bag that wears its hat at a jauntier angle than the others. More like a halo effect. It's the one that made a hole-in-one for her at Hacienda last week, a 155-yard clout on the third hole. Witnesses to this club and player triumph were her foursomers Pat Straten, Barbara Beasley and Nancy Swartz. The accomplishment makes Katherine feel a little less like the black sheep of her family. Her Dad, Earl Cody, has done it at Virginia and her sister, Marjory Burris, joined the hole-in-one fraternity on a course in Schnectady, N.Y. Katie isn't too sure she'll ever catch up with her sister, even so. Marge is one of New York State's champion women golf amateurs.

* * * *

STEALING THE show—and everything else handy—was Paul Parrish who astounded Rick Rackers with his sleight of hand tricks at their party at Bev and Jim McCormack's. They tell me he really was quite astounding, making everything from lighted cigarettes to bulky sweaters just disappear into thin air. Hey! Where did my typewriter go?

Altrusa to Fete Visa Students

ALTRUSA CLUB
Under the 1961-63 theme, "Make Real the Ideal," Altrusa Club is launching its new program of service by having as dinner guests a group of 20 Visa students, members of International Club of Long Beach City College, and its president, Robert Wickland, at 7 p.m. Monday in Lafayette Hotel.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Alexis Jacoubowsky, Altrusan and president of Southern California Chapter, AAUN. The program is being arranged by Teresa Parker, international relations chairman. Plans will be completed for benefit card party Oct. 25 at Whaley Park Clubhouse with proceeds earmarked for Community Rehabilitation Center.

CSNA DISTRICT
A fashion show featuring current and antique styles in uniforms will be presented by Miss Dorothy Heller of Nightingale Uniform Shop following the monthly business meeting of District 42, California State Nurses Association, at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Cafeteria at Memorial Hospital.

MEDICAL ASSISTANTS
Malcolm C. Todd, M.D., will discuss the King Bill and its effect on the general public and the medical profession, when he is featured as dinner speaker by Long Beach Medical Assistants at 6:30 p.m. Monday at the Hawaiian. Dr. Todd also will acquaint his audience with recent developments in the merger of CMA and COA.

WOMEN ACCOUNTANTS
Women Accountants will hear of "Automation as Applied to the Insurance Business" when Paul L. Hughes of Wilshire Insurance Co. speaks at the dinner meeting of American Society of Women Accountants, 7 p.m. Wednesday in Boulevard Room of Lafayette Hotel.

Brunch Slated

Alpha Eta Chapter of Theta Sigma Phi sorority will host the annual fall brunch of Beta Province on Oct. 15, 11 a.m., at the Ports O' Call, San Pedro.

Theme for the party will be Hawaiian-hillbilly with entertainment by the Long Beach Whirlaway Square Dance Club.

Wed in Chapel

In the presence of their immediate families, Patricia Furth Dinel of Long Beach became the bride of Theodore John Morse, Seattle, Wash., in an afternoon ceremony at Aloha Wedding Chapel.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Dinel, 213 La Verne Ave., and the late Arthur Dinel, wore an afternoon dress of yellow chiffon with matching accessories.

* * * *

THE COUPLE was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sharpe as matron of honor and best man. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother.

The bride is a graduate of Poly High School.

After a short wedding trip, the newlyweds are at home in Long Beach.

WRC Card Fete

President Myrtle Thompson will sponsor a card party for Woman's Relief Corps 93, Auxiliary to GAR, Monday in the Garden Room, Third Street and Alamitos Avenue. Luncheon will be served at noon. The public is welcome.

Hit 'I Do' Production Stars Pair of Localites

Big news on the matrimonial beat is the quiet Las Vegas ceremony of last Sunday which starred Peg Finley and Glenn St. George in a hit "I Do" production!

They returned to Long Beach Monday night. And guess what. Glenn learned he had to turn right around and head for Phoenix early Tuesday morning on a business trip! Don't panic. He's back again. The honeymooners are having close friends in this afternoon for cocktails and a post-nuptial celebration.

'Some Wedding Gift'

Incidentally, the first thing the bride did when she also returned to work Tuesday (she is public relations staffer for L. A. Athletic Clubs including our Pacific Coast Club) was to answer her phone in the old, familiar way: "This is Peggy Finley speaking . . ." Yeh. It was Glenn calling long distance from Arizona.

Parade of Fall Fashions

"An Autumn Afternoon of Fashion" is the theme for the annual fashion show and luncheon to be given by Long Beach Area Council of Beta Sigma Phi Saturday noon in the Grand Ballroom of Lafayette Hotel.

Proceeds will benefit the Long Beach Chapter of Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

General chairman of the event, Mrs. Nick Mosich of Delta Chi Chapter, is being assisted by Mrs. A. W. Anderson, president of the council; Mrs. Spicer Ramsay Jr., past president; and committee members from the council's 21 chapters.

* * * *

NEWEST fashions and accessories from Vinson's of Long Beach and Bixby Knolls will be shown as Beta Sigma Phi members model designs by Abe Schrader, Nat Tuman, Dorothy O'Hara and Nathan Strong.

Background music will be played by Paul Buzard's string ensemble. Attractive door prizes will be awarded and a lucky ticket holder will receive a $100 gift certificate.

The show is open to the public. Tickets are available from any Beta Sigma Phi member, at Vinson's or at the door on the day of the show.

ZBT FILM BAGS COVETED AWARD

A chronological approach to the Long Beach State College activities scene reveals the following:

1. LBSC's Zeta Beta Tau chapter nabbed their fraternity's third most coveted prize at the recent national convention in Chicago when they brought home the public relations award. The trophy goes to the chapter or individual who has done the most to enhance the fraternity's reputation. Stu Rosen's rush film combined with ZBT's rapid growth and participation in campus affairs in its 18 months of existence were the big factors.

2. Tonight sees another program in the series co-sponsored by the Long Beach Film Society and the LBSC Associated Students. The program consists of Rene Clair's "A Nous La Liberte" (Give Us Freedom) and a unique crime tale, "The Stranger Left No Card." Because of the very large turnout for the first program two weeks ago, the one-show-per-night policy has been changed to showings at 5 and 7:30 p.m., both in the Little Theater.

3. Women's Week starts tomorrow on campus with a panel discussion and forum, continues with the traditional AWS "Hi-Jinx" Wednesday evening, and winds up with the crowning of "Diamond Jim," also traditional, at the Diamond Jim Ball Saturday night.

4. Two top Evenings-on-Campus offerings are on tap Thursday and Friday. The first is a concert by famed counter-tenor Russell Oberlin and the second is a lecture by author Vance Packard of "The Hidden Persuaders" fame. Both programs are at 8 p.m. in the Little Theater.

AND TO CLOSE out our column, some information on Delta Gamma: the sorority chartered a 40-passenger bus to attend last night's football game at San Diego . . . 12 pledges bring the DG roster to more than 60 members . . . two Saturdays ago the seniors kidnaped the pledges for a 6:30 breakfast and last Monday the pledges retaliated by absconding not only with their Big Sisters but, seemingly more important, also all the forks and spoons in the Delta Gamma House,

Well, to continue—DG is represented among the song girls by Connie Sonntag and Linda Bush . . . three of the five offices in Spurs (sophomore service honorary) belong to DG's: Judy Krenwinkle, veep; Kitty McCoy, secretary; and Karen Wood, historian . . . and a little farther to the north on the USC campus is Carol Ream who not only is the National Sweetheart of Sigma Chi, but is a Delta Gamma as well.

ST. GEORGE AND THE DRAGON

Carved figure of St. George and the Dragon by Hans Bruggenann, created about 1520, is one of featured works in "Arts of Denmark" show on view at Los Angeles Municipal Art Gallery through Oct. 29. Hours are 1 to 9 p.m. Mondays through Fridays; 1 to 5 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. Examples of current work also are shown.

Twin Bill, New Time for Films

"Give Us Freedom" (A Nous La Liberte), Rene Clair's film satire, will be shown at 5 and 7:30 p.m. today in Long Beach State College's Little Theater as the second program in Long Beach Film Society's current series, "Perspective in World Cinema." The picture is a critique of life in our mechanized age.

Co-feature will be "The Stranger Left No Card," winner of the 1953 Cannes Film Festival.

The 5 o'clock show was requested by the "Evenings on Campus" committee of the college to accommodate new patrons and students. Subscribers may attend either showing.

Series memberships or single admissions will be available at the box office before performances.

New Programs at Museum

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

If you've been puzzled about the whole subject of art because you're a novice, or if you're an expert and want to share your interest, a new program at Long Beach Museum of Art may be for you.

Sponsored by the American Association of University Women and open to all without charge, a series of art lectures will begin Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. at the museum. Subsequent lectures will be given each second Tuesday morning of the month through May.

The programs will be correlated with the museum's new "Master Work of the Month" series, which will show selections of art by modern or past masters.

Says Mrs. Frank A. Vorhes Jr., art chairman of AAUW, "Basically it will be the viewing of the master work and, through the lecture, understanding its relationship to the present trend in art."

First subject will be George Romney's "Emma, Lady Hamilton."

Three branch libraries have interesting exhibits through the month of October.

Metal sculpture by Robert Gronendyke is at Bret Harte Branch, 1595 W. Willow St. (His steel and brass sculptures of characters from Bret Harte's stories are a permanent feature of the library.)

Gronendyke, now a member of the art faculty of the University of Montana, has current exhibits in Los Angeles.

Dorris C. Stogner, 701 Janice Drive, has her first one-woman show at Dana Branch, 3680 Atlantic Ave. She has lived in Long Beach since she was a child and has been painting since 1955. Her first training was in the local schools; she studied later with Long Beach teachers. She is a new member of Long Beach Art Association.

Two Long Beach State College art majors have oil paintings on exhibit at Ruth Bach Branch, 4055 Bellflower Blvd. Bob Wilson is a senior, Jim Simpson a graduate student. Both are Californians in their early 20s. Wilson is primarily concerned with "things with which people surround themselves — these tell more about men and women than facial expression." To Simpson, form is incidental to color.

A ONE-MAN show of prints by Sam Michaels opens today at Gambit Gallery, 23 39th Place; hours will be 1 to 5 p.m. daily through Nov. 5. A few pieces of his sculpture also are on exhibit.

Michaels began studies in 1951 at Chouinard Art Institute, spent three years at Los Angeles County Art Institute and studied during the past year with Dick Swift at Long Beach State College. He is now teaching art in the General Adult Division of Long Beach City College.

MASTERWORK

"Emma, Lady Hamilton," by Romney, is on display at Long Beach Museum of Art as first exhibit in "Masterwork of the Month" series.

Famed Ballet to Open Nov. 20

The Leningrad Kirov Ballet, formerly the Maryinsky Ballet, will visit Southern California for 11 performances in Shrine Auditorium starting Nov. 20 under tour management of S. Hurok.

Repertoire will include three full-length ballets, "Sleeping Beauty," "Swan Lake" and "Giselle" as well as many short and exciting ballets.

Viking to Modern Art in 'Denmark' Exhibit

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

"Arts of Denmark, from Viking to Modern" at Barnsdall Park is an exciting and comprehensive show, one that appeals to all, including children, as well as lovers of fine art. As lovely as any are two amber objects, a bird and a bear, elegantly carved in from 8,000 to 5,000 B.C. Flint axes, daggers, and chisels show artistry as well as efficiency.

The adornments of the Vikings, a silver and gold helmet, massive necklaces, rings, belt-buckles, etc. are beautiful by today's standards. The same could be said for the earthenware vessels and other implements of use.

* * * *

ST. GEORGE and the Dragon of 1520 is a handsome life-size sculpture in wood, beautifully summarized, with the writhing reptile in his last throes. Many other works from the medieval period are shown.

Arts and crafts of the 17th and 18th centuries are most handsome. The porcelain and silver done in that time in shapes and simplicity are more "modern" than French, English, and German works with which we are, perhaps, more familiar. Of particular beauty was a large linen hanging embroidered in red silk, and a "bishop's bowl" in blue and white faience.

Among the contemporary, we were particularly impressed with a teak double salad bowl by Modeller, a sterling water jug by Hans Hansen, and a quilt (the likes of which grandmother never made) by Ann-Mari Kornerup.

Elman, Iturbi Booked for Concert Date

Internationally - famous musicians, violinist Mischa Elman and conductor Jose Iturbi head the list of guest artists who will appear on Orange County Philharmonic Society's five-concert series this year.

Elman and Iturbi will be featured with the 60-piece Orange County Philharmonic Orchestra March 30 in Fullerton High School Auditorium.

Other concerts, all to be played in Orange Coast College Auditorium, are:

Oct. 20, with the society's musical director, Frieda Belinfante and guest artists Virginia Majewski, violist, and Isarael Baker, violinist.

Dec. 1, the orchestra with Constantin Bakaleinikoff, guest conductor.

Jan. 13, Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, directed by Hans Schmidt-Issertadt.

April 27, Freida Belinfante will direct; guest artists will be Marquita Moll, soprano from the Metropolitan Opera, and Hernan Pelayo, South American baritone.

Tickets for the series are now being sold throughout the county, with individuals, service clubs and business firms cooperating. They also may be obtained at the Philharmonic office, 201 West Coast Highway, Newport Beach.

Eight Win Scholarships

Scholarships have been awarded to eight music students at Long Beach State College.

Jaclyn Marquart, 618 W. 38th St., a freshman, was awarded the $100 Woman's Music Club of Long Beach scholarship. A pianist who also plays string bass, she received the Gill Award as outstanding 1961 music graduate of Poly High School.

The Kiwanis Club awarded $100 scholarships to Dennis Kelly of Anaheim and Burnette Dillon of South Gate. Kelly, a freshman, is a vocalist who has already won a number of honors including two scholarships from the Southern California Vocal Association. Dillon plays the trumpet.

Library Gets New Discs

Symphonies and concertos were added to the Phonograph Record Section of the library during the week.

Included in the new selections are "Concerto in D Major for Violin" by Brahms with Sziegeti and London Symphony Orchestra; Klemperer and the Philharmonic Orchestra in "Symphony No. 5 in C Minor" by Beethoven; "Concerto No. 1 in G Minor for Organ and Orchestra" by Handel; "Concerto in D Minor for Violin and Orchestra" by Sibelius and "Concertette for Viola and Band" by Morton Gould.

Discs may be borrowed for a two-week period for a nominal rental fee.

'Redhead' and 'Phoenix' Next Offering at LBCC

Agnes Moorehead as "That Fabulous Redhead," will share a double bill with Christopher Fry's "A Phoenix Too Frequent" in the second Long Beach City College "Evenings at Eight" program of the year Friday night in the college auditorium.

Though no more season tickets are available, approximately 200 single-admission tickets will be sold at the box office Friday evening.

Produced by Paul Gregory, the program will feature Miss Moorehead, noted for her many stage, screen and television roles, in a one-woman virtuoso performance of readings, mimicry and theatrical reminiscenses. The readings will be from such sources as James Thurber, Marcel Proust, George Bernard Shaw and the Bible.

* * * *

STARRING in Christopher Fry's satirical one-act verse comedy will be Richard Gray, who also directs the production, and Mayo Loizeaux, supported by comedienne Louise Vincent. . . .

Setting of "A Phoenix Too Frequent" is an Ephesian tomb. Dynameme, a beautiful young widow (Miss Loizeaux), is determined to follow her beloved husband to the after-world. She is accompanied by her earthy handmaiden Doto (Miss Vincent). Their plans are considerably implicated by the accidental entrance of a handsome and gallant Roman corporal, Tegeus (Gray).

Maior & Minor Notes

DOWNEY SYMPHONY IS CREDIT TO FOUNDER

By RACHEL MORTON
I. P-T Music Critic

The little town of Downey is most fortunate in having a really excellent symphony orchestra, and the success of that orchestra is directly attributable to its founder and conductor, Mario Cajati.

I had some misgivings when I was asked to review a concert by this symphony last June. But I came away excited and enthusiastic. Recently I attended their first concert of this season and was again deeply impressed.

Who was this man, Mario Cajati, and where did he come from? He kindly obliged by coming to see me and we had a most stimulating afternoon. Mario Cajati, once an assistant to Arturo Toscanini, was born in Naples, Italy, some 45 years ago. He has crowded a lot into those years. He has lived with music all of his life. His brother was a cellist, one sister a pianist, the other a harpist. So ensemble music was the daily diet! His uncle Salvatore Cajati, was professor of violin and cello at the Naples Conservatory.

SO, WHEN MARIO was 8 years old he entered his uncle's class studying violin and cello. After NINE years (please note this, "hurry up" American students!) Mario Cajati received a diploma entitling him to teach. But he wanted more study so he went to Rome and graduated from the Rome Conservatory of Music, where he studied composition, harmony and of course, the cello.

During his student days in Naples this ambitious young lad got a job in the orchestra of the San Carlo Company, its youngest member at 13 years. This early training accounts for his vast knowledge of opera.

BUT I ALWAYS wanted to be a conductor," stated Cajati, "even as a boy." The San Carlo Opera Company went to Egypt for an opera season and young Cajati went along, visiting Alexandria, Cairo and other cities. Cajati's father despaired of his young son's roving proclivities and when he was 15 he gave him an ultimatum. Either settle down, or get out. "I left home," related Cajati, "and I have earned my own living ever since."

After graduating from the Rome Conservatory he concertized successfully as cello soloist all over Italy. This reconciled his father, who finally advised him to try America. It so happened that Mario's uncle, Gaetano Merola, was the impresario of the San Francisco Opera Company, and it was to him the father entrusted the wandering son.

"But," said Cajati, "as soon as I reached New York I heard of a position for cellist on a ship for South America. In two weeks I was aboard and I visited Buenos Aires, Santiago, Montevideo and other South American cities. It was a most thrilling experience."

BACK IN NEW YORK he auditioned for the symphony orchestra which played daily at the Roxy Theatre under Erno Rappe. He was engaged in the cello section and played for two years.

A great admirer of Toscanini, he longed to play in his orchestra. Fifty cellists auditioned and two were accepted: Mario Cajati and the brother of Eugene Ormandy. The great Toscanini became his friend and counselor and Mario Cajati never conducts a concert without the baton the maestro gave him. For 20 years Cajati played with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra under Toscanini and later under Mitropolus; always watching and learning the conductor's art.

"I told my father that I would die with a stick in my hand," he declared.

(To Be Continued)

Dr. Chapman to Lecture

Dr. Norman C. Chapman, head of music at Pierce College, will discuss the "Background of Contemporary Music" at a meeting of Musical Arts Club Monday at 6:30 p.m. in the Empire Room, Wilton Hotel.

Dr. Chapman, who received his degrees from Columbia University, is a flute soloist and former member of the New York Philharmonic.

Clayton Barrie, newly-elected club president, will open the meeting. Izora Brandt, program chairman, will introduce the speaker.

'Peter and Wolf'

Actor Joseph Schildkraut will narrate the musical fable, "Peter and the Wolf" when the Meremblum Junior Symphony of California plays Prokofieff's lilting music at their silver anniversary concert in Santa Monica Civic Auditorium Nov. 5 at 8:30 p.m.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

Ringless All Ways

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Every time the phone rings my heart jumps. My best beau and I broke up about six weeks ago.

We didn't really have a fight. He simply said he thought that going steady was silly unless we planned to be married soon. And he knew that "soon" was out for us.

I have plans for college next year, and so does he. We had agreed to wait for marriage until we both graduated. Then he decided it had to be all or nothing. So it's nothing.

His last words were, "Well, I'll give you a ring sometime." But so far he hasn't. I'm scared to leave the house for fear he'll call. —BROKEN HEARTED MEG

DEAR MEG:

It's the old, old story of "all alone, by the telephone —," isn't it?

Well, dear Meg, why don't you write a new chapter to the old story? Leave the telephone all alone, for a change. Or else keep it busy as all get out calling your friends and making dates and getting back into circulation!—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

What do you think of a fellow who sends you home from a party with another couple just because he says he's sleepy and has an exam tomorrow? That happened to me last week-end, and I'm still spitting mad. Should I ever date him again?—SPITTING MAD

DEAR MAD:

Never! And I'd let the word get around school about what happened. So maybe he won't get a date with anyone for a long time—at least until he's caught up on his sleep.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Our son is a great worry to us. He is 18 now and will undoubtedly be called up for army training soon.

He is a funny lad, though. He hates regimentation, says he can't stand the idea of barracks life, and no privacy. We keep telling him he MUST face the inevitable. He keeps trying to figure on a way out.

What do you do with a boy like this? We love him dearly, but we do think his attitude is cowardly.—MOM AND POP

DEAR MOM AND POP:

You can't serve for him, you can't "suffer" in advance for him. If he doesn't realize that he is one among millions and must conform, then he's going to have to learn that stern lesson from his Uncle Sam.—M.M.

the sensational new cream for aging skin

For two years, scientists in Switzerland and America secretly tested a totally new kind of skin cream on hundreds of women, aged 26 to 74.

Now, the facts about this remarkable cream for aging skin can be told. Now, the cream is here!

Can a cream really make dramatic improvements in aging skin? Today, the probability exists as never before! Doctors and research scientists from four great universities tested 'Eterna 27' by Revlon.

They saw remarkable results in 6 out of 10 cases. Usually the skin with the most apparent signs of age showed the most improvement. It has no hormone activity... no hormone effects. 'Eterna 27' 2 oz. $8 plus tax and has a money-back guarantee. (c) 1961 Revlon, Inc.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Result Is Worth the Effort

DEAR ABBY: My life is such an unhappy mess I don't know where to begin. I am 22 years old. I am not married, engaged or going with anyone. I never have had a date or kissed anyone. Once a boy tried to kiss me and I didn't know how to respond. When I was in high school I had several boys for friends, but they never asked me out.

ABBY

All the girls I know are either married or have boy friends. If a boy shows an interest in me I become frightened and don't know how to act. My relatives call me "old maid" behind my back, and some even to my face. I am not unattractive. I am neat and clean and have a good figure and dress well. I don't go to church so don't send me to a clergyman. I can't afford the prices I've heard psychiatrists charge. I don't want to go through life alone. I'm sorry I can't sign my name. (Sign me) . . .—OLD MAID AT 22

DEAR OLD MAID: To have friends you must be a friend. For one troubled by shyness, this is not easy. But you must make an effort to give of yourself through association with people—at your office, in charity work, at church. No one goes through life wholly "alone" except by choice—his choice. Relax, dear, you have nothing to lose but your loneliness.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: When parents have passed away what happens to the gifts given to them by their children? Does any one of the children have the right to help herself to jewelry, appliances, linen, silver or anything else? I always thought the gift should go back to the person who gave it. This has caused a lot of hard feelings in our family, and I would like some opinions rather than my own as I have been called . . .—"SMALL AND GRASPING"

DEAR SMALL: The gift should be returned to the giver. The adjectives applied to you seem to fit other members of your family more appropriately.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: My mother doesn't care what she looks like when she goes anywhere. I gave her a few tips on how to fix her hair, and what to wear, but she says I am being fresh and, if I don't like the way she looks, to keep it to myself. She could be a pretty woman if she would take a little time with herself. How can I help her without getting her mad—EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: It is understandable that a mother would resent "criticism" from her 13-year-old daughter. Offer your suggestions in a more tactful way, and your mother will probably be more receptive. And perhaps even grateful.

Registration will take place Tuesday. Others attending from Long Beach will be Mrs. Ven Fahrney, Millard Nichols and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Forrest. The Long Beach foundation is a member of the National Association.

* * * *

THURSDAY afternoon new developments in research will be discussed and the first official delegate session will get under way. Regional meetings and a social hour are planned for the evening.

Following Friday morning's general business session, meetings concerning public education and rehabilitation, private and public residential centers and the U. S. Children's Bureau have been scheduled.

What's on the Menu?

The following menus will be served in Long Beach elementary schools in the week of Oct. 9-13:

MONDAY: Spaghetti with franks, buttered green beans, Mandarin pear half, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

TUESDAY: Cheese bean burger, buttered whole kernel corn, garden salad, oatmeal cookie and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Neapolitan salad, Hawaiian coleslaw, sliced peaches, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

THURSDAY: Hot meat loaf with gravy, mashed potatoes, tomato-cottage cheese salad, cinnamon yeast rolls, and milk.

FRIDAY: Tuna noodle casserole, garden peas, cantaloupe wedge, French bread and butter and milk.

The above items make up the elementary children's lunch 30c.

JUNIOR-SENIOR HIGH

MONDAY: Ham slice with creamed potatoes, coleslaw, fruit gelatin, cornbread and milk.

TUESDAY: Taco, Rio rice, buttered green beans, apple Betty, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Chopped steak on mashed potatoes, buttered peas, tomato-cottage cheese salad, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

THURSDAY: Cheese bean burger, buttered corn, strawberry sauce with topping, celery sticks and milk.

FRIDAY: Tuna a la king on cheese biscuit or tamale pie, garden salad, fruit cup royale, coconut bar, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

Today, Revlon ends the secrecy:

For two years, scientists in Switzerland and America secretly tested a totally new kind of skin cream on hundreds of women...aged 26 to 74. Their purpose was to prove or disprove whether Science had finally created the formula that could cause visible improvements in aging skin. Today, the remarkable facts, documented by doctors, can be revealed about

'ETERNA 27' by Revlon
WITH EXCLUSIVE PROGENITIN®

Can a cream really make dramatic improvements in aging skin? Is this possible? Today, the probability exists as never before. Surely no woman will deny herself the chance to find out if she can regain a look she thought had gone forever.

SCIENTISTS ARE SKEPTICS. They believe only what they can prove. Doctors and research scientists from four of the world's great universities tested 'Eterna 27' with exclusive Progenitin.® Their signed documents state exactly what they saw this cream do for women.

IN 6 OUT OF EVERY 10 CASES... they saw remarkable results. Usually, the skin with the most apparent signs of age showed the most improvement. In most of the remaining cases, while the change was not so dramatic, the skin did look more youthful and definitely smoother. With such medical testimony from prominent specialists in the field of skin care, can there be doubt that here, at last, is the kind of cream that women have hoped for with every passing year? In just 40 days of use, you will see how your skin responds.

WHY 40 DAYS? Tests show that 'Eterna 27' begins to show results after 2 to 3 weeks of faithful use. But like a medicine, like a special diet . . . it takes time for the cream to do its work. In 40 days, the maximum benefits are visible. But remember that 'Eterna 27' is not plastic surgery, not a cure. It is a special cosmetic treatment against aging skin. To keep the benefits, the cream should be used nightly thereafter. For if you deprive your skin of the vital ingredients that caused the improvements . . . the benefits will disappear. Your common sense will tell you that.

NO COMPLICATED RITUAL. You simply massage 'Eterna 27' into your skin. In seconds, it disappears. With it, there's really no need to use any other night cream . . . because 'Eterna 27' acts as lubricator, moisturizer, eye and throat cream.

PATENTED FORMULA. The 'Eterna 27' formula belongs to Revlon, and Revlon alone. Its vital basic ingredient, Progenitin, is patented for use only by Revlon. It has no hormone activity . . . no hormone effects.

GUARANTEE. 'Eterna 27' can do more for you than any other cosmetic cream—whether it costs $20, $40 or $100. 'Eterna 27' is $8 plus tax. If, after faithful use, you don't agree this cream has fulfilled its promise to you, simply return the jar for a total refund. The first limited supply of 'Eterna 27' is at fine cosmetic counters now.

Your doctor is invited to see clinical photographs and documentary evidence, by appointment with the Medical Director, Revlon, Inc., 666 Fifth Avenue, New York.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Something Fishy Going On!

William Gillis

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Ir P-T Food Editor

There's little doubt but that he could relate the life story of the tuna. He's actually academically and professionally aware of all the various stages of growth of that worthy fish—even to its wiggle. Today's Chef of the Week, William (Bill) Gillis, is vice president in charge of all production for the Van Camp Sea Food Co., more specifically, Chicken of the Sea.

Born in Eureka, Calif., Gillis inherited his knowledge of all things marine from his dad, one of the founders of the old White Star Cannery Co. It merged with Van Camp's Sea Food Co. in 1914. Our "chef" came to Long Beach while still at the crawling age.

* * * *

AFTER finishing school in 1933, he took off on a tuna clipper, and toured the coast of South America. His various sea jaunts would run anywhere from 60 to 120 days, depending upon the catch.

After three years at sea, he came into Van Camp's Terminal Island office, going into the purchasing department. Three years later he was sent to Astoria, Ore., as plant manager. Since then, Gillis has managed both the San Diego and Terminal Island locations. Presently he is responsible for the processing of hundreds of tons of tuna each month, being in charge of all production in Pago Pago, Manta, Equador, Puerto Rico, Samoa, Ponce and in both Freetown and Abidjan, Africa. He's as much "at home" in these various cities as he is at Terminal Island.

* * * *

A MASON, Gillis also holds memberships in the Petroleum, the Gyro and the Long Beach Yacht Clubs.

The Gillis family consists of a son who is in the Army, and two daughters, Sheryl and Patricia, 19 and 17 respectively. They share their dad's enthusiasm for swimming, water skiing and yachting.

Affable and interesting, he has a multitude of friends for whom he'll whip-up a Chicken of the Sea Tuna-Mushroom Cashew Casserole at the drop of a hook so to speak.

TUNA-MUSHROOM-CASHEW CASSEROLE
(Serves 5)

- 1 cup (½ pint) commercial sour cream
- ¼ tsp. ground oregano,
- ¼ tsp. thyme
- ¼ tsp. basil
- Salt and ground pepper
- 2 6½-oz. cans drained Chicken of the Sea Tuna
- 2 cups (cooked) elbow macaroni
- ½ cup sliced ripe olives
- ¾ cups sliced mushrooms (and juice)
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- 2 large celery stalks
- 4 green onions and tops
- ¼ cup chopped cashew nuts
- 1 cup (4 ounces) grated process-type American cheese

Combine sour cream, oregano, thyme, basil and salt and ground pepper in large bowl. Add tuna, macaroni, olives, mushrooms, green pepper, celery, onions and nuts. Mix well. Spoon into 1½-quart casserole. Sprinkle cheese on top. Bake in moderate oven (350 F) 25 to 30 minutes. Serve at once. This recipe is also very good when served as a cold salad with hard boiled eggs added.

Grand Slam Is Problem

For the last 25 or 30 years most leading bridge players in this country have either shunned four-card major suit openings entirely or only bid them when there was no other convenient bid.

Certainly the one club opening by North is a convenient bid and it was no problem for South to wind up at six hearts. Actually, there was a problem. He thought about bidding seven!

West opened a spade and located the queen of spades for South. He drew trumps, discarded one of dummy's diamonds on his long spade and made all the tricks.

* * * *

THERE WAS considerable discussion at the table about whether or not the other North-South pair would reach seven hearts, but no one imagined what actually happened. At the other table North wound up playing six hearts. East opened the four of diamonds and North lost the diamond finesse right off the bat. Later on, he misguessed the spade and wound up going down.

How did North get to six hearts? He was one of those players who liked to open with a major suit whenever possible on the theory that he could play more hands that way.

He opened with one heart. South jumped to two spades and again the partnership toyed with the idea of a grand slam, but stopped at six.

New Marina Development Under Way

HOUSING FOR HUNDREDS of vacation visitors will be provided under the $7 million development now under way in Long Beach by the Marina Property Co. The big project is being developed by the Homer Toberman Enterprises, Beverly Hills, and Martin L. Burton Co., Los Angeles contracting firm. This artist's rendering, looking east, pin-points some of the project. No. 1, at the intersection of Pacific Coast Highway and Second Street, will be a de luxe lodge of 200 rooms and some shops, directly east of Buffums' Marina Store. No. 2 is the Marina. No. 3 is boat slips in the canal running from the Marina to the Bixby properties. No. 4 is the center of a de luxe trailer park with 324 sites. No. 5 is the location of a 100-unit motel with ample parking for boats and trailers. Grading for the trailer park, to be known as Belmont Shores Mobile Estates, is now being completed and work will start this week on the travel lodge site. Roy A. Sealey is the architect on the project.

Marina Vista Homes Grand Opening Today

CHARM IN BIG HOME

Stone and brick are combined in this dramatic fireplace treatment at Marina Vista, new development in the Belmont Shore-Naples area of Long Beach.

Official grand opening of Marina Vista, new development of $23,400 to $26,250 one-and-two-story homes in the Belmont Shore-Naples area, starts today.

A fireplace in the master bedroom and a separate sewing room are among the unusual features of the one-and-two-story, three - and four-bedroom furnished models, which are open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily.

* * * *

NO DOWN payment for veterans, and excellent conventional financing has been arranged for Marina Vista. Features include: Oak hardwood floors, brick and stone fireplaces with gas log lighters, heavy duty aluminum sliding glass doors to patio areas, electric door chimes, king-sized wardrobes, Waste King built-in automatic dish washer, Wedgewood Holly built-in range and oven with triple rotisserie, two see-through doors, coved vinyl flooring, garbage disposal, hardwood birch cabinets, imported half-coved ceramic tile drainboards and splash, safety-glass shower doors, imported mosaic tile in all bathrooms, pullman cabinets with imported marble top and splash.

To reach Marina Vista take Pacific Coast Highway 101A south to Long Beach Traffic Circle, continue on Highway 101-A one long block past Long Beach highway sign ("See the model with the fireplace in the bedroom!") pointing to Marina Vista furnished models.

CLUBHOUSE FOR TRAILER PARK

Here is the architect's rendering on one of the two big recreation buildings planned for the Belmont Shore Mobile Estates. A large clubhouse, some shops, swimming pool and other recreational facilities are included.

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1961 —R-1

Real Estate and BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Grandson Into Firm

James R. Seaton, pioneer Long Beach Realtor, announces the association of his grandson, James R. Selover, in his firm as a full partner. The firm, to be known as Seaton & Selover, Realtors, will specialize in close-in homes and income properties.

Seaton, who first came to Long Beach in 1912 and moved to his present location at 452 West 7th St. in 1923, stated that he is not retiring but is turning active management of the firm over to Selover, who joined with him as a salesman in 1954.

Seaton has long been active in local civic, church and fraternal affairs. He served two terms on the City Council from 1948 to 1954, and was instrumental in choosing the sites for the Civic Center and Navy Landing developments. He is a charter member of All States Lodge No. 593 F. & A.M. and a 50 year Mason; a member for over 30 years of the Long Beach Board of Realtors.

Selover is past president of the Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce and is a member of the Urban Renewal Advisory Committee. A native of Long Beach he is a graduate of Wilson High School, City College, and holds BA and MA Degrees from Long Beach State College.

His paternal grandfather was the late Frank M. Selover, managing editor of the Long Beach Press-Telegram.

Says Realty Investment Rates High

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Chicago economist James C. Downs Jr. says real estate is one of the best investments possible—and adds:

"You hear of someone who suffered a 25 per cent loss in his investments due to a downturn of the stock market, but who knows of anyone losing 25 per cent of his investment in real estate?"

Downs, addressing 5,000 delegates to the California Real Estate Convention said home building is booming because Americans "have to build to obtain what they want and need."

Ford Strike Cuts Output

DETROIT (AP)—Automotive News said the strike at Ford Motor Co. curtailed the building boom in the auto industry this week and held output to an estimated 106,146 passenger cars.

Last week production totaled 122,593 and in the comparable week of 1960 it was 140,984.

General Motors returned to full production this week, boosting its output from 39,000 to 65,000 cars. But Ford, hit by a national strike Tuesday, dropped from 39,000 to 8,900.

Marjorie Lemons Buys Realty Firm

GARDEN GROVE—A name change from Banes Realty to Lemons Realty and the purchase of the business was announced by the new owner Marjorie Lemons.

The former office manager of the Banes Realty, Miss Lemons said that she had purchased the office at 8752 Garden Grove Blvd., from the former owner Peter Banes.

OFFERED IN SUN RAY ESTATES
This is one of the models of Sun Ray Estates in Westminster where veterans may buy without a cent down. Prices start at $19,300 and carpeting and fences are included.

Vet Needs No Cash in Sun Ray Estates

A revolutionary concept of home purchasing is making Sun Ray Estates in Westminster the "hottest tract in Southern California," says a spokesman.

An innovation in financing permits a veteran to buy one of these award-winning homes without one cent of investment (no down, no costs and impounds) and the purchase starting at $19,300, includes wall-to-wall carpeting, concrete block fencing, plus over 15 other features distinctive of the Providence Series as seen in the recent Los Angeles Home Show.

FHA terms are also available, requiring a minimum of investment.

* * * *

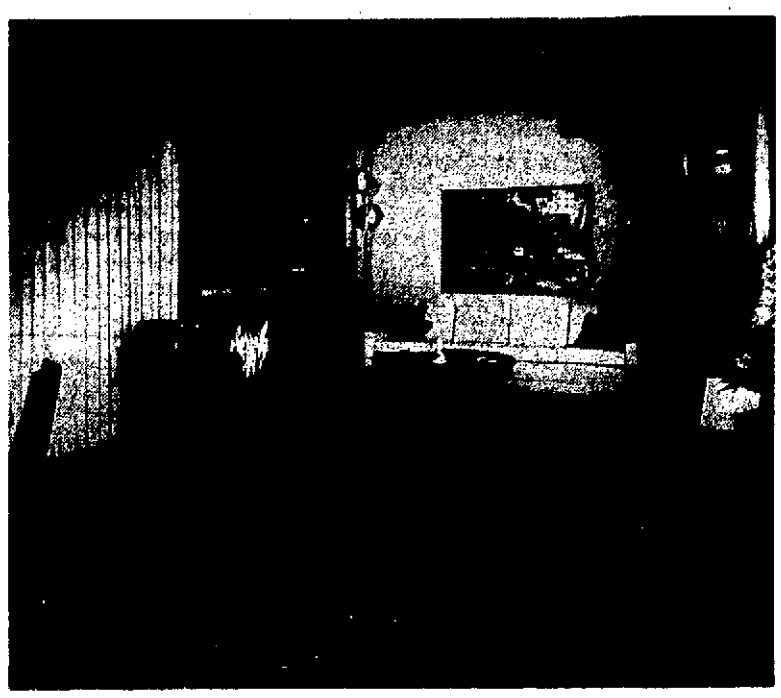

CREATING a great interest is the 64-inch decorative concrete block fence that encompasses the rear yard of all the homes in the tract, making it a truly "walled city." Not only does the inclusion of this feature eliminate a costly initial expense to the new home buyer, but it prevents what has been in the past a source of many a feud between neighbors based on "what kind of a fence to put up and who is going to pay for it."

THE HOMES are three- or four - bedroom plus family room with breakfast bar. All have forced air heat thermostatically controlled, built-in range and oven by O'Keefe and Merritt, natural pine cabinets in the kitchen, and the front yards are landscaped. Attached or detached garages are available and several elevations have fireplaces with log lighters.

The location of these homes in Westminster, sometimes referred to as "south of the smog and east of the fog," is one of the most pleasant climatically in the Southland.

The model homes are on Garden Grove Boulevard at Seneca, which is about five miles east of Seventh Street and Pacific Coast Highway in Long Beach, or about one and one-half west of Highway 39 (Beach Boulevard) if coming from the other direction.

Large Family Rooms Proving Hit at Private Road Estates

BIG ROOMS APPEAL
Choice of fireplace, exterior design, cabinet finish and other details are now available at the new Anawood "Private Road Estates" community. Priced from $21,650, the group of 35 individualized homes feature large lots, and both three and four-bedroom plans with family rooms. Models are on Euclid just north of Katella in Anaheim.

A wide variety of family rooms combined with other good design features, make the new Anawood "Private Road Estates" homes a hit with visitors at the preview showing last week, builders George M. Holstein and Sons reported.

Priced from $21,650, terms as low as $1200 down are available for the large three- and four-bedroom homes that feature extra large pool-size lots and choice location.

* * * *

THE POPULAR family rooms can be completely closed off from the formal living areas of the home or left open as the owners mood dictates, the Private Roads sales head, Jack Enders, explained.

Built in kitchens with choice of several cabinet finishes, custom hardware, and a customized selection of colors, wallpaper, paneling, floor finish, and fireplace are all part of the Private Road "personal selection" at the West Anaheim - Garden Grove area development.

* * * *

QUIET LIGHT switches, tile eating bars, large tiled baths, and a wide selection of Hawaiian, Contemporary, Provincial or Ranch exteriors meet approval with Private Road buyers, Enders declared.

From the Long Beach area to the Anawood "Private Estates" model homes, go out Seventh St. to Hwy. 39 and turn north to Katella. Stay east on Katella to Euclid and then turn left (north) to the models. The models are just north of Katella and just south of Ball Road on Euclid.

MAYOR PRESENTS AWARD

Don Herlacher (right), 2515 Zandia St., is presented a certificate naming him as Sears "Citizen of Jubilee Year" from Mayor Edwin Wade. A salesman of Sears Long Beach, Herlacher was chosen by fellow employes to compete with other western employes.—(Staff photo.)

'CITIZEN OF YEAR'

Sears Store Honors Won by Herlacher

During September, Sears, Roebuck and Co. employes, in each company unit, cast their ballots to select a candidate for the "Sears Citizen of the Jubilee Year."

"Through this contest," stated Charles H. Kellstadt, chairman of the board, "we are seeking to recognize outstanding employes for past and present service to their communities and hope to encourage future citizenship activity among all employes."

Kellstadt pointed out that Sears employes have a proud tradition and outstanding record in civic and welfare activities. "We feel it is most fitting, he said, to so recognize, during our Jubilee Year, another one of the qualities that has made Sears an important part of the American scene over the past 75 years."

Five hundred employes cast their ballots in the local Sears store announced C. W. Teed, manager, and voted Donald Herlacher as their most outstanding Sears Citizen. He has been with the local store for 20 years and has devoted many hours to such activities as Junior Chamber of Commerce, Civic League, Y.M.C.A., Boy Scouts and P-T.A.

He will compete with other winners on the West Coast for a grand prize trip to Washington.

PAYMENTS FIT MOST BUDGETS

Homes like this are offered in the new Stardust Homes Catalina Series at Huntington Beach on low monthly payments, $104 to veterans and $107 on FHA terms. Vets may move in for $99 down and non-vets for $250.

Low Payments for Big Stardust Home

The low monthly payments—$104 to veterans, $107 on FHA—are drawing crowds of home buyers to Stardust Homes in Huntington Beach, said Robert H. Grant, Orange County builder.

Stardust's monthly payments include everything—principal, interest, taxes, and insurance, Grant said. Only one loan is involved in the purchase; there are no second trust deeds.

Available are $99 total move-in costs for veterans, and $250 move-in costs for non-veterans.

* * * *

OFFERED WITH three- or four-bedrooms, family room, and two baths, the Stardust "Catalina Series" homes include hardwood floors. The homes, which are situated close to famous beaches, enjoy ocean breezes and freedom from smog.

According to Grant, the new four-bedroom models are making a special hit with large and growing families visiting the development. Included in these spacious models are "Jack and Jill" expandable bedrooms which close off by night to give children separate sleeping quarters, but join together by day for a larger play area and easier cleaning.

* * * *

QUALITY FEATURES of the homes include: Built-in range with 20-inch oven; forced-air heating; copper plumbing; vinyl linoleum in kitchen and baths; separate utility room; mahogany doors, panels and cabinets; pullmans with oval sinks and automatic hot and cold water mixer.

From Long Beach, the homes may be reached by driving east on Seventh Street, turning right on Bolsa Chica and continuing south two miles to Bolsa Ave., then left to models.

Faith Is Broken After 7 Years

SPARTA, Wis. (AP)—Thomas O'Hearn told an employe in his grocery in 1954 that he thought most people are honest. To prove it, O'Hearn put a dollar bill on the visor of his car in full sight.

The bill was stolen from O'Hearn's unlocked car, but not until it had remained there for seven years.

On the dollar, O'Hearn had written, "I believe people are honest. If you take this dollar, I won't believe that any more."

Expandable Living Room Is Featured

One of the award-winning floor plans at Golden West Estates, in Huntington Beach, includes a living room which expands to a full 36 feet when joined to the adjacent den, said George and Merlin Sant of Sant Construction Co., co-builders with McCarthy Co. The den may also be closed off and used as a fourth bedroom, they said.

Offered with three or four bedrooms, two baths, family room, and an oversized two-car garage, the Golden West homes may be purchased for as little as $17,500.

Available are exceptional new 35-year 5¼% FHA terms, now offered for the first time in Huntington Beach, said the builders. FHA down payments are from $800. Also offered are GI no-down-payment terms, and conventional terms with down payments from $695.

* * * *

ANOTHER OF Golden West's popular floor plans includes both a front entranceway patio and a secluded side patio, both giving access to a spacious kitchen-family-living room complex. This plan also offers a "lift-up" door in the garage, giving access to the back for a boat or trailer.

From Long Beach, the homes may be reached by driving east on Seventh St. to Golden West St., then right to furnished models.

Norwalk South Unit Draws Big Crowds

Very large crowds continue to visit Norwalk South, the one and two-story Balanced Power home community in South Norwalk, reports Gordon Riches, general sales manager of Key Lang Co., sales agents.

"Although a complete selection of exterior elevations and floor plans are still available, we expect to be sold out of several models soon," Riches said. "Buyers looking for a wide choice of homes should definitely stop by this weekend," he added.

Brentwood Gardens Low Price Featured

Extra-low pricing is stressed at Brentwood Gardens to assure veterans of getting the most value for their money, said Larry Weinberg, president of Larwin Co., builder-developers.

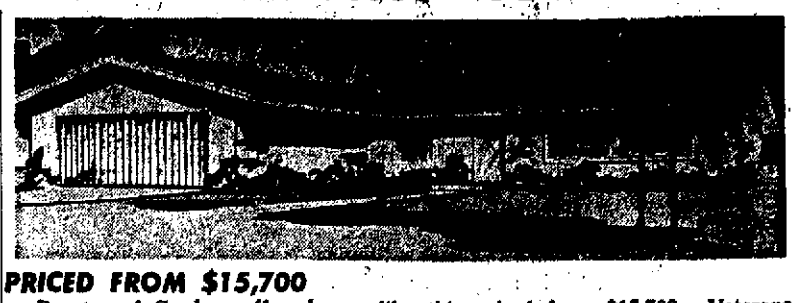

Recognized as one of Orange County's largest subdivisions, Brentwood Gardens offers pricing from $15,700, with monthly payments of just $87, including principal and interest.

Rated at 12 minutes from Long Beach and 25 minutes from Los Angeles, the Brentwood Gardens homes are offered with veterans' total move-in costs of $95. Available in the present unit only are minimal $1 veterans' total move-in costs.

ACCORDING TO Weinberg, Brentwood Gardens homes are built to include quality features impossible to duplicate at the price, including: Vinyl flooring, customized ceramic tile counter tops in kitchen, lath and plaster walls, custom cabinet hardware, Pulverator, double sink, forced-air furnace, aluminum sliding doors, 100-amp electrical service and oversized gas water heater.

Offered with three or four bedrooms (or three bedrooms and family room) and two baths, the homes are situated close to inviting beaches, playgrounds and parks.

From Long Beach, Brentwood Gardens may be reached via Carson (which becomes Lincoln Avenue), east to Knott Avenue and the model homes.

PRICED FROM $15,700
Brentwood Gardens offers homes like this priced from $15,700. Veterans need only $95 cash to move into one of the large homes.

Bolsa Park Already Half Sold

APPEALING HOME
The floor-to-ceiling fireplace is one of many appealing features offered in Bolsa Park Homes.

Sales have soared past the half-way mark at ocean-close Bolsa Park, Huntington Beach, said builder Roger C. Werbel. Many of these sales are to buyers who have purchased before and thus gained understanding of how to choose a finer home, Werber said.

Extensive use of ceramic tile and lath and plaster walls highlight at Bolsa Park.

Offered with three or four bedrooms, two full baths, and a family-dining room, the Bolsa Park homes are situated on pool-sized lots with ample room for outdoor living. Pricing is from $19,250, with VA no-down payment terms, 35-year FHA financing with 5¼% interest, and 6% conventional financing.

Four new Bolsa Park plans feature custom entry and loggia areas. These give access to all rooms, cutting wear-and-tear on living areas to a minimum.

* * * *

QUALITY FEATURES include shake, cedar shingle, or rock roofs; floor-to-ceiling fireplaces of brick or Palos Verdes Stone, ash kitchen cabinets with raised panels; ceramic tile drain boards; O'Keefe & Merritt gas range and double-window oven with rotisserie; disposer; range hood; dishwasher; sliding glass doors; forced air heating; concrete rear terrace and copper plumbing throughout.

From Long Beach, the homes may be visited via Seventh Street east to Bolsa Chica, turning right and continuing south two miles to models.

Work Progressing on Leisure World

NEAR COMPLETION
Progress on first of three elaborate clubhouses under construction at Rossmoor Leisure World, Seal Beach, is viewed by Lewis M. Letson (left), administrator, Golden Rain Foundation, and M. E. Ward, vice president-construction. Four-story globe in background is also nearing completion.

Completion of the first of three elaborate clubhouses with banquet facilities for 600 persons and a four-story high globe which will mark the entrance to Rossmoor Leisure World, is planned for Nov. 1.

The clubhouse, with 15,600 square feet of floor space, will include a lounge, game room, club meeting room and facilities for a wide range of arts and crafts activities. Shuffleboard courts, horseshoe pits, roque courts and parking areas will be located adjacent to the clubhouse.

* * * *

THE 14-TON globe, 30 feet in diameter, will revolve in a pool of water 50 feet in diameter. Sixty flood lights submerged in the water will bathe the globe in a rainbow of continuously changing color. The unisphere's land masses representing the world's continents will be accurately scaled and mountain ranges will be sculptured in three dimensions, Ward said.

Rossmoor Leisure World, Seal Beach, which is planned for competition in two years, will comprise 6,750 one and two-bedroom co-operative apartments. It will be the first development in the nation to include medical care and drugs, short of hospitalization, as part of the monthly payments.

Upon completion, the community also will include a 12 and one-half-acre shopping center, golf course, churches for all major faiths, a county library, and a 2,500-seat amphitheater with a convertible roof.

Minimum age for eligible residents will be 52 years.

Consumers Paying Bills Better Now

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Consumers now are paying their bills at a better rate than at any time during the past year, American Collections Association Inc. reports.

The association's collectibility index which uses 1953 as the base period rose in the third quarter to 92.2 compared to a second quarter figure of 89.9.

Unemployment continues the No. 1 reason for failing to pay bills, the association said, overbuying, No. 1 until a year ago, stays in second place, and loss of former overtime pay is the third most common reason.

John W. Johnson, association executive vice president, said that "more and more credit grantors seem to be relaxing the requirements of granting credit, but paradoxically, seem to be following up earlier and more aggressively on accounts when they become past due."

IN GARDEN PARK ESTATES
A completely planned community, Garden Park Estates on Knott Avenue at Garden Grove Freeway, is virtually a "city within a city." Current grand opening presents an exciting selection of spacious and luxuriously appointed "all-new" residences designed by a noted California architect, officials announced. Here is one model.

Garden Park Estates Is City Within a City

With its carefully chosen local and complete community planning, Garden Park Estates on Knott Avenue at Garden Grove Freeway where grand opening is now in progress, is virtually a "city within a city," according to W. R. Effinger, sales director.

Grand opening celebration presents a wide range of exteriors and flexible, large-family plans designed by one of the Southland's top-flight architects. Homeseekers have choice of three or four bedrooms, dining areas, family rooms or dens and two attractive baths. Center hallways and inviting entry halls add to the attraction of these luxuriously appointed homes.

* * * *

FULLY PRICED from just $17,450, Effinger explained, there is popular "four-way" financing. Veterans may purchase on VA terms of nothing down, except impounds and closing costs with monthly payments from $96.60, including principal and interest and there are also Cal-Vet terms. Financing for "everyone" includes conventional loans and latest FHA terms with 35-year terms available and low down payments.

List of fine home features includes corner or traditional fireplaces, sliding walls of glass for the fun of outdoor living, baths with colored plumbing fixtures, showers with glass doors and pullman lavatories, forced-air heating and appliance-equipped kitchens.

* * * *

BEAUTIFULLY planned for visual appeal and efficiency, the kitchens are equipped with color-matched built-in wall oven and range, matching range hood with fan and light, semi-automatic dishwasher and sink-installed disposer, furniture-finish cabinets and counters topped with colorful superamic tile.

Quality construction for which S & S is noted is another major attraction, Effinger pointed out, as is the community's prime location in one of Orange County's fastest growing areas.

Just 10 minutes drive from Long Beach State College, Garden Park Estates is surrounded by fine homes. Excellent shopping centers are within minutes, the community is almost literally surrounded with schools and school sites and there are churches and many recreational facilities.

Furnished models highlight Garden Park Estates grand opening. From Long Beach, drive east on 7th St. past Long Beach State College, straight to Knott Ave. and the model homes.

Top Value Stressed

Feature for feature and dollar for dollar there is no better buy than a Lakewood East Sunshine home, according to Stan Rossi, executive sales manager for S. V. Hunsaker & Sons, builders and developers.

Priced at $16,595, with a low down payment of $195, these homes have three bedrooms, two full baths, and large two-car garage.

* * * *

AMONG THE many quality features offered in these attractive homes are wall-to-wall carpet, ultra-modern kiechen equipped with built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan, disposal, Formica counter tops, and vinyl tile. Specifications also include metal sliding windows with screens, all-copper plumbing and silent forced air heating.

Located only minutes to the prime metropolitan industrial area and within easy driving distance to all of the Southland resort and recreational spots, home buyers are invited to inspect furnished model homes daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Centralia Rd., just west of Pioneer Blvd.

Beauty School Night Classes

Authorized Marinello beauty training will be offered in evening classes.

The evening schedule is being introduced to expand the school's facilities and provide more operators according to officials of the local Marinello Beauty School.

Classes will be held two nights a week and all day Saturday. Registration is now under way at the Marinello admission offices, 4th and Pine Ave., over Sav-on Drug.

A SUNKIST PLAZA HOME
Priced from $17,450, homes like this are offered in Sunkist Plaza in Huntington Beach. A 2,200-home community is planned at the big development.

Sunkist Plaza Terms Appealing to Buyers

Sunkist Plaza homes continue to sell at a rapid pace, according to sales manager Sy Bram. "We are very gratified at the public acceptance of our new Huntington Beach project," Bram added.

Several types of terms are available. FHA 35-year loans have been added to the financing which allows veterans a no down payment and Cal-vets excellent terms.

Prices start at $17,450 with monthly payments as low as $96.28 including principal and interest.

* * * *

WHEN COMPLETED Sunkist Plaza will be a 2,200-home community. At the present time there are four floor plans and 25 elevations to choose from. Combinations of three and four bedrooms plus family rooms and two baths are available.

Shopping centers, schools, employment and recreational facilities are incorporated in the development. The Pacific Ocean is just minutes away.

The development can be reached by driving the Santa Ana Freeway to Beach Boulevard, Highway 39, turn right on Beach to Smeltzer, right on Smeltzer to models.

LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA.....OCTOBER 8, 1961

OUR COVER

With time out for a few hoped-for rainy days, home improvement and gardening are year-around activities in Long Beach. However, two seasons take an extra accent—spring and fall—and it's fall that Staff Artist Al Cano stresses in today's Southland cover drawing. This time of year is one for gearing down from summer's rushing pace to the shorter, cooler tempo of winter days to come. While you've been playing in the patio, boating, swimming, vacationing, et al, chores around the house may have been neglected. Southland's pages today offer some helpful ideas on what to do and how to do it.

NEXT WEEK

The thrum of traffic on the new $21 million bridge being built across the Main Channel of Los Angeles Harbor will sing the curtain song in 1963 of the tired old ferryboat Islander, a familiar sight to many thousands of people. The story of the Islander's life on the channel will be told next week in Southland.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain LAURENZO. — C. L., Long Beach.

C. L.: LAURENZO is a variation of Lorenzo or "Son of Lawrence," an ancient, celebrated Spanish surname. Lorenzo or Lawrence is from the Roman-Latin "Laurentius" meaning "Laurel-crowned one," a designation for the victor in Roman athletic contests. The Lorenzos were among the high nobility of medieval Galicia in northwest Spain. Their coat-of-arms has a silver grill or gridiron with its handle upward, on a red shield bordered with eight red half-circles. The silver grill on the shield is symbolic of the famed 3rd century Saint Lawrence (San Lorenzo in Spanish) who was martyred by being burned alive on a grill.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like genealogy on SHEEHAN. —Mrs. S. D., Long Beach.

S. D.: SHEEHAN is traced back to 11th century Ireland. This clan's old Gaelic name O'Shiegane interprets as "Sons of the little peaceful one." The clan founder was apparently an unusually calm, peaceful man among a nation of fierce, warlike clansmen who were seldom at peace with one another. Sheehan descendants lived in Cork, Limerick and Kerry.

DEAR MIS RULE: Would you publish data on MURRAY.—I.M., Paramount; E.M., Long Beach.

I.M., E.M.: MURRAY is an ancient Scotch clan name that began as Muireadac, a Gaelic baptismal word for "Seafaring warrior." Clan Murray was formed in the early 1100s. A famous Murray chief of the 1400s had 17 sons, each of whom left a long line of descendants. Lord George Murray was the head of the ill-fated Bonnie Prince Charlie's army in the Stuart attempt to regain the throne of Britain in 1745. The Murray shield has three silver spur-rowels on a silver background, accompanied by the motto "Forward and fill the fetters." Irish Murray descendants were prominent religious leaders in Cork and Westmeath. James Murray, an American ancestor, lived at Baltimore as early as 1688.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on LAMB. — Mrs. L. L., Downey; C. L., M. L., Long Beach.

L. L., C. L., M. L.: LAMB is a sign-origin surname used by progenitors from their inn-trademark picturing a white lamb. The lamb shield is blue, emblazoned with three golden lambs seated in the center. Thomas Lamb arrived at Massachusetts among the earliest settlers in 1630.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the background of WALRAVEN — Mrs. D. W., Norwalk.

D. W.: WALRAVEN, a Dutch and north German surname, is traced back over eight centuries to a warrior ancestor titled "Wal-Hrabn" meaning "forest-raven," symbolizing a wise, brave man who lived in a wooded region. The Walraven coat-of-arms granted at Amsterdam has a red wheel centered on a golden shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze ZEPEDA—R.Z., Long Beach.

R.Z.: ZEPEDA is a Spanish dialectical respelling of the surname Cepeda. This was a geographical term for "land overgrown with brush and scrub trees." Zepeda forebears were granted a beautiful coat-of-arms having a green cross composed of fleur-de-lis lilies, accompanied by three gold stars and a small shield covered with four horizontal silver and black stripes. All these emblems are engraved on a black shield.

Autumn's signs: The hammer, the saw and the spade

Fall's Zodiac Favors Fix Up and Clean Up

By Robert Wilcox

More and more families are adding recreational areas. This interesting room has just been completed at 2127 Steamlee Avenue.

SPRING MAY turn a man's fancy to thoughts of love but come fall's brisk breezes and the voice of the hammer is heard in the Southland. Autumn's zodiac has for its signs the tools of the do-it-yourselfer.

October provides the golden moment when home-improvement programs which have been delayed through the lazing beach and vacation season suddenly take on an irresistibly inviting look.

While the days dwindle down, saws sing out in a minor key and power drills whine against the staccato beat of driven nails.

The master of the household may dust the cobwebs from his tool kit—unused during the summer except for a screwdriver employed on an emergency repair job. And even a homeowner who would be helpless with a screwdriver is prone to hasten to the telephone to summon someone who is not.

THE BUSTLING universal activity generally is credited to October's mild chill, although there have been many explanations.

Even mandatory maintenance tasks such as semi-annual lawn and garden renovations merely pique the appetite for bigger things.

There's the outside painting to be done before the weather becomes somewhat unpredictable and the long-planned family recreation room to turn to.

The October energy, of course, comes sometimes in as minute doses as the planting of a one-gallon shrub. Still, it could lead to a year-round swimming pool with the pocketbook advantages of winter construction.

BY SOUTHLAND popularity trends, the family recreation room could well be the choice. A homeowner will add a room or two these days nearly as quickly as he used to repair a fence.

He may want to arm himself with blueprints and do the whole job—permits, construction, inspection and all. Or he may prefer to perform most of the work by telephone—calling in professional help.

Unless he's a near-professional himself he'll probably be wise to leave the fireplaces and floors to people who build them for a living. For most of the rest, he possibly has, or doubtlessly can acquire, the necessary technique.

(Even in the technical field of ceramic tiling, the home handyman these days is not beyond his depth either in the kitchen or constructing attractive interiors or exteriors.)

Then, unless he's unusually wealthy, the home-improver must face the problem of money. Happily, it's usually not insurmountable.

PRIVATE SOURCES, such as banks, generally are ready to finance a worthwhile project—particularly if the improvement qualifies for loan insurance under the Federal Housing Administration.

(The FHA under its Title I will insure amounts from $100 to $3,500. Under a recently passed federal law, it is now possible to obtain FHA assistance on loans from $2,500 to $10,000 for structural changes on a 20-year basis. This program is expected to grow in popularity when the newness wears off.)

Chances are that October's handyman has saved himself quite a tidy sum if he really needs a roomier home. Hunting a larger residence can be disillusioning—particularly when his new addition probably will be contracted for less than $10 a square foot and be built for considerably less if he does part of the work himself.

He also possibly has saved himself some family grieving at being uprooted from the familiar school area and the midst of neighbors and nearby friends.

IN CASE the October-inspired builder embraces something less imposing than a residence-enlargement project—although experts say about half the homes in most neighborhoods either have been remodeled or are going to get the treatment in the next five years—he can count on plenty of company.

He may turn to the patio or yard, inspired perhaps by the Southland's "outdoor living" concept.

The lure is so potent that some firms which once depended chiefly on fencing are now devoting their energies almost exclusively to garden beautification.

The home-improver probably will be happy to find that the mild climate permits barbecues and other forms of outdoor enjoyment the year around.

EVEN SO, he will be wise to give some thought to patio protection, such as an overhead shelter of latticework, reed or split bamboo.

If he puts in sliding doors to open on the patio, he may roof the outside slab to prevent fading of carpets and furniture, as well as to reduce glare and reflected heat.

Should the home handyman's fancy run more toward autumnal gardening, he'll find that there's plenty more to it than just clearing away the summer's overgrowth.

As an amateur fall horticulturist, he'll enjoy displaying his carefully nurtured blooms in the wintery months of December, January and February.

He may have picked October as the ideal time to set out nursery transplants, bulbs, shrubs and vines—particularly bulbs from Holland, Japan, Italy, India and South Africa.

Waxing enthusiastic and stimulated by the October impulse, he'll probably go far beyond the actual planting and care of his garden.

Perhaps he'll install a self-contained natural waterfall made of fiberglass. Colored like rock, it's guaranteed to impress winter guests, and features a pump and reservoir requiring no outside water source.

WHILE HE'S decorating has garden area, he may install South Seas tiki sculptures or Alaskan totem pole figures to enhance the primitive effect.

Just as the October appeal is irresistible, the possible projects are limitless—air conditioning, new roof, built-in television, bar—plus countless others.

And just as summer is the lazy season to conjure shimmering visions of gracious living, fall is the often hectic but rewarding time of their realization.

October provides the golden moment to add a room, build a patio or pool, paint, or even install new furnace equipment. This house is under construction at 2244 Knoxville Avenue. FHA often will help with a loan.

City Lots Can Be Fruitful

City dwellers can enjoy home-grown fruit despite small garden space. For instance, a few feet of chain-link fence suffices for berries like these.

By J. M. Story

IT IS AMAZINGLY easy to have delicious home-grown fruit from any garden in Southern California.

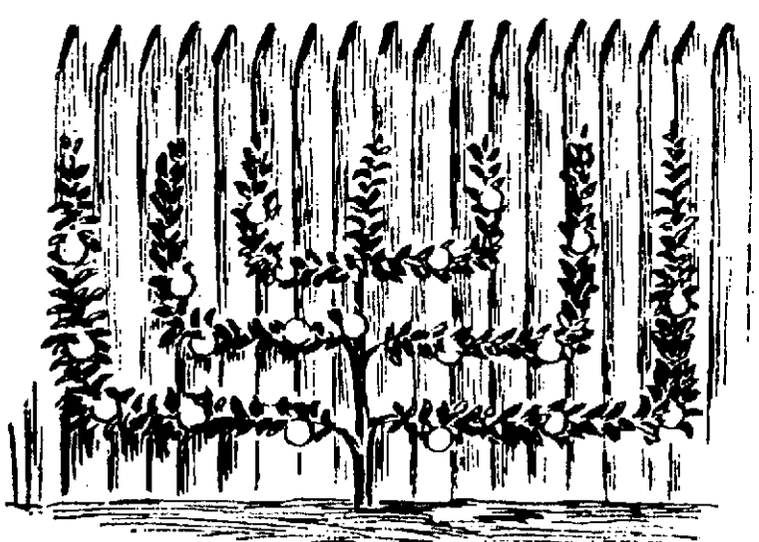

Here's fruit ready to pick from the narrow, erect Edranol avocado tree.

And it needn't be a country acre nor even a large lot. In fact, it's surprising what you can do even on the average tract lot with a little planning and a few tricks of pruning. You can make use of odd corners, neglected spaces, bare walls and fences to provide a wide variety of fruits which the entire family will relish.

Most of our common fruit varieties, such as peaches, pears, apples and figs, can be trained into interesting shapes and sizes to fit a particular space.

The practice of espaliering or growing these trees against a wall or fence is very common in the crowded gardens of Europe where space is at a premium. And we can use the same methods to advantage in our own small gardens. Heavy winter pruning and the lighter summer pruning which is required in training these fruit trees will tend to dwarf them. And even though restricted in growth, they will often produce fruit larger and of better quality than a standard tree.

THE FORM of espalier you choose can be varied from one of the very formal styles to the less difficult fan type. Even during the short period when espaliered trees are without leaves, the tracery pattern of the boughs against a wall or fence makes an interesting garden feature—especially when they break into spring bloom.

"Espalier" is the magic word for growing fruit trees in cramped gardens. Diagram above shows one form of spreading branches for pattern and fruit.

These trees were just made for those areas where planting space is limited. In the case of the pears, apples, or dwarf citrus trees, special rootstocks are used so that the trees, throughout their lifetime, will seldom exceed a height of about eight feet. Since the dwarfing is actually a function of the understock, these pears, apples and citrus trees may be obtained in a number of varieties.

So far, there seems to be no entirely satisfactory method for dwarfing peaches, however, a couple of naturally dwarf varieties, Flory and Elbertita, are available now, and we understand that some new genetic dwarfs are soon to be introduced.

Despite their small stature, all of these dwarf fruit trees will produce fine fruit as large and luscious as you can pick from any full-size tree, and they bear remarkably heavy crops.

RECENT RESEARCH has made available something quite new and different—something especially valuable to the back-yard planter. These are the dual purpose fruiting-flowering peaches which provide very showy spring flowers and fine edible fruit as well. Two recently introduced varieties, Saturn and Double Delight, are outstanding examples. The trees are loaded with pink flowers in spring, just as showy as any flowering peach. Then, in midsummer, they produce big, golden, yellow-fleshed peaches of delicious flavor.

In years past, it was quite common to bud or graft several compatible fruiting varieties onto a single rootstock.

This has never proved entirely satisfactory because in most cases the stronger growing variety ultimately crowds out the others. A much more satisfactory method is to plant three different kinds in a single planting hole, spacing the trunks 18 to 20 inches apart. In this way, one may grow three peach varieties for a long fruiting season or plant a mixture of peaches, apricots, nectarines or whatever your taste dictates.

Southern Californians are fortunate in being able to grow a number of evergreen fruiting varieties which will provide landscape beauty, shade and at the same time an abundance of fruit. Avocados are an example, and if your space is limited, you can plant such varieties as Edranol, Anaheim or Hass. All of these grow into a very narrow, erect tree, demanding only a few square feet of garden space.

ANOTHER interesting and most ornamental tree is the macadamia or Queensland Nut. It, too, is a handsome erect grower. If you've never tasted one of these Queensland nuts, you have a treat in store for you.

There are others, including the small but very ornamental loquat tree with its big, tropical-looking foliage and delicious, early-season fruit.

A number of fruiting plants may be used in lieu of more conventional ornamental shrubs and many of them are just as attractive as any ornamental you will ever find. Guavas are very ornamental and the abundant fruit is unsurpassed for making jellies and preserves. They are a rich source of vitamin C, too. Another handsome fruiting plant is the Natal Plum or Carissa.

FALL FIX-UP AND GARDENS

Gardening Is Part of Homemaking

By Karen Smith

GARDENING for the Southlander is an essential part of homemaking and a satisfying activity. A few years ago gardening did seem easier, it is true. But don't blame that on your age nor your lumbago. Blame the weather. It really does take a lot more work to dramatize a heat-weary and dry landscape that has created special problems.

Before you so much as turn a spadeful of earth, make a few plans. Sketch an outline of your property. Put in house, garage, service yard, play area, barbecue, pool if any, paths, retreats, and other spaces. Then indicate where established plants exist—trees, shrubs that are taking the years well, the perennial garden.

Perhaps there will be very few changes you will need to make. Often the difference between a lovely garden and a depleted one may depend almost entirely on water and soil cultivation. On the other hand, you may need to make major changes—eliminating too much shade, making more shade, creating better harmony and doing away with confusion, cut-up spaces, or redoing the perennial garden. Then again, your garden work may lie in some other place. Perhaps you need new shrubs near the house to take the place of some that have become formidable, and perhaps some fresh flowers close to the house and around various boundaries.

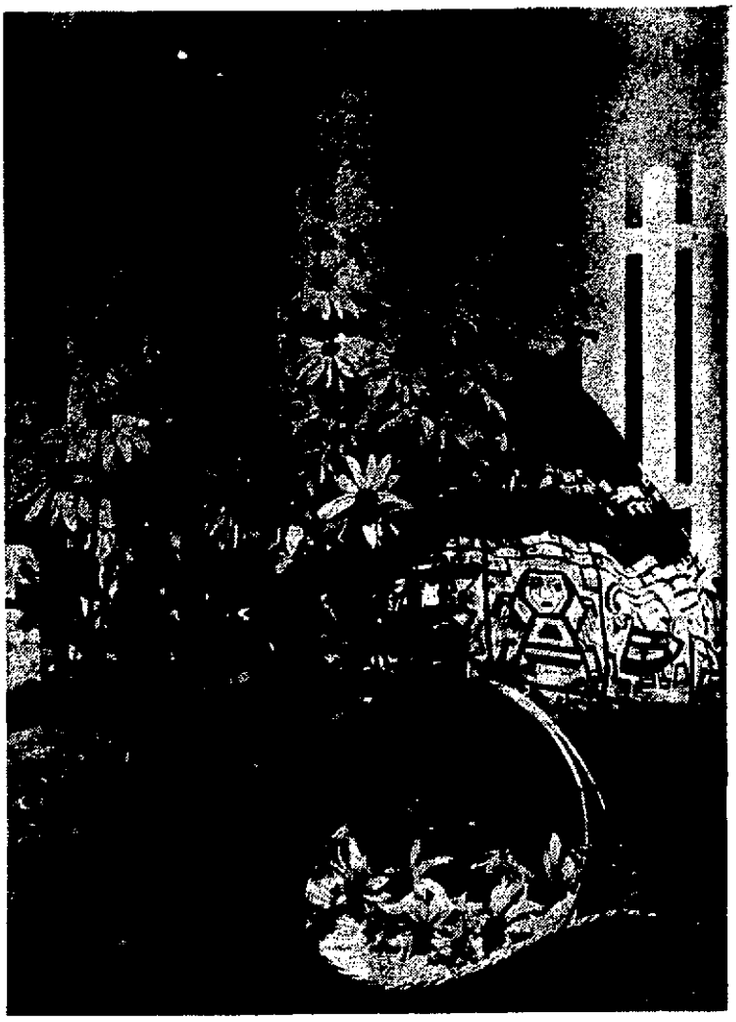

IN ANY EVENT, probably deep irrigation is first in order. If the ground is impossibly baked and dry, and often it is—especially on a slope that won't hold light watering—you might consider calling in a professional gardener with grounded electric equipment and get some deep holes wherever possible. Then set the hose and soak, soak, soak. When the earth can again be spaded and debris cleared away, consult your nurseryman about soil food and other conditioners.

In watering and improving soil, look over areas around deciduous trees and shrubs. These often go neglected, but they hold their foliage longer if they receive moisture and nourishment. If your evergreen plants look like they are in trouble, with leaves turning yellow or burning at the edges, they may be suffering not only from dryness but from poor health the arborists call chlorosis, a lack of iron. Evergreen plants must manufacture food to store in the leaves to enable new leaf buds to form for next spring's growth, but without iron they will starve. This condition is common where earth is alkaline. Your nurseryman may want you to introduce into the soil a product containing iron sulfate, ground sulphur, aluminum sulfate, and ammonium sulfate. Or he may recommend a chelated iron spray.

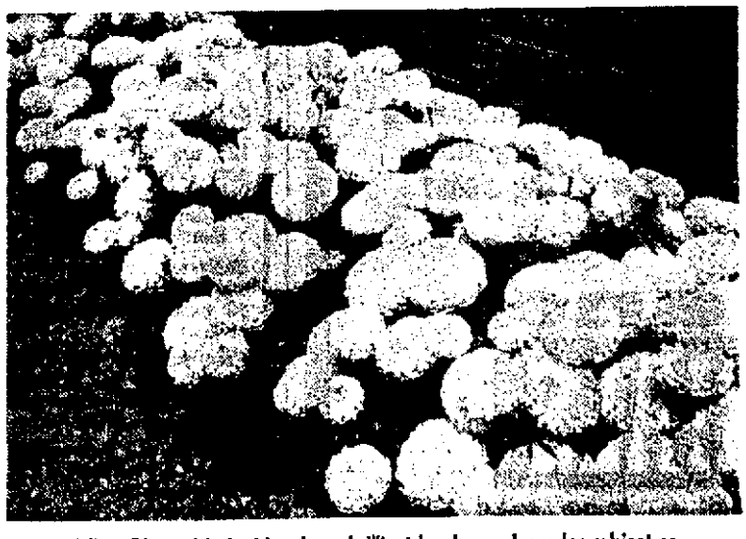

WHEN SOIL is damp deep down and nourished, you are ready for planting. Since trees and shrubs are your garden's furnishings, choose them wisely. They may be expensive, but the initial investment is more than repaid by their beauty and ease of care. Many types of trees and shrubs can be planted now. Avocado and other subtropicals, however, do best when planted in the spring. Be certain to keep earth on roots during planting so they will not be disturbed. Planting holes should be large enough to permit firming of soil around plant balls. Be generous with water as you fill up holes so balls will be thoroughly soaked.

Waxy camellias come in several varieties, some to provide flowers almost immediately, others to form exquisite flowers through April. Camillias are dormant when in full bloom, and their growth period sets in immediately after. Fertilizer can be fed

Room for Hi-Fi or Stereo Fun

Otherwise unused attic space here has been converted into hobby room for hi-fi or stereo enthusiast of the family. Furnishings and acoustical tile add to the pleasure.

IF THERE'S a hi-fi or stereo bug in the family, beware! This breed of hobbyist will gradually take over every room in the house. Ask anyone who's ever stumbled across a dismantled amplifier spread out on the living room floor, or found a 10-inch woofer half buried in the cushions of his favorite easy chair.

Why not set aside one room in the house that the hi-fi enthusiast can call his own? If there's a spare bedroom available, this might provide the ideal spot. Also, don't overlook the attic, if suitable, or a basement. This unused space can be converted into an attractive, livable hobby room for surprisingly little money.

The attic, for example, is already roofed over and enclosed and often includes at least one heating outlet. All that normally remains to be done is to install the interior finish materials (ceiling, walls and floors), plus a few built-in shelves and work tables. Furnishings and decorative touches can be added later as time and budget allow.

Here are a few pointers from the Armstrong Cork Company's Bureau of Interior Design to keep in mind when planning an attic or basement "hi-fi" room:

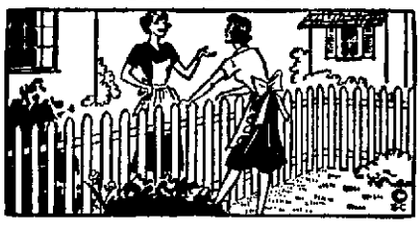

1. Make sure there's plenty of storage space for tools and equipment. Built-in units are desirable because they are compact and require a minimum of room space.

2. Avoid excessive sound reflection within the room. Too much reflection not only decreases listening pleasure, but in the case of stereo, can actually destroy the desired effect. A useful tool to control this condition is acoustical tile, an inexpensive, sound-absorbent ceiling and wall finish that fits in with modern concepts of room decor. In many cases, applying tile to the ceiling will provide enough sound absorption; in others, it may be necessary to cover part of the wall surface as well.

3. Don't forget, if you're redoing the attic, that footsteps and other impact noises on the attic floor will disturb family members below unless they are muffled. Probably the easiest way to soften impact noise is to install a resilient material on the attic floor that can dissipate much of the impact energy before it passes through the floor structure. Cork, rubber tile and sheet vinyl flooring installed over a suitable underlayment are excellent materials for this purpose, as are some types of homogeneous vinyl tiles. Besides providing good sound isolation, these flooring materials will be easy to keep clean, and will do a lot to spruce up the general appearance of the room.

Cover-Ups for 'Devil's Spaces'

Gazanias are popular cover plants for idle land areas.

IT is the wise gardener's maxim that practically no garden space should be left unplanted. For idle land is the Devil's workshop and before you know it, he'll raise all sorts of weeds to cause you trouble.

The problem, of course, is how to fill the space, and this really isn't a problem at all, according to the California Association of Nurserymen. You just plant open spaces with ground covers and leave them to fill in themselves.

This sounds deceptively simple, but there's no catch to it. You'll find ground covers to carpet any open space you might have in your garden whether it's on the level or on a steep slope, in good soil or poor. The most difficult thing, in fact, is choosing the right cover from a nursery full of them.

You can narrow the choice by asking yourself a few simple questions. Will the ground cover have to bear traffic? Grow in shade? Survive drought? Will it bloom and do I want it to?

GROUND COVERS that bear up under considerable traffic are few and far between, but so is your need for them. Dichondra is the best bet, or lippia, though the latter seems less popular than it once was.

Ground covers for shaded areas are fewer than those for sunny spots. Ivy is perhaps the best, being relatively drought resistant in the bargain. Baby's Tears is a good one for shaded beds where moisture is available.

For sunny spots, Mother of Thyme is a particular favorite, being dense, rugged and fragrant. California native, Point Reyes creeper, is more and more to be seen. The vivid orange or yellow daisy flowers of Gazania are a timeless first choice.

If shrubby covers are desired, try prostrate junipers, prostate rosemary or the new postrate abelia. As mentioned already, there are dozens to choose from.

What Cost America?

ONE HISTORIAN who has done considerable research in an effort to estimate the cost of the discovery of America, has come up with these figures:

Total cost of fitting out three vessels, plus salaries, 1,140,000 maravedis. A maravedi is a Spanish coin worth about ⅓ of a cent in American money at present. The historian took into account the tendency of a nation's money to decrease in value, and based his estimate on a maravedi equal to seven mills, making the total cost to the Spanish government about $8,000.

Christopher Columbus, as an admiral, received an annual salary of $320; his three captains, $192 each; three pilots, $140, and the sailors were paid $2.75 per month.

Salary of the ship's physician was equal to $38.50 per year.—OLIVE BREED.

A House Gets a Customizing

Recently added family room of the Pete Wards' home is shown in this view looking across the living room through movable shoji screens. Carpeting helps unite the areas.

By Stella George

WHEN Mr. and Mrs. Pete Ward, 11661 Puryear St., Garden Grove, bought their home they liked the modern, casual comfort it provided. However, they felt that certain additions would not only make it more livable and attractive, but would add to the important everyday functional aspect so necessary to busy young couples with children.

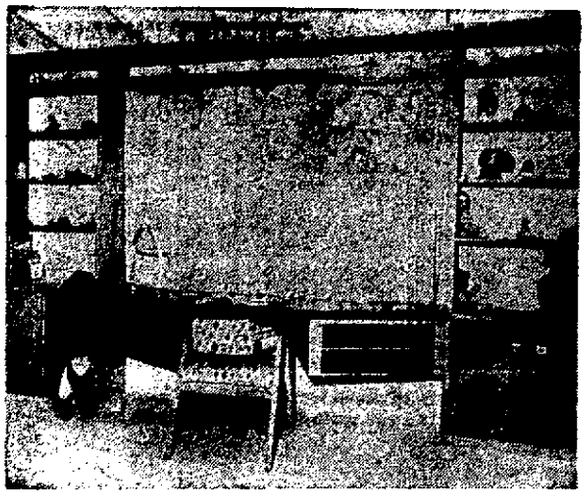

Doubling the size of the living room by adding an adjoining family room, separated by sliding shoji screens, was one major architectural change. The addition of a service porch more than 20 feet long was another. A den for Ward that would afford privacy and convenience was still another "must" on the list. The finished house now is truly adapted to the Wards' particular needs.

From the exterior the visitor is intrigued by the various aspects of the home. It is not a prosaic home with a front door here and windows there but has architectural lines that are partially hidden by shrubbery as the house rambles over the property to become a part of the landscaping itself.

THE FRONT door opens into the living room and directly ahead is the kitchen with a low, sit-down bar between the two rooms. A panel closes off the kitchen when desired. To the right is the new family room. Carpeting in all rooms with the exception of the bedrooms, den, and kitchen, is of golden hue, thus the family room and living room merge as one extra large room when the shoji screens are opened.

The wall nearest the door is of white brick. Accents in the decor are oriental, and the fireplace in the brick wall features andirons in brass with an Oriental motif. A semi-circular beige couch backs the kitchen area and faces the fireplace. A TV is in one corner. Furnishings are of blond wood mounted on black legs.

The color scheme shows off the furniture and carpet to advantage and gives an uncluttered feeling to the rooms. In the family room, for instance, there is a feeling of space with the desk on one side, the couch on the other and a glass wall forming the third side.
dryer and their former space in the kitchen is now used for a pantry.

A hall near the kitchen leads to the bedrooms and baths. Ingenious decorating

THE NEW service porch accomodates the washer and ideas developed by the Wards have made the rooms particularly attractive. In one girl's room, for example, size was a problem. The room is small but the appearance of size was obtained in this way: A fitted desk was built in the left corner with hanging shelves above. The head of the bed is directly in back of the study area, with the bed facing the window. A dressing table is opposite with closets alongside.

In the other girl's room an illusion of space has been developed in a different way. The window is on the long wall of this room and Ward has created a desk unit that covers the entire wall. The desk itself is half a hexagon in shape, placed directly in front of the window. Shelves matching the desk are on either wall. Cupboards have been built on both sides below the shelves.

The master bedroom has soft carpeting, black furniture and turquoise walls, with oriental accents in the form of pictures and bric-a-brac.

THE DEN is large, tailored carefully to needs and masculine in theme. A desk is centered, facing the front. A gun rack is placed on one paneled wall and a TV set in one corner faces the desk. Back of the desk are hanging shelves. An occasional chair in orange brightens one corner and a chest of drawers provides storage space. The room is reached by a long, sloping hall from the new family room, although it has an exterior entry at the front.

Expensive frills are avoided in B-53, but lots of room for a big, noisy family is a feature. The home has nine rooms on three levels with up to five bedrooms, three baths.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Solid Comfort for a Big Family

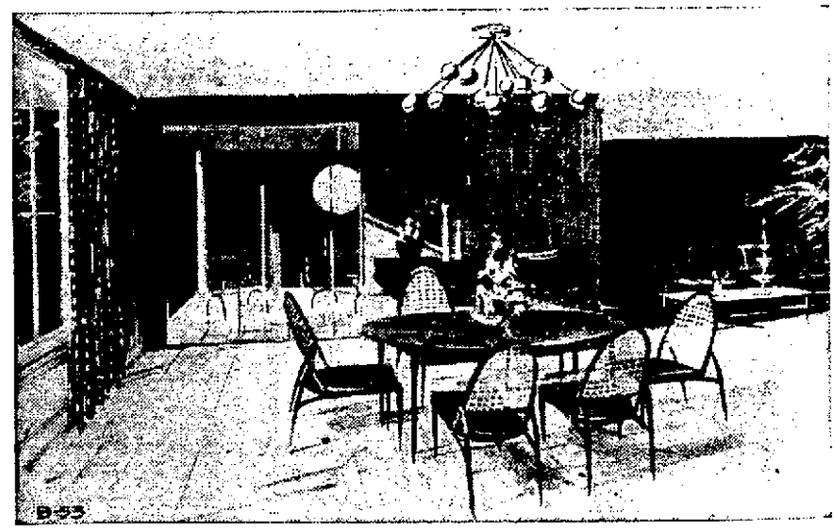

By David L. Bowen

UNPRETENTIOUS comfort is the theme of this simple split level carefully designed to serve with complete adequacy every need of an active, growing family.

The house is large—as it must be to shelter properly a family of three to six children—but there are no expensive frills or fancy extras. Four good-sized bedrooms make up the main sleeping section, with a fifth bedroom or study on the recreation room level. The kitchen has dinette space big enough so that the whole family can sit in comfort for family meals. Living room, arranged in an L-shape with dining room, is spacious but not spectacular.

WHAT IS spectacular in House of the Week B-53 is the way the architect, Samuel Paul, has arranged everything with an eye on practical efficiency.

Take the kitchen. It has

Impressive entrance foyer is key to excellent circulation in upper level (above). Recreation room has the fireplace, thus helping to make it a true family area.

an excellent central location so that the housewife is only steps away from the front door, yet can serve either of the two eating areas with a minimum of walking. The recreation room (which has a fireplace while the living room does not) also is handy, just a half-flight down from the impressively roomy front foyer.

Habitable area on the living and bedroom levels is 1,976 square feet, not including the covered porch, with an additional 584 square feet on the recreation room level. The plan measures 59 feet 2 inches by 41 feet 6 inches over-all and will fit comfortably on a 100x100-foot lot.

IN THE KITCHEN, Paul calls for two countertop cooking areas. A four-burner range near the wall oven provides for preparation of the main meals. The two-burner unit near the dinette is handy for preparing breakfast or midday quick lunches.

Inside the arms of the "L" formed by living and dining room is a covered porch, accessible from the dining room through sliding glass doors. This area could be converted for a year-round use by erecting jalousies, or simply screened for summer use only.

Up a wide staircase from the traffic-sorting main foyer are four bedrooms. The 16 feet by 15 feet 6 inch master bedroom has an entry guarded by two 8-foot closets. This room also has its own full bath.

The other three rooms on this floor are uncrowded and have abundant closet space. The large bathroom has a twin lavatory, adequate to handle the morning traffic. The lavatories are set into an 8-foot long vanity with linen storage below.

THE RECREATION room downstairs faces the rear yard. Sliding glass doors effectively convert this space into an indoor-outdoor area in pleasant weather. The corner fireplace makes it a cozy nook in bad weather. Off the recreation room is a spare room that can be used as a maid's room, study, guest room, or an extra bedroom.

On this same level is the two-car garage, deep enough to store bicycles, carriages and bulky toys without interfering with parking. Laundry is in the open cellar.

To obtain plans, address Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., enclose 50 cents and request House of the Week Study Plan, Design B-53.

Bayside fresh-water pools usually are built between high tides on a tight time schedule; otherwise underground seepage of salt water might damage installation.

Hole in His Back Yard Started It

By George Eres

THE world's largest swimming pool builder, Phil Anthony, began by digging a hole in his back yard in Pasadena and lining it with cement blocks. That was in 1947.

Today, 14 years and 15,000 swimming pools later, Anthony's Pools Inc., does about 25 per cent of the business in a highly competitive field.

His firm has built pools for Elizabeth Taylor, Betty Grable, Louis Prima and Keely Smith, all the Marx Brothers, Olympic Diving champion Dr. Sammy Lee, Dean Martin and Frank Sinatra.

These pools have been built on a bewildering array of terrains. An aerial view of Southern California shows them hung on cliffs, nestled in back yards and slanted across terraces.

ONE OF THEIR big problems was conquering the sites at beaches—Newport Beach's Lido Isle, where Anthony and his wife, Oletia, who is vice president of the firm reside is a case in point. There are about 40 pools in the district, one of the heaviest concentrations of beach pools in the United States. Anthony Pools has built almost half of them.

"We had to devise special systems to cope with the special problems presented by beach pools," said Anthony.

Because basic construction had to be completed between tides—usually within a period of several hours—excavation, guniting (cementing) and steel reinforcing must be done under a relentless deadline.

"GUNITING MUST be completed between tides so that the pool can be filled with water as the tide comes in. Otherwise the pool might be lifted like a boat by underground tidewater," Anthony said.

Then, most fresh-water tide pools are built in sand, which is shifty until contained by the guniting and steelwork. The crews again must work fast to shore up the sand and prevent caveins while the job is progressing.

While the average price of a basic 35-foot Anthony pool is $2,800, a beach pool costs an average of $200 more because of the tight work schedule and gamble on tides and sand, Anthony said.

"WE STARTED in this business when you could afford to make mistakes," Anthony said. "Today, with competition in every direction you look, you can no longer afford to make mistakes."

A lot of water has gone into and out of pools since Anthony, son of Norwegian immigrants, who was a mason and cement worker by trade built his own pool in his backyard. A tractor executive in San Gabriel heard about the pool and asked Anthony to build one for him. Anthony found himself in the pool business.

In those days, Anthony recalled, swimming pools were a luxury only the rich could afford.

Today a pool is frequently standard equipment in medium-priced subdivisions.

Forced Bulbs --A Gift Idea

By Karen Smith

Amaryllis, largest bulb of them all, can be forced to bloom at Christmas.

Narcissus will grow well in water with pebbles, produces forced blooms easily.

LET BULBS help solve some of your gift problems. Nearly all of the tougher spring-flowering bulbs may be forced into bloom by Christmas. And the procedure is simple. All you need are containers of any kind — attractive one being best, of course—and either earth, peat moss, water and pebbles, or mineral solutions.

Forcing should start immediately. Check with nurserymen when purchasing bulbs for additional help with this interesting gardening sideline.

Although growing bulbs in water to which chemicals have been added is probably the simplest way to force bulbs, you may feel safer using good garden soil, or, better yet, a soil made up of one-third peat moss, one-third sand, and one-third loam to which has been added a teaspoonful of plant food per pot.

LINE CONTAINER with soil, place bulbs with flat root end down, and cover with soil until tips are just buried. Press soil firmly and water generously. Set covered pots in a cool, dark place or in a well-drained cool garden corner until roots establish, which is usually in three to eight weeks.

Then move containers into the light and uncover. After a day or so, place in a sunny window where temperature never gets below 50 degrees, or higher than 68 degrees. From now on keep moist.

Bulbs that you do not wish to bloom until later may be left in storage until you are ready for them.

MANY GARDENERS prefer to use peat moss for bulb forcing, although the rooting period is longer, usually from six to eight weeks. Fill pot with wet peat moss and bury bulbs with tips just covered. Place in a cool, dark, airy spot, and water every other week. When rooted, put out in the light, moving pot closer to the light as the plants grow. Remember, however, that direct sunlight will shorten the blooming period. Keep fairly moist all of the time.

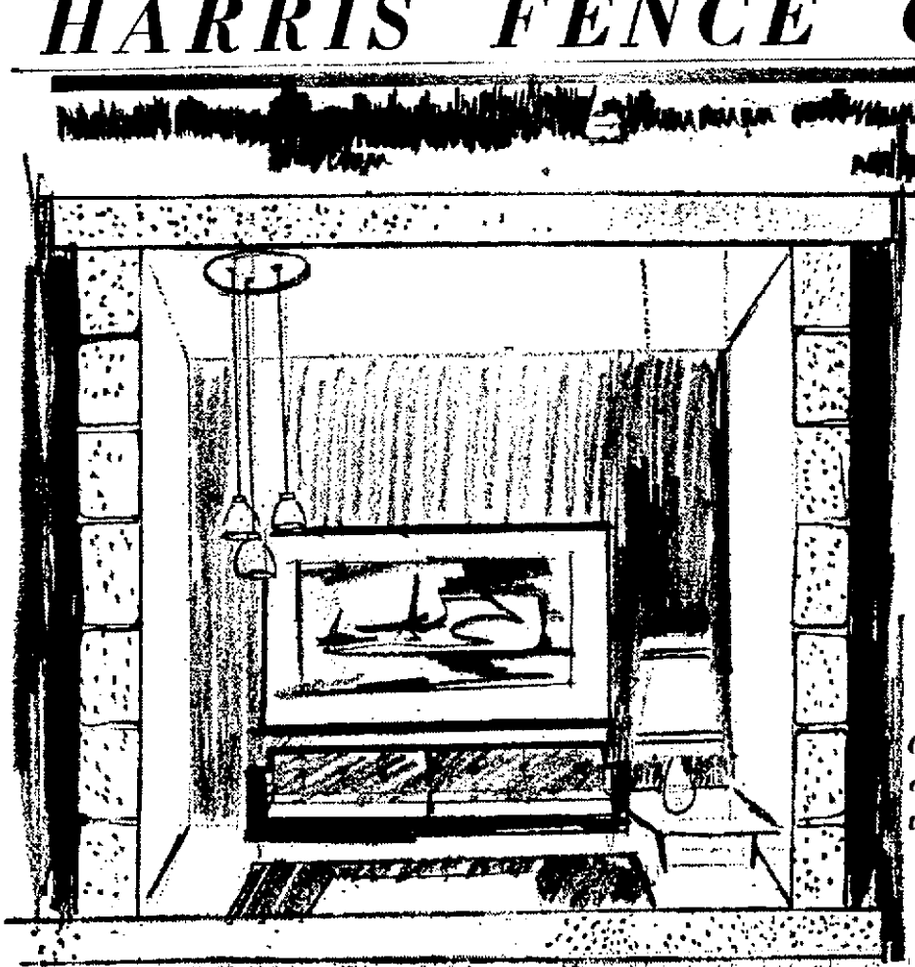

Tulips, especially the early-flowering varieties, are easy to force, but soil is required. Narcissus also are easy and grow rapidly in water. Freesias are good and are exceptionally beautiful.

JONQUILS, hyacinths, particularly Roman variety in water, grape-hyacinth, scillas, snow-drops, fritillarias, alliums, ixias, crocus, and other spring-flowering bulbs may be forced successfully. Tougher bulbs that take kindly to indoor forcing are red-gold and gold ranunculus, some kinds of anemones, particularly St. Brigid, and also amaryllis and bulbous iris. Force plenty of amaryllis, for you will want some for yourself. Amaryllis bulbs may protrude a little above ground.

Should any of these bulbs not be in bloom by the holidays, they nevertheless will make nice gifts if potted attractively, and they will give the recipients something to which they can look forward with pleasure.

ARCHITECT'S Sketchbook

Build your own pretty and practical buffet from plan.

TODAY'S PROJECT: An easy-to-build modern buffet for the dining room.

URSULA M. S. DADRAS, New York City designer, explains:

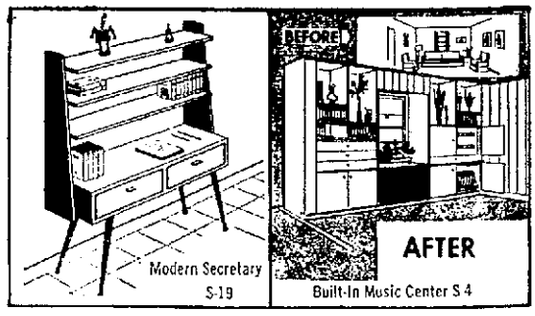

If you have been longing for a buffet, but thwarted by that familiar pinched feeling in the pocketbook, here's your chance to add to your dining room furniture with a minimum financial outlay.

The modern piece shown in the illustration can be constructed with one and one-half sheets of ¾" plywood. The legs are purchased ready-made and simply screw into metal plates attached on the bottom of the unit.

THE BUFFET top is 18" wide and 71¼" long. Height from the floor is 31 inches. Center section shelves provide an opportunity for displaying table ornaments or other items every woman loves to collect and cabinets at either end can be used for storage of table linens.

Only simple carpenter's tools are required in assembly, fully illustrated step-by-step in the Sketchbook plan. The sawing can be eliminated by having your lumber dealer cut parts to specifications given in the plan.

To order, specify Modern Buffet Plan S-26, Modern Secretary Plan S-19 or Built-In Music Center Plan S-4, whichever plan is desired, and send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif. If one or more plans desired, add 50 cents for each additional unit.

Decor Goes Literary

By John Ronson

DATING from the old anecdote of the decorator who ordered books by the yard in assorted bindings to brighten a client's library shelves, books have been widely appreciated for their decorative possibilities — as well as for literary benefits. A random survey of bookstores might even suggest that current best-seller status might be credited more to the colorful dust jackets over the covers than to the brilliant words between them!

Whether for ornamental or cultural reasons, surveys show that Americans are buying more books than ever before. This has led to a quest for new and usual ways to show them off. Books have moved out of the library, off the traditional floor-to-ceiling shelves, and appear unexpectedly as decorative accents in almost every room of the house.

Books can be as delightful to look at in decorating a room as they are to read. Here's a unit in example.

WIDE-AWAKE furniture designers, joining the literary bandwagon, have created functional pieces with book display space in unlikely places. Typical is one from Valley Upholstery Corp., which consists of an imposing L-shaped sectional sofa with walnut shelves built into the back of the shorter section. Books and magazines on the lower shelves, coupled with an eye-catching lamp or contemporary sculpture on the topmost shelf, add the finishing touches to an ingenious room divider.

The popularity of bookcase-headboards in recent years, even in children's furniture, has brought books into the bedroom — where they are sensibly convenient for night reading. Many manufacturers are bulding such book-nooks across the top or down the sides of wooden headboards—while another, Drexel, offers the supreme luxury of a slanted headboard for semi-reclining readers-in-bed!

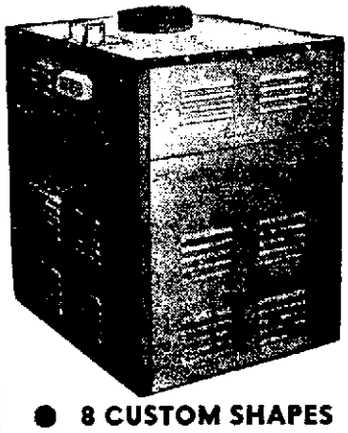

A number of bedroom furniture ensembles suggest an easy way to brighten even the simplest room—dressers are being shown with shelved top decks, just the right size for showing off a colorful assortment of books and those precious personal mementos we all accumulate, and so rarely find space for!

IN THE living room, undoubtedly the most heartening news in recent years is the widespread use of the "wall-hung" furniture that is so well suited to present-day smaller rooms—freeing floor space by suspending chests, desks, even tables from wall rails. Books have become indispensable elements in making this furniture look its best—sitting atop shelves and cabinets, they rub bindings with plants, sculpture or antiques to create a one-of-a-kind focal point in the room.

One room in which books are most frequently seen is, of course, the den. The only "surprise" trend of late has been the introduction of many desks with bookshelves built into the back—providing extra space for often-used volumes, and making the desk more attractive when placed at right angles to a wall.

which grows into a bushy plant with light green foliage and of medium size, to yield tangy, lime-like fruits delicious in ades and drinks. And with a dwarf Chinese or Meyer lemon, you will never want for plenty of fresh lemons winter, summer and fall.

BECAUSE OF their large attractive foliage and the rapidity with which they grow, grapevines are just about "tops" for covering a pergola, patio or carport. Big bunches of the crisp, mouth-watering grapes during the summer and fall months are nice to have, too!

The Eastern Concord or the very early-ripening European types are best for coastal areas.

Just a few plants of raspberry, blackberry or boysenberry will produce plenty of delicious fresh berries for the family to enjoy. The vines make an attractive covering for a lattice or wire fence, too. If you favor strawberries, plant Rockhills as a border or edging. Because the plants produce no runners, they are very ornamental used in this way and will give you some of the best strawberries you've ever tasted.

The possibilities are endless and the adapting of fruit trees to small spaces or using them in place of more conventional ornamentals can become a unique and interesting hobby.

Green Knight Flares bows into the garden scene as a clear chartreuse lily.

Chartreuse Lily Is New

Green Knight Flares, 1961 lily of clear chartreuse tone, was introduced recently by Walter Marx Gardens of Boring, Ore. Aside from its rare color, this Aurelian hybrid origination of Oregon hybridizer Carleton Yerex features large, flaring blooms that refuse to fade in hot sunlight. Stems are strong, 6 to 7 feet long.

One of eight new Oregon lilies being introduced for fall or early spring planting, Green Knight Flares blooms in late July and early August.

To see this lily and other selected bulbs and plants illustrated in full-color fall catalog, send name, address and 50 cents to Walter Marx Gardens, Box 38, Boring, Ore.

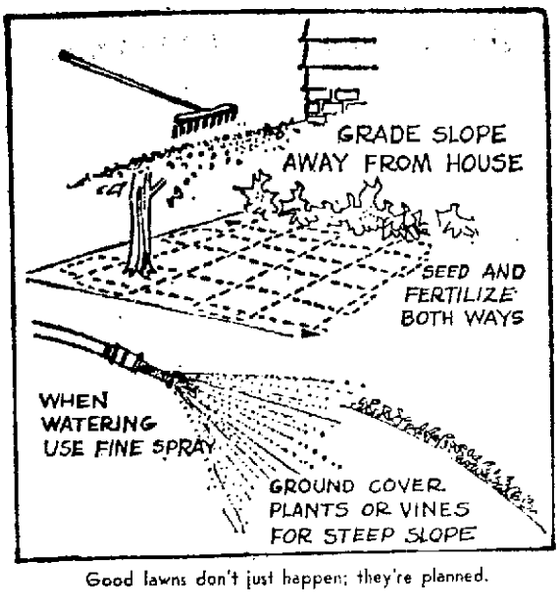

By Dorothy Jonson

Protection of dahlias and chrysanthemums through October is quite a serious garden problem because chewing insects are on the rampage. Many of the beetle species infest the garden at that time, chewing holes in the leaves and ravaging the foliage and even the blossoms.

The finest thing I know to prevent this is a spray combining malathion and dieldrin. This combination gives you a quick kill of the insects and a long-lasting repellency against them, and it leaves no obnoxious residue to spoil the appearance of the plants.

Wooly aphis, the cottony-looking masses that molest pyracantha in Southern California, can also be satisfactorily gotten rid of with this dieldrin-malathion spray. But when spraying for this infestation, flick the nozzle of the spray gun over the soil at the base of the plant to kill wooly aphis which are usually around the root area also.

How to Develop a Good Lawn

Good lawns don't just happen; they're planned.

By Walter Finch

BEAUTIFUL lawns don't grow by themselves. They must be planned and developed.

Actually, developing a good lawn is not difficult if you follow several basic steps. Fall is the best time to begin. Once established, an attractive lawn is an important asset to your property.

Good lawns can be produced on almost any kind of soil with the right preparation and care. First step is a proper seed bed. Loam or clay loam soils are ideal, but most soils will need some improvement.

ROUGH GRADE a slope away from your house. Avoid depressions where surface water might gather. You may need tile drains, especially to take water from downspouts and away from your house. Terracing may be necessary where ground is uneven.

If you live in a new development, it pays to fertilize subsoil with lime and phosphate before topsoil is added. They encourage deeper rooting. A good rule is 50 lbs. of ground limestone and 50 lbs. of superphosphate per 1,000 square feet. Grass likes sweet soil, and lime helps provide the proper pH condition, according to Scotts turf expert Dr. Joseph Howland. Also follow soil test recomendations to supply balanced fertilizer to give grass a good start.

ADDING 1 to 4 inches of topsoil for a new lawn is helpful if basic soil is poor. If you buy topsoil, make sure all stones, sticks and foreign materials are removed.

Rototill or turn soil well, adding compost, well-rotted manure or other organic matter with topsoil. These materials increase water-holding capacity of sand and loosen heavy clay.

More lawn failure can be attributed to poor seeds than any other cause, according to turf experts. Seed is a small expense compared to the time and other costs you invest in your lawn. You only need to buy good seed once.

Merion bluegrass is excellent in northern areas. Fescues, bents and other types also are good. Zoysia and hermudas are better in warm areas. Check a reliable garden center or your county agricultural agent for recommended grass varieties in your region.

TURF RESEARCH shows best temperature for seed germination is about 70 degrees F. That's why cool fall weather is best for planting lawns.

Distribute 2 to 4 lbs. of seed per 1,000 square feet, depending on type you use and available moisture. Apply half in one direction, half at right angles for even coverage. Mix lightly by raking with a steel tip rake, and roll the soil firm.

Apply a fine water spray daily to speed germination until grass is one inch tall. Mulching steep slopes prevents rain washout. Begin mowing when grass is 3 inches tall.

Regular feeding with high-nitrogen fertilizer like 20-10-10, 16-8-8 and 12-6-6 will assure strong, deep roots, healthy green color and a thick turf that resists disease and weeds.

FOOD

Tasty Cream Soup

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

CREAM SOUP is a nourishing choice as an entree for lunch or the first course for dinner. Cauliflower and cheese combined in a smooth cream sauce yield an interesting flavor combination.

Since milk is high in protein as well as calcium and other valuable minerals and vitamins, cream soups are a nourishing contribution to any meal. Growing children need three to four or more glasses of milk each day and adults need at least two glasses. Cream soup is an excellent way to include milk in the diet in cooked foods.

A crisp salad will add texture and color contrast to a lunch featuring Cauliflower-Cheese Soup. Add assorted crackers, warm fruit cobbler with spiced cream for dessert and glasses of chilled milk.

Cauliflower-Cheese Soup

- 1 medium head cauliflower (about 3 cups cooked cauliflower)
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 quart milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper
- 1 cup (¼ pound) shredded sharp Chedder cheese
- Parsley, if desired

Cook cauliflower and chop fine or force through food mill or sieve. Saute onions in butter until transparent but not brown. Blend in flour. Add milk and cauliflower stirring constantly. Add seasonings and cook until smooth and thickened. Add ⅔ cup of the cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Serve and garnish with remaining cheese and parsley, if desired. Makes about 6 to 7 cups, enough for 4 to 6 servings.

Novel of a Hundred Adventures

By Vera Williams
Independent, Press-Telegram Book Editor

SOME critics say the most important literary events of the decade are Pasternak's "Doctor Zhivago" and Louis Aragon's "Holy Week."

Long regarded as one of France's finest modern writers, Aragon, 64, gains new freedom of thought and expression in "HOLY WEEK" (Putnam, $5.95), a panoramic novel of March 19 to 25, Holy Week in the year 1815. On Palm Sunday, 1815, the average Parisian thought of little else than "When will Napoleon get here? . . . What will the king do?"

Napoleon had fled from Elba Feb. 26, landing at Antibes March 1. As he marched north, with an initial force of 1,000 men, the successive armies sent by Louis XVIII to destroy him had gone over to his side to swell the army.

Peasants and workers, as well as troops, had greeted him with wild ovations in the villages and towns, in Grenoble and Lyons, and now the news had just reached Paris that Marshal Ney, "the bravest of the brave," who had promised the king that he would "bring back the usurper in an iron cage," had joined Napoleon at Auxerre.

Would the king remain at his post and "defend Paris with his life" as he had promised?

If not, what would be the alternative?

At this point, "Holy Week" begins and it sweeps forward in the tradition of "Les Miserables" and "War and Peace." A hundred adventures and as many characters are compressed within the crucial week.

Central figure is Theodore Gericault, young painter, who discouraged by the hostile reaction to his exhibit in the Salon, joins the King's Musketeers. As he guards the King's household in its flight through the countryside, he witnesses the incredible conditions of his countrymen and the wreckage of a kingdom.

Haakon Chevalier, the translator, is the author of several books including "The Man Who Would Be God." He has translated books by Stendhal, Andre Maurois, Salvador Dali, Joseph Kessel and Vercos, as well as two earlier novels by Aragon.

IN THE YEAR 9, the Emperor Augustus exiled the poet Ovid, ordering him to spend the rest of his life in a remote province of the Roman Empire—the small garrison town of Tomi, near where the Danube flows into the Black Sea. Vintila Horia, born in the country (then called Dacia, now Rumania) where the poet died, is the author of "GOD WAS BORN IN EXILE, Ovid at Tomi" (St. Martin, $4.98) an imaginary journal of Ovid's last years.

JULIET LOWELL

Just like most readers, Miss Lowell laughs heartily at her new book "DEAR MAN OF AFFAIRS: The Unexpurgated Correspondence of America's Potentates of the Swivel Chair." (Putnam, $2.95.)

PRIVATE correspondence of Queen Victoria and Lord Henry John Temple Palmerston was in effect a running battle between two determined people, it is revealed in "REGINA VS. PALMERSTON," by Brian Connell (Doubleday, $5.95.) When the 18-year-old Victoria came to the throne, Lord Palmerston was Britain's foreign minister, and he later became her prime minister. Victoria violently opposed Palmerston's plan to set up Turkey as a buffer state against Russia, the first battle of a series. The letters deal with the Crimean war, the balance of power in Europe, the Indian mutiny, and the Civil War in America.

ICELAND 1,000 years ago is depicted in "FIRE IN THE ICE," by Dorothy James Roberts (Little, Brown, $5), about a woman of fire and ice, Hallgerda Hoskuldsdaughter, her three husbands and their fate. The novel reaches a climax in Hallgerda's judgment of her last husband, the great hero Gunnar of the Land Isles. Included are descriptions of the month-long feasts and sacrifices to Thor and Odin, and the annual Parliament at Thingvellir where the chieftains gathered to settle disputes and exchange tales of daring.

IN 1800 THE United States had 16 states and 5¼ million inhabitants; 45 years later the figures were 26 states and 20 million inhabitants, says Charles M. Wiltse in "THE NEW NATION, 1800-1845" (Hill & Wang, $4.50. He says "The common man of 1800, whatever his political inclination, was restless, curious, acquisitive, jealous of his freedom and skeptical of authority . . . He was optimistic, confident, self-reliant, with a strong sense of 'mine' if not always of 'thine' . . . He was a hard drinker, a gambler, a brawler. He was a fierce competitor who believed in progress as surely as he believed in sin."

COMES NOW a one-volume Civil War history, "THE DIVIDED UNION," by J. G. Randall and David Donald (Little, Brown, $6.50). Based on the late Dr. Randall's "The Civil War and Reconstruction," published in 1937, this book was revised by David Donald, distinguished historian, author and a Randall protege at the University of Illinois.

IF YOU SHARE with Thomas B. Costain a liking for short novels, you will rejoice in "XII: TWELVE SHORT NOVELS" (Doubleday, $7.50). Costain chose "Young Joseph," Thomas Mann; "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," Thornton Wilder; "The Duel," Joseph Conrad; "The Old Maid," Edith Wharton; "Father Sergius," Leo Tolstoy; "The Turn of the Screw," Henry James; "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," James Hilton; "Prisoner of the Sand," Antoine de Saint Exupery; "Portrait of Jennie," Robert Nathan; "The Lost Sea," Jan de Hartog; "Father of the Bride," Edward Streeter; "The Short Reign of Pippin IV," John Steinbeck.

And if you like to read lying down, and not sitting up straight you will rejoice in "THE HORIZONTAL READER," a rare mixture of amusing tales, irreverent verse, surprises and chills (Doubleday, $4.95). Expains Mel Evans who compiled it: "This book is designed to ride easily on bellies of various shapes, to sit comfortably on the weary, relaxing mind, to slip silently from your hand when you go to sleep." Among the authors: George Ade, Alexander Woollcott, Ambrose Bierce, Bill Nye, Josh Billings, John Barrymore, Ramon Runyon, Guy de Maupassant.

GRANT WAS PRESIDENT and Custer and his cavalrymen were about to be wiped out by the Sioux when the National League of baseball clubs was formed, thus setting an infant game off on a career that was to see it become modern America's "national pastime."

Now "THE NATIONAL LEAGUE STORY" (Hill & Wang, $4.50) is told by the astute scholar, Lee Allen, historian for the Baseball Hall of Fame at Coopertown, N.Y.

Allen places the emphasis on the careers and personalities of historic and colorful players and managers and the games and plays that made them famous.

His book is a factual account and does not attempt to gloss over the NL's rough and tumble beginnings.

Illustrated with 32 pages of many heretofore unpublished photographs, it makes reading as exciting as a ninth inning rally.

SOUTHLAND TRAVELER

Passport, Mister?

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Independent, Press-Telegram Travel Editor

IF YOU were issued a passport during the second quarter of this year, you know how you wrangled it: You had to stand in line.

In fact, Long Beach-Los Angeles area globe-trotters' requests for passports during this period totaled 50,070—which is in increase of 95 per cent over the same period a year ago.

That, fellow traveler, is the greatest increase of any area in the United States. And it came during a period when Department of State figures show issuance and renewals of passports actually declined 2 per cent.

During the first six months of 1961, the Long Beach-Los Angeles metropolitan area held second place among large cities with 73,190 passports issued — exceeded only by New York City-Northeastern New Jersey with 138,100.

HOW DID WE GO, and where did we go?

Californians, says a survey by the Auto Club, did 83 per cent of their globe-trotting by air, thereby keeping pace with the national average.

Most popular destination, both nationally and among Californians, is still Europe. However, the number dropped 17,000, or 6 per cent, from those going to Europe during a similar period in 1960.

France, as usual, was the most popular destination, edging out Italy. Those two leaders were followed by Switzerland and the United Kingdom.

With the arrival of the fleet jets and their tendency to shrink the size of this old world, travel continues to mount. For instance, during the first six months of this year 548,658 requests for passports were filled; for the entire year 1919 — a little more than four decades back — passport activity totaled only 97,952.

Are you using your passport soon?

SKIN DIVERS who like to explore new waters should be interested in Baja California's northern coast and extreme southern tip. Several skin diving supply stores and a compressed air station make Ensenada the center of most activity for divers who may wish to explore the numerous lagoons along the rock coast as far south as San Quintin. Facilities are few below San Quintin Bay.

On the gulf side, such spots as San Felipe, Mulege and Loreto are reported by the Auto Club to be popular, and La Paz, once noted for pearls, is still an attraction. Boats and supplies at all of these places are reported available and at reasonable prices.

DEER HUNTING season will be on a zonal basis in Arizona again this year, but deer will be legal targets somewhere in the state from Oct. 10 to Nov. 10; for bow hunters, there will be two special seasons, now to Oct. 15 and Dec. 1-23. Other legal hunting: elk, now to Oct. 4 and Nov. 18-26; turkey, Oct. 14-24; bighorn, Dec. 8-17; javelina, Feb. 22-March 4; buffalo, Oct. 20-25; bear, until Feb. 28; and squirrel, Oct. 18-Nov. 12. A special archery season for javelinas runs Jan. 24-Feb. 21.

A TRULY outstanding travel book — and by all means get a copy if you plan to go places during the next year—is the 10th anniversary edition of Pan Am's compact best-seller, "New Horizons World Guide." This neat 575-page hard-cover, pocket-size wonder, which has sold almost a million copies, provides on each of 96 countries a map and up-to-the-minute facts on where to stay and dine, what to wear and what to pay. It also lists required documents, local customs and courtesies, medical and laundry facilities, electric currents and year-round weather data plus tips on how to clear customs with facility, how to photograph from the air, and a chart comparing American and European clothing sizes. Get yours from a Pan Am office or travel agent; or write Pan Am, P.O. Box 1111, New York 17. Price, $2.

TRAVEL AND RESORTS

Going Places

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

ONE OF the complications of visiting in Paris is that hardly anyone, least of all the Parisian, ever gets around to going to sleep. On one visit, we averaged less than four hours a night because turning in seemed a totally absurd thing to do.

The impression is unmistakable that Paris sweats out the daylight hours, the subway running and cops writing out parking tickets and exquisitely tuned and turned shopgirls selling perfume, because it must be done. But all day a voluptuousness, a sense of accelerated ferment, hangs impatiently in this luminous air.

One of the things which makes Paris a true night-time city is that there are no closing hours. From the ratty beatnik joints in St. Germain de Pres to the luster of Maxim's, every place stays open so long as a waiter can prop his eyelids open and there is one more customer to demand yet another glass of Pernod.

BECAUSE THE END of the evening is never in sight, there is never any rush to get a night's fun accomplished. Invariably it begins with a leisurely meal at a restaurant chosen to fit the mood of the night as deliberately as the wine is chosen to fit the mood of the dinner. There is no rush as in London, where the restaurants don't start serving dinner until 6:30 and the theater curtains go up at 7:30.

It may be the Lido cabaret, where the last show doesn't even start until 2 a.m. Or it may be one of those not-quite-believable night clubs where the decor may range from a Frenchman's dream of a Wild West saloon, to a designer's nightmare of a Spanish courtyard. The shows, always playing touch and go with France's schizophrenic obscenity laws, vary hardly at all.

Neither do the women, who, wherever you encounter them, are inexplicably gorgeous. This is no mere quixotic whim; all the cliches about French women are true, from the women of the night to the showgirls of the evening, to the secretaries, and on to the garden variety of housewife.

There are several musts for Paris by night. One is a boat ride on the Bateau Mouche, a sleek sightseeing boat that slithers along the Seine on hourly schedules.

Another is a walk up and down, and then up and down again, the Champs Elysees. You have to do it to know why, but the main reason is that it is the Champs Elysees, and that's what it's there for.

You may climb the Eiffel Tower at a wee hour; the view is infinitely spectacular and pure Paris.

AND YOU MUST wind up the night at Les Halles, the produce market, for a bowl of onion soup, the kind they don't have at Andre's French Restaurant and Pit Barbecue on Route 25.

SYDNEY

"Any shopping, hotel and eating ideas for Australia, particularly Sydney . . ."

LOTS OF GOOD eating spots in Sydney (and Melbourne) now that the new Australians are in. (New Australians are European immigrants. They have taken that cold-boiled-potatoes-and-bully-beef feeling out of the menus.

In Sydney: Caprice at Rose Bay, Romano's downtown, Chelsea and Le Trianon at King's Cross are all excellent.

If you are an oyster buff, you'll go wild for Sydney rock oysters. Try the Australian wine. It's a sleeper.

Shopping is not much. Stuffed koala bears (made of kangaroo hide), medium alligator materials, sheepskins, Australian wool sweaters.

". . . We cannot make up our minds about stopover . . ."

You can make a lot of them: Tahiti, Samoa, Fiji, New Caledonia, Honolulu — all on flights from the States. If you are coming down from Singapore on BOAC or QANTAS, you can make Jakarta and Darwin. Not worth much unless you are curious.

For traveling couples, Tahiti holds up for about three days. Then they've had it. Samoa (and Aggie Grey's hotel) is for the adventurous, but it's the prettiest island outside Bora Bora — where there is an outstanding hotel on a primitive island.

Fiji goes over very well. Korolevu Hotel, halfway between Nadi Airport and Suva, is most popular. Better yet, the three-day cruise on the yacht "Blue Lagoon" down to the primitive Yasawas. A swinger with everything included for $100. Ask the Fiji Visitors Bureau at the airport.

Pretty good tortoise-shell shopping and Indian tailoring in Suva. The Grand Pacific Hotel—the "GPH" of South Pacific fame — is venerable and British with tea in the morning. Jumps on Saturday night.

THE WAY THEY GO: (Group division) "Caravans of Fun," a new travel service in Mexico, sounds good to me. If you can corral a group of ten people who are interested in driving through Mexico, this is the easy way. Your automobiles will be met at the border. Two-way radios are installed in each car. The guide in the lead car gives you a running commentary on the country.

Best of all, you don't have to worry about road maps, gasoline or food. And the caravans cary a mechanic. In case your car develops a Mexican complaint.

Because the radios are two-way, you can ask questions of specific interest to you. And the trip will be tailored to your special interests. You can take a general tour of the country. Or ask for a fishing tour. Or hunting. Or visit the ancient Mexican empires.

For information, write to Bob Peacher, Post Office Box 30316, Mexico City 7, D. F. $25 a day per couple includes everything: accommodations, food, auto and medical insurance and gas.

"You mentioned a storage garage in New York where we can leave our car if we're traveling to Europe by ship. . . . We're going by plane . . . should we use the same garage?"

No. Drive to Idlewild International or La Guardia Airports. Then phone the Queens Garage Co. at TW 6-3955 during the day. Or HU 7-6382 if you're traveling at night. They pick up the car. $25 the first month, $15 per month thereafter.

CAMERA ANGLES

How to Shoot Little Tigers

"Hey, what's he doing?" "Oh, he's taking my picture."

"I'll ham it up for him." "Okay, okay, that's all!"

Chosen from 60 "negs" shot in one afternoon, this series of Dennis Tracy of Yonkers presents what a youngster may be thinking when someone points a camera at him.

By The Shutterbug

IN THE TIME it takes you to read this column, possibly several thousand doting parents are pointing cameras at their offspring and beseeching the little ones to smile.

And quite a few are going to be disappointed with the results.

The little tiger just won't smile. He stands there stiffly, squinting into the lens. Technically, the picture is perfect but it just doesn't look like Daddy's laughing, bouncing boy at all.

WHAT HAPPENED?

Here are a few hints, from one amateur to another, that might help to brighten up the family snapshot album for future amusement and nostalgic reminiscence.

First, don't let Mom "fix him up" for the camera. Chances are he rarely looks like that for more than five minutes at a time. Slicked-down hair, face scrubbed shiny, wrinkle-free clothes. Hardly the way you'll want to remember him after he grows up.

Don't try to pose him. He won't pose the way you want him to anyway. Let him do what he wants. Let him wander. Prefocus the camera at, say, five or six feet and follow him, keeping the preset distance away.

PATIENCE IS a necessity. If Junior is a little ham, let him ham it up. He'll grow tired of it after a while and you can snap him as he really is. If he's shy, let him hide. He'll warm up to the camera shortly.

Once he has come to see the camera as just another part of old Dad, like a finger or an ear, you can induce him to do things. Notice that the word is "induce." You can never successfully "direct" a child.

Talk to him. Make noises that interest and amuse him. Give him something to play with, a ball, a book, a deck of cards—but not the traditional watch, unless he's in a straitjacket.

Kid pictures may be pretty stuffy business to show friends and neighbors who haven't the family interest at heart; but dolling up the photos with bright captions, like the accompanying layout, helps add interest.

Now—a 2-way treatment helps clear up piles faster

Unlike some leading preparations, Paracin contains a local anesthetic that works in minutes to ease pain and stop itch. Reduces swelling and relieves pressure so piles can heal naturally.

PARACIN® complete home hemorrhoid treatment is the new way to ease the pain and itching of tender, swollen piles. This new special medication contains three ingredients prescribed by many doctors . . . to help nature clear up piles faster. PARACIN has been proved effective in clinical tests. It acts fast to relieve most painful hemorrhoid conditions.

PARACIN starts working fast to ease pain and stop itch. Soothes and cushions the irritation of piles. Makes movement less painful, more natural. Reduces swelling and helps protect against infection.

Now PARACIN gives you this special home treatment with both ointment and suppositories for internal and external application at the same time. By using the ointment externally before using the suppositories, you get the most complete relief. Sold with money-back guarantee.

Tips on Choosing a City Dog

Playful and plucky, the Scottish terrier makes a good family pet. This puppy, owned by Marlorain Kennels of 26332 Belle Porte Ave., Harbor City, is good example.

By Eleanor Avery Price

"WHAT breed of dog is best — not a toy nor overwhelmingly large—for a medium-sized city home where there are children?" This is a question asked repeatedly.

There are wonderful dogs in all medium-sized breeds, but the fact must be faced occasionally there is one not so good. Select a puppy that is running around happily (even in a strange part of the yard), has bright eyes, clean skin, a firm round stomach. Be certain the dam and sire have sound temperaments.

Among sporting dogs—and the man of the house may prefer one—the spaniels hold high favor. The Brittany fits very well into the family scene, he is handsome, resembles a setter but has a docked tail. The English springer spaniel is a little larger—(40 to 45 pounds)—but his affectionate nature makes him a fine pal for the family, and his beauty makes him ornamental as well. The English and American cocker are both lively, affectionate home pets. "He loves me better than the sunlight without," wrote Elizabeth Barrett of a beloved cocker.

MOST POPULAR of the hounds is the winsome, likable beagle. He needs inclusion in all family excursions. Dachshunds are alert, companionable, usually gentle, and love to romp with children. The basenji is devoted, playful, normally quiet, odorless, cleans himself like a cat. Although the basset is really a big dog, he is low to the ground and a real homebody, friendly and irresistible.

A fine family dog among the working group is the docile Shetland sheepdog. His beautiful coat needs attention, but his merry loving ways are charming, and he is protective of children, having been known to put himself between them and strangers. The low-slung small Corgis, both the Cardigan and Pembroke, are agreeable, affectionate, intelligent, very alert. And if you can find one, you will say that the smaller-sized border collies are wonderful, easily disciplined, intelligent beyond belief.

A NUMBER of the terriers are ideally smallish in size yet big in character. They are plucky, tireless when romping with children, affectionate but not maudlin. Consider fox terriers, dandie dinmonts, Irish,

Insist on Red Star the ONLY Steer Manure DOUBLE-CURED with INFRA-RED

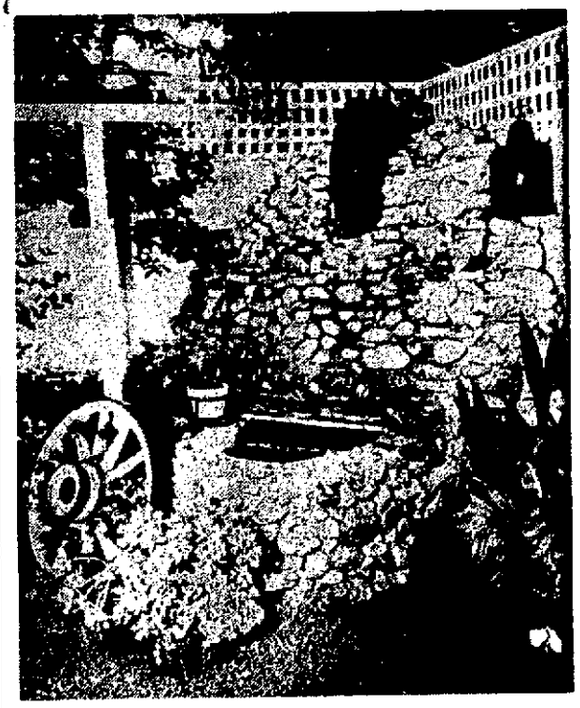

MORE FOR YOUR MONEY

Double-cured with Infra-Red. Two to four times the humus growth value of cheap "green" manures. Lighter, drier, easier to spread. Even has less odor!

BEST FOR YOUR GARDEN

Thoroughly aged, from 12 to 18 months—ready to use. Comes from concrete floored steer feeding pens, not dairy pastures; free from weed seed. An ideal mulch that also has a higher percentage of organic matter.

There's a story behind the water wheel and plant basket in this view of the garden of Mr. and Mrs. John Snell.

FALL GARDENS

Garden With a Story

IN AN AREA that is unfamiliar to many Long Beach residents—although it is but two blocks from busy Pacific Coast Highway—the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Snell, 3625 E. 17th St., offers seclusion and a view and opportunity for a garden set up with sentimental touches.

The home is neat and attractive, with just enough elevation to afford front-window glimpses of the city nearby and the sea in the distance.

Because the street is more or less secluded, there is little traffic. Thus the garden in the rear of the lot is particularly quiet and restful.

In one corner, Snell has built a small water wheel that slowly trickles water to rocks below. The arrangement is based upon a wheel from a bicycle Snell's brother, the late Bill Snell, used in 1920 in delivering papers for the Long Beach Press. (Bill Snell later became circulation manager for this newspaper.)

THE BASKET that carried the papers on the brother's bike has been made into a planter and rests now at the foot of the water wheel.

Rocks from all over the United States form the mound surrounding the wheel. Tiny round white rocks that resemble ping pong balls, imbedded near the front, are from Italy.

The "wishing well" in the center rear of the garden has an aging charm. The winch in the center was once a portion of a mast on a ship upon which Mrs. Snell's father was shipwrecked. The well has been designed so that water trickles when the winch is turned. Abundant shrubs and plants surrounding the well give it a true old-time feeling.

—STELLA GEORGE.

Expressing the peace and quiet of the Snells' garden is this scene with its "wishing well" and shrubbery.

FALL GARDENS

Camellias are jewels in winter gardens. King's Ransom is a 1961 All-America camellia choice.

Camellias Take Over

By Avery Angle

FALL IS THE time when the camellia gardener sits back to enjoy the full fruit of his year's labor—and a rich reward it is for the modest effort required in the care of these handsome shrubs. Camellias, strange as it seems to the uninitiated, go dormant in the fall—and burst into bloom!

Camellias are the queens of the fall and winter garden and their beauty ranges widely in shades and blends of reds, pinks and whites and the blooms take many forms. The fall-winter period also is best for choosing camellias which may be seen in flower at nurseries.

Camellias appreciate good drainage, soil mixed with a good grade of high-altitude oak leaf mold and/or peat moss and sand. Planting holes should be dug well out around the area the roots will occupy and well down below the deepest roots, filling in the extra under space with broken rock or heavy gravel for drainage. Keep plants at original soil level because deep planting can be fatal.

Camellias prefer semi-shade but will take more sun than usually thought; they are excellent for north-side planting. They enjoy damp soil but not wet feet, so they must be watered before completely drying out but not kept soaked.

FERTILIZING THREE times annually with a good commercial camellia food is recommended. This quick chore should be done in April, June and August, and many growers recommend the August feeding be done with an 0-10-10 formula food (nitrogen lacking or minimized) to promote flowers, not growth. A good clean-up spray about once a year is usually the sole spraying need, although aphis may attack new growth in the spring and require an extra "shot." Keep area under shrubs raked up because dead flowers and leaves that fall may foster fungus formation. However, camellia roots spread out in shallow fashion and should not be disturbed by hoeing or spading.

Pruning need consist only of taming occasional wild sports or shaping shrubs. Camellias may also be espaliered or container grown effectively. Dishudding is practiced by many gardeners to thin out excess bloom in heavy years.

Gardening

in three periods—April, June and August preferably.

Gardenias will provide special floral beauty, and so will poinsettias, but water regularly. Consider also pyracantha, holly, and all berrying plants that are so attractive during winter holidays.

Roses need plenty of moisture during fall, but they should not stand in water. Use a mulch to help absorb excess moisture. Apply plant food or liquid fertilizer to help increase size and quantity of bloom.

PERENNIALS lend glory to the autumn garden and will bloom year after year, sometimes improving with time, although they may need dividing. In fact, now is the time to divide clump perennials or replace old with new. Some may need just a tidying to destroy any possible winter hiding places for pests, their eggs, and various diseases.

Perennial seeds may be sown now, but you'll get flowers much faster with nursery-grown plants. You may see some in gallon cans that are in bloom. Consult your nurseryman on loosening the soil and feeding these most grateful of plants. Perennials to select now include agapanthus, columbine, marguerite, delphinium, gazania, hemerocallis, penstemon, iceland and oriental poppy, and chrysanthemum.

Chrysanthemums are, of course, most often in the form of annuals. Other annual favorites include ageratum, calendula, centurea, cineraria, larkspur, marigold, pansy, snapdragon, stock, viola, zinnia, sweet peas. All these and others grow easily, their soil requirements are modest, they are gay, and they are excellent to hide withering foliage of bulbs. Keep annuals bushy by pinching off top leaves after a dozen or so appear. Prolong blooming by keeping faded flowers cut before they go to seed. Numerous annuals can be purchased started in flats.

MANY ground covers do well started at this time. They include ivy geranium, vinca minor and blue bugle for shade, lippea, varicgated Algerian and the ivies. Lawns can be sown most any time, but they do best when started in spring or fall. Never let a newly planted lawn dry out on the surface. Sprinkle lightly, do not create ugly depressions. Glorify an old lawn with a good food so it will not suffer from grass hunger. Always fertilize when grass blades are dry. Then follow with gentle watering so the plant food will go to the root system.

Many bulbs are ready now, some to go right into the ground, others to hold until the weather is cooler. Make early selections and buy only first quality. This does not necessarily mean the largest. Look now for Madonna lily, amaryllis, freesia, tritonia, watsonia, Dutch iris, sparaxis, ixias, white calla, narcissus, Chinese sacred lily, baby gladioli. Anemone and ranunculus should not be set out until October. Remember, bulbs have different soil needs but all must have good drainage. No bulb should be put into very wet soil, and no bulb should come in direct contact with fertilizer. Consult your nurseryman for complete instructions. Bulbs live a number of years, so give them a good start.

IF YOUR house plants have suffered neglect, try to revive them. Ferns, palms, philodendrons and others will respond to regular watering and feeding. If they look too bad, put them, pot and all, outside in soil in a shady place, apply fertilizer, and keep moist. When they perk up, repot if necessary, and take them back into the house if you wish. Discard all plants badly infested with scale or mealy bugs.

don't let aphids and black spot ruin your roses

When you see these danger signs, give fast first-aid with ISOTOX and ORTHOCIDE

APHIDS suck young growth; harden buds, distort leaves, stunt growth. ISOTOX Garden Spray, which contains Lindane, Malathion and DDD, controls aphids, red spider and a wide variety of other garden insects.

BLACK SPOT

During summer, circular black spots ⅛ to ½ inch across appear. Spots will enlarge, merge, leaves turn yellow, die and fall. Also affects stems, canes.

ORTHOCIDE Garden Fungicide (captan) effectively controls black spot on roses; brown patch on lawns; damp-off on bulbs, seeds and cuttings and many other plant diseases.

IT'S EASY AS WATERING to apply ISOTOX Garden Spray and ORTHOCIDE Garden Fungicide. Mix them together in the ORTHO Spray-Ette garden hose attachment. Spray both at same time.

YOUR GARDEN

For Color, Fragrance

By Joe Littlefield

STOCKS may lack vivid colors, when compared with snapdragons, but they more than make up for this minor fact by sweet-scenting garden areas in which they are planted.

Mass them in groups about ten inches apart so they'll hold themselves up. Plant the colors separated in groups but within the mass planting.

Stocks are not partial to soil cultivation and do better if watered only when soil becomes dry. Keep them growing by feeding them at least twice during the active period before they set flower buds.

SPRAY FOR aphids that might suck plant sap juices from tip foliage and stunt the plants, resulting in short flower stems and inferior masses of blossoms.

A companion plant in front of stocks would be calendula, with rich orange or bright yellow flowers. The double blossoms are totally different from spikes of stocks and establish interesting contrast of blooms and colors.

Calendulas planted in front of stocks provide color accents in the borders of this attractive approach.

Choosing a Dog

Welsh, and Lakeland terriers, miniature schnauzers, Scottish terriers, Sealyhams, Skye terriers, and that most gentle little fellow, the West Highland white.

In the non-sporting group, the miniature poodle, ever merry and lovable, holds top spot. The Boston terrier (a cross between terrier and bulldog) has been bred for city life and is neat and companionable. The pint-sized French bulldog is a blithe soul, sweet-tempered and playful. The Schipperke's gentle way with children and his watchful loyalty endear him to his owners.

You can see all of these breeds today at the Pasadena Kennel Club show and obedience trial at Brookside Park.

PLAN TO ATTEND Los Angeles Poodle Obedience Club and German Shepherd Dog Club of L. A. County specialties at North Hollywood Park on Oct. 15.

JOSEPHINE REYNOLDS

It's Polynesian

"THE HOUSE a steak built." That's what the customers call the Melody Cove restaurant, 1960 Santa Fe Ave.

And they know what they're talking about.

Down through the years, the Melody Cove—owned by Jerry Reynolds and his tall wife Josephine—has always featured a special high quality steak at a low price. From time to time, this steak has variously been a sirloin, New York cut or filet mignon, changing according to market conditions. The Reynolds have always made their beef purchases carefully, succeeding in buying the best cuts available at reasonable prices.

Currently the restaurant features two special steaks which keep the customers smiling and coming back for more. The newest is a Polynesian teriyaki steak for $2.25. This is a tender, broiled filet served with a cup of tangy teriyaki sauce (made from soy sauce, ginger and other lively spices). The price includes soup du jor or a fine salad with choice of dressing; a dandy baked potato with butter or cheese sauce; hot garlic toast and coffee.

The other special steak is a 10-ounce top sirloin for $2.50, and this is also excellent quality beef, skillfully broiled to retain the maximum juices and tenderness. It is served with the same side dishes as the teriyaki steak.

The menus at the Melody Cove (which is closed Sundays) list many other lip-smacking entrees, such as a large top sirloin for $3.25 and a delectable steak and lobster combination for $4.25. Another gourmet dish currently at the height of its season is fried oysters—$2.25 on the dinner. On Thursday nights the special is a fine prime rib au jus dinner for $1.95.

The Cove, which has a separate dining room for families with children, serves luncheons and dinners from 11 a.m. to midnight Mondays through Saturdays.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Gentlemen—those of you who are married—The Continental has some advice for you on how to romance your wives.

Ordinarily, Renzo Cesana, The Continental, largely directs his advice to women.

A gentleman of international charm, his coast-to-coast video advice for femmes was romantically sugar-coated with poetry, soft music and champagne when he was the toast of late TV nine years ago.

Now that he has returned to afternoon television (channel 5, 12:30 p.m. daily), he has dropped the champagne, uses the soft music sparingly, but still gives major-league treatment to the poetry.

HIS NON-POETIC ADVICE for husbands also is "major-league" caliber.

"Men," said The Continental, "treat your wives as women—not pals.

"I do not mean that you should run fetch them a drink of water every time they are thirsty. That is not the idea at all.

"What I mean is that, even if your wife weighs 170 pounds, call her 'Little Darling.'

"Be a little jealous—it is proof that you love her.

"Don't try to prove that you have complete faith in her by asking your best friend to take her to dinner. Establish your ownership of the girl.

"The safest thing to do is to assert yourself as the male with all the defects that a male has.

"Only God can make a woman beautiful.

"But there is something beautiful about every woman—some little thing of her own.

"Capitalize on it."

HIS ADVICE FOR WIVES:

"Just be a woman—don't try to be a pal.

"A man loves to talk about himself and his work. Let him talk."

The Continental takes issue with the "authorities" who picture the American woman as being highly frustrated.

He claims she is no more frustrated than her European counterpart. The American woman has to be a happier woman than the European even if she sometimes won't admit it.

She has to be happier because she has a home, a car, opportunities to study and, most important, is freer.

"All women—everywhere—look for romance," said The Continental.

"And you can not tell me that the French, German or Italian husband is romantic for 30 years.

No man can be romantic that long with the same woman.

"He may love her, but the honeymoon doesn't last forever.

So the Italian wife, too, is a sentimentalist. She, too, seeks escape in films and books.

"WHY SINGLE OUT the American man as being unromantic and make him the only guilty one in the world?

"Like other men everywhere, he works hard all day. When he comes home, he is tired.

"The American woman, with her material advantages, is in a much better position to receive him in a romance-inspiring home."

The Continental does not believe that American women are attracted to foreign men any more than foreign women are attracted to American men.

He told of sitting in an Italian cafe one day where there were two lovely Italian girls at a table. At another table, there were two Italian men. At a third table, there were two American men.

"All of the men plotted to get the girls," said The Continental. "The Americans succeeded.

"I am sure it was not because they had more money or were more handsome. It was simply that, in Italy, they were foreigners—they were different.

"And for the girls of Italy—like everywhere else—the grass is always greener from some other pasture."

DAVID'S REAL WIFE IN REEL LIFE

'Ozzie and Harriet' Gain Daughter-In-Law

JUNE AND DAVID NELSON
Newlyweds at Home

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There is a new member of the Nelson family, expanding the winsome foursome to a quintet.

Added to the longtime team of Ozzie and Harriet, David and Ricky, is Mrs. David, also known as June Blair. She is a lovely, green-eyed redhead with a Marilyn Monroe-like background and a figure to match.

Viewers of the "Ozzie and Harriet" show will be seeing June at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, channel 7, in the quite logical role as David's wife.

"The show has us moving into our new apartment," June reported. "It was decided not to make a big thing of our marriage in the show, since most people know we're married anyway."

* * * *

SHE ADDED that her introduction to the show doesn't mean that her life's work is cut out for her.

"I expect to be in only one out of four chapters," she said. "I want to keep my own career going, too."

To this end, she has a separate agent and press agent from David's. You can understand her ambition when you learn of her history.

Her official biography tells it: Born in San Francisco, orphaned in infancy. Adopted at 4, returned to the orphanage at 6. Adopted at 7 by an unkind family. Ran away at 14, transferred to another family who insisted she "earn her keep."

Discovered by photographer at 16, became model and movie extra. Television bits, contracts at Warners and Fox. Finally an important role with Ernest Borgnine in "The Rabbit Trap."

* * * *

"THAT'S WHEN David saw me," June said. "He asked his father to keep an eye out for a role I could do on their show. One came along and that's how we met."

Wedding bells rang last May 20, and then June became a circus wife. Their honeymoon was largely spent traveling the country with the Flying Viennas, aerialist act in which David stars.

This summer the act played fairs and other shows in such places as San Mateo, Santa Rosa and Pacific Ocean Park in California; Anchorage, Alaska, Oklahoma City, Salt Lake City, Springfield, Ill., and Monticello, Iowa.

"Most of the time we traveled by truck," June said. "David bought a flatbed truck with two compartments, one to sleep in and one for the trapeze rigging. At first I thought I would fly to meet him at each stop, then I decided to try the truck.

"I'm glad I did. It was a great way to see the country. I also got to know the circus people and learn all their customs. I found out the wives take care of their husbands' needs, even to washing out their leotards. So that's what I did."

June and David are now back in their Hollywood Hills home to pursue their acting careers, together and separately.

USO SHOW ON TONIGHT

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Features Marilyn Monroe, Jack Benny, Bob Hope, Danny Kaye

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI)—It should come as no surprise that "USO—Wherever They Go," the attraction on NBC's "DuPont Show of the Week" tonight (Sunday, 10 p.m., channel 4), will have a guest list which includes Jack Benny, Bob Hope, Danny Kaye, Marilyn Monroe, Marlene Dietrich, Bing Crosby and others of similar fame.

The producers of this tribute to the United Service Organizations on its 20th anniversary are John Aaron and Jesse Zousmer, who are old hands at persuading stars to be themselves on camera as a result of their supervision of the "Person to Person" program of recent seasons.

A major coup was in getting Miss Monroe to narrate the film on the troop-entertainment tour she made in Korea in 1951.

"She had just been released from the hospital when we called," said Zousmer, a graying, bespectacled man who looks like what a corporation president is supposed to look like. "So we went to her apartment with a projector, sound equipment and the necessary technicians to show her what we were doing.

"She got such a kick out of the film, she eagerly agreed to write her own narration."

THIS FILM FOOTAGE involving Miss Monroe in Korea has a bit of mystery attached, according to the producers.

"At the time the film was made it had a sound track, but when we got hold of the film this had been cut away," Aaron explained. "We called more than 30 ex-Army officers, potential 'suspects,' offering to buy the souvenir, but none would admit possession."

The producers found that Bing Crosby was one of the more ardent souvenir collectors on his USO jaunts. When Aaron and Zousmer visited his California estate, he sent a servant to the basement to bring up two dusty packing cases.

"They contained his collection of German hats, dozens of them, from World War II," Zousmer said. "They ranged all the way from an ordinary steel helmet to a Luftwaffe cap with goggles."

The producers had quite a time pinning down James Cagney.

"We were delighted when we arrived in West Berlin to tape some spot material featuring singers Eydie Gorme and Steve Lawrence to discover that Cagney was staying in our hotel. But every time we tried to reach him, he was on location with the motion picture, 'One, Two, Three—Go!' When Cagney would try to reach us, we would be out working with the Lawrences.

"WE SPENT SEVEN DAYS under the same roof with Cagney, but it wasn't until we had returned to New York and he had gone to Munich that we finally made contact—via an overseas telephone call."

President Kennedy and former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower accepted bids to appear in the USO film.

"We filmed General Eisenhower at his Gettysburg farm," Aaron said. "My daughter was with me and asked if he would pose for a picture with her. His reply was: 'After all of the old men with whom I've been photographed, it will be a pleasure to pose with a pretty girl'."

The World War II commander-in-chief also recalled the time Crosby, during a wartime USO tour, asked him what he wanted most for Christmas. The answer was: "Grits for breakfast." Crosby mentioned this casually in a radiocast a few weeks later, and for many weeks the general was deluged with sacks of mailed hominy grits.

"There wasn't one person we spoke to who wasn't proud of having had his share in the USO work," Aaron summed up. "A few, like Jack Benny, who have done so much, couldn't even remember some of the outposts they had been to. They were delighted to be reminded of them through the films of their appearances that we ran off for them."

'TOP HAT IN FARMYARD'

Daly Comes to West

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Quiz-master John Daly paid a rare visit to Hollywood to narrate a TV special and inadvertently added a touch of class to the town.

The polished New Yorker resembled somewhat a man in top hat and tails who finds himself inexplicably in a farmyard.

Urbane and elegant, Daly epitomizes Manhattan sophistication.

Until this year Daly was too busy to make the trip west. He was vice president in charge of news, special events and public affairs for ABC, in addition to appearing on his weekly panel show, "What's My Line?" and six or seven documentaries a year.

Last December he left ABC and relaxed with only his quiz show chores, which take up about an hour of his time each week.

"I'M VERY HAPPY about 'What's My Line?'" he said. "It's been on the air 11½ years, tying us with Ed Sullivan as the longest running show on television."

What is the smooth-voiced TV personality doing with his spare time?

"Still catching up on my sleep," he grinned.

"Leaving that grind was the best thing that ever happened to me. I had gone down hill physically from fatigue. I spent seven years on that schedule with only two four-day vacations."

Since then Daly has vacationed in Hawaii and Europe.

I've put my personal affairs in order and now I'm beginning to think about the future. I hope to get back into the news business. On my trip to Europe I put together some contacts and old friends in foreign governments.

"AND I ENCOUNTERED the most frustrating thing a newsman can experience. I was in Berlin the night before they sealed off the border. My greatest disappointment was to be in the thick of a news story and not have any news outlet to report to."

Daly will be seen 10 p.m. Monday, channel 4, in NBC's "The Sound of the Sixties," an hour-long special starring Art Carney, Tony Randall and Mahalia Jackson.

The show will project the sounds of modern music, leisure, education, entertainment and the home.

"Appearing in front of the camera doesn't interest me as much as working with the news of the day," Daly added.

"I've talked to both NBC and CBS about doing news shows, but I'm in no hurry to return to the daily grind. Electronic journalism is doing a good job, and it is getting better.

"Electronic tape has proved the answer for providing the kind of immediacy that TV news requires. It is an exciting occupation."

Daly, impeccable in a smartly tailored suit, returned to the rehearsal stage where his co-workers in slacks and sport shirts looked at him as if he were out of his mind.

JOHN DALY ON MONDAY SPECIAL

DONNA REED is seeking name for dog addition to her ABC-TV show. Entries should be mailed to "Donna Reed, 250 N. Canon Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif." The winner will receive a poodle. Entry deadline is midnight, Oct. 19.

CIRCLE THEATRE—Fifth season premiere. A dramatization of Lizzie Borden's murder trial, reconstructed and seen through the eyes of the actual participants in the double ax-slaying. Ron Cochran replaces Doug Edwards as series host and Clarice Blackburn plays the title role, at 10 p.m. on channel 2.

BOB NEWHART SHOW—Premiere. The young satirist-comedian with the "button down" mind, launches a weekly half-hour in color and introduces Dan Sorkin, the Chicago deejay who "discovered" him. The Four Preps, actor James Milhollin, comedienne Mae Questal, actress Carol Cooke and Paul Weston and his band are featured. It's at 10 p.m. on channel 4.

DAVID BRINKLEY'S JOURNAL — Premiere. TV's first prime time news "column," informative rather than headline news. Features on Cocoa Beach, Fla., British tabloids, and U. S. sightseeing are planned for the opener. It's at 10:30 p.m., in color, on channel 4.

Mexico's Soap Operas Need Clean-Up

By JACK RUTLEDGE

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Soap operas in Mexico could use —well, a little soap. Rape, murder, illicit love and dope addiction are considered fairly normal for this type of entertainment.

Soap operas are called "novelas" down here, and they are extremely popular on both radio and television.

Mexico is now producing video-taped, Spanish-language television soap operas for export throughout Latin America. A new one titled "La Leona" is ready for showing in Lima, Buenos Aires, Santiago, Quito, Caracas, Bogota, Panama and other cities where it has been signed up.

Let's take a look at "La Leona" to get an idea of what a soap opera is like in this part of the world:

ALICIA IS AN ADORING wife, mother, and hat-check girl with a beatnik husband and a daughter named Maria who adores her father, Julio.

Julio decides to pick up some spare change by kidnaping a child for ransom. He's killed by police in the attempt, and Alicia is suspected of complicity. Although cleared, she is socially ostracized.

She puts Maria in a boarding school and heads for Las Vegas, Nev., where she opens a brothel. It is immediately successful.

A Nevada gambler named Johnny wants to buy her out, and also to marry her. Her attorney also wants to marry her. Confused, she heads back to Mexico City to think things over.

Maria, the daughter, has become a social snob. Several days' TV-time are devoted to how Maria was straightened out by an old nanny.

Johnny comes to Mexico City to see Alicia, but something brews between him and Maria.

For some reason all head back for Las Vegas, where Johnny is shot dead by a pal. Everyone is suspect. Alicia fears her daughter did it, and to save her, confesses.

The real murderer, Johnny's ex-pal, is exposed and Alicia and Maria go back home to start life anew.

THAT'S ALL, FOLKS.

And that's another difference between U.S. and Mexican soap operas.

The Mexican version is completed in between 50 and 60 chapters, and then they start another serial.

Rene Anselmo of the Teleprogramas outfit says soap operas are booming in Latin America. The Spanish versions even have a good market in U.S. cities with large Mexican populations.

A television center spokesman said that to supply the growing demand, seven half-hour video-taped shows are being shot daily in Mexico City's Televicentro. This doesn't count the radio soap operas which are, if anything, a bit spicier than the TV brand.

Era of Silent Films Subject of TV Special

Gene Kelly will serve as narrator for an NBC-TV Nov. 29 special on the era of silent films.

Starting with "The Great Train Robbery" of 1907, the special will include the coming of the sound track in 1927 with Al Jolson's "The Jazz Singer."

The hour-long program has been titled "Hollywood: The Golden Years."

Some of the silent-screen stars to be seen include Pearl White, Ruth Roland, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Gilbert Roland, Rudolph Valentino, John and Lionel Barrymore, Harold Lloyd, Greta Garbo, Marie Dressler and Charlie Chaplin.

FORMER President Dwight D. Eisenhower talks with CBS correspondent Walter Cronkite about the presidential office's sources of power during "CBS Reports" at 10 p. m. Thursday, channel 2. The program is the first of three covering Ike's views on the presidency, national defense and international relations.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

'Continental' Offers 'Charm Appeal' Advice

women, The Continental believes, is mainly because of the men's accents.

The foreign accents make the American women feel that the men are helpless. And the helpless feeling appeals to the "great" maternal instinct of the American woman.

In the appeal department, there are several things American women—particularly young American women—can do to enhance their charms.

"First," said The Continental, "throw away all your slacks—they are atrocious.

"Second, throw away all your make-up except that for your eyes and your lips. The less you use on your lips, the better. In Europe, very few women use any lipstick, although they spend hours to fix their eye make-up.

"Third—and I repeat what I said before—capitalize on the 'something'—every woman has some little thing of her own—that is beautiful about you."

PERSONALITY PARADE

If you have a question of interest on a personality of note, send it to Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y. Names will be used unless otherwise requested in writing. PARADE cannot reply individually to the inquiries of readers.

Q. Is Warren Beatty, brother of actress Shirley MacLaine, the reason Natalie Wood and Bob Wagner broke up?—Ellen Hinds, Chicago, Ill.
A. No, Miss Wood began dating Beatty only after she and Wagner decided to dissolve their marriage.

Q. Judge Learned Hand, who died at 89 earlier this year, was conceded to be one of America's greatest judges. How come in the 52 years Hand spent on the federal bench not one of our Presidents saw fit to appoint him to the U.S. Supreme Court?—David Herman, New York, N.Y.
A. Unfortunately, politics and geography both play roles in the appointment of U.S. Supreme Court justices; and for Learned Hand the correct circumstantial combination never presented itself.

Q. Now that Judy Garland and Sid Luft have decided to call it quits, who will become Judy's fourth husband?—Dianne M., Wallingford, Conn.
A. The lucky man has not yet been chosen.

Q. Is it true that in World War II the first atomic bomb was scheduled to be dropped on Kyoto and not Hiroshima? Who changed the target? — Lewis Neustadt, Atlanta, Ga.
A. True. The target was overruled by then Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson with President Truman's okay. They decided to save Kyoto, Japan's old capital and one of that nation's most picturesque and historic cities.

Q. I would like to know how much Warner Brothers will pay Eddie Fisher and Elizabeth Taylor for making films at that studio?—Helen Parrish, Burbank, Calif.
A. Mr. Fisher will receive $100,000 a film as a producer. Miss Taylor will receive $1 million a film against 10 per cent of the gross plus 50 per cent of the net profit.

Q. Who said: "If a woman is intelligent she wants to enter the world of men, which then makes her unfeminine"?—Nora Rose, Des Moines, Iowa.
A. Roger Vadim, ex-husband of Brigitte Bardot.

Q. Whatever happened to Nancy Oakes, whose millionaire father was murdered years ago in a case that was a sensational scandal?—Owen J., Miami, Fla.
A. Nancy Oakes, 35, recently divorced from German Baron Ernst Huene, lives in Mexico City with her children.

Q. How old is writer Somerset Maugham?—Julian Fine, Newark, N.J.
A. 87.

Q. Why did Darryl Zanuck and Juliette Greco break up? The truth, please.—F.I., Santa Monica, Calif.
A. One story is that Miss Greco asked Zanuck what role she would play in his newest film, The Longest Day. When Zanuck pointed out that he had no role for her in his latest project, she explained she felt the same way about him in her life.

Q. Can you tell me why Prince Rainier banished Britain's wealthy Lady Docker from Monaco?—Thomas Studley, Indianapolis, Ind.
A. In 1958 Lady Docker tore up a paper flag of the principality in a hotel restaurant. The Prince heard about it and promptly returned $2,000 worth of christening gifts Lady Docker and her husband had previously given to his son Prince Albert. He then banished Lady Docker.

Q. Is it true that the world-famous dance team of Darvas & Julia has broken up?—Judith E., Pasadena, Calif.
A. Darvas, author of the bestseller How I Made $2,000,000 in the Stock Market, broke with Julia after she sued him for back pay and part of his market earnings. He has announced plans to tour the world in search of a new partner.

Q. Is Alice Faye old enough to play Pat Boone's mother, which she's doing in State Fair?—Leona Finch, Atlantic City, N.J.
A. Miss Faye is 45. Boone is 27.

Darvas and Julia: The dance team have gone their separate ways. He wrote the controversial best-seller, How I Made $2,000,000 in the Stock Market.

When childhood constipation occurs

More mothers use Fletcher's Castoria than any other laxative

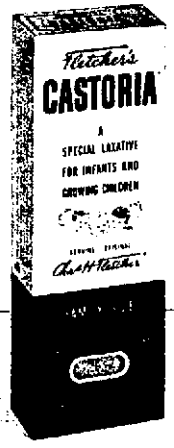

Because

Fletcher's Castoria gives the prompt, yet natural-like relief from temporary constipation that medical authorities agree is best for a child's young system. Its pure extract of Senna is considered one of nature's finest vegetable laxative products.

Fletcher's Castoria is gentle, the prime requisite for a child's laxative. It contains none of the harsh drugs which are so often found in adult laxatives, drugs that can upset your child's system.

Fletcher's Castoria is liquid, so exact dosage is sure: from drops to teaspoonfuls as needed. Very important, too, Castoria tastes good. So children take it willingly, even lick the spoon.

Fletcher's Castoria is the only nationally-recognized laxative made especially for children of all ages. So why take chances... the laxative that's "right" for you can well be "wrong" for your child. Get famous Fletcher's Castoria today.

It takes a child's laxative to fulfill a child's needs

FELICIA ATKINS

A chorus girl in the stardom sweepstakes

HOLLYWOOD.

MOST CHORUS GIRLS enter show business because secretly or openly they want to become movie stars. One day, they hope, a talent scout or movie producer will chance along, discover them on stage, take them to Hollywood and eventual stardom.

It happened that way with Barbara Stanwyck, Lucille Ball, Betty Grable, Shirley MacLaine, Mitzi Gaynor, many others. "Why not," the chorine reasonably asks, "with me?"

The truth is it hasn't happened in years. Las Vegas, the show business capital which employs more chorus girls than any other U.S. city, has been trying for a decade but has yet to produce a full-fledged movie star.

Its latest entry, however, is given the best chance to date of accomplishing the coup. Her name is Felicia Atkins. She comes from Sydney, Australia. She's constructed with scenic-railway curves, generates sex appeal the way an atomic blast spouts radioactivity and she's starring opposite Jerry Lewis in his latest film, The Errand Boy.

Jerry, who makes films for children, has no taste in clothes, cars, literature, art or decor. When it comes to girls, however, he's a specialist in discovering sexy, earthy, lusty, stimulating, well-put-together females and casting them in his films. Janet Leigh, Anita Ekberg, Mona Freeman, Polly Bergen, Corinne Calvet, Marilyn Maxwell—these are just a few. Jerry claims to know what will arouse the red-blooded American male, and his latest candidate is Felicia Atkins, the former "Miss Australia," 25, black hair, vital measurements: 40-23-37.

Jerry discovered Felicia when he was playing Las Vegas, and she was playing the Tropicana Hotel there. The statuesque beauty has been a steady at the hotel since it opened five years ago. Her only layoff occurred a few seasons back when Jayne Mansfield opened at the casino. The buxom blonde took one look at the buxom brunette, decided the competition was too keen and diplomatically suggested that Felicia take a vacation.

Star or Stylist?

While Jayne and her husband Mickey Hargitay put on their act, Felicia studied makeup and hair styling.

"Other show girls," she says, "want to become motion picture stars, but I've always wanted to become a makeup artist and hair stylist. In fact, when Jerry Lewis started to cast The Errand Boy, I asked him if he wouldn't hire me as a makeup girl. He gave me the once-over and said, 'Listen, Felicia, I get all the laughs around here.' Then he hired me as an actress. He said I have what it takes to be a star, and with a little luck I might make it."

Felicia Atkins came to America in 1956 with the Water Follies. After a tour, she signed on in New York as a model. In 1957 she went to Las Vegas, worked as a show girl and later as a dancer.

Two years ago Jerry Lewis met her, took optical inventory of her physical assets, said he would keep her in mind for a future part. Felicia, who has heard that line for years, put no stock in it. But a few months ago Lewis, true to his word, called the beauty from Las Vegas, cast her opposite him as the lead in his new film.

"Now," he says, "we'll have to wait until the picture's released to see if Felicia's got that star magic. If the fans like her, then the kid's made it, and for her the Las Vegas line is a thing of the past." —NANCY HAGEN

The Swiss have no juvenile delinquency

WHY?

by LLOYD SHEARER

ZURICH, SWITZERLAND.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY is on the rise everywhere —not only in slum areas but in suburban districts—not only among the poverty-ridden but among the white-collar classes—not only in the U.S. but in France, Canada, Mexico, England, Russia, any country you can think of. Except Switzerland.

Switzerland has no juvenile delinquency problem. How come?

What goes with this wealthy, industrious nation of 5 million people — half-Protestant, almost half-Catholic?

Why in this picturesque alpine democracy partitioned into German-, French- and Italian-speaking cantonments, are there fewer policemen proportionally than in any neighboring European country—and less crime?

How do the Swiss do it? Here are a few of the ways:

Stolid and stable, the Swiss control their children more strictly than we do ours.

In Switzerland youngsters are banned from motion picture theaters until they are 16. To see most films in most cantonments they must be 18 or over. For innocuous entertainment of the Walt Disney stripe the age requirement is lowered to 12. There is strict cinema censorship on the local level. The police control the theater box office. No 13-year-old girl and her boy friend saunter into a Swiss movie house to see a Brigitte Bardot film or Not Tonight Henry.

"We believe in raising our children," one Basel schoolteacher explained to me, "free from the violence and sex which characterize your American movies and television. Also wo do not make heroes of gangsters. I guess we have a more prosaic, middle-class set of values."

The Swiss cannot understand why we refuse to classify our movies for adult and minor viewing the way France, England and other democratic nations do.

"It makes no sense," a local official in Andermatt told me. "In America you do not allow children to frequent bars and saloons. No minors may be served alcohol in your country; yet you permit your children to see movies about call girls, prostitutes, gangsters and infidelity.

"It seems to me," he continued, "that Hollywood movies are getting more daring all the time."

(Editor's note: Forthcoming from Hollywood this year are such films as The Children's Hour dealing with lesbianism, Town Without Pity dealing with mass rape, Splendor in the Grass dealing with teenage sex problems. In addition, the production of nude and near-nude movies by fly-by-night operators in Hollywood has increased so widely that a group of industry leaders are finally trying to do something about the problem. Unfortunately, they can do little so long as these operators find motion picture theaters in which to release their fare.)

Actually, most individual Hollywood producers are in favor of classifying their movies. Practically the only ones against classification are Eric Johnston, President of the Motion Picture Association of America, whose handsome salary is paid by the major studios, and Albert Pickus, President of the Theatre Owners of America.

These two high-minded gentlemen apparently do not believe in imposing any system on the public that might restrict the box-office take.

Says Johnston: "We only get on solid ground when we consider the effects of classification—any form of it. For here we see it for what it is—censorship, nothing more, nothing less. Who can dispute the fact that classification is essentially a surrender of parental authority, a denial of a parent's right to decide what is best for his child? . . ."

Says Pickus: "Virtually all theater men are opposed to regulatory or statutory classification. We know of no individuals or groups so Solomonesque in their ability that they should tell us what age groups should see our films . . ."

Swiss parents to whom I showed these two quotations (taken from the September 1961 issue of the Journal of the Screen Producers Guild) smiled and snickered. They asked which was of more importance: the welfare of American children or the welfare of American theater-owners. And this, mind you, from a finance-minded people who love profits.

The Real Cause

The Swiss, who have studied juvenile delinquency, do not believe its major causes are founded in unregulated movie and TV fare. They are too realistic for that. They know that broken homes, poverty, illiteracy, malnutrition, glandular imbalance, mental retardation, mobility of population and other factors play large causative roles. But it is their firm opinion that there is little juvenile delinquency in their nation because there is little parental neglect of children.

In Switzerland parents do not believe that they must not interfere with a child's individual self-expression.

In Switzerland parents do not want their children to get a driver's license or a motorbike license until the children are at least 18. And that's the way they have compelled the cantonal regulations to read: no driver's license before 18.

Swiss parents believe that the development of a skill, a profession, a vocation is the most important factor in a youngster's rearing. And they believe that an automobile given to a young man is a deterrent to his educational progress, plus an unnecessary aid to premature dating and possible promiscuity.

Swiss teenagers do most of their traveling on bicycles. Auto licenses are forbidden until age of 18.

Hiking, skiing and mountain-climbing are part of vigorous outdoor life aimed at building character.

"I was shocked," a professor at the University of Neuchatel told me, "to discover in America how many high school students drive their own or family cars. I think American parents are crazy to allow this. It is educational suicide."

A recent survey made by an educator in Idaho of high school students who had autos showed none surveyed were A students. Most were D students or failing in their studies.

A further survey by an insurance company reached the same conclusion: ownership or control of an auto by a teenager in most cases leads to a lowering of educational grades.

Driving tests in Switzerland are extremely difficult, purposely so, and few youngsters obtain a driving license before they're 19.

The result is that there are relatively few juvenile car thefts or crimes involving the use of motor vehicles.

The average Swiss youth gets his first taste of danger not behind the wheel of a hot rod but in skiing, hiking or mountain climbing, all sports which the Swiss say our youngsters should grow up with, in addition to those they already practice.

In Switzerland parents tell a child over and over again, "You must make something of yourself in this life." Offices and schools start at 7 a.m.

The Swiss honor their school teachers. They consider them important and pay them well. Their seven universities are world-famous, and their Federal School of Technology has trained more brilliant engineers, chemists and scientists than any other university in the world.

The Swiss also maintain a compulsory system of apprenticeship in industry, commerce, arts and crafts. The boy who leaves school at 16 is apprenticed, say, to a watchmaking factory where he is paid a token salary while he learns what makes watches tick. He is closely supervised, must work by day and study by night. At the end of his apprenticeship he must pass a stiff examination or face the purgatory of becoming an unskilled worker.

In Switzerland a respect for labor and an interest in craftsmanship are instilled in children at an early age and reinforced time and time again.

American Money Standards

The Swiss make excellent teachers, and their training of children is so thorough and well-rounded that for years the world's royal and rich families have sent their offspring to school here.

These wealthy children attend Swiss private schools —no typical Swiss sends his child to such an institution—and many of them are either spoiled flunk-outs from their own country's schools or children of broken homes whose parents don't particularly want the responsibility of raising them. The Swiss have seen these so-called "private school children — all foreigners" in action for years and have some snide but closely-guarded comments to make about them.

"The trouble with the American educational system," a Swiss educator confided to me, "is that your people don't regard your teachers as successful human beings. In America everyone uses money standards for judging success. Since teachers don't make much money they are not considered successful and are therefore not as widely respected as our teachers here.

"If you paid your teachers better you would respect them more. You would attract a higher type of teacher, and good teachers always help reduce the number of potential juvenile delinquents, since they inspire pupils to study and achievement."

While Swiss primary schools are co-educational, the Swiss parent does not believe his son should start dating girls until he passes 16. He believes his son should study, work, play and prepare himself for a useful career. The same holds true for his daughter. Swiss parents are notoriously thrifty with allowances, so that youngsters don't have nearly as much money to spend as in America.

The Swiss do not believe in a society where sex is more important than work; and they impress this upon their children. The result is that the country has no Casanova tradition—but its divorce rate is also one of the lowest in the world: 3.59 per thousand.

Swiss family life is stable. In the average Swiss home the mother reigns supreme. She is house-proud and children-proud and generally avoids frivolity. She does not vote and has never voted—except against her right to exercise the ballot.

Domestic Virtues

She cannot take up a profession without her husband's consent, but it is she who controls the children and makes them toe the line. She impresses upon her children the need for good citizenship. She prepares her son for his compulsory military training, her daughter for a life of orderliness and thrift.

In Switzerland domestic virtues are encouraged, and domestic training schools and advice bureaus are provided for wives and young women.

Frequently girls from the very best families in Zurich are sent as domestics to homes in England and France to acquire housekeeping skills and knowledge of foreign languages.

Of late there has been an upsurge of church-going by young people in Switzerland, largely attributed to the increase of young, new and enthusiastic pastors.

One of the most popular Swiss youth activities involves the various Youth Parliaments in which children of secondary school age meet in session, urge free railroad trips for students, more parks, more youth activities. These Youth Parliaments are recognized here as a useful preparatory grounds for adult citizenship.

In Switzerland all men to the age of 50 face military service. They put in four months of training at age 20, then three-week courses each year for the next 12 years. Every Swiss soldier keeps his uniform, gun and ammunition at home, considers military service an honorable duty, a school for citizenship and equality.

Switzerland is essentially a country peopled by a middle-class society with all the virtues and faults of such a society. It is prosperous, solid, slow, inartistic, conservative, frugal, upright, pedantic, unimaginative, sober, precise and hardworking.

Unlike our own country, it is not exciting, glamorous or dynamic, but somehow while the youth of the world is enslaved in a cult of violence and crime for kicks, the people of this tiny, land-locked nation have managed to solve the problem of juvenile delinquency by setting a pattern for their children of hard work and meaningful life. ■

Famous fires

See if you know what caused them

Kate O'Leary's cow "kicks off" one of the worst fires in history.

TODAY MARKS the beginning of the 50th annual Fire Prevention Week, an observance calculated to remind us that some 2 million fires claim more than 11,000 lives and damage property in excess of a billion dollars each year. While these staggering losses have been largely the cumulative result of "little" fires, there have been others that have been national calamities. Can you match the 10 fires listed below with the causes (bottom of page) generally attributed to them?

1. CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 8, 1871
The Great Chicago Fire raged 30 hours, killed at least 200, destroyed 17,400 buildings, including the whole downtown section.

2. PESHTIGO, WIS., Oct. 8, 1871
Often overlooked because it started the same day as the Great Chicago Fire, its death toll of 1,152 is the largest in U.S. history.

3. CHICAGO, ILL. Dec. 30, 1903
Upwards of 2,000 people crammed into the "fireproof" Iroquois Theater to see Eddie Foy in Mr. Bluebeard. The audience panicked when an asbestos curtain failed to smother a backstage fire. Death toll: 602.

4. NEW YORK, N.Y., June 15, 1904
When fire broke out on the excursion steamer General Slocum as it paddled up the East River, 1,030 people, mostly Sunday School children, lost their lives.

5. NEW YORK, N.Y., March 25, 1911
A fire in the Asch Building, housing the Triangle Shirtwaist Co., killed 145 employees. Only one stairway led to the ground, and women workers fleeing to fire exit doors found them bolted from the outside.

6. ASBURY PARK, N.J., Sept. 8, 1934
The S.S. Morro Castle became a floating funeral pyre for 134 off the New Jersey shore. The frightened crew made no attempt to use modern fire-fighting equipment.

7. BOSTON, MASS., Nov. 28, 1942
More than 1,000 revelers were crowded into the 600-capacity Cocoanut Grove night club when the place burst into flames. The revolving door jammed. Fatalities totaled 492, including cowboy film star Buck Jones.

8. HARTFORD, CONN., July 6, 1944
When the circus' 75,000 sq. ft. big top burst into flames, 169 lost their lives.

9. LIVONIA, MICH., Aug. 12, 1953
This fire at the General Motors automatic transmission plant was the most expensive under-one-roof fire in history. Damage was estimated at $50 million.

10. CHICAGO, ILL., Dec. 1, 1958
A blaze that spread rapidly in Our Lady of the Angels parochial school took the lives of 90 children and three nuns.

Here are the causes. Match them with the fires

A. Faulty wiring of a powerful arc lamp ignited after it fell across theater curtain.

B. Rubbish under a basement stairway caught fire from a spark.

C. Sudden gale whipped "under-control" forest fires into a 150-mile long inferno.

D. Boy lighting a match near flammable ornaments, according to a witness.

E. Small fire in men's lavatory regarded as "minor" until it got out of hand.

F. Welding gun spark sizzled into combustible liquid, spread rapidly through building.

G. Compartment door closeting likely internal combustion fire was foolishly opened, feeding oxygen to blaze.

H. Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over kerosene lamp in hay-filled barn.

I. Electric motor spark dropped into rag bin.

J. Smoldering fire in deserted writing room went undetected.

CAN YOU AFFORD THIS BED?

Statistics show that your chances of becoming disabled from accident or illness this year are 1 in 4.* Pretty grim odds for a man, particularly if he has a wife and children. Pretty expensive odds, too, in view of today's high hospital and surgical costs, and the income loss that may result from a long term disability.

To help guard against such financial hardships, New York Life offers many up-to-date Health Insurance Plans. There are hospital and surgical expense plans for single individuals and for families, and even "senior citizen" plans for persons from 61 to 75 years of age—all providing Lifetime coverage. There are also Major Medical Plans to help protect you against the really big bills. All provide realistic benefits in line with today's higher costs. Yet, because of practical deductible clauses and sensible exclusions, premiums are surprisingly modest.

For the family breadwinner, a New York Life Income Protection Plan is extremely important. Under such a plan if you should become totally disabled, you can receive a regular monthly check—vital income your family will need.

Remember, the odds are 1 in 4. Wouldn't it be wise to have financial protection against accident or sickness and its resulting hardships before the need arises? Call your New York Life Agent soon. Or, for more information, mail the coupon below.

Five Minute Sea-Supper. So steeped in flavor you'd guess it cooked for hours. Use canned chicken, shrimp, clams and seasonings. Minute Rice goes in right from the box, simmers and turns golden-good with the savory juices.

Coney Island Quickie. Happy combination! "Franks" sautéed in rich butter, then slow simmered with tomatoes. Minute Rice absorbs all the delicious flavors and you've a supper to sing for—all in just ten minutes.

Apricot-Rice Roast. Minute Rice goes right from the box to steam with tangy spices and golden apricots. Minute Rice absorbs all the flavor. No rice you boil first could give your stuffing such goodness . . . in 15 minutes.

Luncheon Turnovers. Crunchy Brazil nuts are teamed with savory ham and mushrooms, then molded with Minute Rice. Unlike rice you boil first, Minute Rice fluffs up with flavor. Such elegant eating—and so fast.

Danish Rice Crème. Slivered almonds—thick, whipped cream, Bing cherry topping . . . with fluffy Minute Rice to blend the luscious tastes. You can make this "swanky restaurant" dessert in 10 minutes . . . but only with Minute Rice.

Fluffy Peach Pudding. Hearty and handsome family-dinner dessert you can fix in 15 minutes. Minute Rice absorbs all the rich flavor from peaches, eggs and the surprise ingredient . . . Jell-O Pudding and Pie Filling.

Cherokee Casserole. Nourishing fare for little "Indians." You use beef, tomatoes, mushroom soup. And Minute Rice absorbs all the hearty tastes and blends them all together in a dish that's really delish.

Sunday-Dinner Chicken. Chicken takes on company airs when you serve it with Minute Rice made with carrots, green beans and a creamy sauce. Each long grain puffs up with all the goodness and flavors there are.

Lemon Rice Puffs. Creamy custard below. Fluffy rice on top. Fabulous flavor all through. Minute Rice makes desserts extra luscious because it absorbs all the flavor. Recipes for all these dishes are in the large-size boxes.

Only with Minute Rice can you make all these dishes so fast...so flavorful

Try one of these treats tonight. Family hurry-ups, company pleasers, sensational desserts—they're all in the recipe folder in the large-size boxes of Minute Rice . . . great with Minute Rice because . . .

You don't cook Minute Rice first. Add it right from the box with the other ingredients. Instead of soaking up water, Minute Rice absorbs flavors from meat and vegetables . . . from luscious desserts. It's the only rice that gives "cooked-for-hours" goodness . . . in minutes.

COOKIE JAR TREAT

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

Keep them on a low shelf in the kitchen, ready for a youngster's eager reach

MOLASSES CIRCLES

1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup light molasses
¾ teaspoon vinegar
¾ cup rich milk or light cream
3 cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon mace
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt

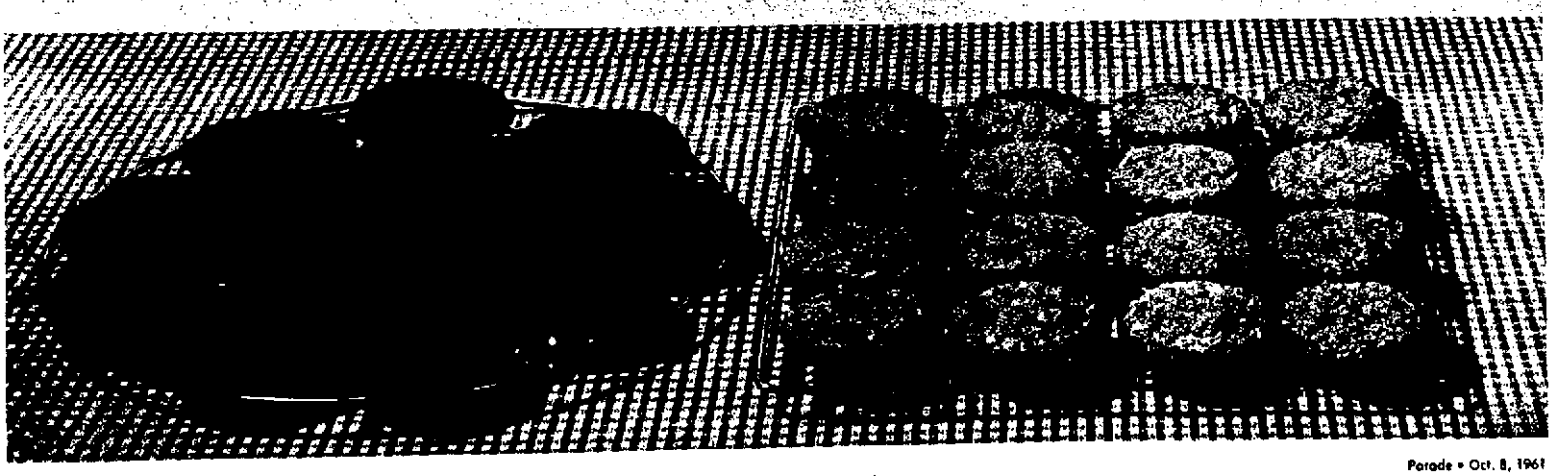

Cream shortening and sugar. Add egg; beat well. Add molasses; beat well. Combine vinegar and milk or cream. Sift flour, spices, baking soda and salt. Add alternately with milk mixture. Drop by tablespoons about 2" apart on greased cookie sheets. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 8 to 10 minutes. Makes about six dozen.

OATMEAL COOKIES

2½ cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¾ cup shortening, soft
½ cup granulated sugar
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs
¼ cup milk
2½ cups rolled oats, uncooked
1 cup seedless raisins, chopped

Sift first 5 ingredients together into bowl. Add shortening, sugars, eggs and milk. Mix until smooth, about 2 minutes. Stir in oats and raisins. Chill. Roll out on lightly floured board or canvas to ¼" thickness; cut with floured 3" cookie cutter. Place on greased cookie sheets; sprinkle lightly with granulated sugar, if desired. Bake in moderate oven (375°) 10 to 12 minutes. Remove from cookie sheets at once. Makes 60.

Safe shower: If your shower often turns suddenly hot or cold, a new valve should solve the problem. Installed without disturbing bathroom fixtures, it automatically compensates for pressure changes produced when water is turned on or off elsewhere in the house, holds shower temperature to within a single degree of what you select. $19.95. Tempera Corp., Dept. PP, 4035 N. Interstate Ave., Portland 17, Ore.

Light dimmer: The first full-range electronic dimmer that fits into a standard single wall-box is available. Installed like any conventional two-way switch and using the same two wires, it controls light intensity all the way from dark to full bright on incandescent circuits up to 600 watts. By electronically reducing current flow, it saves electricity, increases bulb life. $24.95. Electro-Solid Controls, Dept. PP, 8001 Bloomington Freeway, Minneapolis 20, Minn.

Easier leaf cleaning: Removing leaves from under bushes and between plants is simplified by a 46"-long steel tool with a uniquely designed tine (tooth). The tine's serrated edges ferret out leaves from spots where rakes will not operate. $2.95. Wolco Tool Div., Dept. PP, 721 Custer Ave., Evanston, Ill.

Traveling bureau drawers: Here's a new idea (above) in luggage—bureau drawers that can travel. At the touch of a pushbutton, the drawers (made of reinforced plastic and protected by vinyl covers) become light-to-carry luggage. One advantage: no need to jam closets with suitcases. The luggage-drawers also can be used to form vanities, desks, chests. Details: Matralin Co., Dept. PP, 701 N. State St., Elgin, Ill.

Now! The three kinds of insurance a young father wants most — all in one new policy

Equitable's new Planned Security Policy combines permanent life insurance with term insurance to give you maximum protection when needed most, at an unchanging, low premium.

Provides for your family if you die: 1. Lump sum cash payment for beneficiary. 2. Monthly income while children are growing up. For you, if you live: 3. Cash for your own retirement.

The newest form of Living Insurance, Planned Security gives you a comprehensive life insurance program in one policy. Planned Security combines permanent life insurance with term insurance. The permanent life insurance builds cash values and helps you save. The decreasing term insurance provides extra protection when your family needs it most.

$10,000 policy at age 30 gives you more than $57,000 of immediate protection

Planned Security keeps in step with your responsibilities. When you are young and your main responsibility is to provide protection for your family, it does that for you. For example, a $10,000 policy taken out at age 30 would give your wife, if you were to die immediately, $10,000 cash plus $250 a month for 20 years —or a single cash payment of $57,398.

If you were to die ten years after issue, when you are 40 and your children older, your wife would receive $10,000 in cash plus $250 a month for 10 years—or a single cash payment of $36,610. This gradually reduces to the $10,000 protection provided by the permanent insurance after age 50.

At age 50 when your children will probably be starting out on their own, the family income provision terminates. The same premium continues and permanent cash values build faster. Premiums end at age 65 and the $10,000 protection can be continued without further payments or the policy's cash value may be used to help provide for your retirement.

You get all this protection at age 30 for a premium of only $337.30 a year or $29.80 a month. (Dividends can cut the cost below even this low figure.) Smaller size policies have a somewhat higher premium per $1000.

No other form of insurance policy gives you this triple protection at this unchanging, low premium.

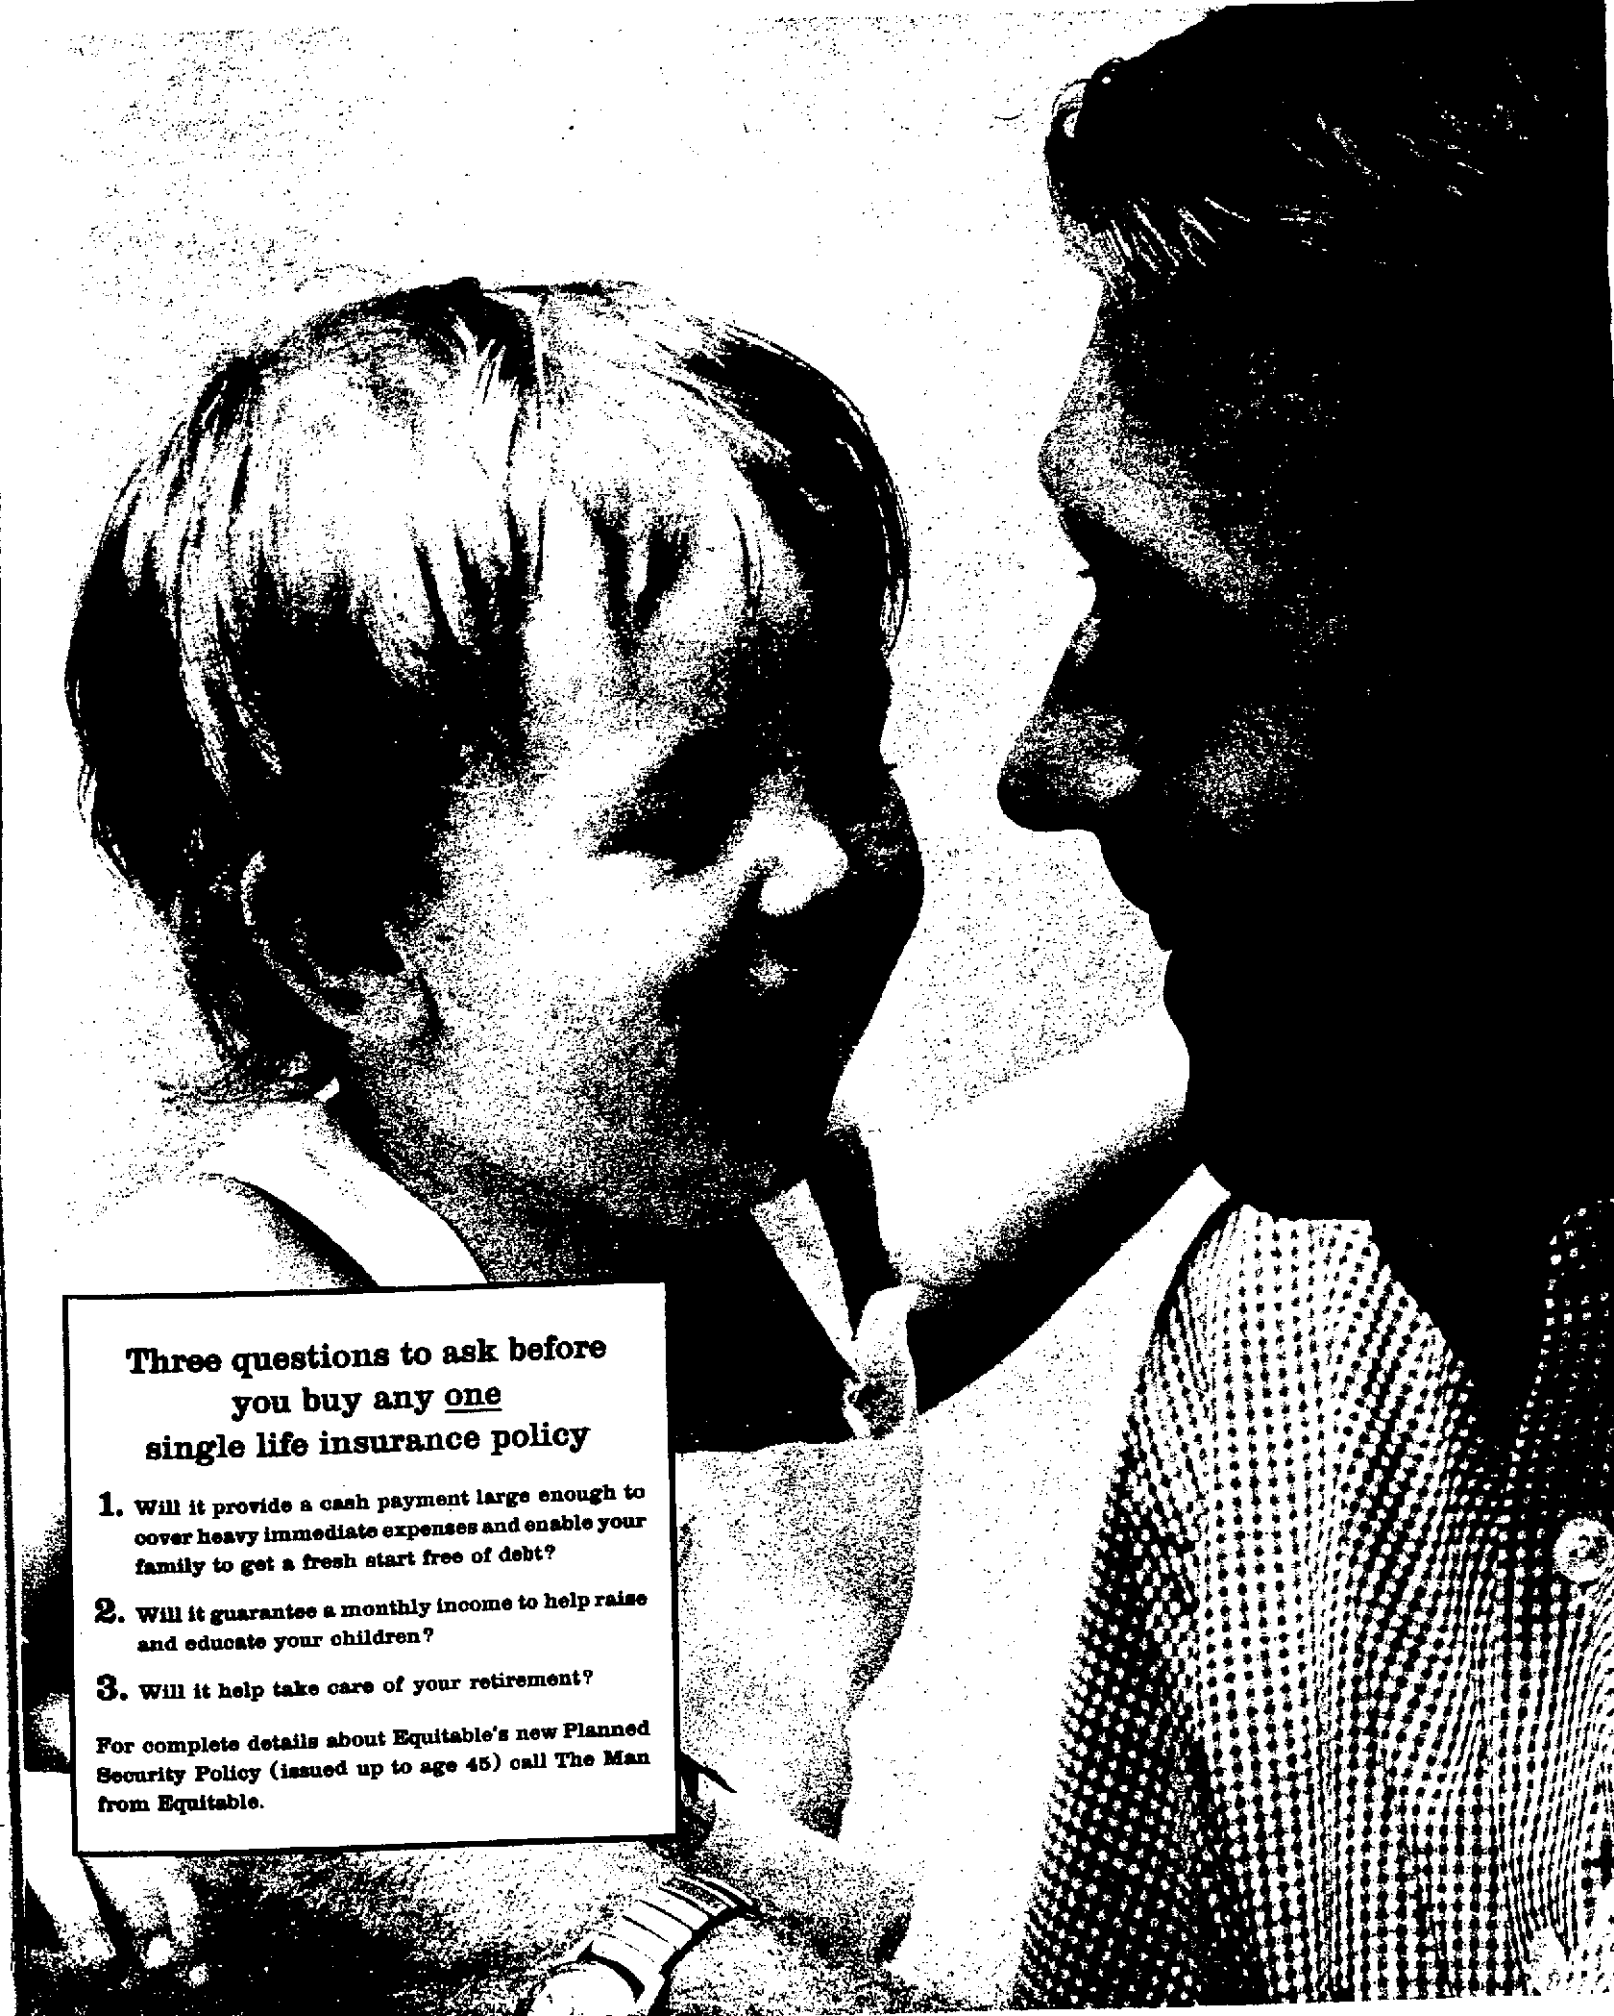

Living Insurance for the modern way of life

Planned Security is an Equitable exclusive. It's new, modern insurance—planned for today's modern way of life. And it's the type of new insurance you'd expect from Equitable, the company that pioneered Living Insurance . . . with benefits for the living, for better living.

THE EQUITABLE Life Assurance Society of the United States

Three questions to ask before you buy any one single life insurance policy

1. Will it provide a cash payment large enough to cover heavy immediate expenses and enable your family to get a fresh start free of debt?
2. Will it guarantee a monthly income to help raise and educate your children?
3. Will it help take care of your retirement?

For complete details about Equitable's new Planned Security Policy (issued up to age 45) call The Man from Equitable.

Stop Bad Breath 4 Times Better With Listerine

*See directions on label

The Listerine way kills germs that tooth paste doesn't even reach

Tooth paste covers only a small area of the mouth, yet most bad breath is caused by germs throughout the mouth and throat. With the Listerine way*, the recommended way, you get antiseptic action all over the mouth and in the farthest recesses of the throat . . . and in germ-harboring crevices too tiny for tooth paste, or even water, to enter. This means Listerine acts in four times as much area—to stop bad breath four times better than tooth paste, and for hours on end. Why settle for less when so much is at stake?

FLOWERS for the

by FRED BLUMENTHAL
Parade Washington correspondent

WASHINGTON, D.C.

FIRST LADY JACQUELINE KENNEDY has made a lot of changes throughout the White House since she took over from Mamie Eisenhower last January.

She's added antique furniture, changed wallpaper and introduced modern art to the stately old mansion. But only White House insiders know that she's also brought about a revolution in floral fashions.

Every First Lady has loved flowers. And, like her predecessors, Mrs. Kennedy has her own preferences: small cut flowers in season —no greens—no flowers in the President's office or in the family bedrooms.

"One of the first things Mrs. Kennedy said to me when she came to the House," says Chief Gardener Robert M. Redmond, "was to get rid of all the potted plants.

Meadow Blooms and Daises

"For her table arrangements, whether it's a state dinner or an informal tea, she insists on small pieces, meadow blooms, daisies and other seasonal flowers. She doesn't have any strong preferences in her bouquets, but the First Lady doesn't want any greens like leaves and ferns to back up her flower arrangements."

Possibly Mrs. Kennedy's choice of small, simple table arrangements traces back to her first luncheon at the White House as the guest of Mamie Eisenhower. That day, as the wife of Sen. John F. Kennedy, she found it all but impossible to talk to a friend across the table, because of the high bank of flowers between them.

"The flowers were beautiful, but it was like trying to talk through a jungle," Mrs. Kennedy later commented.

This simply proves to Redmond that White House flower fashions vary with the personalities and preferences of the First Family, or, more importantly, of the First Lady.

Redmond joined the gardener's staff at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue as a boy of 16, back in 1923 during the Harding administration. Today he directs a staff of 12 gardeners from his office in the flower room of the White House.

His responsibilities range all the way from providing a single rose for a favored visitor to providing mammoth floral arrangements for a state dinner. Apart from the beautiful blooms in the White House rose gardens, most of the First Family's flowers are purchased from wholesale florists.

A small greenhouse on the White House roof is used to keep flowers and plants that require sunshine; a walk-in refrigerator in Redmond's office helps preserve cut flowers ready for arranging. Once used, they are sent to hospitals in the Washington area.

A Single Red Rose

Flowers have always been an integral part of White House life. Redmond recalls emotionally the sadness of the Coolidge household after the death of young Calvin Jr. in 1924. Each morning thereafter, Mrs. Grace Coolidge had a small cart of flowers brought to her; she arranged them herself simply and tastefully for the various rooms—and never neglected to place a single red rose next to the photograph of her lost son.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover was an expert who knew the exact botanical names of all flowers, but she was never difficult to please and was quick to praise the gardeners for an especially beautiful arrangement.

Both Eleanor Roosevelt and Bess Truman "just liked flowers, lots of them," and were not unduly concerned about color, size or arrangement. Mamie Eisenhower, on the other hand, was definitely partial to tall, brightly colored pieces with plenty of greens showing. While these large arrangements may have complicated conversation across the dinner table, she felt they softened the impact of gleaming white linen tablecloths and added warmth to the setting.

And how does Caroline Kennedy feel about flowers? Redmond reports that Caroline scampered into his office soon after coming to live in the White House and asked solemnly:

"Please, may I smell the flowers?"

"And that," says Robert Redmond, "is just about the nicest thing you can say to a gardener." ■

Chief gardener Robert Redmond has been arranging flowers in the White House since 1923.

FIRST LADY

Jacqueline Kennedy sits beside type of flower arrangement she prefers: small cut blooms, no greens. The President likes flowers — but not in his office.

Noted beauty consultant answers questions about face creams

Can face creams iron out wrinkles?

by HELEN F. PORTER

IF I HAD a dime for every time I've been asked whether face creams help when it comes to wrinkles, I'd have salted away a pretty penny by now.

For if there's one thing I've heard over and over again as a beauty consultant, it's those troubled questions about facial wrinkles from women of all ages. What about you? Have you been disappointed in the way face creams fail to smooth out those little laugh lines, or those character lines around your mouth?

Well, from long experience I can tell you that no cream is going to iron away wrinkles. But at the same time, let me tell you about a face cream I've recently come across that I think is just what women have been hoping for. First of all, it's light, greaseless and it's poly-unsaturated. It smooths into your skin almost instantly and goes right to work on wrinkles . . . helping to soften the crevices, smooth facial lines and stave off the appearance of new wrinkles. Especially if you give yourself a nightly facial with it the way I do.

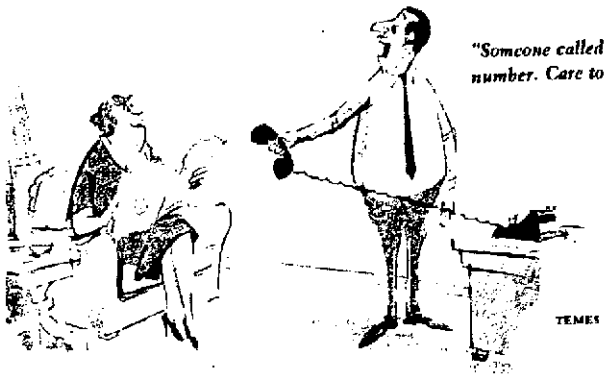

Before you go to bed, just cleanse your face, then pat it with a warm washcloth to open the pores so that your skin is ready to receive the full benefits of this poly-unsaturated cream. Next, smooth it on with your finger tips, up and out from your chin and circling very gently around your eyes. Then, and this is important, give special attention to any little wrinkles. Take a bit of extra cream on your finger tip. Then use that finger like an iron — gently pressing and releasing. The contraction and relaxation of this action works on the fatty layer below the skin and stimulates circulation.

Afterwards, while you sleep, (did you know sleep is the time when skin cell renewal is at its peak?) this poly-unsaturated cream supplies the skin with poly-unsaturates.

These elements with the tongue-twister name are about 50% more abundant in healthy young skin at 20 than in skin at 40. And the unique formula of this cream contains all 3 "essential poly-unsaturates" in totally fresh form, the one form that makes them potent.

The name of this cream, in case you're wondering, is Polyderm, and it's made by Prince Matchabelli. I do wish you'd give it a try, because I feel sure you'll be dedicated to Polyderm once you start using it regularly. For, if what happened to me happens to you (and I have a hunch that it will from all the enthusiastic letters I've been receiving lately) before you know it, you'll be taking a second look at yourself in the mirror—delighted to see how much softer, smoother, and younger looking your skin is.

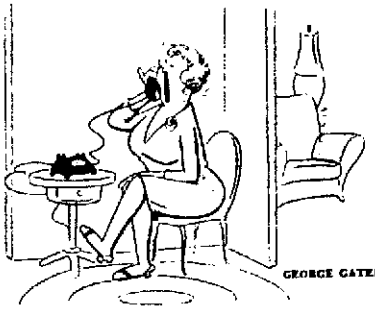

But before you go out and buy Polyderm, I thought you'd like a chance to try it yourself to see whether you like the feel of it on your skin (and of course to see whether you like what it does for you). That's why I've arranged to have a week's supply, trial-size jar made available. If you'd like one, just send 25c, your name and address to Polyderm, P.O. Box 98, Mt. Vernon, N. Y. If you just can't wait to get started, you'll find Polyderm at leading stores for $2, $3.50, $5 plus tax. Also available in Canada.

THE LINE IS BUSY

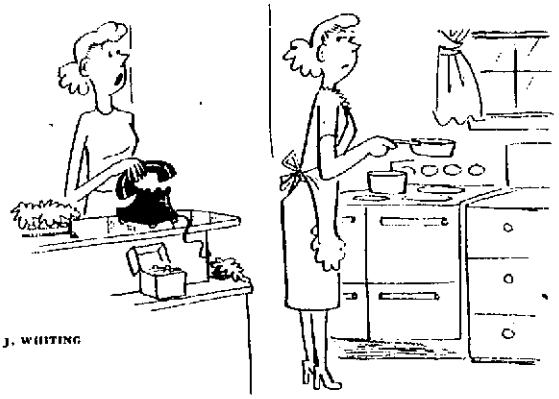

Scientists claim the telephone is the most significant invention yet devised by man. That's an assertion that can't be denied by the ladies, who average three calls a day, or teenage girls, who can tie up a line until parents explode. Here are a few females at the phone, as pictured by PARADE comic artists.

"Speaking of Ethel, did you hear the latest about Harriet?...Oops! I forgot...YOU'RE Harriet."

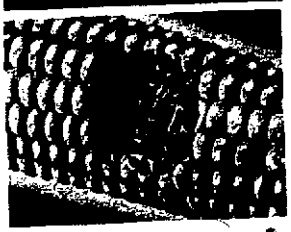

"Say bye-bye, dear...Say good-bye...!"

"Alice's phone is busy and so is Betty's. I'll bet they're talking about me."

My favorite jokes

EDITOR'S NOTE: Eddie Cantor, born Eddie Iskowitz in New York City on January 31, 1892, has spent most of his life in front of the public joking, singing and acting. He has appeared in every branch of show business, has won top honors in all and is today, because of a heart condition, semi-retired. Cantor's lengthy career began in 1909 when he entered an amateur night contest at Miner's Old Bowery Theatre. He won first prize and then became a singing waiter in the Coney Island beer garden where Jimmy Durante played piano. In 1914 Eddie married his childhood sweetheart, Ida Tobias, who over the years gave him five daughters. Today Cantor spends most of his time writing, relaxing, telling such jokes as these.

by EDDIE CANTOR

IN AN EXCLUSIVE NEW YORK MEN'S SHOP many years ago, I came in just as John Barrymore was ready to leave. To the clerk who had taken his order, he instructed, "Charge it to Barrymore."

"Which one?" asked the clerk.

John, striding toward the door, stopped, turned, drew himself up and with a haughty Hamlet expression intoned, "Ethel, of course."

WHEN I LEARNED THAT JIMMY DURANTE and I were to play the same benefit in New York (we were both in California at the time), I called him and said, "Jimmy, let's go together. Let's fly."

Jimmy said, "Eddie, I ain't flying. If Mudder Nature wanted me to fly, she'd a made me wit feathers!!!"

I'VE HEARD A LOT OF AD LIBS in my time, but the best one came from a veteran in a hospital during World War II. I had just finished singing some songs, telling some jokes and was on my way through the ward. To the boy in the bed near the door I said, "So long, fella. Hope you get better."

He said, "The same to you, Mr. Cantor."

LONG BEFORE EITHER OF THEM was married, Phil Silvers and Olivia De Havilland dated several times, but when he asked her to the Academy Award Dinner (social event of the season), she said, "Phil, I'll go with you on one condition. Don't wear those glasses, they make you look silly."

Silvers promised, and he kept his word. He arrived at her door that evening in white tie and tails, with a corsage of orchids, and—a Seeing-Eye dog!

DID YOU HEAR ABOUT THE CUSTOMER in a waterfront cafe who howled: "Hey, what about this? There's an insect in the bottom of my cup!"

"Listen, bud," said the counter man, giving him a look, "if you want your fortune told, go to a gypsy."

THE QUICKEST WAY to change a woman's viewpoint is to agree with her.

ANOTHER ONE THAT ALWAYS GIVES ME a chuckle was originated by my wife Ida. One of our daughters—I think it was Marilyn—when she was in her teens wanted a strapless evening gown. I think it was I who felt she was a little too young for such a dress. Finally Ida and I had a discussion about the matter. "I'll tell you what," said Ida. "Let her try one on in the store. If it stays up, she's old enough to wear it."

I LIKE THE ONE ABOUT THE WIFE who kept complaining about her husband's nasty temper. "He's made me such a nervous wreck," the wife explained, "I'm losing weight."

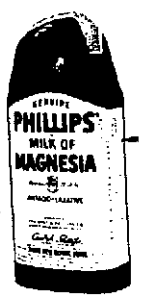

"If that's the case," said her lawyer, "why don't we sue for divorce right now?"

"Let's wait," suggested the wife, "until I'm down to 118."

I took my doctor's advice! -
NOW MY CONSTIPATION WORRIES ARE OVER!

• THOUSANDS of doctors were recently asked, "Do you ever recommend Milk of Magnesia?" The overwhelming majority replied: "Yes!" And no wonder! Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is both a gentle laxative and a soothing antacid. This means that while Phillips' relieves constipation, it also relieves accompanying acid indigestion. No single-purpose laxative can offer you such complete, yet comfortable relief. Just ask your doctor!

San Jose dogs check new dog food claims

SAN JOSE, Calif. – Local dogs turned out in force recently when General Mills held dramatic, informal dog food tests at the San Jose City Hall. This test, one of several held in various West Coast cities, confirmed earlier kennel tests in which 2 out of 3 dogs switched to New Surechamp Meal Ticket from their regular dry dog food.

2 out of 3 dogs switched to New Surechamp Meal Ticket in General Mills' Kennel Tests

$1.00 GUARANTEE OFFERED

One of America's leading food producers, General Mills, has created a new dog food called Surechamp Meal Ticket with such an appealing and different taste that:

- 2 out of 3 dogs tested switched to it from their regular dry dog food in scientific kennel tests.
- In a series of public feeding tests 2 out of 3 dogs also chose new Surechamp Meal Ticket over their owner's choice of five leading packaged dog foods.
- General Mills guarantees dogs will enjoy the new food and backs the guarantee with the offer of a $1.00 coupon, good toward the purchase of any dry dog food.

Meal Ticket is a greatly improved formulation of Surechamp, a food long popular among West Coast dogs.

Tests prove theories

The feeding tests, General Mills spokesmen say, gave scientific proof to widely held theories that dogs, like people, welcome exciting new flavor in their diets.

Discoveries about the importance of a combination of ingredients, cooking, shape and texture in the enhancement of dog food flavor produced the taste triumph.

Unique new shape

The product's unique new roll shape is of great importance, General Mills officials say. Kennel tests show dogs are especially fond of this new form.

And, certain ingredients not only enhance flavor but add vitamins and proteins to an already completely balanced canine meal.

"EATIN' GOOD" GUARANTEE

Following are details of the product's guarantee, believed to be the most daring in the history of the dog food industry.

New—guaranteed eatin' good. Your dog will eat and enjoy Surechamp Meal Ticket. If he doesn't, send the certificate of guarantee from any package of New Surechamp Meal Ticket and a letter describing your dog's reaction to: General Mills, Inc., Box 37, Minneapolis 60, Minn. We'll send you a $1.00 coupon good on any dry dog food at your grocer's. Limit, one coupon to a customer.
